EP; 3 Feb 1913; article: “FOUR PACKING HOUSES DESTROYED BY BLAZE...Four apple packing establishments, the property of the A. Balich Company, Resetar Brothers, Secondo Brothers and Makies [Mekis] & Pekoch, located on West Lake Avenue between Rodriguez and Walker streets and running through the entire block from Lake Avenue to Kearney street, were completely destroyed by fire this morning about 4 o'clock, the total loss amounting to over $15,000 with less than $4000 insurance to cover the loss. The fire is believed to be of incendiary origin but absolutely no clues as to the identity of the firebrands have been found by the police.

“The fire alarm was turned in at 3:55 o'clock this morning and when the fire department hurriedly reached the scene the four buildings were a mass of lurid flames that illuminated the skies over the entire city. That the fire was of incendiary origin is proven by the fact that those first seeing the fire declare that the blaze had broken out in four different places in the building occupied by the Balich Company and Resetar Brothers. The buildings were all constructed of low grade lumber and burned like paper when once the fire had gained a headway and it was readily seen by the firemen that they could not hope to save any of the structures so they bent all their energy toward saving the surrounding buildings. The fact that there was barely any wind aided the firemen materially in their brave fight and they were thus fortunately able to keep the fire confined to the packing house only. Only in one packing house, the house occupied by Makies [Mekis] and Pekoch, were the men able to save any of the contents but the amount saved was nominal compared with the total. The buildings were soon all reduced to smoking ruins and the contents were one and all consumed by the fire, which was one of the fiercest that has been seen here in years. Great credit is due the firemen for their gallant work as the surrounding property was unsinged, unharmed as a result of their hard exertions.

“Andy Balich and Antone Balich, who comprise the A. Balich Company, will be the heaviest losers. Their loss will amount to nearly $12,000. They lost about 20,000 empty fruit boxes as well as about 7500 packed boxes of apples besides a large number of tools and implements that were housed in the building. In the rear of the Balich property was the packing house of Resetar Brothers, which was conducted by J. Resetar. Here 8000 empty boxes, 160 packed boxes, several wagons, trucks, buckets, benches and other fruit tools and implements were consumed and nothing was saved. The other buildings lost in the fire were alongside the Balich property and were owned by the Secondo Brothers. The building nearest Kearney street was empty, hence nothing but the structure itself was lost. The other building, which fronted Lake Avenue, was leased by Mike Makies [Mekis] and G. Pekoch, as well suffer a loss of about $700. About 4500 empty boxes and 1400 packed boxes were in the building but a greater part of the contents of the house was saved. The Balich Company had insurance amounting to $2500, Makies [Mekis] & Pekoch had insurance amounting to $450, while Resetar Brothers had $1000 insurance, with a loss of over $2000. The amount of insurance carried on the buildings could not be learned, the above insurance figures applying only to the contents of the structures.

“The building occupied by Balich Brothers was formerly the property of the late Percy Morse and had been conducted since his death by his brother until two years ago when B. Pista leased the structure. It was one of the largest packing houses in the city and had been used several years ago as a skating rink in the off fruit season.

“At first there was no fire pressure in the city water mains and this delayed the fire department for a short while until the full pressure could be turned in from the reservoir. After the full force was received the firemen did not complain of the poor pressure although this morning the best pressure in the world would have had but little effect in stamping out the fire.”

"Luke Glavenich, the big right-hander pitching for St. Mary's College, who is a complex picture of Walter Johnson, Joe Wood and Ed Walsh, and yet withal is as wild as a March hare, is the bone of contention between two big league teams.

"It is claimed that Cleveland and Chicago both have strings on the youngster and that a tangle will result should he attempt to play with either of them.

"A Cleveland scout is authority for the statement that the pitcher permitted him to sign his name to a telegram of acceptance of terms offered by the Nap management. He points to a copy of the telegram sent from Bakersfield, where Glavenich did some box work and threatens to make it hot for Luke if he tries to run out on him.

"On the heels of this, word has been received that Glavenich has signed with "Big Jim" Wiggs to try out with the White Sox at Paso Robles.

"These are the problems confronting the twirler off the field but on the diamond he is going great guns.

"A certain baseball authority claims that Glavenich has improved 75 per cent in his work since last year.

"Why, he's the finest looking pitcher I've seen in many a day. He now has fair control of the ball and in recent contests has only allowed a few bases on balls..."

Miss Farlin is thoroughly familiar with every detail of the work as secretary, she has a wide aquaintance not only here but in the outside cities, she has had three years’ experience, she knows more about the work and the office than all the directors combined and if another successor to Mr. Redman was named it would be Miss Farlin that would give him the best insight into the affairs of the League and who would furnish all the details. We do not know whether Miss Farlin would accept the office as we have not interviewed her on the subject but it seems only justice that if she would accept that she be asked. Other Chambers of Commerce, particularly, in the East, have lady secretaries and none are more capable than Miss Farlin.”

“The first day (Wednesday), will be given over to a consultation and hearings with the American packers; the second day (Thursday) will be devoted to the Slavonian packers, and on the third day (Friday) the Brokers and Growers are invited to be present.

“It is hoped that by this method of interchanging ideas, and setting forth the results of past experiences that the committee, after sifting down the ideas submitted may be able to formulate some plan of standardizing the pack that will be acceptable to all packers.

She was well known and highly respected in this city by many people, who will sincerely mourn her untimely demise. She is survived by her husband, M. Capetanich, her mother, Mrs. Radonich of Oleta, and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Mary Skocko of Watsonville, Mrs. M. Jurash [Gurash] of Watsonville, Mrs. Lizzie Ylich of Sanger, Mrs. Katie Skocko of Sanger, Paul Germolis, Mitchell Germolis and Nick Germolis, all three of Oleta."

EP; 16 Apr 1913; article: "J. Dujmovich, who is wanted here in Watsonville for the alleged embezzlement of about $2500 from various creditors about town, was arrested late yesterday afternoon in San Francisco by Detective O'Neal of the San Francisco police department just after Dujmovich had returned on a steamer from Portland. Dujmovich had been in the north and also in Europe since his sudden departure from this city one night several months ago and no trace of him was found until a few days ago when it was learned that he was coming to San Francisco by boat. He was preparing to invest some of his money in a San Francisco motion picture house when arrested. He will arrive from San Francisco tonight in the custody of Constable G. R. Cano of Pajaro and Attorney George W. Smith and Luke Scurich of this city.

"Dujmovich and 'Gipsy John' Voivodich were both wanted here by the police on embezzlement charges but so far Voivodich has not been found. After the disappearance of both men the police in all the California cities were given descriptions of the men but no trace whatever could be found of either. Dujmovich was engaged in the fruit business here and he met with failure. He left one night in a hurried fashion and left no word here as to his whereabouts. His creditors, whom he owes something like $2500, searched the State for him to no avail. To bring him back under another charge[,] a misdemeanor charge of petit larceny, the theft of some hay was sworn out against him before Judge Rohrback in the Pajaro court. He is coming back to answer this charge while the officers get evidence against him on the alleged embezzlement charges.

"According to telegraphic reports from San Francisco Dujmovich was greatly surprised when arrested yesterday afternoon in the metropolis. He thought that the trouble had blown over by this time and that he could return to the State in safety. Constable Cano, Attorney Smith and Mr. Scurich hastened to San Francisco last night immediately upon receipt of the news of the arrest. According to reports from there this morning Dujmovich admits his deeds and is reported to be willing to turn over the money he has to his creditors here. Further particulars will not be known until tonight when he arrives from the north."

Petit larceny is the charge against him at present but the officers are looking for evidence on a more serious charge. EP; 21 Apr 1913; article: "WHY HE CAME BACK. The real reason why Dujmovich, the absconder, came back to this country, after fleeing to Ragusa [Dubrovnik], Austria, has now come to light. It appears that Austria exacts military service from all its subjects, and Dujmovich who was sporting around Ragusa as a wealthy man, becoming cognizant of the fact that the government was making inquiries about him, concluded to beat it and come back to this country, which he did. It is rumored that Voivodich ('Gypsy John') was not so fortunate, but was taken up by the military authorities, and is now serving out his time in the army. As Austrians who have evaded military duty by skipping to foreign countries are treated more severely in the Austrian army than those who have stood by the law and served a required time, it is probable that ere this 'Gypsy John' would much rather face his creditors in Watsonville than to undergo the rigorous treatment he is now receiving.

"Dujmovich, who can neither read or write, got the first jar to his self-complacency when he arrived at Ragusa and meeting an old-time countryman friend (formerly of this valley) now residing at Ragusa, and a subscriber to the Weekly Pajaronian, was told of the excitement in the city consequent upon his flight. His friend was conversant with all the facts in the case as published in the Pajaronian, and Dujmovich was dumbfounded that news of his wrong-doing had preceded him to the place where he was raised.

"It now develops that Dujmovich after coming back from Austria, deposited all the money he had left of his ill-gotten gains, some $2400, in an Oregon bank. He was recognized in San Francisco by an Austrian who knew him, who told a friend, an ex-detective of the Pinkerton Detective agency, who Dujmovich was, and that he was wanted down here, there being a reward of $100 offered for him. The ex-detective asked to be introduced to Dujmovich, and after the acquaintance ripened sufficiently, sprang the project of purchasing a moving picture show upon Dujmovich. Had Dujmovich any money? queried the new-found friend. Dujmovich pulled his bank book from his pocket showing the deposit in the Oregon bank. The matter see-sawed to and fro for several days when a quarrel between the pair arose, and then the ex-detective called up Cano by phone and told him he knew where Dujmovich was, and claimed the reward. Dujmovich now claims that the ex-detective was trying a bunko game upon him, about the moving picture show and trying to rob him of his money.

"There was a mixup over the reward. The ex-detective claimed it, and said the original informer was in on half of it. The officer who made the arrest also claimed it and said that another officer was in on half of the reward. The matter was finally compromised.

"Dujmovich, whose right name is Reich (he was an orphan and was raised by a family named Dujmovich in Austria) gave the name of John Zeilich when he deposited the money in the Oregon bank."

EP; 21 Apr 1913; article: "Says yesterday's Santa Cruz Sentinel:

"The Watsonville Register seems disturbed over the idea that the "Sentinel" should infer that local merchants find it easier to buy Watsonville apples in San Francisco than they do in Watsonville and even doubts our authority for making such a statement.

"We therefore cite the specific instances. The local grocery firm of Stikeman & Pierce wrote to the Loma Fruit Co., Watsonville, for ten boxes of apples, and received a reply that the company could not fill the order. No suggestion was made as to any place in Watsonville where such an order could be filled. Mr. Stikeman then wrote to a San Francisco commission house, giving the same order, and not only did the apples promptly arrive, but they were, by chance, Watsonville apples..."

EP; 24 Apr 1913; article: "John Dujmovich Gives His Side of the Matter...Ed. Pajaronian—I feel that I have been somewhat wronged by the article that appeared in your paper recently, with reference to my return to Watsonville. I do not criticize you in any manner, feeling that the enmity that some of my avaricious countrymen feel toward me was the cause of the article appearing as it did.

"I was engaged in business in Watsonville for more than four years prior to my departure for a trip to my old home. I have worked in this valley for 14 years and no one can accuse me of ever having wronged anyone. The public is well aware of the disastrous year that we have just passed through. The intense worry that I underwent undermined my health to such an extent, that I was compelled to seek rest elsewhere. I did not dispose of my horses, wagons and boxes nor did I collect all the moneys due me.

"I left Watsonville in the month of November for Los Angeles and remained there for some time; I made no secret of this matter and met many people who knew me; from Los Angeles I went to New York City and took the steamer La Lorraine for the Port of Havre from which I departed to my own home in Spallato [Split], Austria. I remained in New York City, however, before leaving, for a period of one month and a half and arrived in my old hometown in January. I spent two months at my home and departed from Port Trieste for New York after completely recovering my health. I did not leave Austria for the purpose of evading military duty, but for the simple reason that I am an honest man and wanted to come back to Watsonville, continue my business and rectify with my creditors. It would have been easy for me had I not wanted to come back of my own free will, to have gone to Italy, France or Germany where I had numerous offers to go into business.

"I came from New York to Portland and then to San Francisco where I was arrested ten days after my arrival as I was just about to come to Watsonville. I have turned over all the money that I have and everything I own in the world to my creditors, and am now absolutely penniless, but I feel satisfied that I have done what is right and not buried my money in a can like some of my countrymen are doing, begging ranchers to release them from their contracts and beating their grocery bills. Those are the kind of men that are accusing John Dujmovich and the men who have helped me in this trouble.

“To illustrate what some of my countrymen have been doing I will give you the following instance. I was indebted to a certain farmer for some few dollars before I left, and when a packer learned that I was back in Watsonville he took the pains to go to this ranch, some fifteen miles, and state to the farmer that if he would give him one-half of his claim against me, he would tell him where I was and get him his money. The farmer agreed to this and then he told the farmer that he had brought me back.

“I hope that you will publish this for the interest of one who has not been fairly treated by his countrymen.

EP; 29 Apr 1913; article: “Says this morning’s Santa Cruz Sentinel:

“While up the coast Sunday after mussels and fishing Dewey Johnson of this city discovered floating in the breakers near the mouth of the Liddell creek, the body of a man, who proved later, upon being brought ashore to be George Paljetak, an employee of the Santa Cruz Portland Cement plant.

“The boy who made the discovery reported immediately to Davenport and Constable Peter Garaventa watched the body until Coroner Louis H. Wessendorf arrived. It was floating between two rocky ledges that extended out into the water. The discovery was made in the afternoon and from all appearances the man had been washed off the rocks some time during the forenoon while after mussels. That the body was not washed out was due to the fact that the tide was coming in.

“Lester [sic] Wessendorf said it took two hours to recover the body and get it ashore. For a distance of 200 feet of the shelf[,] rocks had to be crossed and at one point the cliffs had to be scaled to some extent and a hole crawled through. It was with great difficulty that the body was brought back. It had to be floated around the point.

“The man had taken off all his clothing with the exception of his underwear and when found there was attached to his person a little bag of mussels which he had been gathering. There were no eye witnesses to the drowning.

“Coroner Wessendorf conducted an inquest yesterday afternoon. The verdict was accidental drowning.

“Luka Paljetak, a nephew living in Oakland, arrived for the inquest and said that his uncle was a native of Austria, aged 40 years. He leaves no family. He had been working at the cement plant for about two months, and was formerly employed in Watsonville.”

EP; 3 May 1913; article: "'DRYS' SEEK TO STRIKE 150 NAMES FROM ROLL. That the 'wet' and 'dry' fight in this city on May 12th will be a bitter one and that this bitterness has already begun was made a fact this morning when Rev. C. B. Sylvester, pastor of the Methodist church of this city, through his Attorneys, Messrs. Wyckoff & Gardner secured a writ of alternative from Superior Judge Lucas F. Smith at Santa Cruz whereby at least 150 local citizens may be debarred from the polls on election day. The news was received here today like a bombshell and the city is aroused over the latest development. Mr. Sylvester alleges that these people, whom he elects to keep away from the polls, failed to give the numbers of their rooms in the lodging and rooming houses wherein they stated they resided. In some cases the voters failed to give their house numbers when registering..."

"The action to debar the 150 voters was brought against Harvey H. Miller as county clerk. It will be bitterly fought by the 'wets' as well as those whom Rev. Sylvester and the 'drys' seek to keep away from the polls. The fight on the saloon question will hereafter be a bitter one. Heretofore the fight has been apparently and comparatively free from bitterness and personalities but the action brought by Rev. Sylvester today has aroused every man and woman whom he seeks to keep away from the polls, and it looks now as if all discretion will be cast to the winds.

EP; 5 May 1913; article: "SANTA CLARA STUDENT DISCOVERS NEW FLUID. The following special dispatch, from the Santa Clara College to the San Francisco Examiner, appeared in yesterday's edition of the paper:

"It has leaked out here during the past few days that Nicolas M. Lettunich, a student in the chemical department has applied through patent attorneys of San Francisco for patents on two chemical mixtures that will revolutionize the running expense and the selling price of automobiles.

"Lettunich is being backed by his father, a wealthy apple raiser who is known in and about the Pajaro Valley as the 'Apple King,' owing to his reputation of being the largest individual shipper of the United States.

"The first mixture on which patents are pending is a chemical compound that is claimed will replace gasoline and at the same time prove 20 per cent more efficient. None of this mixture as yet has been manufactured in large quantities, but it has been made on a small scale from materials bought at retail prices for 10 cents per gallon.

"It has been tested on a Buick 40 that formerly ran 18 miles to the gallon of gasoline. The same car under the same conditions and with the same weight was found to average 25 miles to the gallon of the new mixture. The car was examined by experts and pronounced to be in perfect condition after the test and the same experts pronounced the cylinders absolutely free of carbon, although the car had run 100 miles.

"The mixture is specified on the patent papers as containing no acid, ether or glycerine, which heretofore have been the chief constituents of mixtures used for the increase of speed or power. Another feature is the fact that it may be used in any gasoline motor now on the market, as air can be mixed with the chemical in the ordinary Carburetor.

"The other mixture is a decarbonizer which is guaranteed to contain no acid or glycerine and not to crystallize the cylinders and at the same time to increase the power and mileage of the machine in which it is used.

"It is mixed with gasoline in proportions of one pint of mixture to 20 gallons of gasoline and can be mixed either in a separate tank or put into the car with the gasoline. It is said to give three additional miles to each gallon of gasoline, to increase the power 15 per cent, and at the same time to oxidize all carbon in the cylinders.

"Where this chemical is mixed with the gasoline the engine is guaranteed to pull smoother and with less noticeable vibrations. The same carburetor is used, and as the case with gasoline more mileage is obtained by increasing the supply of air.

"Drs. Gerlack and Menton, both prominent physicians of this valley, have been trying the latter mixture for the last month and a half and both pronounce it to be entirely up to its specifications. Dr. Menton says that his engine runs entirely different, and that he has not removed his sparkplugs in five weeks. He has had absolutely no engine trouble and attributes this to the mixture."

Smith, Superior Judge, in the matter of the alleged illegal registrations in this city, a case that has evoked wide-spread interest, was handed down by the judge at 4:30 last Saturday afternoon, too late to get it in to our issue of that day.

"We copy the following comments, and the decision, from yesterday morning's Santa Cruz Sentinel:

"The Watsonville 'wets', 156 of them, whose right to vote at Monday's election has been in jeopardy because of the petition of Rev. C. B. Sylvester, to have their names stricken from the great register because the strict letter of the law was not complied with in their registration, was handed down a decision Saturday afternoon restoring them to their full right by denying the petition.

"The decision of Judge Smith in the 'alleged illegal registration' case is a righteous one. The objection urged by the plaintiff to the registration affidavits are technical in the extreme and could not be sustained by a liberal construction of the law. It developed in the trial of the case that the plaintiff had only resided in this county nine months. It is generally believed that the action was ill advised.

"The decision is a very important one and is given in full as follows: [decision omitted]"

EP; 13 May 1913; article: "Says this morning's San Jose Times:

"Nicholas V.[M.] Lettunich, the University of Santa Clara student who has recently patented an oxide which he claims cheapens the cost of gasoline, yesterday made a successful test of his chemical. A run of fifty miles was made in a Rambler automobile. A saving of 20 per cent on gasoline was registered. More power and speed was made with the solution of the gasoline and oxide than with the gasoline alone.

"On the hill climbing out of the Alum Rock canyon the machine ran from twenty to fifteen miles an hour on the gasoline. On the solution it registered from twenty-four to eighteen. On a level road thirty-eight miles an hour was made with the chemical, against thirty-three with gasoline.

"Two trips of twenty-five miles were made. On the second one-half a gallon less of the solution was used than when the gasoline alone was burned.

"As a result of the trip Lettunich claims that a machine running thirty miles a day can be saved ten dollars a month.

"By the use of the solution no carbon gathers in the cylinders. There is no ether, acid or glycerine in its composition.

"The machine yesterday was driven by M. B. Charles of the Consolidated Garage Company. It carried its full equipment of five passengers."

At a quiet home wedding with only a few intimate friends and immediate relatives present Miss Hazel Leddy of this city and George Pulich of Stockton, were married...this morning...at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Leddy at 161 West Third street. The bridesmaid...was Miss Margaret McSherry while Ray Pulich of Stockton, a brother of the groom, was the groomsman.

“Both of the newlyweds are so well known here that any introduction would really be superfluous. The bride is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Leddy of this city, with whom she has made her home for the greater part of her life, and she is regarded as one of the most popular young ladies in this city. She was formerly employed as cashier by the Watsonville News Company and is a graduate of the commercial department of the local high school. She is well known here and popular in all circles, is a talented and accomplished young woman and is one of the most charming young ladies of the community. The groom is to be congratulated upon securing such a charming young woman for his helpmate. The groom is also well known and popular here. He formerly was in the apple business here but several months ago was honored with the appointment of deputy city auditor of Stockton, a position in which he has shown much ability. Mr. Pulich is an estimable young man in every respect, is popular with all that know him and is a young man of much promise. The contractors refused to sign as some of the property owners would refuse to pay their assessment because this technicality gave them a loophole to escape paying for necessary improvements. The name of the street then was commented upon, Aldermen Osborn suggesting that the street be called Central Avenue. He said every jerkwater town in the country had a Main street and he did not believe the street here should have such a plebeian name. The matter was continued.

"Some day soon certain builders of houses, who complete or nearly complete their buildings before they ask for a permit to do so, will be forced to tear down their structures. Last night Antone Travich asked for a permit to erect a $250 packing house at 826 Rodriguez street and after the permit had been granted it was found that the building had already been completed. Alderman Kane objected to this and City Clerk Coffman said that he knew of a case here where a house had been built and the permit never had been asked for. Something will happen one of these days that will cause distress to contractors, who finish a house before they ask for the necessary permit..."

While with Cleveland Luke was the roommate of the famous Joe Jackson, who is now tied with Ty Cobb for batting honors in the American League, and he says Jackson is a great fellow although he can neither read nor write. Thomas Lettunich will appear before Judge Smith of the Superior Court and will be examined to see whether or no they are concealing property which might be levied upon in the matter of a judgment for $1000 rendered in favor of Sam Hrepich some three months ago.

“The plaintiff and his attorney, Geo. W. Smith, have been unable to find any property of the defendants to levy upon and it is for this reason that the Lettunichs are hailed before the court.”

EP; 25 Sep 1913; article: “LETTUNICH BROTHERS ON WITNESS STAND. Nicholas V. Lettunich and Thomas Lettunich of Lettunich Brothers, from whom Sam Hrepich is endeavoring to recover a $1000 judgment awarded him about three months ago, were on the witness stand in the Superior Court at Santa Cruz yesterday afternoon and both gave some interesting testimony. Nicholas Lettunich gave the most interesting testimony in the case, his recital of his present financial status being a surprise to many. He testified that he had no money and no property, that he had $1.60 or thereabouts in the bank, and that his only revenue was a $75 salary he received as manager of the Mansion House in this city. He stated that the Lettunich Brothers owed about $18,000; admitted winning $10,000 in the lottery last year but stated that nearly all of this had gone to pay the debts of the firm. When asked what debts he had paid he could not relate just which he had liquidated. All the property owned by Lettunich Brothers was the apple crop on the Murphy orchard and that was in the name of his uncle, Mateo Lettunich, who had advanced the sum of $6000 on the place. Besides this there was a sum of $3250 owed to M. B. Lettunich for wages, who had a second chattel mortgage on the Murphy orchard apple crop and the horses and wagons.

“Thomas Lettunich followed his brother on the stand and denied that a partnership existed. When confronted with the letterheads of the firm he said his name was on the headings for effect only.

During the hearing the plaintiff, Mr. Hrepich, addressed the court and denounced the defendants in unmeasured terms. The case was continued until October 2d when the defendants are to produce the books of the firm, by order of the court.

“George W. Smith is attorney for the plaintiff while C. B. Younger of Santa Cruz represents the Lettunich Brothers.”

EP; 25 Sep 1913; obit: “WATSONVILLE MAN DIES MYSTERIOUSLY...Says last night’s Santa Cruz News:

“George Paljetak, a ranch laborer of Watsonville, cousin of George Paljetak, who was found drowned on Liddell Beach last April, was found dead in bed in his room at the Grand Central hotel on Pacific avenue this morning. The man did not answer the knock on his door at 7 o’clock this morning and the housekeeper, becoming frightened, summoned two men from the sidewalk to come up and enter the room. They did so, and found Paljetak stone dead, his face white and drawn as though he had underwent [sic] great suffering.

“On a table near the bed was a loaded revolver, and the theory of suicide was immediately advanced. Not a chamber of the revolver was empty, however, nor had a shot been fired, nor were there other evidences of self-destruction.

“Coroner Wessendorf was summoned and removed the body to the morgue, after which he immediately got into communication with the wife at Watsonville. She refused at first to believe that her husband was dead, and could give no explanation of the manner of his death, stating that suicide was out of the question and that he had no sickness that would cause death that she knew of.

“Paljetak registered at the Grand Central Monday evening. He presented a good appearance, seemed to be perfectly rational, and expressed himself as much pleased with his room on account of its cleanliness. He was going to start working for M. Krilanovich in a few days picking grapes. He had no baggage with him and left no notes or letters of any kind to any one that would indicate that he contemplated suicide.” [end of Santa Cruz News quote]

“The deceased had resided here in Watsonville for several years past and was married here two years ago to a Watsonville lady. He was aged 33 years and is survived by his wife and one daughter. He was a member of Sloga lodge, Croatian Unity of the Pacific, of this city and will be buried tomorrow under the auspices of that order... The interment will be made in the Valley cemetery.”

“Anthony Milanovich, of Dabelich’s Grill, is amused at some of the complaints made in Santa Cruz and throughout the United States at the high cost of living, etc. Compared with the reports he receives from his country, Dalmatia, local people have reason for rejoicing that meat here is as cheap as now offered.

“‘Tony,’ as his friends call him, says that not only has the Balkan war had its effect on his native land, but it has been a very dry year, as well. Wine, oil, sugar, meat and all necessities are rising higher and higher in price, and the people have far less money with which to buy. Sugar is now about thirty cents a pound, American money, and the average run of meat about fifty cents.

“Mr. Milanovich estimates that there are about 50 Dalmatians in Santa Cruz, and even more in Watsonville, with a goodly representation in San Jose and San Francisco. They are looked upon as excellent citizens.

“Mr. Milanovich was born about 30 miles from Ragusa [Dubrovnik], one of the main seaports and resort towns of Dalmatia, with a population less than double that of Santa Cruz. He declares its climate is one of the most perfect on earth, with sheltering, rugged mountains in the rear, and broad beaches in front. About a quarter of a century ago many people died there of the plague, and about a quarter of a century previous to that a large number of people were killed in an earthquake and much of the city had to be rebuilt. He believes that American visitors to Europe should remember Ragusa as one of the fair spots of the earth.” [the last plague near Dubrovnik was in 1815; the earthquake was in 1667]

EP; 21 Oct 1913; article: “NICK LETTUNICH’S DIAMOND IS SEIZED...We take the following from this morning’s Santa Cruz Sentinel:

“In the Superior Court yesterday there was quite an interesting case before Judge Smith involving a $200 diamond ring. The case is that of Sam Hrepich vs. N. V. Lettunich and Tom Lettunich, co-partners. The hearing was on the point as to whether the ring in question was subject to execution. Mr. Lettunich wore on one of his fingers a beauty that sparkled like an arc light. Attorneys Burke and Smith for the plaintiff were anxious to get a strangle-hold on that piece of jewelry and argued the point well. They were opposed by Attorney C. B. Younger who asked Mr. Burke if he didn’t want Mr. Lettunich’s shoes also.

“To satisfy an indebtedness Burke argued that there was no possible way to protect their client unless the court issued an order turning over the ring in question to the plaintiff. He said the sheriff had no authority to seize the property any more than he had a right to go into the man’s pockets and take what money he might have; that an order of the court was the only means in this case whereby the plaintiff would be protected. It was a fine point raised, something practically new in law and one which the court had to decide immediately. Younger fought back hard and is going to fight some more. The court finally made an order that the ring be placed in the custody of the clerk until the final settlement of the difficulty. Attorney Younger said that he must take exceptions to the order and would ask his client that he refrain from delivering over the ring. The ring was not delivered, hence the order of the court has not been complied with.

“There is likely to be some very interesting proceedings before the case is finally settled. The witness on the stand testified that the ring was practically the only asset he had. He told of recently winning $10,000 in a lottery and Attorney Geo. W. Smith endeavored hard to find out where this money had gone to.”

Lettunich and Tom Lettunich of this city, today filed his brief in the superior court in favor of his argument that the much disputed diamond worn by Nick Lettunich be made subject to execution. Attorney C. B. Younger for the Lettunich brothers alleged that the diamond was exempt as it was wearing apparel. Attorney Smith in his brief denies that a ring is wearing apparel and alleges it is an article of adornment and therefore subject to execution. Smith further alleges that the defendants are not acting in good faith and that it looks unreasonable for a man alleged to be bankrupt and penniless to be sporting a diamond 'the size of an arc light.' Smith of this city who today filed a civil action in the superior court at Santa Cruz for E. J. Mann against Peter and E. B. Lettunich of this valley, the action asking for the recovery of $975 alleged to be due the plaintiff for rent. The complaint filed by Smith for Mann alleges that in 1910 Mann leased a certain piece of property in this valley to Peter Lettunich, the rental to be $5000 per year and to be paid in certain stipulated installments. E. B. Lettunich went in on the deal as guarantor for Peter. On October 1st all had been paid but the sum of $2000. Some of this was paid and now $975 is alleged to be still owing by Peter Lettunich to Mann.

"E. B. Lettunich alleges that the rent was reduced $1000 on July of this year and he further alleges that as the reduction changed the terms of the lease he was released from his guarantee.

"After filing the suit Attorney Smith stated that some sensational developments might be expected as he intended to expose certain parties and things."

Lettunich have given the Odd Fellows certain additional room back of their building so that mail wagons can get through, via the alley from Alexander street to the rear of the new post office. The property-owners in that block should make an effort to have that alley put through to Main street. It would increase the value of their holdings greatly.”

EP; 27 Oct 1913; article: “ANOTHER RUMOR ABOUT THE MANSION HOUSE...The report is prevalent again that the Messrs. Lettunich are about to start building on the Mansion House corner. Will Weeks, the architect, was in town Saturday afternoon, from San Francisco, taking measurements, and finding survey posts on the boundary lines of the property, and it is rumored that the money, wherewith to put up the new building, has finally been raised, and that just as soon as Weeks finishes up the plan, work will be commenced—probably in six weeks or two months.

“The plans provide for the removal of the present hotel building to the further end of the lot, where the livery stable now stands, taking up a frontage on Main street of about 90 feet, and the erection of a four-story building on the corner 110 x 114 feet, with offices and apartments on the upper floors. There will be a jog in the building, on the Third street side, between the Odd Fellows’ block and the new structure, as whilst the one-story structure, now occupied by the Berland-Herbert Co. will be made a part of the new building on the corner, but one story will be added to it.

“We trust that the rumor will come true. The corner is too valuable to be allowed to remain in its present state and the rookeries alongside the present hotel are eyesores. With the post office in the Odd Fellows’ building; a new structure on the corner of Main and Third streets; and the Hotel Appleton on Rodriguez and Third, those two blocks on Third street should rapidly come to the front as valuable business blocks.”

Andy Balich, who lost his voice arguing and haranguing in support of road improvement bonds Saturday, blossomed out as an assistant Cupid Sunday morning.

“A stranger, wearing a worried look, inquired of Andy, where he could find Assistant County Clerk Miller. Noticing his anxiety, Andy asked the man what was the trouble and received answer that a speedy marriage was greatly desired by himself as well as by a lady with whom he had eloped from Los Gatos. Andy moved by sympathy for the loving couple, immediately got busy, hunted up Mr. Miller, summoned Justice Gardner by phone and the matrimonial knot was tied with neatness and dispatch in record time.

“The happy pair of newlyweds were O. L. Butler and Bertha Blanch Wells of Los Gatos, who after the ceremony, returned to their home on the other side of the mountains, carrying a high opinion of Santa Cruz as a wedding resort.”

Frank had been promised a real duck by the three nimrods and when Litchfield told him that the three had killed a fat duck for him and was having it fixed up at the California Restaurant the joy of Rettanmayer knew no bounds. All day long he smacked his lips and he even went without his noonday meal so as to be sure he had an appetite last night. Finally he sat down to the table, told George Wells and George Hrepich to bring in the duck and he started to eat.

“The bird did not taste any too toothsome to him but as he had had no duck for months he thought perhaps his palate was not used to the bird. After he had swallowed the last piece of meat and washed it down with buttermilk and had eaten some sauerkraut on the side he commenced to feel funny around the gills. He had a load like a lead in his ‘innards’ all night and today awoke with the same feeling. He started to investigate and then the truth came out. After he had heard the joke on him Frank swore up and down that the bird had been dead for a month on the sand before the three hunters had found it.”

Stephen Scurich of Watsonville, as administrator of the estate of the late Peter Carstulovich of this city, was given a jury verdict for $600 in the Superior Court in the suit brought against George Carstulovich for a sum exceeding $1000, says this morning’s Santa Cruz Sentinel.

“It developed during the hearing of the case that George Carstulovich owed the sum on a note in payment for his share of the interest of the late Peter Carstulovich in the Saddle Rock Restaurant.

“The defendant maintained he had a counter claim of $600 due for board, but the court ruled that as his attorney had failed to see that the claim was presented against the estate within the time specified by law, it could not be considered.

“The jury, however, made the deduction and found for the plaintiff in the sum of $600.”

EP; 7 Nov 1913; article: “MAN WANTED HERE A YEAR AGO ARRESTED... Officer John Corr of this city, from whom it is as hard for a criminal to escape as it is for a horse to go through the eye of a needle, has rounded up another man wanted here on a State prison charge. The fellow this time is one George Poppovilla [Popjevalo], alias George Lesich, who one year ago last month escaped from this city with a motorcycle that had not been paid for and who is also alleged to have forged another man’s name on a receipt. He is now under arrest at Sanger in Fresno county. The man bought a motorcycle from McFarlane & Risdon of this city and he paid all but $137 on the machine. He then is said to have put another man’s name on a receipt and to have skipped with the machine. Wilbur McFarlane swore out a complaint for the arrest of Poppovilla on a charge of forgery and chase has been on ever since.

“After leaving here he was traced in turn to Oakland, Point Richmond, San Jose and Angel’s Camp and each time Corr had him under surveillance and he was on the verge of arrest every time but he managed to escape until finally he landed in Sanger. Here he was arrested on a misdemeanor charge and as Corr had sent cards bearing his description all over the State he was easily identified. Constable Lawrence Sandberg departed this morning for Sanger and will return tomorrow night with the fugitive.

“Corr will no doubt greet Poppovilla warmly as it is rumored that Poppovilla had said the officers here were a lot of ‘rubes.’ Any time these smart fellows get ahead of John Corr they will have to get several alarm clocks and get up early in the morning. Even with a year’s start they cannot escape him as in the case of the last man arrested.”

EP; 13 Nov 1913; article: "NICK LETTUNICH TO LOSE HIS MACHINE...Nicholas V. Lettunich, the former manager of the Mansion House here, is about to lose his automobile, the machine having been attached a few days ago in San Francisco by Attorney George W. Smith, who represents Sam Hrepich in the latter's civil action against Lettunich, and next Monday the car will be sold by Sheriff Eggers to satisfy a judgment of $1209 that was awarded Hrepich in the superior court of this county.

"It seems that the automobile was mortgaged in this county and that when Lettunich took the car to San Francisco he did not record the mortgage in the metropolis. Attorney Smith learned this fact and the attachment was levied on the car as a result. The judgment amounts to $1000 with $209 costs. In the meantime Attorneys Smith and George P. Burke have filed their final brief in regard to the diamond ring that Lettunich wore in court, which at one time nearly was forever lost to him, Smith contending that it was personal property and could be levied on. The attorneys for Lettunich said it was wearing apparel and was therefore exempt."

EP; 13 Nov 1913; article: "John Colendich, on Eve of Departure For Europe, Cuts Throat With Razor. John Colendich, a well known resident of this valley for the past seven years and who has been employed as a cook for Frank Radovan in this city for the past eighteen months, committed suicide at an early hour this morning on the S. J. Espindola ranch in Green Valley by cutting his throat with a razor. The motive for the rash deed is a mystery[,] for today Colendich was planning to buy a ticket for Austria, for which country he had planned to depart on Saturday to join his wife and three children. His nephew, George Lucich was to accompany him to the old country and the last seen of Colendich last night he was joyfully talking about the trip and seemed to be in a happy mood.

"Colendich had resided here seven years and about ten days ago had moved to the home of his nephew on the Espindola ranch to enjoy a vacation until his departure for Austria, his old home. Last night he went with his nephews to a neighbor's house and there all but Colendich played cards and amused themselves until about 10:30, Colendich not entering into the games but conversing happily with all present. About 11 o'clock all retired and Colendich said before he retired that he would come to Watsonville today with his nephew to buy the tickets for his trip. About 5 o'clock this morning George Lucich awoke and found that his uncle was not in the room. He, however, thought nothing of it for the time being but became alarmed later when Colendich did not return. He awakened the rest of the folks in the house and a careful search of the residence and outbuildings resulted in more mystery[,] for Colendich was not to be found. Finally they started out in the rain with a lantern to search around the ranch and yards and found Colendich about 200 yards from the house in the orchard. When found he was squatting on his knees with his face huddled in his arms, his throat almost cut from ear to ear, and they at first thought he was dead. Finally they saw him move and while he was being removed to a bed in the house Dr. G. P. Tolman was notified. Dr. Tolman arrived about 7 o'clock and dressed the man's wound, the throat and windpipe having been severed with a razor. Hopes were entertained that he might live and while Dr. Tolman was busy on another part of the place preparations were made for his removal to the Watsonville hospital. While Dr. Tolman was out of the room Colendich suddenly collapsed and died.

"The cause for the suicide is a mystery. In the best of health, with plenty of money to buy his ticket back to his family, the owner of a first-class house and other property in Austria, with his wife and family of three anxiously awaiting his return and with everything to live for, he mysteriously left his bed sometime during the night, secured a razor and slashed his throat. Besides between $250 and $300 in cash that he had in his possession and $37 more in wages that he had coming to him before he departed he had sent $300 to his family about a month ago and was in the best of circumstances financially. His health was of the best and he was a strong and ruddy man. He was a native of Austria and was aged 50 years. Besides his family, who reside at Bigat [Brgat], Dalmatia, he is survived by three nephews, who live here and who are Louis, George and Nick Lucich..."

EP; 14 Nov 1913; article: "NICK LETTUNICH'S COSTLY DIAMOND RING...We reprint here with extracts from the brief filed in the celebrated case of Nick Lettunich's diamond. Attorneys Burke and Smith, on behalf of certain creditors of the aforesaid Nicholas V., were probing Nick on the witness stand, in the superior court recently as to his assets, and happening to notice a glittering diamond he was wearing, asked the court to have it sequestrated for the benefit of the said creditors. Lettunich resisted the attempt to get his valuable, and briefs being ordered on the mooted points contained in the plaintiff's demand Attorney George P. Burke advanced the following arguments. We do not give the brief in full as it contains many citations, but take Mr. Burke's main arguments. After quoting certain sections of the codes and citations of decisions bearing thereon he says:

"...The question then arises is a diamond 'such an article of dress, as is generally worn by persons in the calling and condition of life, and in the locality of the residence of claimant, including whatever is necessary to decent appearance and to protection against exposure to the changes of weather, and also to what is reasonably proper and customary in the way of ornaments?' We respectfully submit that the question answers itself.

"Manifestly a diamond is not necessary as a protection against exposure to the changes of weather, for in that case the larger and more costly the diamond, or set of diamonds, the more claim it, or they, would have to exemption. A coat of diamonds to cover the body would be more appropriate as a 'protection against climatic changes' and for that reason would have a greater claim to exemption than the one mere solitary speck adorning the little finger of the claimant as an ornament; and is there any court on earth that would tolerate a bankrupt apple picker, engaged in the discreditable job of blanketing all his available assets with mortgages and bills of sale to his brothers and uncles, in order to defeat and cheat the lawful and just claims of confiding creditors, appearing in court with diamonds on his fingers, or diamonds on his garter, or diamonds on his scarf, boldly and impudently flaunted in the eyes and teeth of the court, and when asked or ordered by the court to turn them over in satisfaction of the judgment of the plaintiff herein, the claimant absolutely refuses for the sole reason that they are 'reasonably proper and customary' in the way of ornaments, and therefore exempt from execution as 'wearing apparel.' Does not this seem the very acme of consummate nonsense? Why the wearing of diamonds by this claimant is a false and fraudulent representation of his financial circumstances, and a lure, a mockery, and delusion for over-confiding persons dealing with him. Stripped of it, as he should be, he is deprived of his power to deceive. He has no use for it whatever except as a badge for the gullibility of the friends he would want 'to do.' There may be some excuse for a society lady who is stranded financially, but who has seen better days, endeavoring to sustain her waning vanity, laying claim to her right of ornamentation and adornment, or such claim might be made with some show of reason by a madam of a red-light establishment, or one of her male panderers; but it comes with shady grace when such claim is put forth by one in this defendant's condition as well as position. It cannot be said that a diamond ring on the little finger of Mr. N. V. Lettunich, a resident of the little modest town of Watsonville, and where society events and pink teas among the pickers and packers of apples, are unknown and unheard of, is 'reasonably proper in the way of an ornament,' the criterion mentioned in some of the cases of the question whether it is to be regarded as 'wearing apparel.'

“But as stated in 18 Cyc 1426 ‘the term “wearing apparel” does not include articles used for ornaments alone,’ and this declaration of a law is fully sustained by the greater weight of authority and more forcible reasoning.

“In the decision of the question involved we suggest to the court that it might ask itself for what purpose and for what reason does defendant claim that his diamond ring constitutes a part of his ‘necessary wearing apparel.’ It is certainly not an article of convenience. You do not wear a ring, in the same sense that you wear a garment. It is simply a luxurious ornament of an admitted pauper, affording neither comfort nor protection as an apparel against the weather’s elements, a vulgar pretension of impoverished opulence.

“The ring, we respectfully submit, will perform a more useful and just function in applying it to the payment, pro tanto, of Lettunich’s indebtedness on the judgment herein, than by permitting him to parade and flaunt it on his finger exultingly and in ecstasy of thought that diamonds may be worn as ornaments with impunity against judgments or orders of court of this State.

“This ornament proposition is absolutely unsound when put to the test of reason. If one finger can be ornamented with the diamond and thus be exempt because it is an ornament, why not sell all a bankrupt’s property that is subject to execution, invest the proceeds in diamond ornaments for every finger on two hands, and decorate your scarf and shirt front with diamonds, look your creditors and the courts in the face with scorn, proclaim yourself the ornamented rooster of the pike, and tender your disconsolate and confiding creditors a sarcastic ‘adieu, to the devil with ‘em.’

“This seems hardly a fair shake as between an innocent and confiding creditor, and a fraudulently disposed debtor.

“It will be noticed that in many of the cases cited by the claimant, the court was considering the point involved where the sheriff, or constable, attempted to take the property claimed to be wearing apparel from the person of the debtor without an order of the court authorizing the officer to do so. We claim the exercise of the court’s power under section 719 of the C.C.P., to order the debtor to turn over the property, the diamond, to either the sheriff, or to some person authorized to sell it, and to apply the proceeds towards the payment of the judgment. This latter course we respectfully submit is the one that in all fairness and justice should be pursued by the court.

“Respectfully submitted, GEO. P. BURKE, Attorney for plaintiff.”

EP; 17 Nov 1913; article: “ATTORNEY GEORGE SMITH IS MARRIED...George W. Smith, one of the leading attorneys of this city, whom Dame Rumor says will be a candidate for district attorney of Santa Cruz county at the next election and who is one of the best known attorneys in Central California, is married. On October 27 George and Mrs. Ada Hutchins, a charming young widow of San Jose, secured a license to wed from the county clerk’s office of Alameda county in Oakland and while the exact date of their wedding is not known yet the couple were united in the bonds of holy matrimony in Oakland about three weeks ago. Since that time the marriage has been a dark secret until today when a Pajaronian reporter stumbled over a clue that led finally to the glad news.

“The groom needs no introduction here. He has been a resident of this city for many years, in fact nearly all of his life, and today is one of the most prominent attorneys in the central part of the State. If anyone was thought to be immune from the darts of Don Cupid that person was George Smith yet now it seems that he was an easy victim like all the rest of those sailing the matrimonial seas. He kept his secret for three weeks but as the saying goes ‘murder will out’ and now the cat is out of the bag. The bride is a popular young resident of Santa Cruz and her parents are well known citizens of San Jose. Mrs. Smith has been here several times in the past and has several friends here, all of whom regard her as an estimable young woman, who possesses talent and accomplishment.

“George does not know that his secret is now public information and is expected home tonight from San Francisco. It is needless to say that he will receive the congratulations of all his friends, who are legion here, and that everybody will wish him the best of success and happiness in his new venture. The Pajaronian joins in felicitating him upon his new step in life.”

Milcovich and Charles Arbanas, four well known residents of this city, are being tried before a jury in Judge A. B. Hawkins’ court today on a charge of starting a campfire on the morning of October 30th that ended in some twenty acres of timber land being destroyed on the George Seibert Ranch in Larkin Valley. District Attorney B. K. Knight is prosecutor in the case and Attorney George W. Smith represents the defense. The charge against the four men was brought by County Game, Fish and Fire Warden Walter R. Welch, who is also in attendance at the trial today.

“A jury was secured in quick fashion this morning, the twelve men finally selected to hear the case being Messrs. J. K. Arrild, W. L. Waters, A. Peterson, D. A. Driscoll, F. M. Brown, W. C. Bare, Fred Majors, James Storm, Carl Bahnsen, B. B. Sullivan, W. P. Martin and C. W. Adamson.

“The first witness called was J. P. Jensen, who rents a place in Larkin Valley adjoining the Seibert place. Mr. Jensen said that he saw a party of four on his place early on the morning of the 30th but they left his place when he warned them to stop shooting. He came to Watsonville that day and upon returning at 1 o’clock in the afternoon found the fire raging on the Seibert place. He saved his fence from being destroyed and next day visited the camp fire where the fire started. Here he found some sticks, an empty wine bottle and an empty beer bottle, which were turned in today as evidence.

“F. P. Wells, who lives on the Edward White ranch, was the next witness and testified that he met the four defendants early in the morning and had a quarrel with them over shooting on the place. They left angrily and he told them to go out the county road by the Seibert place. He identified the bottles and sticks in evidence as being those he found at the campfire where the fire started and also identified a rope that had been left on the fence near the scene.

“Mr. Wells is still on the stand this afternoon as the Pajaronian goes to press.”

“To J. His grapes were of mixed varieties.

“Some of the metropolitan papers commented on the fact some days ago that A. J. Anderson, of Lodi, had just sold a car load of grapes for the remarkable price of $1728. Since that time this same A. J. Anderson of Lodi sold another car load of grapes for $1840. But at practically the same time of this latter sale J. Josefata, of the Santa Cruz mountains breaks all records, receiving $1910.

“The Sentinel was sufficiently interested in the matter to interview Mr. Josefata, and received a confirmation of the good news. Mr. Josefata stated that he had learned the art of the cultivation of the vine in Dalmatia, he coming from a section very near Ragusa [Dubrovnik], having gone to the same school at the same time with Andy Balich of Santa Cruz, one of his boyhood chums.”

“It will be remembered that in the case of Hrepich vs. Lettunich, in the superior court, a short time ago, the ring was contended over, the plaintiff arguing that it should be turned over to partially satisfy a judgment obtained against Lettunich. Decision upon the points for and against the contention was reserved until yesterday.

EP; 6 Dec 1913; article: “RING PROBLEM SOLVED... Says this morning’s Santa Cruz Sentinel:

“A diamond ring is not classified with wearing apparel; it is not even a proper ornament for person who is indebted to another; therefore it is not exempt from execution.

“And for this reason N. V. Lettunich of Watsonville must hand over his $250 sparkler to Sheriff Howard Trafton who will sell it and pass the proceeds over to Sam Hrepich, who has had an eye on that diamond for a long time.

“After reciting the case in brief Superior Judge Smith yesterday made an order which concludes as follows:

““The court finds from the evidence of said defendant, N. V. Lettunich, that he is the owner and in the possession of a diamond ring of the value of about $250, which he unjustly refuses and neglects to apply towards the payment of the plaintiff’s said judgment herein; and the court hereby finds: That said diamond ring is not such an article of dress or wearing apparel as is generally worn by persons in the calling and condition of life in the locality of the residence of said N. V. Lettunich; that such diamond ring is not wearing apparel, and that therefore it is not exempt from execution; and the court having during said examination ordered and directed said N. V. Lettunich not to dispose of, sell, hypothecate, or in any way part with the ownership or possession of said ring until the final order of this court in the premises; and the court having now fully considered the law and the facts, and being fully advised,

““Now orders, adjudges and decrees that said defendant N. V. Lettunich, on or before five days from the service of this order upon him deliver, or cause to be delivered to Howard V. Trafton, sheriff of said county of Santa Cruz, at the office of said sheriff in the city of Santa Cruz, said county and State, said diamond ring, and in the same state and condition in which it was at the time when he, said N. V. Lettunich, exhibited the same in court at the time of said examination; and when so delivered to and received by said sheriff the same shall be sold in the manner required by the law and the proceeds applied to the satisfaction of said judgment; and in default of such delivery within the time and at the place aforesaid, you, the said N. His witnesses are Andrew Balich, George J. Carstulovich and Howard V. Trafton of Santa Cruz and Lawrence Sandberg of Watsonville. EP; 24 Dec 1913; article: “...Thirty-two applications for retail liquor licenses and one for a wholesale license were granted in this city...by the board of aldermen, there being no formal complaint against any of the applicants. During the hearing on the applications Alderman Kane stated that he had heard complaints of two saloons here, one being the Railroad Exchange conducted on Walker street by George Strazicich and the other being the saloon of B. Gurich at 205 West Third Street. Mr. Kane stated that he had heard women were being served with liquor in these places and that the residents in that vicinity complained of dancing and loud noises at both places at late hours. Mr. Uren and other members of the board said that they, too, had heard the same complaints.

"At this juncture Mr. Strazicich entered the room and he was asked about the matter. He denied having ever allowed women to be served with liquor in his hotel and said that in the nine years he had been in business here he had not 'made enough off woman trade to buy a suit of clothes.' Chief of Police Whitsitt was asked his opinion and he stated that as far as he knew the place was conducted all right.

"Mayor Trafton and City Attorney Sans both stated that the new license ordinance gave anyone the right to complain about any saloon in this city and it was the duty of any citizen to complain if he or she knew anything was wrong. They could lay the matters before the city attorney, who would handle the matter. The mayor did not believe in convicting anybody on rumors. Even after a license is granted it is not too late to have it revoked if the complaints made against any place are supported by facts...

To those that have been skeptical of the 1914 show, who believed that they had seen the last apple show here when they attended the 1913 show and who have been spreading the gospel of pessimism in the community[,] the enthusiastic, optimistic and largely attended annual meeting of the stockholders of the show held last night should be a lesson. Amid cheers and applause the 1914 apple show was baptized last night and the movement for another show was ushered into being amid scenes of earnest, sincere and confident good fellowship and boost spirit..."

"The annual meeting last night first convened at the auditorium where the business of the evening was transacted. At the opening of the meeting Secretary Miss Anna M. Farlin reported that 3910 of the 6610 shares of stock were represented, but before the meeting adjourned other members entered the room and the amount of stock jumped over the 5000 mark. C. A. Palmtag and T. M. Wright composed the proxy committee and passed upon each proxy.

“The election of the board of directors for 1914 was the most important business of the evening. When President Stoesser announced that nominations were open R. H. Hudson arose and nominated the present board. Mr. Stoesser stated that he wanted others to act on the board, that he wanted a ‘new deal’ and that personally he wished to retire. But his retirement speech was not a success for his nomination was cheered as was the nomination of the entire old board and it was the united sentiment of all that the old guard remain in office. When President Stoesser saw that his objections were overruled he suggested that the names of William J. McGrath and James H. Rowe be placed in nomination. These names were also received with enthusiasm and the old board was unanimously swept into office again...The directors chosen for 1914 are, therefore, Messrs. Otto D. Stoesser, R. H. Goodchild, A. W. Cox, E. Steinhauser, W. R. Porter, H. C. Peckham, George W. Sill, Luke Scurich, Mateo Lettunich, J. E. Gardner, W. J. McGrath, J. H. Rowe, C. H. Baker, E. A. Hall and J. H. Thompson. “President O. D. EP; 21 Jan 1914; item: “Suit Was Brought to Recover Money Due on Sale of Apples. In the Superior Court yesterday Judge Lucas F. Smith rendered a decision in favor of the plaintiffs in the case of Orin O. Eaton, et al., vs. Peter Gospodnetich et al. The decision is as follows:

“This is an action to recover the sum of $321.95, the agreed purchase price of 429 boxes of apples sold by the plaintiffs to the defendants. The defendants contend that the apples were not of the quality agreed on, and that some of them were decayed, etc., and for that reason declined to pay for the same. The uncontradicted evidence shows that the defendants saw the apples before they were packed in boxes, and that they again examined the same after they were packed and that no objection was made by them as to the quality or condition of the fruit. They purchased the apples with full knowledge of their condition and at a price below the market price of first-class apples.

“The law is well settled that where the purchaser of personal property examines the property at the time of the sale the rule of caveat emptor applies, and that the purchaser will not be permitted to afterwards claim that the property was not such as represented by the seller. (35 Cyc. 229, and authorities cited).

“It follows that judgment should be rendered in favor of the plaintiffs, and it is so ordered.—Santa Cruz Sentinel.”

EP; 24 Jan 1914; obit: “Mrs. Madeline Matulich, the wife of Frank Matulich, the local fruit packer, died yesterday at her home at 347 East Lake Avenue while in childbirth. The little baby also passed away. A sad feature of the death was that Mrs. Matulich had been married four years and that in that time two other children had passed away...

"The deceased was a native of Dalmatia and was aged 22 years, 9 months and 7 days. She came to California six years ago and after residing for two years in San Jose and Sacramento[,] came here four years ago to be married to Mr. Matulich. Mr. Matulich is a member of the fruit firm of Matulich and Gospodnetich and is well known here in the fruit business. Besides the husband and a little daughter the deceased is survived by a brother, Jack Jaksich [Jaksich]."

EP; 26 Jan 1914; article: "The citizens selected by Hon. L. F. Smith, superior judge, as being eligible for duty on the grand jury for 1914, should their names be drawn from the grand jury box are the following from the Pajaro Valley.

"...M. Lettunich...O. D. Stoesser...L. Scurich..."

"Judge Smith states that the reason no women voters are selected on the grand and trial juries in this county, is that the Attorney General of the State had advised that it would not be legal to do so until the law is amended, as it doubtless will be at the next session of the legislature. As the law now stands it provides that 19 'men' shall compose the grand jury, and that 12 'men' shall constitute a trial jury, etc. By simply amending the law and substituting 'qualified voters' instead of the word 'men,' there would be no question about the legality of women serving on juries in this State."

EP; 2 Feb 1914; item: "Lettunich Building at Third and Main to be Modern in Every Manner. Architect W. H. Weeks has completed the final plans for the new four story Lettunich building at Third and Main streets and the plans show the new structure to be one of the finest and most modern buildings in the central part of the State. Contractor Gilham is expected to hear any day from San Jose to resume his work of moving the old Mansion House to its new location on Main Street, north of where it now stands. The various contracts for the construction of the different parts of the new building will be awarded in about a week and the work on the new structure will start as soon as these have been awarded and the corner lot is cleared and excavated. The new building will be completed on or about August 1st.

"The frontage of the new building will be 121 feet on Main street and 120 feet on Third. The first story of the building will be used by business concerns while the three upper floors will be used for offices. These offices will be large and finished in selected grain pine, the walls to be tinted and an enclosed office in each. The hallways above the first floor will have a marble base and tiled floors while the main lobby on the second floor will be finished in marble. The building is to be constructed of re-enforced concrete with an outside finish of cement and terra cotta. The main entrance will be made of enameled terra cotta and will be magnificent in all particulars, the Pajaro Valley apple having been worked into the ornamentation in a clever manner.

"The building will be equipped with an electric elevator, a steam heating plant in the basement for all parts of the building, a vacuum cleaning plant and compressed air appliances for dentists and doctors, who may use the upper offices. Not only will the new building be equipped and built according to the latest and most modern style but the old Mansion House will be remodeled, the outside and inside changed somewhat and the building put in modern shape. A second story will also be added to the Burlond-Herbert Company store on Third street.

"Messrs. M. N. and Mateo Lettunich deserve the highest credit and praise for their enterprise in improving their property at Third and Main. Their new building will not only be a distinct credit to Watsonville but will reflect credit upon the entire central portion of the state."

EP; 3 Feb 1914; article: "1914 SHOW PLANS HAVE BEEN STARTED. The 1914 apple show is now a certainty. The directors of the big show assembled last night at the auditorium, re-elected the 1913 officers and started to get down to serious business for the 1914 show, which is intended to be the biggest and grandest apple show ever held here, which, of course, means anywhere else in the world. The 1913 officers were chosen without opposition, O. D. Stoesser being president again, R. H. Goodchild being vice president, A. W. Cox being chosen again as treasurer, Miss Anna M. Farlin being the secretary and T. M. Wright being re-elected the financial secretary.

"Plans for raising the necessary funds for the 1914 show were discussed at length last night and it was decided that President Stoesser should appoint his finance committee within another week so that the committee could immediately formulate plans for raising the money. Nothing definite can be expected further on the show until the finance committee has been named and the committee gets down to business.

"A few bills were approved and ordered paid after George W. Sill and Luke Scurich had been appointed members of the auditing committee..."

The alarm was sounded about 10 o'clock, the fire starting in a bed in one of the rooms upstairs. The water caused more damage than the fire. What started the fire in the bed is not known as the room was not occupied at the time. The damage is unknown and insurance will likely cover all lost."

EP; 6 Mar 1914; article: "SRESOVICH OUT ON PROBATION...George Sresovich, who passed a five dollar fictitious check on Wards drug store, was up before Justice H. J. Bias this morning, says last evening's Santa Cruz Surf. The charge was reduced from felony to misdemeanor and he was sentenced to six months in the county jail, but was released on probation on condition that he make good all borrowed money and the check and that he should go to work.

"Sresovich was represented by Attorney D. C. Clark, who had $25 on hand to pay a part of the money borrowed, back, and he also stated that Sresovich had a place near Soquel where he could go to work.

"The fellow had passed only one check, but it developed that he had gone down the line and borrowed amounts from one dollar up to $10 and stated that in all he had borrowed about $55. This did not include a number of bar bills and he said he had also got small amounts from three saloon keepers. A $20 borrow of long standing, the district attorney said, the fellow would have to make good. Mr. Knight also reminded the prisoner that he had called on him and had attempted to borrow $5 dollars on the strength of $1600 that he alleged would arrive for him in a few days.

"Sresovich still asserts that he will be in the cherry business this summer and has great expectations of big money.

"It also developed that Sresovich had gone into a Pacific avenue hardware store, where he alleged he had got in a mixup and that he was afraid he would be shot. On the strength of his family and story he was given a pistol and he then went down the street and pawned the gun for $4 at a pool room."

EP; 7 Mar 1914; article: "SERVIA WANTS TO PRESERVE NATION...(By United Press). Belgrade, Serbia, March 7—Five hundred war veterans, each armed to the teeth, each as ready and willing to die as a frog is ever ready and willing to jump into water, and each awaiting only the psychological moment which each and all consider inevitable. This is the nice little war cloud which is still nursing itself down on the borders of the Balkans. And this is the nice little war cloud which Serbia says that European diplomacy can never conjure away until it has either broken out into war and won, or broken out into war and irretrievably lost forever.

"Servia has dreamed a great dream, and there are some psychologists who say that a great dream, if dreamed hard enough, and if dreamed when the person is awake and in full possession of his faculties, is one of the most irresistible forces in the world. Servia's dream is a result of its success in the recent Balkan wars, a dream dreamed in the full consciousness of the strength and power which it has demonstrated it possesses. The dream is to put back on the map of the world the old Slav empire as it existed before it went down before the overrunning Turks

"Servia's dream, too, has one other merit, and possibly one other source of strength, in that it is not only merely political but humanitarian. The Slav race is now almost as badly scattered as the Jews, almost a race without a country, and it is Servia's dream to re-create a united homeland.

"Just at the present moment, as in fact for a century past, the one particular nightmare in this dream is Austria. Austria long known as the bully of Europe, had not only been gradually gobbling up the big Slav provinces, but also concentrating her strength against possible formation of a big Slav empire on her own Southern border.

One by one, and even sometimes by twos, she has come into possession of Slav provinces of Croatia, Slavonia, Dalmatia and Herzegovina. All of these are inhabited solely by Slavs, who speak only the Slav or Servian language, and who have not only the same ethical origin, but the same racial traditions and the same desire for political as racial unity.

"Austria in its century-old opposition to this possible Slav Kingdom has had two motives. In the first place the entire southern half of the Austria-Hungarian Empire is inhabited largely by Slavs. They have never been well treated and have never been content under the Austrian yoke. The formation of a Slav empire to the South would mean that a goodly portion of those would hike instantly to the other side of the Hungarian border.

"The forcing of the Hungary boundary down through the Balkans until Austria-Hungary should some day have the old Turkish seaport of Salonika has also been the one great ambition of Austria. This ambition, however, the recent Balkan war is believed to have forever thwarted, Salonika having passed into the hands of the Greeks. The creation of the new kingdom of Albania, whose existence is guaranteed by the powers, also ends her dream of a Mediterranean exit and naval base on that portion of the Adriatic. While Austria has thus been obliged to renounce her great ambition, it hasn't sweetened in any way her attitude against the Slavs and this attitude Serbia is convinced will one day mean war and the object of that war will be the getting back of the Slav provinces into a future Slav empire.

"As a matter of fact Serbia has already accomplished great steps towards the realization of its dream. As a result of the Balkan wars it has now doubled its territory and all of the new territory was formerly part of the old Slav empire. This has increased its population from 3,000,000 to over 5,000,000 while there are over 8,000,000 others still living in the Slav provinces which Austria has seized, Serbia is not at all discouraged about someday getting them back.

"Another important step towards the formation of the proposed Slav empire has just been accomplished with Montenegro. This State also is purely Slav and although the European powers insist on its maintaining a separate existence Serbia has just arranged that in the future practically all of the ministers of the Servian government will do double duty for both Serbia and Montenegro. The two, while having separate kings, will thus have practically a common government.

"In all Serbia today the sentiment for Slav unity has become almost a ruling passion and every Servian has but one conviction. This conviction is that Austria, having already witnessed the amalgamation on its other borders of the German States into a great German Empire, and the amalgamation on its south-western border under the leadership of Savoy of its one time deadly rivals the Italian States into a great Italian empire[,] is irrevocably destined to witness for the third time the same phenomenon in the amalgamation of the Slav provinces and States on its southern border into a united Slav empire."

It took but a short time to secure a jury...Geo. W. Smith is representing the District Attorneys office as special prosecutor...”

“The complainants allege that they occupy half a house that they leased last year to Sorich in the Valencia district, Sorich having the land and horses on the farm. On January 7th Sorich is alleged to have tried to beat up Light because the latter tried to feed some horses in the barn and then shortly afterwards struck Mrs. Light on the breast, the injury being serious enough to warrant medical attention.

“Mr. Light was the first witness for the prosecution and he was followed on the stand by Dr. Clyde Wayland who attended Mrs. Light. Curran, who appeared for Eggers, and Attorney E. J. Lynch, who represented the plaintiff, handled the case today. The defense asked that the trial be had in Santa Cruz county for the benefit of the witnesses and Attorneys George W. Smith and George P. Burke of this city filed affidavits for Sam Hrepich, who secured the levy, that it was necessary to hold the case in this county. Lynch made the peculiar admission that the witnesses in this county would all testify against the character of Lettunich and that therefore it was not necessary to have them testify in this county. The case is set for trial on next Wednesday.”

“The apricot crop is now set and it will be one of the largest ever produced in the Pajaro Valley. The soil has plenty of moisture and orchardists are taking good care of their trees so that the quality of fruit promises to be excellent.

“The Pajaro Valley is coming to the front as a producer of fine apricots, having ranked fourth last year in amount of shipments, the soil and climate being especially well adapted for this fruit.

“The apple trees are now budding and commencing to blossom. So far as can be judged thus early the 1914 crop ought to be an excellent one.

reporter's notes Mr. Covell testified as follows: 'That as manager of a garage he had known N. V. Lettunich for about 10 years; his business dealings and transactions with Lettunich consisted of taking care of and repairing an automobile; that Lettunich had an account with him of $768.37 of which he paid a part but owes the balance; that the $768.37 was charged to the account of N. D. Stoesser has issued a call for a meeting of the stockholders of the show to be held next Wednesday evening to consider the advisability of holding the 1914 apple show in San Francisco. Mr. Perkins has secured an option on a big lot at Eighth and Market streets in San Francisco and if the stockholders decide to hold the show this year in San Francisco he will formally take over the lot at a nominal rental until that time.

“Mr. Perkins addressed the directors last night at length and called attention to the tremendous advertising that would accrue to Watsonville if the show was held in the metropolis. He further stated that where 50,000 see the show here there would be over 200,000 to view the show in the metropolis. The lot secured by Perkins is 270x530 feet in size and is one of the best situated pieces of property in the Bay City. The directors in discussing the idea last night seemed to be much enthused over the proposition and now it remains to see what the stockholders think of the idea. Some of the directors last night, H. C. Peckham, Mateo Lettunich and C. H. Baker in particular, were of the opinion that the exhibits at the show if held in San Francisco would be greater than ever and that many carload exhibits would be entered..."

Lettunich vs. Sheriff Eggers of San Francisco, involving Lettunich's celebrated automobiles the jury in Judge Mogan's court, in the metropolis yesterday, after lengthy session, disagreed, standing seven for Eggers and three for Lettunich. The case was tried, by consent, with 10 jurors. J. H. Covell was one of the star witnesses for Lettunich yesterday, as an expert on autos. He stated that he could tell from the mere appearance of a machine, how many miles it had traveled; that Lettunich's machine had traveled 25,000 miles, and that it was worth $1000. On cross-examination he testified that he was keeping this machine in his garage without charge or any expense; that he came to San Francisco voluntarily and without charge to testify in the case. Mr. Covell was bitterly denounced by Attorney Geo. W. Smith in his argument for defendant before the jury."

EP; 14 May 1914; item: "A BIG NUISANCE... Considerable complaint is heard regarding the way East Third street, corner of Main street, is blocked up by the building operations on the new Lettunich building. Patrons of the post office are the worst sufferers, although the business houses along the Odd Fellows block are hit hard also. It is held that all those building operations should be handled by the Messrs. Lettunich on their own lot, back of the new building, instead of blocking up a main thoroughfare, and the board of aldermen come in for considerable criticism for allowing it.

"On the other hand no one wants to start a complaining petition, as the Messrs. Lettunich are spending an immense amount of money for the betterment of past conditions, and it is held that it is better to stand the present inconvenience, and bear it grinningly, than to put them to any great inconvenience, as they are improving the town..."

EP; 14 May 1914; article: "APPLE SHOW IS TO GO TO METROPOLIS. The 1914 and 1915 California Apple Shows will be held in San Francisco, the show this year to be held on the large McCreary lot at Eighth and Market streets and the 1915 show to be held on the world's fair grounds. This was the unanimous decision arrived at last night when representatives of 3470 shares of stock, which was a majority, met at the auditorium to decide whether to hold the show in San Francisco or not at all. Every speaker during the evening favored the show going to the metropolis and to show their future good faith in the project that ten announced that they stood ready to guarantee the sum of $250 each toward the show, a guarantee fund of $5000 being necessary.

"Harry Perkins will be manager, majordomo and generalissimo of the 1914 apple show. He was present last night, and as usual was crammed full of facts, figures and boost talk, his remarks being applauded every time he spoke. The entire meeting was alive with the old time apple show enthusiasm and the fact that the show was to knock at the gates of San Francisco for recognition from the hundreds of thousands of people in the Bay cities seemed to cast a more glorious spell over the audience and seemed to charge the atmosphere with enthusiasm, life and energy.

"...Those present were J. E. Gardner, Otto D. Stoesser, Miss Anna M. Farlin, T. M. Wright, R. H. Goodchild, Harry Perkins, A. W. Cox, George W. Sill, Richard Buckhart, C. F. Langley, W. R. Radcliff, E. W. Sherman, C. B. Lewis, E. Steinhauer, John Coop, J. H. Rowe, M. N. Lettunich, Henry Cowles, H. C. Peckham, Peter Storm, Julius Schanbacher, W. L. Granger, F. P. Krough, Lew I. Bay, E. H. Nohrden, George P. Martin, Dr. S. C. Rodgers, D. J. Daly, C. H. Baker, Percy Whinton, F. L. Selleck and O. Olesen.

"President Stoesser opened the meeting by explaining the object of the session and boosting for the holding of the show in San Francisco this year. He said the show could not be held successfully here because the necessary money could not be raised and the attendance from the outside would be much smaller this year. He said the show treasury had been depleted to the amount of $2500 last year and if the show was held here this year the loss would be even greater. He called attention to the fact that the association through Harry Perkins had secured an option on the big lot at 8th and Market from September 15 to October 15...

"Chairman J. E. Gardner of the finance committee was the next speaker. He declared that last year it was decided to raise $5000 in advance to hold the 1913 show. Between 1000 and 1500 letters were sent out to growers in the valley. It being thought that as the growers were so directly benefited by the shows that they would of course contribute liberally. Mr. Gardner then declared that out of the 1000 or 1500 cards sent out only 127 answers were received and only 105 of these subscribing. The matter was then taken up with the local business men and the contributions of the year before were doubled in nearly every instance. The big merchants donated their twofold contribution willingly but most of the smaller business men fell down. The result was that the total contributions amounted to about $3000. This year, Mr. Gardner stated, the money could not be raised here for a show in Watsonville. The hard times of the past two years, the fact that so many residents failed to do their part last year and the difficulty to get local packers to exhibit[,] all would work against the show this year. But if the apple show was abandoned Sebastopol and other apple growing sections would step in and start the State apple show and the news would get abroad that Watsonville had 'petered out'...

"A number of those present were then called on for remarks and in substance they said as follows:

"...M. N. Lettunich—I am willing to exhibit in San Francisco but do not think you will get as many smaller exhibits there from here..."

"Mr. Cox then moved that the apple show be moved to San Francisco and that the show be financed by the association entirely if possible and if that was not feasible for the guarantee method to be considered. This motion was carried unanimously, not one present voting against it.

"Those that have announced their willingness to guarantee $250 each are [no Slavs]..."

to fruit packers was rendered this morning by Judge A. B. Hawkins when he handed down a decision in favor of the plaintiff for $185 in the case of Alfred W. Otis & Co., against Peter Vlasich & Company.

“On September 25th, 1912, Otis, through H. P. Kane, his agent, advanced to Vlasich & Co. $330 on two cars of apples. The apples brought small returns and Otis sued for the difference between the return and the amount advanced.

“The defendants claimed that the money was advanced on a guarantee of the amount advanced.

“P. Vlasich and J. Mihjinich testified that Mr. Kane guaranteed that the apples would bring at least 25c per box. Mr. Kane denied that there had been a guarantee, and clenched his case by producing a draft upon which there was written that the money advanced was in the nature of a loan. The defendants claimed that they did not read the draft, but merely signed it.

“The case was argued at some length by E. J. Kelly on the plaintiff and Geo. W. Smith for the defendants. The defendants will appeal.”

The crowd was attentive to the program and each number on the program was heartily applauded. Mr. Smith in particular being interrupted at frequent intervals by loud and enthusiastic applause...

“It is to be regretted that the lack of space will not permit the publication of the address by Mr. Smith in whole or in part. Mr. Smith deserves high praise for the excellent address that he delivered and it was easily one of the best Fourth of July speeches ever heard here. Mr. Smith in his talk did not confine himself to empty platitudes or meaningless generalities but handled such burning questions of the hour as the Mexican trouble, the Philippine question, the Japanese problem and the trust question in a splendid and forceful manner. His utterances struck a responsive chord in the minds of his auditors for he was interrupted many times by applause. Mr. Smith’s address was pleasing in every way, was eloquently delivered and it stamped him as an orator of promise and ability.”

EP; 27 Jul 1914; article: "[photo of building] WILL BE MODERN STRUCTURE. As conclusive proof of the fact that Watsonville ranks as one of the most progressive and up-to-date cities in the State one has but to look at the type of buildings constructed here in the past few years, the new Lettunich building being the latest as well as the most modern of these structures. The Lettunich building is today the only 'skyscraper' on Main street and standing as it does on the busiest street corner in this city it gives this city an enterprising, modern appearance as the structure is the equal if not the superior of any other business structures built in the smaller cities of California.

"The Lettunich building is a four-story structure, stores and business houses to be located on the first floor and offices in the three upper stories. The offices will be 87 in number. The offices are fitted up in the very latest style and every modern convenience that can be found in the metropolitan skyscrapers will be provided in the new Lettunich building. All will have quarter connections, a large number will be equipped with compressed air and all will have electric lights and other electrical appliances necessary in offices. Each office will be connected with a mail chute as is found in all modern buildings.

"The building will have an electric elevator, a vacuum cleaning plant, a steam heating plant and other modern equipment. The corridors will all be fireproof with tile floors and marble wainscoting. The main stairway will be fire proof and will be constructed of marble and steel. Fire escapes will be provided on all floors. The building represents the latest type of re-enforced concrete structures, the exterior to be of concrete and enameled terra cotta. One of the features of the building will be the main entrance on Main street, the motif for the ornaments being the fruits of the Pajaro valley, the apple predominating. The entrance will be of terra cotta and will present a beautiful effect.

“The glass on all the street fronts for the stores will be of heavy plate and the show windows will be of the very latest type. Hose reels will be found on each floor with four inch stand pipes for use in case of fire. The building will be 122 feet long on Main street and will run 112 feet on West Third street...W. H. Weeks, the architect, deserves credit for designing such a magnificent building for this city and the building will be a monument to his skill and ability. James Patterson of San Jose has been the foreman of construction and no harder worker can be found in this city than that estimable gentleman...

“The chimney of the new building will be a massive as well as fireproof feature of the structure. The interior is of terra cotta, with a middle lining of sheet iron and an exterior of concrete. In order that the people can get an idea of how much a building such as the Lettunich block will cost, it might be said that the mail chute will cost over $500 alone. It is the very latest patent and will be almost entirely of glass.

“In addition to their new structure the Messrs. Lettunich will renovate and improve the old Mansion House. Work started on the old building today and will be rushed to completion. The building will be rewired, reheated with steam heat from the new building, will be replumbed throughout and will be connected with the vacuum cleaning plant in the new building. A new front will be built to correspond in part with the new structure, the rooms in the building will be fitted up with new mattresses, new carpets, new blankets and will be equipped with hot and cold water, steam heat and other conveniences. It will contain 43 rooms and have a fine grill on the lower floor.

“Messrs. M. N. and Mateo Lettunich, the owners of the building, are deserving of the thanks and appreciation of the community. The new building that they are having erected on the leading corner of this city will reflect great credit upon the foresight and progressive ideas of these two men. The fact that the Messrs. Lettunich have had confidence in the growth and continued prosperity of the community will cause other building in this city and their confidence will be an inspiration to others. Their new structure is certainly an imposing one and will be one of the biggest assets of this city from an advertising standpoint to show that this community is a prosperous one...”

He was in the machine with Dave McFadden, Chas. MacFadden and another man whose name the Journal could not learn. “Charles McFadden was driving the machine. Only three cylinders were working and the machine was giving him some trouble. In an attempt to get more power he let the machine get out of the road and it went against a bank and overturned. Mr. Martin fell under the machine and when they got him out he was dead...

"Sheriff Nesbitt brought Chas. McFadden and Mike Zar, the other man, in to the Abbott at 2 o'clock. McFadden's head was somewhat bruised and Zar had his hip hurt..."

EP; 6 Aug 1914; article: "The Salinas Index, of last evening, had the following additional particulars regarding the overturning of McFadden's auto...last Tuesday night:

"The quartet, composed of Martin and his three companions, returned last evening from a hunting expedition in the mountains. After remaining in town several hours to talk over the events of the trip with friends, they started for the McFadden ranch...Charles McFadden was at the wheel. He is a careful driver and is familiar with the road, but the night was extremely foggy. Everything went smoothly until they reached a turn in the road... There the driver seems to have lost his bearings. In the dense fog he could see but little ahead and he failed to slow up sufficiently when the machine came to the turn. A drainage ditch several feet deep and with an almost perpendicular bank on the side next to the fence, parallels the road at this point...When the machine left the road the right front wheel struck the bank of the ditch. The machine turned over and slid along the bank...about 40 feet before coming to a halt and sliding back into the ditch..."

"When the machine upset[,] the two McFaddens and Zar fell clear, but Martin was in some way caught by the steering wheel and a gun he was carrying and was pinned beneath the machine. That Charles McFadden...fell clear, was due to the fact that he was leaning outward trying to see the way ahead...Charles McFadden sustained bruises and his face was cut. Zar was injured about the hip...The injured were taken to the Jim Bardin Hospital for treatment. Charles McFadden and Mike Zar were able to leave afterward..."

EP; 6 Aug 1914; item: "Mike Zar, who was in the accident yesterday morning that resulted in the death of William H. Martin near Blanco, was here today to see old friends and outside of a few bruises and cuts appears none the worse for his narrow escape from death. His many friends here are all glad to see him in the land of the living and are congratulating him upon his narrow escape."

EP; 18 Aug 1914; article: “LETTER TO PUBLIC BY GEORGE W. SMITH. To the Voters of Santa Cruz County—Fellow Citizens: A few days more and the most unique campaign in the political annals of the State of California will have passed into history.

“The provisions of the Primary Act, and the extent of our great county have made it a physical impossibility for a candidate to personally interview but a small portion of the electorate, and, therefore, necessitates an open letter of this character, so that the citizenship of this county may learn the REAL truth of my candidacy, and the principles that I am pledged to and will carry out if fortunate enough to receive at your hands the great honor of acting as your advocate for the ensuing four years.

“It is unnecessary to state that the office of District Attorney is second to none in importance, and that its administration and conduct concerns each and every resident of the county.

“The district attorney, with the aid of the sheriff, is charged with the duty of protecting the life, liberty and property of each and every one of us. He advises and guides, in the discharge of their duties, each and every public official, safeguarding the finances and property of the county.

“The very nature of the office requires one particularly skilled in the criminal law, and one of sound business judgment and acute legal acumen.

“It is not a training school for the inexperienced. Your business is of too great an importance to be trifled with.

Remember that the District Attorney is called upon, in the discharge of his duties as your attorney to protect and maintain the peace and dignity of the county, and in so doing is called upon to face the best talent oft-times, that money can buy.

“In coming before you and asking your suffrage, aid and support, I have no apologies to offer. I have been a resident of this county for the past 16 years or more, coming here in the month of June, 1898, from the town of Tombstone, Arizona, where I was born some 27 years ago.

“Shortly after my arrival at Watsonville, which has been my home for 16 years, I entered the common schools, graduating from the grammar school and commercial department of the Watsonville high school.

“Conditions arose on my graduation from the grammar school that necessitated my going out into the world and taking up the duty of supporting my mother, two sisters and brother. This I did by hard manual labor, at the same time reading law at nights and taking a course in the commercial school.

“I obtained my commercial school diploma in 1902, and took up stenography, and entered the law offices of James A. Hall, at Watsonville, and after strenuous effort, aided by his kind interest in me, in January, 1904, was admitted to the bar by the District Court of Appeals at Sacramento. I remained with Judge Hall as his partner and associate until his election as Mayor of Watsonville, a year or so after my admission to the bar.

“During the five years that I have been a practicing attorney my record has been above reproach, both as to ability and integrity.

“I have tried and won more criminal cases during the past four years than all my opponents combined. I have had as my opponents some of the most capable prosecutors in the State. In fact, I am pleased to say, that my ability to fill the office has not been questioned by even my adversaries.

“I have been successful in the carrying on of my private business, and it follows as a matter of logic that unless a person can conduct his own business he cannot hope to conduct the business of the people.

“It has been whispered by malicious individuals that I am the candidate of certain interests, and that I am opposed to the freedom of the press. Permit me to say now that I have but one pledge and that is the enforcement of the law, WITHOUT FEAR OR FAVOR, and absolute fidelity to the sacred oath of office. As to the other insinuation, I am an American citizen, loyal to his country and a firm believer in its principles—the right of every man to think and speak his honest convictions. Respectfully submitted, GEORGE W. SMITH.”

EP; 22 Aug 1914; article: "[photo] GEORGE W. SMITH TO SPEAK HERE TONIGHT. This evening at 8 o'clock Attorney George W. Smith of this city, candidate for district attorney, will address the voters of this valley in the I.O.O.F. hall and he deserves a packed house. Last Saturday night Mr. Smith addressed an audience of over 100 at Aptos and was greeted with warm enthusiasm on all sides. He delivered an address that was a masterpiece and at the conclusion the entire audience gave him three hearty cheers and several dozen men and women rushed toward him to shake him by the hand and wish him success.

"If Mr. Smith delivers the same address tonight that he gave at Aptos it will be worth going to hear. Mr. Smith's ability as a public speaker and as an attorney is well known and those that attend his meeting tonight will hear something that will be of interest. James A. Hall and George P. Burke delivered addresses Saturday night at Aptos and both praised Mr. Smith and heartily endorsed his candidacy. George will pay his respects tonight to E. C. Kramer, one of his opponents, and will also have a few words to say on other topics of interest to the voters. Mr. Smith is a Watsonville boy and deserves a big crowd tonight. Don't forget the place or the hour. Bring along your friend and be prepared to hear some facts that will make you sit up and take notice."

He is alleged to be the man who a few minutes previously entered the Chinese warehouse next to the armory. It is intimated by Mr. Smith that the defense will claim that the shooting was unnecessary.—Santa Cruz News."

EP; 25 Aug 1914; article: "DISASTROUS FIRE... Three packing houses owned by Stephen Scurich and Peter Mengol on West Third street across the tracks of the Southern Pacific and opposite the depot were destroyed by fire early this morning, the fire breaking out in the Scurich packing house about 12:45 o'clock and not being under control until nearly 4 o'clock. The packing houses were occupied by Stephen Scurich, Antone Balich, Peter Mengol and the Western Apple Company. A portion of the M. N. Lettunich Company packing house was damaged and the entire loss will be close to $30,000, there being insurance to cover a portion of the loss.

"The fire had such a headway that when the fire department arrived on the scene it could be seen there was no chance to save the building. The Southern Pacific Company sent over two switch engines from Watsonville Junction and with the railroad men and the city firemen working for three hours the adjoining buildings were saved by hard work. For a time it looked as if the packing houses of McDonald & Sons, the Loma Fruit Company and the M. N. Lettunich Company and the Loma Prieta Lumber Company yards would be destroyed but the exertions of the firemen and the Pajaro engines saved them by a scratch...

"The work of the crews from the S.P. yards at Watsonville Junction deserves high praise and was the subject of general commendation in connection with the work of our own fire department. The Junction boys succeeded in getting two streams on the fire and contributed materially to the saving of several of the packing houses. The boys got thoroughly soaked with water also, and were a very tired bunch when the fire was finally subdued.

"The flames started in the Scurich building, which was occupied by the packing establishment of Stephen Scurich and Tony Balich, and for a time the Lettunich building adjoining was threatened but the firemen kept the flames the other way and managed to save the Lettunich structure, only one end of the building being damaged. In the meantime the buildings on the other end, occupied by the Western Apple Company and Mengol, had caught afire and the flames were endangering the MacDonal & Sons establishment, which stands at the end of the row. The firemen realized that the three buildings were doomed despite their most valiant efforts so an effort was made to save the Loma Prieta Lumber Company yard and the MacDonald packing house...

"The buildings did not contain much outside of considerable box shoo and paper, all of which was destroyed. The cause of the fire is not known. The flames were first seen from the Loma Prieta Lumber Yard and the alarm turned in immediately. A number of freight cars in the railroad yards had to be hurriedly switched to other tracks further from the fire else they too would have been destroyed.

"Praise is also due the large number of volunteer firefighters, who labored valiantly last night. A large number of prominent local citizens gave their services willingly and were of great assistance to the firemen and railroad men in checking the flames.

"The M. N. Lettunich Company lost 16,000 boxes in the fire while in the Scurich packing house a large quantity of fruit was destroyed as well as the boxes."

EP; 25 Aug 1914; article: "SPLENDID ADDRESS BY GEORGE W. SMITH. An audience that not only packed the I.O.O.F. hall to almost the suffocation point but which overflowed into the hallway and stairway of the building last night heard a splendid address by George W. Smith, candidate for district attorney of Santa Cruz county. The crowd was one of the largest in attendance at any political meetings ever held in this city except the recent Johnson-Eshleman meeting[,] and scores who tried to enter the hall were forced to stay outside, many standing across the street in the plaza to hear what they could of the address.

"Attorney Smith delivered an address that held the close attention of his audience from the start and which was applauded enthusiastically at many intervals. He was not only eloquent and really oratorical but his enunciation and delivery was so clear that every word could be heard distinctly all over the hall. At the close of the speech he was heartily applauded and three lusty cheers were given for him. He was also tendered an ovation not only when he arose to speak but when he entered the hall. As far as his speech was concerned it was one of the best heard here in years.

"Smith did not mince matters in telling the voters what he thought of E. C. Kramer, one of his opponents, and the World Issue, a Socialist paper in Santa Cruz, both of which have been slandering Mr. Smith during the campaign. In his address he paid a tribute to his three other opponents, whom he said had all fought a clean and honorable fight. He was introduced by Ex-Mayor James A. Hall, who praised the integrity and ability of Mr. Smith.

"The feature of his address was the producing of the record of the superior court in 1911 when Attorney Kramer and a man named Klawitter were forced to turn over about $1500 to the estate of an old German man of Santa Cruz, Smith charging that the two men, one of them his opponent, had tried to cheat and defraud the widow of this money. Smith traced the history of the case from the deathbed of the old German, Jacob Swan, to the time when an adopted daughter of the deceased suspected that Kramer and Klawitter had tried to fraudulently secure the $1500 and then Smith told how Superior Judge Smith had ordered the money returned to the widow. As Mr. Smith bored into Kramer the audience applauded warmly and his remarks on that subject made a great impression.

"He called attention to the fact that he did not desire to say anything about his opponents and would not have shown up the Kramer matter had not Kramer appeared in Valencia a few nights ago and attacked Smith, accusing him of being the Royal Arch attorney. 'I have red blood in my veins and am that kind of man that when I am hit I hit back,' declared Smith as the crowd cheered him on. He then went on to deny any connection with the Royal Arch and said that organization had gone out of existence here over a year ago.

"Smith then paid his respects to the World Issue, which has time and again asked the voters to cast their ballots against Smith because he is a Roman Catholic and a member of the Knights of Columbus. In this connection Mr. Smith called attention to the fact that the World Issue had laid itself liable for publishing a fake oath of the Knights of Columbus. Smith reading the real oath, which calls upon all members to support the American constitution, to respect the American flag and to protect the best interests of the citizens of the country. When Smith read the real oath and said he was proud to subscribe to such worthy sentiments the crowd cheered him again.

"Mr. Smith said that he believed in religious freedom and declared that he was entitled to his own religious beliefs just as any other man or woman was so entitled. He promised to uphold the law in every respect if elected, he promised to conduct the office in an able manner and a manner that would be a credit to the county as well as to himself and he asked those present to support him.

"Preceding the address the Watsonville City Band, which had been hired by friends of Mr. Smith, rendered several selections in front of the hall in honor of Mr. Smith."

The letter was dated on the 27th of July, and said that he left for the front that morning, but did not know where he would be stationed. John Scurich left behind him besides his father and mother, who reside in Konavle, Province of Dalmatia, a wife and five children, two girls and three boys, who reside in Cavtat. So far out of about 10,000 boxes that have been picked only two wormy apples have been found. Bird's orchard is one of the finest in the valley and he will have some choice apples this year.

"The women sorters at the M. N. Lettunich & Company's packing house have found only one wormy apple out of 4300 boxes already sorted. These two instances are but a few of the many that can be named in the valley. The quality of the Pajaro Valley apple crop this year will be hard to beat in any apple growing section in the country."

Sapro and Stolich deserve credit for their enterprise."

EP; 12 Sep 1914; article: "AUSTRIAN SLAVS. Have No Heart for the Present European War. In conversation with a representative of the Santa Cruz News recently, Andy Balich, the well-known business man, gave some very interesting sidelights on the European war situation.

"Mr. Balich is a native of the city of Ragusa [Dubrovnik], a city situated on the Adriatic sea, in the province of Dalmatia, which is part of the Austrian empire.

"Dalmatia was at one time an independent republic, and the city of Ragusa, of which Mr. Balich has a large picture, is a very beautiful place.

"The old part of the city bordering on the sea is entirely surrounded by a wall on which six soldiers can march abreast. Ingress and egress was formerly had by means of big iron gates and before the days of modern high-power guns, this wall was sufficient to repel all invaders. The city is now very strongly fortified with forts on the surrounding hills and on an island immediately in front of the city.

"Mr. Balich states that to a person conversant with the situation it is not hard to explain the success of the Russians against the Austrian army, simply because the heart of the Austrian troops is not in the war. The people of the southern part of the empire are Slav and regard the people of Servia and Russia as kindred.

“They have no love for the Austrian empire, and are simply forced into the army. With no cohesion among the troops, no regard for the empire, and a feeling that they are fighting their blood brothers, they have no incentive and victories over them are easily won.

“Mr. Balich further says that it has been the common belief in Austria, as far back as he can remember that the death of Emperor Franz Joseph would mean the breaking up of the empire, and that the different States would become independent republics. He does not even regard it as probable that they would form a combination, as their languages and customs are so dissimilar, there being at least 13 or 14 different peoples with 24 different dialects in the empire.

“Regarding the taking of the city of Cattaro [Kotor, Montenegro], which the news dispatches have reported the fleets as bombarding, Mr. Balich says that he considers the taking of this place by a fleet as next to impossible, as the guns surrounding it are set in cement and the whole entirely surrounded by water, the guns also being on a pivot so that a shell striking them would simply cause them to revolve, and their destruction would be almost impossible. He thinks that the only way this place could possibly be taken would be from the land side.”

Freiermuth Company of this city. The cornice, sheet iron, ventilators and skylights were furnished by the local firm as was the labor in connection with the contract. The job would be a credit to the largest firm doing that kind of galvanized iron and cornice work in the State and the Freiermuth Company deserves high praise for the excellence of its workmanship.

“E. E. Coltrane was the superintendent of the work and he is also deserving of credit for his part in the job. The Freiermuth Company has the largest cornice department of any hardware store between San Francisco and Los Angeles. The cornice work on the Lettunich building is the biggest job of any building south of the metropolis and it speaks volumes for the efficiency of the Freiermuth Company that it secured the contract and performed the work so well.

“The cornices are 112 feet long on Third street and 122 feet long on Main. Electric lights are arranged between the medallions or brackets along the top of the building as well as down the corner cornices. The total number of globes is 123. Fifteen skylights are located on the roof and six star ventilators are located on the main roof. It is a credit to any city to possess a progressive firm like the Freiermuth Company that can do such high class work.”

Burke, who are attorneys for Sam Hrepich [Hrepich], left last evening for the city. This is the litigation growing out of the seizure of an automobile, belonging to Nick Lettunich under a judgment obtained by Hrepich against Lettunich and claimed by the latter's brother under a chattel mortgage, which Hrepich claims to have given in fraud of Nick's creditors. The case promises to be hotly contested and some sensational testimony is expected."

EP; 22 Sep 1914; article: "M. B. Lettunich is on the Stand and Sheriff is Looking for Nick Lettunich. A telephone message this afternoon from Attorney George W. Smith, who is in San Francisco representing Sam Hrepich in the case of M. B. Lettunich vs. Sheriff Eggers, stated that the jury was completed...yesterday and that M. B. Lettunich, the complainant, was the first witness. He was on the stand one hour in direct examination and is now being cross-examined by Attorney Smith. He withdrew a few moments this morning to allow J. H. Covell to testify as to the value of the Lettunich automobile which is the issue in the case. Covell testified that the machine was worth $1000. He further stated that Mateo Lettunich had sent for him but he had gone to San Francisco at his own expense.

"In his testimony M. B. Lettunich stated that he had asked his brother for security in May, 1913, but had not received it. He said he again demanded security in August, 1913, and that his brother owed him $3500 at that time. He was asked how he arrived at these figures and he replied that he received the information from his books. When asked to produce the books he replied that he had lost them. He further stated that he had just released a $2150 mortgage to his uncle, Mateo Lettunich, without any consideration.

"A subpoena was issued for Nick Lettunich and it was learned that he was missing. Sheriff Eggers has deputies all over San Francisco searching for Nick who had not been located at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. He was seen in court at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and Attorney Smith will so testify this afternoon, Smith to take the stand for that purpose. M. B. stated on the stand that he had not seen his brother for four or five days and the last time he saw him he was in San Jose.

"Luke Scurich, Tony Alaga, John Alaga and J. M. Miloslavich will testify this afternoon that when M. B. had the Murphy ranch he agreed to give his brother ten per cent. He turned over the ranch to his uncle, Mateo Lettunich, in December, 1913, and did not inform his hired men of the change. He testified that when his employees asked for their wages he replied he could not pay them because he had turned the place over to the uncle."

EP; 22 Sep 1914; article: "SMITH CHALLENGES KRAMER TO DEBATE. Watsonville, Sept. 21, 1914. To E. C. Kramer, Esq., Candidate for District Attorney.

"Dear Sir—You and I are candidates for the office of district attorney of this county.

"In justice to the citizenship of this county, it is necessary that the public should be informed as much as possible as to our respective abilities to fill this important office. With this in view, I am addressing, through the press, this open letter to you, and hereby offer to meet you in public debate, at any time and place agreeable to you, to then and there discuss publicly our respective qualifications for the office. Respectfully, GEORGE W. SMITH.

"(It would not be a bad idea to have this joint debate and thus settle a lot of rumors that are floating around. Mr. Kramer owes it to himself to take hold and crush out at once the rumors concerning his connection with the estate of the late Jacob Schwan. There is an alleged transcript of the record in the above case being shown around town here, and it makes interesting reading. Smith is eager to get at Kramer, as he alleges that the latter conducted his primary campaign in an ungentlemanly manner against him (Smith), and wants to get Kramer in a debate and ask him about certain cases which the latter handled. The fight for the district attorneyship in this county promises to add to the gayety of the coming campaign.—Ed. Pajaronian.)"

EP; 22 Sep 1914; article: "REMODELING RESTAURANT. Messrs. Sapro and Stolich, the enterprising proprietors of the Third Street Restaurant in the Hihn-Cooper building are engaged in making extensive improvements in their place of business, which when completed will make their eating place one of the neatest and most modern in this city. A new kitchen, 30x12, is being built in the rear where a big new range will be installed. All partitions between the kitchen and the front will be torn out and a dining room established in the center of the building. On one side a lunch counter will be placed while on the other side there will be a number of boxes for ladies and families, the boxes to be separated by a partition running the full length of the room. The entire front of the restaurant will be made of plate glass and the interior will be painted and plastered and all the fixtures in the restaurant will be brand new. Toilets and wash-rooms for men and ladies will be built in the rear.

"It is the intention of Messrs. Sapro and Stolich to keep the place open day and night. They are still doing business while the repairs and improvements are being made. The proprietors of the Third Street Restaurant deserve credit for their enterprise and when they open their new eating house they will have a place that will be as neat and up-to-date as any to be found in the State in cities this size.

Lettunich vs. Sheriff Eggers had rendered a verdict for the plaintiff and Eggers must now pay $750 to Lettunich, this being the amount that the sheriff received when the automobile owned by Nick V. Lettunich and attached by Sam Hrepich was sold at an attachment sale. Attorneys Smith and George P. Burke represented Hrepich. The fact that Nick V. Lettunich skipped from the city and could not be located was a blow for the defense as they had planned to attack his evidence, he being the main witness for the plaintiff. The automobile case is one that is well nigh famous here and it is of interest to many people. Attorney Smith stated this afternoon that the case would be appealed on the grounds that the mysterious disappearance of the main witness for the plaintiff made it impossible to put up a good defense."

EP; 3 Oct 1914; article: “Attorney George W. Smith of this city, candidate for district attorney, last night formally opened his campaign at Soquel where he addressed a fair sized crowd. The audience would have been large had it not rained earlier in the evening. The speaking was held in the I.O.O.F. hall and what the audience lacked in numbers it more than made up in applause and enthusiasm, Mr. Smith’s remarks being frequently applauded. A. W. Wyman, former supervisor, presided and a short talk was made by James A. Hall of this city.

“Mr. Smith called attention to the fact that in the past five years he had had more criminal work than all the other lawyers in the county combined, having defended 116 men on criminal charges and securing acquittals for 105 of these. In speaking of his opponent he called attention to the slanderous statements that were being spread in the county by Kramer and the World Issue and challenged his opponent to come out in the open and fight. Smith then attacked the career of Kramer, saying that Kramer had won but few cases in this county and that his success as an attorney was not great. In speaking of his opponent Mr. Smith called attention to the Schwan case, in which Kramer was ordered by the court to return the sum of over $700, which it was alleged he had tried to fraudulently hold. Mr. Smith delivered a rattling good speech and after the meeting he was warmly greeted by those present, who promised him their support.”

DeBack and son, Emory, were just leaving their residence on the Salsipuedes road, about 8:30 o'clock this morning, in their Rambler auto and had not proceeded over 200 yards, the machine going at about 10 miles an hour, when opposite the gate of J. W. Tullock they turned out to pass Mr. P. Arabanis [Arbanas], who in a 2-horse fruit truck was going out the road. Just as the vehicles were about to pass, Mr. Arabanis' dog which was accompanying the truck, jumped in front of the auto and was struck by the machine. The collision caused the machine to turn and skid across the road. Mr. DeBack thinks the dog was caught in the steering gear. The auto collided with the horses causing them to turn and the shock precipitated many of the boxes onto the road. The consequent clatter and collision caused the horses to run away. Mr. Arabanis, who was driving, stuck to his post for about 50 yards when he was either thrown or fell from his seat, receiving several bruises and cuts in the head. Passersby gave him assistance until Dr. Wayland, who had been summoned, arrived, and the sufferer was removed to his home. The auto was badly damaged by the collision..."

"The runaway team continued to this city, collided with a wagon on Bridge street and ended its mad race on Second street opposite Stoesser's alley, where they struck two buggies, damaging both slightly. One of the horses received a bad cut on the shoulder and was taken to the veterinary hospital."

On tomorrow night he will speak in Santa Cruz, on Friday night he speaks at Corralitos and on Saturday night he will be heard in Boulder Creek. Soquel, Aptos and Watsonville have already been visited by Mr. Smith. George is working hard for the office and is confident that he will be elected on November third."

EP; 15 Oct 1914; article: "Local Candidate...is Given Ovation at Santa Cruz. Attorney George W. Smith... addressed a packed house in Knight's Opera House at Santa Cruz and the greeting that he received from the big audience rivaled the welcome he received here in Watsonville...on the night before the primary election. Not only did the audience tender him a thunderous ovation when he was introduced to speak last night but it cheered and applauded him every few minutes during his speech and at the conclusion of his talk three cheers were given by the crowd and dozens rushed to the platform to shake his hand. It was a cordial reception throughout for the local candidate and showed conclusively the high esteem in which he is held by the county seat people.

"Attorney John H. Leonard, candidate for the nomination for the district attorneyship before the primaries, acted as chairman and after paying a tribute to Mr. Smith's integrity and ability he urged all those that had voted for him (Leonard) at the primaries to vote on November 3d for Mr. Smith. When Mr. Smith arose to speak the applause was so great that he was forced to delay his speech until the din, which lasted nearly two minutes, had subsided. His address was delivered in a forceful manner and was one of the best talks Mr. Smith has yet delivered. He was in fine form and as he spoke of his ability for the office, of the slanderous statements that had been circulated against him, of the record of his opponent and when he said that he would go into the office with clean hands and would give all a square deal the audience applauded him vociferously, his speech being interrupted over a dozen times by big applause.

"He said three charges had been laid at his door, one being that he was a Roman Catholic, another being that he was a member of the Knights of Columbus and the third that he was attorney for the Royal Arch. He pleaded guilty to the first two charges and said that all men and women have a right to believe in whatever religious principles they desired so long as these beliefs were not detrimental to the common welfare. He read the patriotic oath of the Knights of Columbus, which bound the members of that order to uphold and preserve only the highest ideals, and said he was not ashamed to stand for these ideals.

In answering the third charge he denied that he had ever had any official connection with the Royal Arch or that he represented that organization now. In this connection he stated that he had represented some 156 citizens last year, whose right to vote had been challenged by the 'drys' but had not been employed by the Royal Arch or the saloons in this case. The only other saloon case he was connected with was to draft the present stringent gambling ordinance of this city. And speaking of the question of 'wet' or 'dry' Mr. Smith called attention to the fact that his opponent, who is seeking the endorsement of the 'drys' was the secretary and right hand man at the last legislature for Assemblyman Bowman, the most bitter and able antagonist that the 'drys' had in the legislature at that time.

"After the meeting the crowd surged toward the platform and friends and strangers alike sought to shake him by the hand and promise their support. One of those to shake him by the hand and compliment him upon his speech was H. S. Turner, editor of the World Issue, the Socialist paper that Mr. Smith attacked for its slanderous statements made against him..."

EP; 16 Oct 1914; item: "N. Lucich vs. Rilovich Co. et al.—Order for sale of attached property consisting of apples in Watsonville."

EP; 16 Oct 1914; editorial: "For nearly two months past Mr. George W. Smith...has been making statements to the public relative to the character of his opponent, Mr. E. C. Kramer, charging Mr. Kramer with fraud in the Schwan estate and with being not consistent on the 'wet' and 'dry' issue. In all these two months or more Mr. Smith has appeared publicly before large crowds with the records and has challenged Mr. Kramer to deny or answer his assertions yet Mr. Kramer has so far not seen fit to come to the front with any explanations.

"The charges are grave, especially in the instance of the Schwan case, and if Mr. Kramer expects the people of this county to support him as he is asking them to it is only fair that he explain about these matters..."

"Last night's Santa Cruz News published the following, in its account of Mr. Smith's meeting at Santa Cruz on Wednesday evening:

"Mr. Smith declared that he never would have taken the platform but that he was assailed at the 11th hour of the primary campaign and he could not remain silent. Before an audience of 1500 people he had spoken in Watsonville as he spoke now. He had challenged his opponent, Mr. Kramer, to meet him on the public platform. He had invited him to a seat on the platform on this occasion and to answer the questions he would put.

"If he cannot come before me in public and discuss matters with me," said Mr. Smith, "what show will he have if, as district attorney, he is obliged to meet me in debate in a criminal case before a jury of twelve men?"

"Mr. Smith said he had as much as he could do with his practice and that the records of the superior court would show that he had got a verdict from 85 to 95 per cent of the cases.

"He said a man's public record is the proper subject for review—especially when that man aspires to public office. He then presented a draft showing all the cases in which E. C. Kramer had appeared with the disposition made of each. He recited in detail the story of Kramer's connection with the estate of Jacob Schwan in November, 1911. He asserted and presented court records to prove that in that estate Kramer, after accepting a $250 fee in advance from the decedent for his services as attorney for executor, had presented a further bill for $748. This and a like claim for $748 from the executor, E. Klawiter, was allowed by the court but both were obliged to return it to the estate upon order of the court upon the testimony of the widow that the original $250 to Kramer and $250 to Klawiter was in full payment for their services.

"Mr. Smith asserted that three years have passed without an answer by Kramer as to the irregularity of his action. He understands that now Kramer has obtained a statement from the aged widow exonerating him but he had no defense to make when the court ordered him to return the money.

"We would like to have an explanation from Mr. Kramer and if the charges made against him are not true then it is his duty to smash them once and for all. Speak up, Mr. Kramer, let us hear your answer."

This, he urged as a good amendment and should be carried.

"Mr. Smith skimmed rapidly over some of the unimportant amendments, giving them but a cursory review, but on the important propositions he dwelt more at length. He fully discussed such important questions as the red-light abatement act, the eight hour law, the 'wet' and 'dry' question, non-sale of game, abolition of capital punishment, abolition of the poll tax, qualifications of voters at bond elections, water commission act and many others.

"Mr. Smith was heard with rapt attention by the audience and his talk was much appreciated by the club. His remarks were non-partisan and free from bias and in the short time that he talked he told the ladies more about the amendments on the ballot than they could learn by reading up on the propositions from now until election day. The club was fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Smith after the regular speaker, Mr. Keane, had been detained in San Francisco..."

EP; 19 Oct 1914; item: "MARION CHURICH IS SHOT DURING RIOT. As the result of a riot in the Roma Hotel at First and Main streets last Saturday night...Marion Church is lying in the Watsonville Hospital with a revolver bullet in his right lung and Peter Jovanovich is in the the city prison charged with doing the shooting. Although it was thought yesterday that Church would die yet there is a marked improvement in his condition today and his chances of recovery are excellent.

"A number of important eye witnesses have been secured by the police, among them being Eli Kristo, John Yonyich, Steve Bello and Martin Vuletich. Jovanovich, the accused assailant, and a man named Mike Peeper, who was at first thought to be an accomplice but who will be released today, were arrested after the affray by Chief of Police Whitsitt and Officers Whalen and Zimmer and locked in the city prison. Today Peeper was released for beyond being a prominent agitator in the dispute that led up to the shooting[,] he was not responsible for the shooting that followed. Joe Vlatkovich was also arrested and is being held.

"Church was not engaged in the dispute nor did he take any hand in the fighting, having been sitting peacefully in a chair in the barroom of the hotel. The presumption of the police is that Jovanovich intended to kill Vuletich, who was a stranger to the prisoner. The gun used by Jovanovich has not yet been found but it was a revolver of a small calibre, the police believing that it was not larger than a 32. The testimony of the various witnesses was not only hard to get but was at first conflicting but out of the maze of evidence the police believe they have the truth of the matter from Eli Kristo, who seems to be the most important witness of the affair and who was located late yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Trafton on the Martin ranch in the Amesti district.

"According to Kristo, he entered the Roma Hotel about 8:30, and immediately went to a table in one corner of the bar-room and began to read a newspaper. He noted, on his entry, that a man named Martin Vuletich was having a heated discussion with three Montenegrins, who were standing with him at the center of the bar. Vuletich stating loudly that his brother had been cheated out of $300 by a Montenegrin in Oregon, and that none of the race were any good. The three Montenegrins and a Herzegovac then jumped Vuletich and began to pummel him. Glasses and chairs then began to fly, Kristo arose and was immediately attacked by a Montenegrin of huge proportions and was compelled to place a chair in front of himself in self defense. Pete Jovanovich, who is in custody charged with the offense and who was standing in the center of the room, turned and drew a revolver and fired, the shot striking Church, who was sitting in a chair and a non-combatant. After firing the shot, and with the revolver still in his hand, Jovanovich rushed into the dining room, adjoining the bar, and returned forthwith into the bar-room with the gun in his hand. Kristo then beat a hurried retreat. Kristo's story is borne out by John Yonyich and two other witnesses. All are positive that Jovanovich fired the shot. Jovanovich wore a white sweater at the time, and this distinguishing mark makes the identification certain.

"It may not be amiss to make a brief explanation of the various nationalities that go to make up the Slavonian colony here.

"There are practically three races residing here in numbers, viz: Dalmatians, subjects of Austria-Hungary, and Servians and Montenegrins. The Slavic tongue is spoken by all three, yet there is as much difference between them as there is between night and day. For many years here in the Pajaro Valley, and in fact up to a few years ago, we had but the Dalmatians, and it used to be the proud boast of these people, when they were here exclusively that not one of their people was ever accused of an offense greater than a misdemeanor, and prompt payment of their financial obligations was their marked characteristic. The Dalmatians have always stood for law and order in this community and greatly deprecate the affair of Saturday and are rendering to the officials every assistance possible to see that justice is done.

"In the prosecution of the case the sheriff and district attorney will have the assistance of Attorney Geo. W.

Smith, whose knowledge of the language and traits of the people involved is most thorough.

"No charge has yet been filed against Jovanovich, the district attorney's office awaiting definite news as to the condition of Church. If Church dies the prisoner will be charged with murder but if he lives a charge of attempted murder will be lodged against Jovanovich. Church has only been here a few weeks and has been in this country about six years. He has a wife in Austria and is aged 30 years. He has a brother, Steve Church, in this city."

EP; 20 Oct 1914; item: "No new evidence has been discovered in relation to the affray at the Roma Hotel on Saturday night when Marion Church was shot, a man named Martin Vulech, who started the fight, having left town and his whereabouts being unknown and Joe Vlatovich, the alleged gun man, having been removed to the county jail. It is learned that a mistake was made yesterday in names, the prisoner accused of the shooting being Vlatovich and not Joncovich as was at first stated. Vlatovich denies that he fired the shot, stating to the officers that he never had a revolver and that he knows nothing of the shooting. In the meantime Church, the wounded man, is resting easily at the hospital and will recover."

EP; 21 Oct 1914; item: "At E. C. Kramer's Soquel meeting Friday night he intimated sharp legal practice on the part of his opponent, George W. Smith, for the office of district attorney and said: 'If you desire to learn Mr. Smith's record go to Watsonville and ask the people who know.' In the primary election there were 1640 votes cast in Watsonville, of which Mr. Smith received 948. Mr. Smith's vote was about 300 votes more than all the rest of his opponents combined. This must show that the people of Watsonville do know Mr. Smith's record."

Mr. Steglich has taken the location formerly occupied by the Mansion House barber shop in the old Lettunich building and will open and conduct a modern, up-to-date shoe repairing shop. Mr. Novacich has taken the store immediately to the right of the place leased by Mr. Steglich and will open a cigar and tobacco store therein. Mr. Steglich and Mr. Novacich are both well known here, Mr. Steglich having been in business in this city up to a few months ago and Mr. Novacich being also a resident of this city for many years. Both will have neat, first-class stores that will be a credit to the community.

"Only one storeroom remains unrented in all the Lettunich buildings, this being the store just to the right of the new Lettunich building lobby. Negotiations are under way for this location and a lease will probably be signed in a few days. The offices in the new Lettunich block will be ready for occupancy on November 1st and there is quite a lively demand for rooms in the new building."

EP; 24 Oct 1914; article: "Attorney E. C. Kramer, candidate for district attorney, was in town this afternoon, and made this office a call. We called his attention to the charges made against him in regard to his connection with the Jacob Schwan estate, and asked him for a reply or explanation. He said he would fully answer all the charges made against him in his speech to be delivered on next Saturday afternoon...from the bandstand of the Plaza; that he preferred not to say anything just now, but invited every voter in the valley to hear his answer; that there were many things he desired to discuss; many things he desired to refute, and he proposed to answer them once and for all on next Saturday.

"We were disappointed with the result of our interview. We hoped to get his reply to the charges made against him by Mr. Smith, and had invited him to use, free of charge, our columns for his explanation. Accordingly we hope Mr. Kramer will be greeted by a large audience, and that his explanation of his connection with the Schwan estate will be full and satisfactory. We have refrained, hitherto, from entering upon a discussion of these charges, as we hold that when a man's honor is attacked, he should have the first chance at a denial or explanation."

EP; 24 Oct 1914; item: "ENDORSES GEORGE W. SMITH'S CANDIDACY. Judge-elect J. A. Bardin of Monterey county, who is recognized as one of the foremost lawyers in this section of the State, addressed the following letter to George W. Smith, candidate for the district attorneyship of this county:

"Salinas City, Cal., Oct. 1, 1914. Mr. George W. Smith, Watsonville, Calif.

"My Dear George: Your very large vote at the recent primaries was a fine tribute to your personal popularity, and I regret with numerous others of your friends here that you were not elected then, so that you would be relieved from the trouble and expense of further campaigning. But with so many in the primary race that could not be expected.

"I am delighted to hear from many separate sources that your election is practically a certainty; at least that is the way the matter has been represented to me.

"You may recall that I have always urged you to prepare for the office of district attorney of your county, for it seemed to me that your talent eminently fitted you for that kind of a position.

"The duties of the prosecutor require one possessing great vigor, industry and enthusiasm; and no one who knows you can withhold from you the proper credit for those qualities.

"Trusting that Santa Cruz county will be sufficiently awake to its present opportunity and will elect you at the approaching general election, I am with warm regards and best wishes, Yours very sincerely, J. A. BARDIN."

EP; 26 Oct 1914; article: "LETTUNICH BLOCK NOW COMPLETED. M. N. and Mateo Lettunich are announcing today the completion of their new office building. These gentlemen invite the people of Watsonville and the Pajaro valley to inspect the building on Saturday, October 31st, when the doors will be thrown open to the public and the elevator kept running all day and evening. The lights will be turned on from the sidewalk to the cornice and the building will present a beautiful appearance, the illumination to be not only out of the ordinary but an illumination scheme that is not equaled in this section of the State.

"The Messrs. Lettunich have shown their faith and confidence in the prosperity and future success of the community by erecting their new building, which is one of the most modern and up-to-date business blocks in the State. They have gone to an enormous expense in a year that has not been classed as a prosperous one for this or any other section of California and they deserve the highest credit and praise for their endeavor. The new building has been an incentive to other individuals in the community and has resulted in a building boom in this city. The Lettunich block has acted as a stimulus to business and capital in the community and it is up to the citizens of the valley to show their appreciation.

"Watsonville has as modern buildings as will be found in any city in the State and the citizens here have a just right to feel proud of business blocks such as the new Lettunich building. A number of prospective tenants are contemplating moving into the new building this week so as to be moved in before the 1st."

EP; 31 Oct 1914; article: "SMITH RECEIVES A FINE ENDORSEMENT. Attorney George W. Smith...was the recipient of a two column endorsement from the Santa Cruz News in last night's issue, the editorial urging the voters of the county to vote for Mr. Smith being a warm endorsement of his candidacy. Mr. Smith is to be congratulated upon securing the editorial endorsement of an independent paper such as the News, which has a strong influence in this county and which ranks high as a straight, honest newspaper and yet Mr. Smith is deserving of just such endorsement for he is a hard working, ambitious young man, whose many friends all over the county are vitally interested in his fight for the office he seeks.—Ed. Pajaronian."

EP; 31 Oct 1914; article: "A dispatch from Santa Cruz to the Pajaronian this morning states that at last night's meeting in the county seat addressed by E. C. Kramer, Smith's opponent, there was considerable excitement. Mr. Kramer stated from the platform that the Santa Cruz News, which had editorially endorsed Mr. Smith yesterday afternoon, had been bought by Mr. Smith and his friends. H. R. Judah, editor of the News, was present and he leapt to his feet declaring: 'You lie!' and demanded a retraction and apology from Mr. Kramer. Those near Mr.

Judah applauded his fiery declaration but Mr. Kramer did not retract or deny and continued to speak. Mr. Kramer said that a great deal of money was being spent to elect Mr. Smith and he insinuated that the News had been bought. It was reported, by the way, that Mr. Kramer made the declaration at Soquel a few nights ago, insinuating that the Pajaronian was controlled by Mr. Smith. When asked regarding this statement accredited to him Mr. Kramer flatly denied the same..."

"Last Saturday night Mr. Smith addressed two meetings, one...at Santa Cruz and [another]...at Aptos...At [the] Santa Cruz [meeting] Mr. J. H. Leonard read a statement from Mrs. Elizabeth Schwan, in which she repudiated the alleged exoneration secured from her by E. C. Kramer..."

"At Aptos Mr. Smith told of the attacks that had been made upon him and said that if he should be elected he would take the oath of office under no obligations to anyone, he had no strings on him and would rigidly enforce the laws in an honest and fearless manner. He called attention to the Schwan estate and stated that Mr. Kramer had not paid the $1400 or so that he illegally took until he was forced to pay by the superior court. He said that he had been vilified from one end of the county to the other by Mr. Kramer and his associates and he made an eloquent and spirited address that evoked great applause..."

EP; 2 Nov 1914; article: "The Santa Cruz News (Saturday evening's issue) replies, spiritedly, to Kramer's charge (made Friday night at Santa Cruz) that Geo. Smith controlled the editorial column of the News; republishes a facsimile of the News showing how the Klawiter-Kramer-Schwan matter was treated by it when it occurred in 1911, and amongst other things says:

"In his political speech at the big tent last night E. C. Kramer...said that as soon as he discovered, during his connection with the Schwan estate matters, that Jacob Schwan had in 1885 deeded his wife all of his real estate, he voluntarily repaid to the estate the fees he had allowed himself as attorney for the executor of the will of the late Mr. Schwan.

"As a matter of fact Mr. Kramer strenuously opposed the repayment of the fees of either Mr. Klawiter or himself back into the estate, as the writer of this article well knows because he sat in the courtroom on the 27th of October, 1911, and actually heard and saw Mr. Kramer in action for several hours vigorously defending his right to keep the money."

EP; 3 Nov 1914; article: "OVATION GIVEN TO GEORGE W. SMITH. Last night was truly a George W. Smith night in this city, an audience that packed the I.O.O.F. hall to suffocation hearing him deliver an impassioned address in his behalf for the office of district attorney...The crowd was not only one that filled the entire capacity of the hall but it was an audience that overflowed into the hall and on the stairway and many others, unable to gain entrance, went home disappointed or stood in the plaza across the street to hear his remarks.

"Dr. S. C. Rodgers presided over the meeting and those seated on the stage were D. F. Maher, W. A. Trafton, H. C. Wyckoff, A. W. Sans, T. J. Horgan, Edward White, George P. Burke, Geo. W. Sill, J. A. Hall, H. P. Kane, R. H. Hudson, John McFarland, J. E. Gardner, Clayton W. Seevers, W. P. Netherton of Santa Cruz and J. H. Leonard of Santa Cruz.

"John H. Leonard was the first speaker of the evening and throughout his speech he was interrupted with applause. His talk was chiefly devoted to a discussion of the Schwan estate, in which he produced in a dramatic manner a stenographic interview with Mrs. Schwan, in which she hoped that Mr. Smith would be elected, in which she repudiated her alleged exoneration of Mr. Kramer...and in which she accused Kramer of bad faith..."

"Mr. W. P. Netherton of Santa Cruz followed and he stated that while he was in his bank at Santa Cruz one day Kramer came to the bank and wanted to draw out quite a sum of money on deposit there in the joint names of the deceased Mr. Schwan and his widow. Netherton told Kramer that the money belonged to Mrs. Schwan and not to the estate and refused to turn over the money. He then accused Kramer of bad faith in securing an order from Judge Smith to turn over the money. Mr. Netherton characterized the Schwan matter as 'rotten from beginning to end' and he denounced Mr. Kramer..."

"When Mr. Smith was introduced as 'the next district attorney of Santa Cruz County' the crowd cheered and applauded him and the ovation that he received was a remarkable testimony of the regard in which he is held here...Mr. Smith delivered an eloquent talk that rang with sincerity and truth and the crowd was with him throughout.

"He answered the charge that he was too young for the office by calling attention to the fact that District Attorney B. K. Knight, who has just been elected superior judge, was but 24 years of age when he was first elected. He referred to the charge that he was not entitled to the name of Smith by saying that these here that knew him knew the untruth of any such statement..."

EP; 5 Nov 1914; article: "Says last evening's Hollister Free Lance:

"Sudden death resulting from heart failure, from which he was a chronic sufferer, overtook John Lubich, apple packer...this morning while at work carrying boxes of apples from the basement of the Muder building, beneath Reno Young's pool room on San Benito street, to the street level above. The exertion, against which he had been warned, proved too much for Lubich's weak heart. He had carried nearly a score of the 40 pound boxes and had set the last one on the ground. He turned to descend the short flight of steps and without warning collapsed upon the top step.

"Bystanders noticed his condition and hurried to the aid of the stricken man. Stimulants were given and medical aid summoned, but the victim was beyond aid. He was unconscious when he sank to the pavement and in a few minutes was dead.

"The dead man had been a resident of Hollister for the last four years, or thereabouts. He has a number of relatives in Watsonville and San Francisco. During the present season Lubich was a partner with Ned Johnson in the business of packing apples.

"According to information received the Pajaro supervisorial district in Monterey county is once more in the 'wet' column, Castroville winning for the 'wets' with Aromas as the strong 'dry' precinct. EP; 7 Nov 1914; article: “Strange What a Difference After the Voters Spoke! George W. Smith is the district attorney of the county of Santa Cruz, and in his election the people have made no mistake. That he possesses ability there is no doubt. From all parts of the county have come testimonials as to his keen legal mind.

“In yesterday’s ‘Sentinel’ he published a letter in which he extended the hand of good fellowship to his opponent and those who labored in his opponent’s behalf, assuring them of the same square deal and fairness that he would accord to the most zealous of his supporters. That letter had the right ring and we believe it comes from the heart.

“George W. Smith has had a hard life, one of struggle for existence, and at the same time the struggle to provide for his mother, the rest of her children, and to secure for himself an education. In the early hours of morning he has swept out the Watsonville station of the S.P. Co., in time past, and throughout the past years he has done much other menial work to provide for himself and family the necessities of life. But during all that struggle he worked incessantly for his own education.

EP; 11 Nov 1914; article: “As the Pajaronian goes to press this afternoon the preliminary hearing of Joe Vlatcovich, who is charged with an assault with intent to commit murder on Marion Churich as a result of the affray in the Roma Hotel here a few weeks ago, is in progress...in the justice court...Luke Scurich is acting as interpreter.

“Owing to the fact that some of the witnesses cannot talk English at all or talk in a broken manner, the hearing is likely to drag through the entire afternoon...John Yonyich, the first witness, was on the stand all during the morning session...being succeeded by Steve Bellah...”

“The story of Yonyich was straight and to the point, he being positive that Vlatcovich fired the shot that resulted in the wounding of Churich. He stated that on the night of the affray he entered the Roma Hotel with Bellah, the intention of the two men being to get a glass of beer each before going home. Shortly after they arrived there a man named Jovanich and a man wearing a red sweater, who is believed to be the missing Vuletich, whom the police cannot locate anywhere, started a fight, the man with the red sweater accusing a brother of Jovanich of swindling him (Vuletech) out of $300 once in Oregon. A fist fight started, in which Yonyich says Vlatcovich joined. According to Yonyich Vlatcovich was getting the worst of the argument and he suddenly backed against the wall, whipped out a revolver and fired. Yonyich was so scared that he ran into another room but he remembers seeing Churich sitting on a chair at one end of the bar and he denied that Churich mixed up in the fight at all. Shortly after the shot had been fired, said Yonyich, he went out upon the sidewalk and there found Churich suffering from the effect of the bullet within him.

“Attorney Burke tried to tangle up Yonyich on cross examination but Yonyich stuck to his original story and refused to be budged. Yonyich denied knowing Vlatcovich, Churich, the red sweater man or Jovanich until after the shooting.”

Churich stated yesterday afternoon that he was not acquainted with the defendant, had not been engaged in the fight that led up to the shooting and was sitting in one corner of the Roma hotel barroom as an innocent spectator when the bullet struck him. EP; 13 Nov 1914; article: “JOSEPH VLATCOVICH HELD TO ANSWER...[A]fter a preliminary examination that had lasted two days Joe Vlatcovich, accused of an attempt to murder Marion Churich as the result of a riot in the Roma Hotel a few weeks ago, was ordered held to answer by Judge Hawkins and in default of $2000 bail was remanded to the custody of Sheriff Trafton. Attorney Burke for the defense made an ineffectual attempt to secure a reduction of the bail or bond but the $2000 was allowed to stand for the present.

“The hearing yesterday was featured by the testimony of Vlatcovich, the defendant, who testified that he did not fire the shot at Churich, that he did not have a gun in his possession at the time of the row and that the fight was started by the mysterious ‘man in the red sweater,’ who throughout the trial has been mentioned prominently. The man has so far eluded the police. Des Jasoni, the proprietor of the Roma, was also on the stand but he did not hear the shot of the revolver. He said about 15 men were engaged in the riot in the barroom.

“Attorney Burke delivered a passionate address for the release of his client, blaming the ‘man in the red sweater’ for the shooting and saying that his client was innocent of the charge...”

“The Vlatcovich case was bitterly fought throughout by Attorney Burke and Seevers, who used every opportunity to turn the tide in favor of their client. The case attracted wide interest and the courtroom was packed almost to the suffocation point each day while the examination was in progress.”

EP; 18 Nov 1914; article: “STABBING AFFRAY...As the result of a quarrel, the cause of which could not be learned, Swetazar Yelich, an employee of L. P. Cikuth, the local fruit packer, last night stabbed and painfully wounded Mike Cherovich in the pit of the stomach after Cherovich had struck Yelich on the back of the neck with a fence picket that he had jerked from a fence nearby. The stabbing affray occurred last night shortly after 10 o’clock near the corner of West Third and Walker streets just across the Southern Pacific tracks and opposite the Depot Saloon. Cherovich is at present confined at the Watsonville Hospital and while the knife wound results in much pain yet the blow delivered by Yelich was a glancing one and the knife did not penetrate far into Cherovich. Yelich is not under arrest.

“The cause of the verbal battle that preceded the stabbing could not be learned by the police although Yelich declared that the fight started when Cherovich said Yelich was ‘stingy.’ One word followed another and finally Cherovich is alleged to have yanked a picket from the fence and struck Yelich on the neck. Yelich, who is a smaller man than Cherovich, realized that he would be no match for his husky opponent in a fist fight so he pulled out of his pocket knife and slashed at Cherovich. When Cherovich felt the knife pierce him he dropped the picket and showed no further signs of battle. The police officers were notified...

“In the meantime Yelich had gone to his sleeping quarters in the Cikuth packing house on West Third and Cherovich had gone to his room in the Railroad Exchange hotel where the officers found him. The wound resulted in much bleeding but was dressed at the hospital and Cherovich made as comfortable as possible. This morning when interviewed by Chief of Police Whitsitt, Officer Corr and Constable Sandberg Yelich told all he knew of the affray, hiding nothing and even producing the knife with which he stabbed his assailant. The picket was later found by the police.

“No charge will be filed against Yelich at present, even Cherovich not signifying any intention of prosecuting the young man. The police officers are of the opinion that Yelich resorted to the knife in self defense and they will therefore await developments.”

“Later—Cherovich was released from the hospital before noon today and announced at the time that he would swear out a warrant for the arrest of Yelich. At press time no warrant had been issued in the local courts and the police have not been ordered to arrest Yelich.”

EP; 23 Nov 1914; article: “STABBING AFFRAY NEAR THE DEPOT. Cetko Vuricovich is in the city jail charged with assault with a deadly weapon and John Apan is nursing a severe bruise on his right cheek and a painful cut in the top of his head as the result of a fight between the two men last night about 7:30 o’clock on Walker street near Third. While the injuries to Apan are painful yet they are not serious and he is up and about today although he had a narrow escape from death or more serious injury.

“The particulars regarding the affray are meagre and even the police officers are somewhat in the dark concerning the matter. As far as can be learned Apan, who is an Austrian, and Vuricovich, who is a Servian, started an argument on the street in regard to their different races. Just whom the aggressor was cannot be definitely established but Apan claims that Vuricovich attacked him with the knife without cause. The police were called to the scene and Officer John Corr arrested Vuricovich after Apan had appeared before Judge Hawkins and sworn out a complaint charging the prisoner with assault with a deadly weapon.

“Bail was fixed in the sum of $500 but so far the friends of the prisoner have been unable to raise that amount and Vuricovich may have to go to the county jail today to await his trial. The knife, with which the prisoner is alleged to have committed the stabbing, has not yet been found.

“The cut in Apan’s head is about two inches long but is not a deep cut. The knife was thrust through Apan’s hat by his alleged assailant and while the cut caused profuse bleeding yet it was not a serious wound. The bruise on his right cheek is believed to have been caused by Apan’s striking some hard substance when he fell to the ground in the scuffle.”

The trial of Vlatcovich, charged with shooting Churich, and who is an Austrian of Protestant faith, started in the superior court yesterday...[Vlatcovich’s lawyers] cautiously questioned the veniemen as to their attitude on the European war and particularly the strife that has been on for years between the Austrians and Servians. It was a miniature outburst of racial feeling that led to the shooting in Watsonville for which Vlatcovich is being tried...Geo. Carstulovich was sworn in as interpreter...Martin Churich, the man who was shot in the row at the Hotel Roma, and the complaining witness, first took the stand and told his story, asserting that Vlatcovich, ‘the man in the white sweater,’ shot him. On cross-examination Attorney Burke tried, through interpreter George Carstulovich, to have the witness state that he told the sheriff and district attorney in the hospital after the accident that he did not know who shot him. ‘I do remember that it was he who shot me,’ said Churich in answer to a direct question on the point, indicating Vlatcovich.”

On his direct examination Yanich definitely fixed the crime on Vlatcovich as to firing the shot.

“‘I didn’t know who he aimed at[,]’ said the witness.

“Yesterday afternoon Eli Kristo was sworn and also stated that he saw Vlatcovich fire...”

“‘Didn’t you say,’ said the attorney, ‘to a barber on Main street, after the shooting, ‘G—d— those Servians and Montenegrins. We whipped them tonight good and we’ll fix them the next time we catch them?’

“‘Didn’t you say,’ persisted Burke, ‘that “when that fellow gets out of jail that you’d find him and fix him?”’

“Again the vehement denial from Yanich.

“It become known today that efforts to find Martin Vuletich, one of the disturbers on the night at the Roma hotel and said to know a great deal about the whole affair, had been unavailing. Vuletich disappeared the day after the shooting from Watsonville, and has not been heard from.”

EP; 5 Dec 1914; article: "We clip the following from the Santa Cruz Sentinel and Surf:

"Joseph Vlatcovich was freed by the jury in the superior court...yesterday afternoon...after the man had been on trial for three days...

"Vlatcovich, who does not speak English, was happy at the verdict and shook each jurymen by the hand. The jury was out about 15 minutes when the verdict was reached...

"Vlatcovich was on the stand in the morning and denied in his testimony all the allegations. He said he didn't have a gun nor did he ever own one. He said they all pitched on him and that nobody ever hurt him nor had he ever hurt anybody.

"Robert Neal, who conducts an auto service, said he heard a shot and then saw a bunch of fellows pile out of the hotel, coming out with chairs, etc., and saw a fellow with a red sweater (Vlatcovich had on a white sweater) with a gun.

"Nick Radovich, a barber, testified that as J. Janich passed the barber shop he heard him saying 'G—d—those Servians. We wiped them out, and if the fellows get out of jail we will give it to them.'

"George Decklich [Diklich], who had arrived the day of the trouble from San Luis Obispo, said he saw Martin Vutelich strike Pete Janovich; the latter ducked from him and Decklich got hit...

"One of the questions asked of the witnesses was in reference to their nationality, as there were Austrians, Servians and Montenegrins present.

"C. Charovich testified that he was a cook in the Morning Star restaurant, across the street from the Roma hotel, and went back of the restaurant to a rear room and then outside, where he recognized Eli Christo, waiting to wash his face, which was covered with blood. He knew Vlatcovich, whom he had met two weeks before...

"The testimony was very conflicting and showed racial prejudice throughout, as there were Servians, Austrians and Montenegrins. It could not be determined definitely that Vlatcovich was the man who fired the shot."

“In speaking of his trip Attorney Smith...said that there were 550 cars in storage in Los Angeles from the Pajaro Valley and that the apples were bringing 70 cents at Los Angeles for first-class stock, which nets 40 cents in Watsonville. William Pulisevich has control of 400 of the 550 cars and he advises the people to hold the stock that keeps. Some of the stock has developed fungus, says Mr. Smith, and he saw considerable of the fruit from this valley on exhibition. The condition of the fruit on exhibition was very poor in some places, some being in an advanced state of decay. Mr. Smith stated that the red apples were cutting into the Bellefleurs somewhat, but not to any appreciable extent, as Los Angeles is almost an exclusive Bellefleur market.

“According to Mr. Smith the shippers should keep in close touch with the condition of their fruit in storage...

EP; 21 Dec 1914; article: “...[T]hree well known local Austrians, Paul Alaga, Nick Lamat and Andy Dragich, armed with guns and game bags, sallied forth to invade the Elkhorn slough for ducks. In less than two hours each had killed the limit and they brought back ducks galore to show that they knew how to hunt. All three had a bet as to which one of the hunters would first get the limit. Dragich won the money but the other two were close behind him, Alaga beating Lamat by a few minutes. They report that duck hunting is excellent on the Elkhorn, and since the three Austrians have shown so much class with a gun it is no wonder that Austria has held out so long against Russia in Europe in the present war. If every Austrian in the army could shoot like the three local men there would be few Russians left.”

"Twenty-five applications for retail liquor licenses in this city were unanimously granted Saturday night by the board of aldermen in adjourned session but seven other applicants must face charges tomorrow...with the possibility that some or all will eventually be denied the right to sell liquors in this community..."

"Chief of Police Sylvester Whitsitt was the author of the next two written objections, which were against B. Guirich [Gurich] of the Depot Saloon on West Third street across the railroad tracks and George Strazicich at the Railroad Exchange Hotel on Walker St. In both cases the objections made by Chief Whitsitt were about the same, namely: that both places were located in sections unsuitable for saloons, that both the proprietors were unfit persons to conduct a saloon business and that both places had violated Ordinance No. 140 by being resorts for prostitutes and disreputable persons and that liquor had been sold to women in both places. The added charges of rioting, disorderly conduct and disturbances of the peace were lodged against the Railroad Exchange as well as another charge that a son of Mr. Strazicich had committed battery upon the person of a customer some months ago and had forfeited $10 bail in the police court after being arrested..."

"When the name of Vukich & Chukovich at the Depot Saloon in the Krough building at Third and Walker streets was read Alderman King stated that he had an objection against that place. He declared that gangs of men were continually standing in front of the saloon on the sidewalk and that the bartenders in the saloon had been accustomed to standing on the walk with men, who had insulted school girls and women that passed. He further stated that neighbors in the vicinity of the saloon had made complaint of the men standing in front of the saloon and of the alleged insults handed out to passersby and Mr. King further declared that not long ago one woman passing by in a buggy had been insulted by one of the men on the walk and that she had threatened to horsewhip her persecutor. This statement caused the Vukich & Chukovich application to be laid aside..."

"Rev. E. B. Hayes of the Presbyterian church arose at this time and said that while personally he had no information against the California Restaurant yet he had heard rumors of sufficient strength to warrant the laying aside of the application for that place. He said it was current rumor on the streets that the California was not conducted properly and that the place was getting to be a joke. He said many young people were going there, that everywhere on the street one could hear rumors of improper conduct at the California and he asked that the California license be held up for investigation..."

"Does not general reputation mean anything in the interpretation of the ordinance,' queried Rev. M. L. Rose of the Christian Church. 'Yes,' answered Sans, 'as to the individual, perhaps, but the general reputation must be sustained by some kind of evidence.' Mr. Rose then went on to say that he had not long been a resident of this city but he had yet to hear anything said about the California Restaurant that would lead a man to take his family there if he thought anything of the reputation of his family. This ended the discussion on the question for the time being as there were apparently no objections against any of the other applicants and the board then proceeded to adopt a resolution granting licenses to all but the seven saloons complained against..."

“Charles H. Wittner next had the floor and he wanted to know why the board was not to investigate the California Restaurant. Mr. Wittner said that it was current rumor on the street that the place was not being properly conducted. He suggested that if the officers could not get the evidence that detectives from outside be secured. Alderman Tuttle at this point stated that some members of the board had tried to secure outside detectives some time ago but could not get them. Tuttle then added that the California was not any worse in his opinion than some of the others although the restaurant had not obeyed the law strictly in regard to the box entrances being opened into the main dining room. He said that none of the boxes opened into the main dining hall. Upon motion of Alderman Osborn, Alderman King seconding, the California was stricken from the list...”

EP; 29 Dec 1914; born: “At Hollister, Dec. 25, 1914, to Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Matulich, a son [daughter].” [Paulina]

EP; 30 Dec 1914; article: “B. Guirich and George Strazicich Lose Their Saloons....[T]he board of aldermen last night denied the saloon applications of B. Guirich on West Third street across the railroad tracks and George Strazicich at the Railroad Exchange Hotel opposite the depot...”

“The case of B. Guirich at the Depot Saloon on West Third street was the first case heard. City Attorney Sans briefly explained the complaint filed by Chief of Police Whitsitt and stated that the saloon was not suitably located for such a purpose, that Guirich was an unfit person to conduct a liquor business and that the saloon was the resort of common prostitutes and disreputable characters. Alice Amaya, a confessed prostitute, being specifically mentioned as one that had had access to the place...”

“Officer John Zimmer was the next witness and he testified that one night in October he had accompanied Officer John Whalen to the Guirich saloon for the purpose of investigating the rumors heard about the place. There they found the Amaya woman in company with a man named Knego in one of the bedrooms of the lodging house portion of the place...”

“Mr. Guirich then appeared in his own behalf. He denied that he personally was acquainted with the Amaya woman, that on the night she was arrested he rented a room to Knego and did not know how the Amaya woman happened to be there, he had never rented a room to the Amaya woman at any time, denied ever selling liquor to women, denied having ever served liquor in the lodging house and throughout denied any wrongdoing of any kind.

“The affidavit of the Amaya woman was then admitted in evidence, Attorney Gardner strenuously objecting to the document. The affidavit related that the Amaya woman had rented a room from Guirich on the night she was arrested, had rented a room there before, both times for only three hours, and that she had been invited to the place by Guirich. Guirich then denied that he had rented the room to the woman or had asked her to visit the place.

“In response to Alderman Callaghan’s question as to boys having been seen in the backyard Guirich said there had been no boys there to his knowledge. Alderman King was then sworn and he stated that he had seen boys coming out of the saloon with schoolbooks under their arm. Lee Groves of the Beach road was the next to testify and he stated that a gang of saloon habitués had frequently followed and insulted women and school girls that passed. Attorney Gardner declared that the insults passed out to women by saloon hangers-on on Walker street were no worse than those passed out by men standing in front of so called respectable saloons on Main street. This evoked applause from the audience...”

“A vote was then taken on the license, all but Alderman Freiermuth voting to deny Guirich the right to sell liquor. Mr. Freiermuth gave it as his opinion that there was not sufficient evidence to cause Guirich’s license to be denied.

“The application of George Strazicich was next. George Strazicich was the first witness and he denied knowing Bobby Lisle, whose affidavit was filed later in the hearing. He denied serving booze to anyone in the parlor, said that women of questionable character had never been in his house to his knowledge and did not know of any past trouble at the saloon. In short, Mr. Strazicich denied all the charges made against his place.

“Officer John Corr was next but he had only told some young men one time to quit making so much noise in the saloon. The affidavit of Bobby Lisle was then filed, which was to the effect that she admitted she was a common prostitute and that she had been served liquor in the parlor of the hotel with the knowledge of the proprietor.

“George Strazicich, Jr., was next to testify and he denied knowing Bobby Lisle, denied that she had ever been in the Railroad Exchange and denied that women had been served with booze in the parlors except friends or relatives of the Strazicich family. Lee Groves then testified that one time about a year ago he had been in the parlors of the hotel upon the invitation of a friend of his and had seen young Strazicich serve liquor there to a woman. Chief of Police Whitsitt said that he had heard many bad complaints about the Railroad Exchange.

“Rev. E. B. Hayes was then sworn and he testified that some time ago a stranger in town had visited him and told how the night before he had rented a room at the Railroad Exchange and had been so bothered while there a short time with invitations from women of questionable character that he had left the hotel. Attorney Gardner reiterated his objection to the introduction of hearsay evidence but he was overruled.

“Charles H. Wittner was the next witness and he said that those residing in the neighborhood would not allow the women in their families to pass the place at night as the place was noisy, gangs of drunken men were frequently standing out front on the sidewalk and that the place had a bad reputation. A vote was then taken on the matter, all but Freiermuth voting to deny Strazacich his license.

“Attorney Gardner wanted to know why the board had refused licenses to Guirich and Strazacich because of the unsuitable location of their places for saloons and had granted a license without question to another saloon in the same neighborhood. At this time Guirich was walking out of the room and yelled back: ‘Because it belongs to Lettunich,’ this sally creating a big laugh...

“The board then adjourned...The California Hotel and Vukich & Chukovich cases will come up tonight and another lively session can be expected.”

EP; 31 Dec 1914; article: “After hearing evidence pro and con on four applications for retail liquor licenses in this city the board of alderman...granted licenses to the California Restaurant...and Vukich & Chukovich at the corner of West Third and Walker streets. The feature of the meeting was the fact that the expected sensational evidence that was expected to be given against some of the places, the California Restaurant particularly, did not develop...

“At the outset, Attorney J. R. Gardner, who represented the California Restaurant...and Vukich & Chukovich, wanted to know whether hearsay evidence would be allowed as on the previous night. He stated that hearsay evidence was not the proper kind of evidence and called attention to information that he alleged he had received to the effect that the man mentioned by Rev. E. B. Hays as having reported being annoyed by women of questionable character at the Railroad Exchange had tried to blackmail George Strazicich, the proprietor, to the amount of $77. He therefore asked that the board confine itself to definite evidence and not to give credence to hearsay testimony. Upon the motion of Alderman Tuttle, Freiermuth seconding, the board took a vote on whether or not hearsay evidence should be barred. Aldermen Freiermuth, Kane, Sager and Tuttle voted to exclude all but direct evidence while Aldermen Callaghan, King, Osborn and Uren voted to allow the introduction of hearsay evidence. The vote being a tie Mayor Trafton voted to confine the hearing to direct evidence.

“The case of the California Restaurant was the first on the calendar. City Attorney Sans stated that he had no witnesses against the place, there was no complaint on file and that the application had merely been laid aside for investigation. George Hrepich, the proprietor of the California, testified first. He said he had been in business there five years and that he had always obeyed the law. He denied having ever sold liquor to minors and denied that he had ever sold liquor over the bar in the restaurant...

“A vote was then taken on the granting of the license...All voted in favor of granting the license with the exception of...King...

“The last case heard was that of Vukich & Chukovich in the Del Monte saloon at Third and Walker streets. Constable-elect Arthur Devine first testified and said that the saloon was properly conducted in his opinion, Devine being a neighbor in that vicinity. Antone Vukich, one of the proprietors, was next to testify and he said that there had never been any disturbances in his saloon, that the police had never been called to his saloon and that he had never heard complaints of his business. When his attention was called by Alderman King to the fact that gangs of men obstruct the sidewalk in front of the saloon Vukich admitted that there had been men there at various times and he had even tried to keep them away but had been told that it was none of his business...

“W. E. Thompson, who resides on the Beach road, testified that the sidewalk in front of the saloon was continually blocked and that his daughters had been accosted and followed several times by some of the men standing on the sidewalk. He said he felt a bit timid himself about passing that neighborhood at night.

“Alderman King said complaints had been heard from the Aptos school children, who have occasion to pass the saloon to and from the train each day. Lee Groves of the Beach road section said that the corner of Third and Walker was always crowded with men and he had seen rowdiness on the corner at various times. He had heard remarks passed to girls that were not pleasant and that his daughters had been followed on several occasions by the men...

tion in the packing house district. He said that there was valuable property there, that the owners of buildings in that section paid high insurance rates, that they paid a large portion of the city taxes and that there had been more fires in that section than in any other part of the city. He believed that the property owners in that section deserved police protection and he advocated that one or two more patrolmen be added to the force. His attitude was upheld by L. P. Cikuth, F. P. Krough and J. Vuisich, who were present. Mr. Vukich promised the mayor that hereafter he would personally see that the crowds were kept off his corner and a vote was taken on the motion to grant the Del Monte its license. All but King and Osborn voted in favor of the license, these two both stating that they did not believe it was public policy to have a saloon on the corner. A resolution was then passed granting licenses to all four of the persons, whose applications had been held up. The board then took up the matter of adding more policemen to the force for the purpose of protecting the packing house section..."

Mr. Kelly stated that Mr. Strazicich had lived here many years, he owned the property occupied by his hotel and saloon on Walker street, he had paid taxes here for years and he had outstanding obligations to the amount of $10,000. Mr. Kelly felt that the losing of the license was a hard blow to Mr. Strazicich. Kelly suggested that if the board would reconsider its previous action that the license would be applied for by Nicholas Strazicich, the son of the former owner, who being present at the meeting then addressed the board in his own behalf.

"The board was of the opinion that a reconsideration of a matter considered closed and dead would not be legal and City Attorney Sans was of the same opinion. Attorney Kelly attempted to argue the question and suggested that if a postponement of the matter was taken he could prove the legality of reconsidering the canceled license. But the board was still of the opinion that it would not be legal or right to reconsider its previous action so the appeal of Mr. Strazicich was not considered..."

"A communication was read from Antone Scurich asking for the chemical analysis of the water in his well in the Beach section. As no chemical report had as yet been received even by the city he was informed that it was impossible to give him what he asked for.

EP; 19 Jan 1915; item: "BOOST FOR GEORGE. Santa Cruz county's new district attorney, George W. Smith, is engaged in cleaning up his territory. He is prosecuting lottery joints, gambling houses of all sorts and purposes putting a number of unclean saloons out of business. In addition to doing this sort of work it is related that his advice to the Board of Supervisors is of such a superior character that the county will save a lot of money. The opposition to Smith was that he was 'frivolous.' In the light of the happenings it looks as if that expression should have applied to the opposition.—Oakland Tribune."

EP; 20 Jan 1915; article: "The improvement of the streets of this city was the main question brought to the attention of the board of aldermen in adjourned session..."

"Alderman King called the board's attention to the fact that his ward had about 15 packing houses, two dryers and one cannery and that Ford, Walker and West Fifth streets were all in bad shape. 'These are all old streets while Lincoln has been just built up. We have been paying taxes,' added King, 'for 40 or 50 years and are entitled to some consideration.'

"Callaghan then remarked that since the Lincoln street property owners had signed a petition it looked as if the rest was up to the board whereupon King called the aldermen's attention to a petition from the West Fifth street owners, which was then read. The signers on West Fifth were Luke Scurich, Mitchell Resetar, Peter Stolich, Nick Stolich, Mrs. H. S. Kucher, C. R. Fay, J. Simunovich, Novacovich & Stolich, George S. Uren, Mary Smith and J. M. Herbert. It was then that the matter was referred to the street committee.

"The question of adding a patrolman to the force to patrol the Walker St. packing house section was another stumbling block for the board, the matter being referred in the end to the ordinance committee and the city attorney..."

The building permits show that from January 1st, 1914 to March 1, 1915, the large sum of $141,300 was expended here in buildings of all kinds as against $66,325 expended in the entire year of 1913.

"The Lettunich Building, the Brewington building and the Appleton Theatre brought up the average and for a city the size of Watsonville to have three such structures erected in a year that was generally regarded as anything but prosperous signifies that this city is not as dull or as dead as it has been reported to be. Twenty-one new residences, ranging in cost from $1000 to $5000 were built last year while 12 permits were issued for remodeling old buildings."

Guirich [Gurich], who formerly conducted the Depot Saloon at West Third and Walker street and whose application for a renewal of his license was denied by the board of aldermen last December, was arrested at his home...on a charge of arson, an indictment having been lodged against Guirich...by the grand jury in session at Santa Cruz. Sheriff H. V. Trafton notified Devine late yesterday to arrest Guirich and Devine took him in charge. Guirich is accused of setting fire to his saloon building on the morning of January 12th.

"Following the arrest of Guirich the prisoner wanted his release on bonds and when his attorney, J. E. Gardner, returned from San Jose, Gardner and Attorney H. C. Wyckoff, associated in the defense of Guirich, secured bonds to the amount of $5000, the bonds being filed...by Luke Scurich and Mateo Lettunich. Sheriff Trafton arrived from Santa Cruz after Devine had arrested Guirich and was prepared to take Guirich back with him but Guirich had been freed on bonds and is expected to appear before Judge Knight in the superior court at Santa Cruz this afternoon.

"Ever since the fire that destroyed the building formerly used by Guirich as a saloon[,] a thorough investigation of the fire has been conducted by District Attorney George W. Smith. Sheriff H. V. Trafton, the fire insurance adjusters and the local police officers have assisted in the investigation. Guirich had his property insured for $3000 and the suspicious circumstances surrounding the case caused the grand jury to take up the matter. A number of local residents were called before the grand jury yesterday afternoon to testify as to the various phases of the case, among the witnesses being City Clerk M. M. Swisher, who testified that Guirich had been denied his license; Fire Chief Lawrence Sandberg, who testified as to the fire; George W. Sill, John Atteridge and O. J. Holohan, with whom Guirich carried his fire insurance; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Radovan, who owned the Depot Saloon property; S. J. Walling, L. P. Cox, J. W. Williamson and Adolph Laporte, who first saw the fire and who rang in the alarm.

"Guirich was interviewed...by a Pajaronian reporter and he stated that he had nothing to say until he could see his attorney. He was on his way to the attorneys when interviewed and admitted that he had received $467.09 insurance from the firm represented by Atteridge and Holohan but had not received the other insurance. He stated that his arrest had been a big surprise to him and was excited and nervous. When arrested by Devine, Guirich almost broke down with nervousness and he seemed to take his arrest as a hard blow."

House...Damaged by Fire. Shortly before 8:30 Saturday evening the fire department responded to an alarm and after a short fight extinguished a blaze in the bunk house owned by P. P. Stolich just in the rear of the packing house owned by Novacovich and Stolich on Walker street, between Kearney and West Fifth. Mr. Stolich estimates the damage to be between $600 and $700, but the loss was covered by insurance. The quick action taken by the local fire department prevented the fire from spreading on to the adjoining packing house. Fire Chief Sandberg directed the firefighting and he as well as the other members of the department present deserve credit for their meritorious work.

"The fire originated in the basement of the house where the men connected with a spraying outfit had stored some gasoline. The men were preparing to go to work Sunday morning and sent one of their number down into the basement to draw the gasoline from a 50 gallon drum into a 5 gallon can. He took a lantern with him and set it close to the drum. While pouring the gasoline the fumes came in contact with the heat given off by the lantern and the gasoline exploded throwing the burning oil on him. His clothes were set on fire and while trying to extinguish the blaze around him with his coat, he was severely burned. The man's name was Steve Milosovich [Miloslavich].

"Mr. Stolich had about 35,000 box labels stored in the basement besides several other things of value, which were a total loss. Part of the front of the house was burned and the basement, where the fire originated, was badly gutted, but the building will be rebuilt. It was very lucky for Mr. Stolich that the blaze did not reach the packing house as he states that he had about 10,000 empty boxes, trucks and other paraphernalia stored away, but the work of the fire department saved this building and they deserve a great deal of praise."

"District Attorney Smith, assisted by Attorney C. W. Seevers, conducted the prosecution..."

"The chief inquiry made of veniremen by counsel for the defense was whether they were now or ever had been connected with the insurance business. A long list of witnesses was read and the fact stated by the clerk of the court that the defendant Gurich had pleaded 'not guilty' to the charge of arson.

"District Attorney Smith outlined in a clear and concise manner the facts of the case and explained to the jury what he proposed to prove.

"He described the building at the corner of Walker and West Third streets, Watsonville, in which the fire occurred and explained the circumstances of the defendant Gurich at that time, mentioning the large amount of fire insurance the defendant carried on the burned building and its contents. [T]he district attorney declared that Gurich had taken out the policies knowing that the structure with its furnace and fittings were owned by Anna Radovan.

"He related statements made by Gurich to insurance agents and others concerning his intentions: also his visit to the Radovan home when he asked Anna Radovan for a renewal of his lease on the building and when this was refused he was very angry. Accounts of their observations of how the fire started in the building occupied by Gurich given by eye-witnesses were cited by the district attorney. He also mentioned the stock of liquors insured by the defendant and declared that the fire started in the liquor room of the building. He explained the plan of the building and stated that L. Sandberg, chief of the Watsonville fire department had inspected the premises after the blaze without finding any trace of liquors among the debris. He related that a party named Lee, a Watsonville second-hand furniture dealer, had offered Gurich $102 for certain furniture, which the latter claimed was worth $1000.

"That the defendant took out insurance to the amount of $3000..."

"That in December last year the defendant petitioned the aldermen of Watsonville for a renewal of his liquor license. That subsequent to the application the aldermen of Watsonville, acting on licenses in that city, passed a resolution denying him a renewal of his license on the grounds that the premises were not a fit place in which to conduct a saloon business.

"That two or three days later the defendant met on the street an insurance man by the name of Atteridge with whom he had business dealings, the agent telling Gurich that he must have some return on his insurance premiums since he was put out of business; that the defendant told him that he intended to keep the place. That the defendant went to the Radovan home to secure a renewal of the lease for the property. That Mrs. Radovan said to him: 'We have had enough trouble with you, Gurich, and you cannot have the place at any price.'

"District Attorney Smith said that he would prove that the fire occurred at 2: 30 o'clock on the morning of January 12. That a farmer who passed the place just a couple of minutes before, saw nothing wrong there, but traveling 300 hundreds yards further along the railroad tracks a great flash attracted his attention and looking back he saw the place on fire, the flames leaping through the roof.

That a man in the Hotel Appleton who went into a bath room saw the flames suddenly leap from the building as if shot out of a gun. The prosecution will also show that the fire started in what was known as the liquor room: that at 9:30 the same morning with Fire Chief Sandberg the district attorney had investigated the premises and the defendant was asked where he kept the liquors he had lost; that the place was designated but no trace of the remains of the bottles could be found.

“The defendant’s vain efforts to persuade Brassey & Co. of San Jose to take back his stock of liquors was related. The sums collected by the defendant from different insurance companies on account of the fire in the building occupied by him were next recounted...The district attorney concluded his address by declaring that he was prepared to show that the building that had been destroyed did not belong to the defendant but to Anna Radovan and that he would also prove that the fire that did the damage was not due to accident but was caused by the deliberate act of the defendant, Gurich...”

“Owing to the numerous witnesses to be examined and the fact that the services of an interpreter will be needed in some instances, the case will, it is expected, last for several days.”

“Santa Cruz, May 12, 1 p.m.—After the roll of the jury had been called at the opening of the Gurich trial, in the superior court, this morning, Attorney J. E. Gardner, on behalf of the defendant, asked the court to exclude all witnesses until called to testify.

“The witnesses were then sworn and instructed to remain outside the courtroom until called.

“The first witness called by the district attorney was Anna Radovan, who testified that she lived with her husband, Frank Radovan, on Walker St., Watsonville. Witness identified deed to the building alleged to have been set on fire, the deed being from Frank Radovan to Anna Radovan and dated Sept. 25, 1914...”

“Mrs. Radovan denied having sold or deeded said property to anyone. Said she was slightly acquainted with defendant. She testified she was in her home on Walker St., Watsonville, at the time of the fire, January 12th, 1915. Hearing the fire bell she rushed out and saw the fire in the quarter of her hotel building, corner Walker and Third streets, occupied by defendant, Gurich; said Gurich had occupied premises about two years, and ran a saloon and lodging house there.

“Frank Radovan and Fire Chief Sandberg were the next witnesses called.”

He had no lease of the premises...”

“Frank Radovan, husband of the preceding witness then took the stand and testified in reply to District Attorney Smith that he had lived in Watsonville 15 years, and resided on Walker street. He had known the defendant Gurich since the latter came to Watsonville about a year and a half ago, when he came to him to get the saloon at Walker and West Third streets in that city...”

“Witness Radovan went on and stated that the morning the fire occurred, he was in bed in his home on Walker Street. He was awakened and told of the fire by his wife and went to the burning building and tore down the fence there. He saw fire in the center of the building burning straight up and noticed the roof was on fire. He stated that Gurich went into the saloon and hotel business about a year ago...”

EP; 14 May 1915; article: “THE GURICH ARSON TRIAL...Santa Cruz, May 13, 3:30 p.m.—Several witnesses contributed their evidence in the Gurich arson case in the superior court today...”

“On the opening of today’s session of the superior court, District Attorney Smith offered in evidence the application made by the defendant Gurich for a retail liquor license for the building at 207 W. 3rd St., Watsonville, which was refused by the board of aldermen on the ground that the location was unsuitable for a saloon...

"L. F. Abadie, employee of Brassy & Co., liquor dealers of San Jose, testified he was acquainted with defendant, who had conducted a restaurant in San Jose for four or five years before going to Watsonville. Defendant came to Brassy & Co.'s place of business last December, told witness he had lost his liquor license and asked him to take back liquor sold to him by the firm. This request being refused defendant asked witness to store his stock of liquor for him, which was granted..."

"...Marco Grunich was the first witness called at the afternoon session of the court. In reply to the district attorney he stated he lived at the Strazicich place, was in bed on the morning of the fire, heard a noise and looking out of a window saw fire in Gurich's saloon, went to Gurich's house and knocked three times on the door. Heard no noise in the house until Mrs. Gurich asked who was there. Told her their place was on fire. Mrs. Gurich was crying. Gurich asked where the fire was. Witness answered, 'You are going to be burned up!' Called G. Strazicich up and told him to phone the fire department..."

"Mrs. Frank Radovan was called to the stand during the afternoon to be further cross-examined by the defense and there was some excitement at times, especially when Attorney J. E. Gardner said that the witness was an actress. Mrs. Radovan had been asked regarding her refusal to renew the lease to Gurich and she said she wanted to protect herself and her children. Asked as to ownership of the property, Gardner asked her if there was a deed of trust on the place, and she said that there was..."

"Mrs. Radovan testified that after Gurich lost his license, and before the fire, he came to her and wanted to lease the property for a term of years. She wouldn't lease it to him, and he left in great anger, asking her 'What are you going to do with it, 'mitch' (blow) it up?' Witness said, 'you can't get a license!' Then he took a dollar out of his pocket, held it up, and said: 'This is God: I can buy anything I want with this!' Witness refused to lease the property to Gurich, stating that he was an unfit person to run a business and she had to protect her own and her children's interests, and that he would have to vacate her building on Jan. 17th, adding that he should have taken the $1000 he had been offered for his business. Defendant replied that he had never lost anything and did not intend to do so in this case.

"The witness was somewhat overcome as she said that people were trying to take the roof from over her and her children's heads, and it was then that the term actress was used. Mrs. Radovan called the attorney cold-blooded and stated that he would look at the matter differently if the roof was being taken from over his head, and witness burst into tears..."

"Frank Radovan testified that the defendant occupied the building at West third Walker Sts., about a year and a half...witness stated he knew six languages including Croatian. Said the word 'mitch' in that language meant to destroy by blowing or burning up. Witness denied having any insurance on his personal property that was in the burned building. Had $1000 insurance on that building..."

A bundle of old rope soaked with oil was found burning against a shed. The fire was put out and a search made for tracks or traces of oil leading to the place, but none were found..."

"Charles Scurich (interpreted by L. Pulich) in reply to Attorney Gardner testified he had known defendant six years, and was in his saloon last fall when there was some talk of a fire there about 9:30 p. m..."

"John Ivancovich (interpreted by L. Pulich) examined by the district attorney testified that he was in Gurich's saloon on the occasion the burning rope was found, and gave substantially the same evidence as the preceding witness. Saw defendant in the card room when the alarm of fire was given. Defendant said: 'Who has done this? I will tell the police about it!' But did not do so at that time, so far as witness knew.

"Louis Braycovich, fruit dealer, in reply to Attorney Gardner testified he was present at the fire that destroyed the defendant's saloon, went into kitchen and took stove out, was helped by George Strazicich's son. Saw defendant carrying things out of his premises.

"M. Kolack (interpreted by L. Pulich) in reply to Attorney Gardner, testified he knew defendant. Saw him next morning and helped him to carry his furniture and cooking utensils into his house from the packing house.

"S. Kovacich testified he was at the fire at the Gurich place and saw defendant carrying out stuff. Saw Mrs. Gurich crying on the sidewalk.

"Luke Scurich testified he knew the defendant, whom he met when the latter came to Watsonville. Was present when deal was closed between P. H. Rudebeck and defendant bought latter's business. Saw the stock furniture and fittings of saloon and lodging house, also the bill of sale which Rudebeck brought him to read as defendant could not read. Bill of sale was submitted as evidence.

"Cross examined by district attorney. Said he was one of defendant's bondsman in this case...

"Lucy Gurich, wife of defendant, (through Interpreter Pulich) testified she was present when her husband's saloon was burned on Jan. 12th. Retired to bed about 9 p.m., the previous night in room close to the saloon. Described position of the beds in the room. Her husband went to bed at the same time. The bed was toward Radovan's packing house. Was awakened by knocking and shouting. Her husband got up, raised the window shade toward the saloon and saw the fire. Told her to dress and get out of the house with the boy. Started crying; boy did same, through fright. Dressed and took boy out to sidewalk and stayed there crying. Saw Luke Grunich carrying clock from dining room. Remained outside until about 6 a.m. And then went into the house. Lives now on Kearney St., Watsonville, in a house owned by L. Scurich.

"Cross-examined by district attorney witness testified she was married to defendant in Europe and had lived in San Jose, where defendant had a restaurant about eight years. Her husband was at home all the evening preceding the fire. Nothing was packed up, everything in the house was in its usual condition.

"C. M. Zills, in reply to Attorney Gardner, testified that he had held a promissory note from the Radovans in 1913, also a $4500 mortgage on the premises at West Third and Walker streets held as security for this note.

"Michael Milanivitch testified he knew defendant for eight years, worked for him six months last year as bartender at West Third and Walker streets..."

The defendant has put up $10 bail and it is understood that he will demand a jury trial when his case comes up. The Austrian is alleged to have used obscene language in the presence of ladies and when Devine remonstrated with him he called the constable some dirty names, the row ending when Devine gave the fellow some sharp licks with his club."

EP; 18 May 1915; article: "TRIAL OF B. E. GURICH RESUMED...Santa Cruz, May 18..."

"Defendant testified his name was B. E. Gurich; was an Austrian by birth, and could neither read or write. Had been in the U.S. 23 years. Came to Watsonville June, 1912. Had been in San Jose in restaurant business since 1904. Sold out there in January, 1912, and located at West Third and Walker streets, Watsonville, buying the business from Mr. Rudebeck."

EP; 19 May 1915; article: "THE GURICH ARSON TRIAL. Santa Cruz, May 18, 2:30 p.m.—[The defendant testified he had] paid rent of saloon in advance to either Mr. or Mrs. Radovan, was served by Constable Sandberg with attachment of place. Told Mrs. Radovan place was attached and was told he must pay the rent or vacate. Replied he could not do so now, that the place was attached. Mrs. Radovan said she would close him up and he told her to go ahead and do it...Had held no conversation with Mrs. Radovan since the place was attached. Denied he ever asked Mrs. Radovan to renew his lease; also that he had asked her if she intended to 'mitch' the place off. Paid rent from month to month. Had been promised lease by Radovan, but was always put off when he asked for it...

"John Stojanovich testified he had attended to the electric lights in defendant's saloon and boarding house, wiring was not modern and he had to stop many leaks of juice.

"B. S. Gurich, the defendant...resumed...testifying... Declared he was not hard up at time of fire; had between five and six thousand dollars in bank; owned unmortgaged property in San Jose.

"In reply to district attorney defendant testified he was 23 years in the U. S. and at one time had worked as a gold miner in Amador county. Explained that in the Slavonian language the word 'mitch' meant to touch off like a blasting fuse. Rented Radovan property from June 25th, 1912. Rudebeck, from whom he bought the business told him the stock and furniture all belonged to him, but told him he had no lease. After putting up $500 to bind bargain with Rudebeck was told by the Radovans that they owned the furniture and fittings in the place, was paying rent only on the building. First time he heard Mrs. Radovan owned furniture was from the Insurance Adjuster Riddling. Rent of building was attached by a writ served on defendant 12:10 a.m. Jan. 17th, on behalf of employees of Radovan. N. Boule [G. Baule] wrote cards for shipping stock of liquors to San Jose, which he intended to ship the day the fire occurred. Had given orders to transfer company to move piano and safe at 9 a.m. that day. Denied he had made any plans to leave Watsonville on day of fire. Denied he was dressing boy at time of fire. Denied he had any talk with Hrepich about fire in which he was alleged to have made self-incriminating statements. Denied chief of police had complained about his saloon before he lost his liquor license. Denied he was acquainted with Nicholas Pender. Said house was not wired. Denied he told Pender after losing his license, that he didn't own the building, had the furniture insured and a match would do the rest. Denied Atteridge talked to him about insurance before or after the fire. Admitted that Lee, the junkman, after looking over the place after Jan. 1st, offered him $100 for all the furniture for which he asked $1000; but denied asking Lee to make him a bill of sale at that figure merely to show. Denied all accusations in general and in particular.

"When Attorney Gardner objected to one of the district attorneys questions defendant told him to go ahead. Admitted dwelling house was wired but had no electric connection.

"G. Boule [Baule] identified shipping cards he had written for defendant...

"Nicholas Pender testified, that in conversation with defendant in his saloon last December, latter had declared people in Watsonville were trying to take away his license. Defendant who seemed very angry and excited, said as he only owned the furniture in the building and had that insured, a match would do the rest, and said that trouble would have to look out for itself. The witness when cross-examined by Attorney Gardner adhered to his first statement of the defendant's remarks. Stated he had voluntarily informed the district attorney of this matter, because he thought it was his duty.

"Mrs. Radovan was the last witness called. In reply to the district attorney she testified the rent of the building payable to her by defendant in January was attached by Attorney Gardner on the claims of some of her husband's employes.

"The evidence was all in at the end of Tuesday's session of the court and counsel for both sides of the case will address the jury Wednesday."

EP; 20 May 1915; article: "THE GURICH ARSON TRIAL. Santa Cruz, May 19, 2:30 p.m.—...Attorney C. W. Seevers...addressed the jury for the prosecution. He explained the nature of circumstantial evidence and the difficulty of obtaining direct evidence in the case of premeditated crimes such as arson, where the criminal can plan the deed and carry it out at his own time. He described the property destroyed by fire and its renting by defendant from its owner Anna Radovan, to whom it had been transferred by her husband, Frank Radovan. Explained amount of personal property of defendant which was insured for $3000 by him. Mentioned defendant's loss of liquor license and his closure of his saloon Jan. 1st, 1915. Told [of] defendant's efforts to sell the furniture in the saloon and rooming house and the stock of liquors. Related testimony of witnesses proving the occurrence of the fire that destroyed the building; referring to testimony of Witnesses Walling and Laporte in regard to suddenness of the blaze. Referred to testimony of fire expert, James, that fire started upward from under floor; also the charred sack found in the ruins. Mentioned defendant's remarks testified to by witnesses, Hrepich and Pender, expressing intent to commit the crime. Mentioned testimony of transfer men in regard to defendant's attempt to conceal the liquor barrels they were handling for him. Spoke of defendant's question to Mrs. Radovan if she intended to 'mitch' the place off. Mentioned defendant had denied the evidence of all the prosecution's witnesses and virtually charged them with perjury. Asked after character and motives were considered was there any doubt where the perjury lay. Referred to defense's effort to raise a reasonable doubt in the minds of the jury as to whether the commission of the crime by some other than the defendant—in this case Frank Radovan. Attorney Seevers closed by saying that the prosecution felt confident that evidence enough had been presented to convict defendant with the crime charged without leaving any doubt in the mind of any reasonable man.

"Attorney Gardner started his argument for the defense at the opening of the afternoon session of the superior court...Stated he felt heavy responsibility in the case. Had thought of submitting the matter after Attorney Seevers' argument but decided to refrain from doing so chiefly on account of a statement he had made in a speech during the recent campaign when the district attorney was seeking election to that office, to the effect that the only people who would be benefited by his election would be persons accused of crime. After the district attorney's fair treatment of himself during this case he wished to give him a chance to disprove that prediction. He also wished to show the jury that there was argument made by the prosecution that he could not meet. He referred to the brevity of Attorney Seevers' argument, which gave him nothing to argue upon and would therefore have to anticipate district attorney's closing argument. Mr. Gardner declared he himself would use no oratory dodge or distort no facts and would deal with the jury fairly. Was not going to ask jury to decide case on sympathy or prejudice but strictly on the facts presented. Referred to 48 points of evidence, district attorney had promised to prove and proceeded to demolish them. Produced a bill of sale given by Rudebeck to defendant to prove that defendant never knew of the Radovan's claim to ownership of the furniture and fittings in the burned building. Urged that payment for the fire loss on furniture to defendant completed proof of this contention. Stated that the fact that this was of incendiary origin had not been established by prosecution, which was essential. Referred to evidence of Witnesses Walling and Laporte concerning their observation of the starting of the fire at West Third and Walker streets which he severely criticized, as affording no proof of a fire started by a sudden explosion or to the point in the building where it started. Argued that there was nothing to show that the fire had not started from defective wiring in the upper story of the rooming house and burned downward. Referred to evidence of Fire Chief Sandberg concerning the course of fire and his investigation of the ruins, stating that he had told nothing to show where the fire started or what started it. Declared that the half-burned sack found by witness six weeks after the fire was valueless as evidence of an incendiary fire, even if found at a time nearer the fire. Fire Chief Sandberg had not testified as to having smelled burning kerosene oil during the fire. Explained witness White and de Mattos' evidence in regard to this by the presence of a switch engine. Criticized Expert James' location of starting point of fire and his discovering of gasoline on it after exposure to two months of wet weather; also his statement that the sack had been placed under the floor and set afire there, ignited the floor and burned the building. Declared[,] as building set on the ground with no inlet to underneath it, that no evidence had been presented to show that any fire had been started underneath the floor or that anyone had started it.

"Attorney Gardner occupied four and a half hours of the afternoon session of the court in an able attack on the evidence introduced by the prosecution drawing the jury's attention to what he claimed were its weakest features.

"He reviewed and analyzed the testimony of Witnesses Radovan, Pender, Atteridge, Riddling, Hendry, James and Hrepich. He explained several discrepancies and inconsistencies in client's evidence and alleged conduct on the ground that said client was a foreigner unable to read or write the English language. Declared all defendant's actions both before and after the fire denoted innocence, not guilt. Argued that had defendant been the crafty criminal he was accused of being he would have acted quite differently. Attributed as a possible cause of prejudice toward defendant on the part of Witness Pender, the fact that latter was of British and defendant of Austrian origin. Denounced the evidence given by Fire Expert James and Fire Adjuster Riddling as outrageously unfair, drawing attention to the fact that notwithstanding their evidence the insurance companies had paid defendant's fire loss. Explained defendant being over insured as due to a misunderstanding. Explained that opportunity and motive were the two chief matters to be considered in tracing the crime to the criminal. Declared in conclusion that while he did not wish the jury to think that he accused the Radovans or anyone else of burning the building...all the circumstances of this case would prove that both the opportunity and motive of the Radovans to do so were far greater than the opportunity and motive of defendant."

“Santa Cruz, May 20, 12 m.—District Attorney Smith started his final argument to the jury...this morning. Stated he would find defendant guilty as charged simply on the evidence presented in the case...Had given defendant a fair trial, and asked jury to give him the benefit of every reasonable doubt. Defendant was charged with the worst crime a human being can commit, of which the fatal consequences can never be known. General destruction was always threatened as the result of an act of incendiary in the night when innocent folks are asleep, whatever the motive may be. Therefore it was the jury's duty to convict defendant of this crime if the evidence justify it to their minds and consciences. The law was not revengeful, but protective. In referring to able and earnest efforts of defendant's counsel in his behalf, Mr. Smith said that the action of the district attorney was taken solely in defense of the community. The duty of a prosecutor was unpleasant, but unavoidable. Circumstantial evidence, the law says, must be strong, and every allowance made in favor of defendant, yet it is in fact, in many instances, the strongest and most satisfactory evidence. Much feeling existed against this kind of evidence. Everything in human life, except death, was uncertain, therefore every affair of life must be judged by the ordinary light and rule of reason. Mr. Smith asked was there any reasonable doubt that the fire was set by human hand and that hand the defendant's. He explained the ‘corpus delicti’ proof of the deed—the fire, and recalled circumstances of the early morning fire, as testified by eye witnesses, proving that the fire burned upward and was fed by inflammable and explosive material. Referred to testimony of Fire Chief Sandberg and Fire Adjuster Riddling that fire started in saloon or liquor room. Referred to the buried sack found in ruins and to defense's attack on Fire Expert James' evidence, declaring that the latter's moderation proved his honesty. Mr. Smith read an extract from James' evidence. Asked if there was any evidence to contradict same. He then read defendant's statement of stock in liquor room. (Counsel for defense here entered objection to a detail of statement). District attorney asked if mass of glass would not have remained after fire if any such quantity of bottles had existed.

“He explained the chief motives of crimes: revenge, hate, malice, and the dollar. Defendant's act was attributable to hate and revenge against the Radovans, and greed for the dollar. Defendant's application for a lease for the purpose of securing the house for a boarding house, after it had been declared an unfit place for a saloon, was part of a plan of revenge. Mrs. Radovan's refusal was natural in a mother and a decent woman. Defendant's declaration that the dollar was his god, proved his avarice and his shamelessness. He then adverted to defendant's coolness on the witness stand and his embarrassment when questioned as to his experience as a miner.”

“This morning's Santa Cruz Sentinel says:

“For a long drawn-out case of a felonious nature in the local county that of the people against B. Gurich, charged with arson, holds the record for the past year or two...”

"After 27 minutes deliberation the jury which heard the case of the people against B. Gurich, charged with arson, brought in a verdict at 2 o'clock yesterday in superior court, acquitting the defendant of the charge. Hiram F. Faneuf was the foreman of the jury.

"At 10 o'clock yesterday morning, when court was called, District Attorney George W. Smith began the closing argument for the prosecution and talked until nearly the noon hour. He spoke very rapidly and reviewed the whole case, calling attention to the strong points in the chain of circumstantial evidence.

"It has been a long tedious case, consuming seven days. The only evidence against Gurich was of a circumstantial nature and the jury did not deem it sufficient to warrant a verdict against the Watsonville saloon man.

"Gurich was happy when the verdict was rendered and thanked each of the 12 men in whose hands rested his fate. During the trial the defendant's wife and little boy were in court part of the time."

"In the petition it set forth that the petitioners are creditors of the estate and that their claims have been passed upon and allowed; they allege that the deceased owns a part interest in the Morning Star restaurant in Watsonville, which the executrix failed and neglected to have included in the inventory and appraisal of the estate, and this is the ground on which the removal is sought.

"Another petition asked that an order be made reducing the monthly allowance of $75 which is paid to the widow, to $25 per month. The grounds for this is a statement in the petition that the widow has property of her own from which an income is derived, and that she is also the owner of an unencumbered homestead."

Yesterday in the Superior Court at Santa Cruz the petition of the Pajaro Valley National Bank, and other creditors, for the removal of Mrs. Katherine Strazicich, as executrix, was heard before Judge Benj. K. Knight. The grounds for removal were that Mrs. Strazicich neglected to return in her inventory of the estate the partnership interest of her deceased husband in the Morning Star Restaurant. Quite a number of witnesses had been subpoenaed by the Bank which holds an unsecured claim against the firm of Perasich & Strazicich for $2346. As a reason for not turning in the inventory [of] the partnership interest[,] Mrs. Strazicich produced in court a deed and transfer to her of the partnership interest in the Morning Star Restaurant made in December 1913, and produced testimony that she was advised by her attorneys who prepared the inventory and appraisal that the deed having vested in her her husband's partnership interest in the restaurant it was not necessary for her to inventory[,] it as a part of her husband's estate.

EP; 18 Jun 1915; article: “NEW SLAV NATION IN BALKANS. (By Henry Wood, United Press Correspondent. Copyright, 1915.)

“Nish, Servia, (via London)—A new Slavish nation to include Servia, Croatia, Slavonia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Dalmatia, Istria and the ancient Servian empire beyond the Danube, is the hope and ambition of the Servian leaders. And when the present war is settled the Servian leaders will demand that the powers settle for all time the great Balkan questions so that they may build up their devastated country and resume their place in the family of nations.

“This is the plan and hope expressed by the Prince Regent of Servia, Alexander, in his first public utterance since the war began. He received me in the five-room cottage set apart for his convenience at Kragmlevats, the general headquarters of the Servian army, and recited for the United Press details of the great campaign the little Servian army has been able to wage against the might of Austria. For a time the prince was the interviewer, asking anxiously regarding my observations in France and questioning as to the probability of Italy’s entrance into the war.

“When he discussed the work of his own troops the prince waxed enthusiastic. It was plain that he was proud of the manner in which his soldiers have twice thrown back the entire weight of the Austrian army, and he was glad to tell of the fighting.

“‘The moral force behind the soldier fighting for home and country makes him invincible over the soldier whose only force is that inspired by military discipline and organization,’ he said. ‘It is that which has enabled Servia twice to defeat Austria, and it is that which will enable her to continue victorious to the end. Soldiers of an agricultural country like Servia, where every citizen owns his own home or farm, are more to be reckoned with than the soldier who fights merely because he is ordered to do so. The poorest peasant in our army fights with grim determination and defies death to save the little patch that is his and his country’s. Fighting like this he is invincible. I personally am an ardent admirer of military discipline and organization but I cannot deny that the real source of strength of the Servian army is in its patriotism.

“‘While we have defeated the enemy twice, I do not believe that a third attempt to overwhelm us will be made at present. It was the plan of the Austro-German staff to send another great combined army through Servia and, if victorious, to influence Bulgaria to join in the fighting and march to the relief of Turkey. Fortunately the success of our Russian allies has made it necessary for the enemy to withdraw his army from our northern boundaries. I do not believe that either Austria or Germany will now be able to mass another expedition against us.

“‘But we won’t remain idle. Although our losses have been terrific and our nation is now being swept by a fatal epidemic of typhus, our army still is intact. It is as courageous and determined as ever, and is ready to come to the assistance of our allies when they need us.

“‘We hope to continue our full share toward the general struggle for the emancipation of the oppressed European people and for the reforming of the territorial limits of Europe along nationality lines.’

“‘Is Servia especially interested in this latter phase of the war?’ I asked.

“‘Yes, it is,’ the prince replied, with even greater emphasis than before. ‘This means more to us than any other thing. This war, which began for the maintenance of our independence, has now become also a war for the liberation and unity of our brethren, the Servians, the Croatians and the Slavonians, who still are under Austrian domination.

“‘We hope that when peace comes we will have established the right of the Servians, Croatians and Slavonians for an independent state in Bosnia, Herzegovina, Croatia, Dalmatia, Slavonia, Istria and the old Servian empire beyond the Danube, all of which Austria now holds. There are 12,000,000 Slavs in this territory.

“‘They constitute by far the majority of the population. They also are our brothers by common origin, language, tradition, custom and history.

“‘For years Austria has sought to force them to forget their origin, their language and their nationality. Thousands, rather than consent, have emigrated, mostly to the United States. Certainly if these people must leave home I am glad that they can go to your country, but I am convinced that with their own country and government assured, they would be glad to remain and build up a great nation. With national welfare assured, naturally these people would prefer to remain on the soil from which their race sprung.’

“‘Recalling that when Prince Alexander assumed the Regency last June, only a month before the present war began, it was feared that his Russian military education might mean another militarist added to the European thrones. I asked him whether the realization of the national Servian dreams would necessitate the maintenance of an increased military system.

“‘I hope not,’ was the reply. ‘But that all depends upon the outcome of the present war. I am a militarist only to the point where it is necessary to maintain an army to protect the rights of the people. As a nation Servia has purchased the right to an independent existence at sacrifices too great to permit lightly risking them again. We hope that when we are given peace every question affecting the Balkans will be so settled as to render another war impossible. We desire only a long period of tranquility to permit the intellectual, commercial and industrial development which alone can ensure our permanent existence. No person who has once witnessed all that war means can ever wish to see another.

“It is the wish of all Servians that we can eventually open extensive financial and commercial relations with the United States. The materials we have bought there since the war began have been most excellent. And America has aided us greatly in the saving of lives of our people.

“In our greatest hour of need America has been most generous and kind. It would seem almost ungracious to single out amongst so many noble persons, each of whom I am convinced did all that they could, but I cannot refrain from mentioning the noble work of Dr. Ryan, who has had charge of your Red Cross work. His work has been done under my personal observation. His care of our wounded, and his action in protecting the rights of our people, and especially of our wounded during the Austrian occupation of Belgrade has won him official recognition not only with the French and Servian governments, but also the gratitude of the entire Servian nation.’

“Prince Alexander is 37 years old, and is of a strikingly manly type. Like all of the Servian officers, however, he is most serious, although this seems to add to the charm of his manner. He received me dressed in the service uniform of a Colonel of the Servian army, and wearing only three military decorations, those given him by England, France and Germany. The [meeting] took place on the first floor of the little cottage set aside for his use in a corner room in which he has established an office, the windows of which look out on the main village street. He has a small desk at which he works late into the night on the great problems of state. He offered me a cigarette, but as I do not smoke he very courteously refrained from smoking himself during the entire audience.

“His Excellency asked that full credit be given his officers for their great work in leading the army, especially Field Marshall Putnik, his chief of staff, and Col. Pavlovitch, his chief aide, who were chiefly responsible for organizing the movement which resulted in the last crushing Austrian defeat.”

in the auditorium, which was attended by the representative growers, packers, shippers and business men of the city and valley[,] preliminary steps were taken for the formation in this community of a co-operative organization that will unite all those interested in the apple industry.

“J. E. Gardner was elected chairman of the conference and Carroll J. Rogers acted as secretary...

“The object of the meeting, which was to discuss the future success of the apple industry, was first explained by F. S. Jerome, manager of the Chas. Ford Company, and after his interesting talk the meeting was thrown open for free discussion.

EP; 26 Jun 1915; article: “Yesterday in the Superior Court at Santa Cruz before Judge Benj. K. Knight the trial of the action of Luke Matulich vs. the California Insurance Company of San Francisco was concluded, having engaged the attention of the court since Thursday morning. The suit was for the recovery of the value of the personal property destroyed by fire last July, while located in the packing house of Gospodnetich and Matulich on the property formerly occupied as a brewery by the late Nick Burton on Lake avenue.

“Mr. James Sheehy as local agent for the Insurance Company claimed at the time of taking out the insurance that Gospodnetich and Matulich failed to inform him of the existence of a prior insurance and of a chattel mortgage on the property and that because of such failure the policy of the insurance became void. The insured claimed that they informed Mr. Sheehy of the prior insurance and that as to the chattel mortgage Mr. Sheehy did not ask them anything about it and not being aware that the existence of the mortgage was any bar to their right to the policy or affected the company’s liability to pay the loss, they did not deem it necessary to inform him of the mortgage...”

EP; 28 Jun 1915; article: “APPLE INDUSTRY HAS BEEN ORGANIZED. The Pajaro Valley apple industry has at last been organized. After years of success and failure, after the organization of the growers, packers, shippers and all others directly or indirectly interested in the welfare of the fruit industry had been preached and refused for years in the valley and after the apple industry had reached a stage where organization was imperative the men and women interested in the success of the Pajaro Valley’s greatest industry finally met last Saturday afternoon and organized the Watsonville Apple Distributors, an organization that is destined to bring remarkable results to this community.

“The mass meeting held Saturday afternoon in the auditorium was the largest attended and greatest public meeting ever held in this city. Over 1200 men and women were gathered in the big hall to hear the discussion of the future of the apple industry. The meeting was of one mind and that was in favor of organization. A few brief speeches were made but the speeches could not have changed the temper of the audience even had they been against co-operation in the apple industry. When the question came to a vote there was one unanimous response from the gathering and that unanimity was for organization.

“Attorney John E. Gardner, chairman of the committee of 13 appointed on June 18th, acted as the presiding officer of the meeting and Carroll J. Rodgers, secretary of the committee, was the mass meeting secretary. First of all the report of the committee of 13 was read and this report will be found in full at the conclusion of this article. Chairman Gardner then called upon a few of those present for remarks but cautioned them to not refer to the past, telling the speakers in advance that the valley was concerned only with the future.

“W. R. Radcliff, cashier of the Bank of Watsonville, was the first speaker and he opened by saying that the business men of the city had realized for some time past that something must be done with the chief industry of the valley or else dig up the trees. He pointed out that all over the United States steps have been taken to remedy the general condition except in the Pajaro Valley. He said that the old order of things, in which the fruit was bought before the blossoms came upon the trees, had changed and that today it was unwise to advance credit for speculative purposes. He further said the time was ripe for union and he recommended the adoption of the committee's plans.

"F. S. Jerome, general manager of the Charles Ford Company, was the next speaker and he assured those present that the mercantile interests of the city were in full sympathy and accord with the plans of the committee. He further assured all that the business men would stand shoulder to shoulder with the growers and others in the future for the success of the apple industry.

"M. N. Lettunich of the M. N. Lettunich Company spoke briefly and said he was in favor of organization and would do all he could to boost co-operation...

"State Assemblyman Harold E. McPherson was present at the meeting and he stated that his Standard Apple Pack Bill had been favorably considered at Sacramento as the Watsonville bill because 90% of the apples in the state came from this section. He said there was power in organization and that the Pajaro Valley apples spoke for themselves, the only trouble being the question of getting them to market...

"This ended the discussion and then the motion to adopt the report of the committee of 13 was taken up. It was carried with a whoop and with warm enthusiasm. The election of an executive committee of 21 members as provided by the by-laws was then considered, the men recommended for election by the committee being chosen unanimously.

"The executive committee chosen will therefore be composed of the following members.

"Unaffiliated growers—Edgar White, James H. Rowe, J. B. Cutter and C. J. Rodgers.

"Growers Associations—H. T. Davis, C. H. Baker and F. L. Rowe.

"Commercial Packers—M. N. Lettunich, H. M. Tenny, George Copriviza and F. P. Marinovich.

"Brokers—T. J. Horgan and James Sheehy.

"Bankers—W. R. Radcliff and C. F. Langley.

"Merchants—J. W. Baxter and F. S. Jerome.

"At large—J. W. Tullock, Luke Scurich, Otto Raphael and W. J. McGrath...

"The Executive Board will meet this evening...in the auditorium to elect its officers and tomorrow State Horticultural Commissioner A. J. Cook of Sacramento will be here to meet the board.

"The complete report of the committee of 13 as adopted was as follows: [omitted here]"

"...The fire started from a corner of the range in the Third Street Restaurant and crept up the walls to the ceiling, entering the floors of the lodging house above. The firemen deserve praise for the manner in which they extinguished what might have become one of the most dangerous fires in local history. Most of the damage resulted from smoke and water. The firemen were handicapped at first by the many automobiles that were parked on Third street but they finally succeeded in dragging the hose through the maze of machines.

"The amount of damage caused by the fire is difficult to estimate, the restaurant and the lodging house and the building proper being damaged about $1500. Six of the twelve rooms in the rooming house were soaked by water or partly burned by the flames while the restaurant was almost wrecked. Messrs. A. Stolich and J. EP; 4 Aug 1915; article: "NO NEW BAR IN DEPOT REGION. By a vote of 4 to 3, Alderman Kane being absent, the board of aldermen last night, denied the application of Jack N. Tanner and Nicholas Strazicich to be allowed to transfer their retail liquor license from Main street to the corner of West Lake avenue and Walker street. A number of written objections were filed against the transfer of the license, the objectors claiming that there were enough saloons already on Walker street, that a saloon near the depot would be a nuisance to the traveling public and that a bar in that part of the city would not be conducive to good morals. Objections were filed by E. H. Nohrden of Fresno, R. H. Davis, Sherman French, Dan O'Gara, D. W. Church, Mrs. N. Peterson, Mrs. A. Nohrden, Mrs. T. E. Fish, Mrs. Charles Albrecht, Mrs. L. Lund, E. W. Sherman and H. B. Stocking.

"Nicholas Strazicich, one of the petitioners, spoke in his own behalf and called attention to the fact that without a saloon at the Lake avenue corner the property that extended for over half of the block on Walker street would be vacant and be an eyesore to the street. He argued that by granting the transfer the board would benefit a citizen that paid high taxes and high insurance and the transfer would develop and improve the property. He promised to run an orderly saloon, to keep loafers off the sidewalk and to conduct his saloon according to the strict letter of the law.

"R. H. Davis, the Southern Pacific company agent, who lives over the depot, stated that the intentions of the petitioners might be good, but that it was almost impossible for them to prevent loafers from idling on the sidewalk in front of the place or to prevent rough barroom conversation from being heard at the depot. If the transfer should be granted it would mean that it would be impossible to go into town from the depot without passing a saloon.

"Alderman King believed that the objectors should receive some consideration in the matter.

"Alderman Lewis said as there were saloons all over town he believed in being liberal as far as granting licenses was concerned but that he was strict when it came to having the saloons obey the law. He said there was logic in the objections filed but that the applicants also presented a meritorious case. He said that a refusal to grant the transfer would tender the Strazicich property almost valueless and that if the transfer was refused the licenses of other saloons on Walker street should be revoked. A vote was then taken on the motion to grant the transfer with the result that Lee, Sager and Tuttle voted for the motion and Callaghan, King, Lewis and Uren against the transfer. A resolution rejecting the transfer was then adopted all voting affirmatively accept Tuttle..."

“Red Pearmains will be sold in the state for the minimum price of seventy-five cents.

“Certain packers in the valley, not members of the Distributors, have been shipping Bellefleur apples out of the valley already and the fruit is not fit for consumption at present. This matter was brought to the notice of the Distributors a few days ago and last evening it was decided to take drastic measures towards preventing any further shipment. A vote was taken and the following resolution adopted:

“Whereas, the apples so packed and shipped were not inspected by the inspectors appointed by the State Horticultural Commissioner nor by the inspectors working under authority of this board; and

“Whereas, the said apples are immature and green and unfit for human consumption;

“Therefore, be it resolved, that the action of the packers and shippers in putting on the market Bellefleur apples at this time without state inspection, immature and too green for use, be most severely censured and condemned as an attempt to deceive the consumer into the purchase of worthless stock, and as disloyalty to the best interests of all persons engaged in this great industry; and that dealers and consumers alike be warned and cautioned against purchasing any Bellefleur apples unless the container shall bear a stamp showing that the contents have been inspected under the state law or by the inspectors of Watsonville Apple Distributors, thus assuring maturity of the fruit and honesty of pack.’

“The Executive board intends to scatter copies of this resolution broadcast, through the newspapers and circulars which they will have printed. They will notify the leading markets in this manner and warn them against the immature fruit.

“F. P. Marinovich and J. H. Rowe were appointed members of the Executive Board at the formation of the organization but neither have joined the Distributors or signified their intentions of so doing and last evening their names were stricken from the roll...”

EP; 18 Aug 1915; married: “Two of the Best Known Residents of the Pajaro Valley Were United in Marriage Today. At 7:30 o’clock this morning in the presence of only a small circle of intimate friends and immediate relatives Miss Anna Maree Farlin became the wife of Otto D. Stoesser, the ceremony being performed at St. Patrick’s Church by Rev. Father P. D. Hassett, being assisted in the nuptial mass by Rev. Father John Cawley and Rev. Father Florian Zettel of the Valley Church. The wedding was a quiet affair and immediately following the nuptials the bride and bridegroom, accompanied by their few invited guests, were rushed in automobiles to the home of Matteo Lettunich on Maple Avenue where a wedding breakfast awaited them.

“Miss Myrtle Byrd was the bridesmaid while the groomsmen were Joseph G. Hooper of San Francisco, vice president of the Federal Trust Company of that city. The wedding march as well as the other organ numbers were rendered by Miss Kate Leonard. The decorations at the church were simple yet beautiful and were arranged for the occasion by H. A. Hyde. The bride was attired in a handsome cream broadcloth creation and carried a bouquet of carnations and lilies of the valley. Miss Byrd wore cream corduroy and carried a bouquet of Cecil Bruener roses. Both the bride and bridesmaids wore hats to match their gowns.

“Following the wedding breakfast at the Lettunich home Mr. and Mrs. Stoesser departed upon their honeymoon trip, which will continue for one month and will include visits to the San Francisco and San Diego fairs as well as other points of interest in the state. It is needless to state that upon their return to the city they will be overwhelmed with congratulations and best wishes.

“To introduce the bride and bridegroom to Watsonville is superfluous as there is hardly a family in the Pajaro Valley that is not acquainted personally with either or both. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Theresa K. Farlin and for many years has resided at the home of Mateo Lettunich on Maple Avenue, Mr. Lettunich being Mrs. Stoesser’s brother-in-law. She attended the local public schools and graduated a few years ago from the high school, soon afterward accepting a position as assistant secretary of the Apple Annual Association and the Chamber of Commerce. When C. G. Redman resigned the secretaryship of both associations Mrs. Stoesser was appointed to fill the positions and to state that since that time she has proved herself to be one of the most clever as well most popular young business women in this section of the state is stating a fact that everyone knows. She has at all times been accommodating and obliging, she was courteous, polite and anxious to please and all that had any business to transact with the Chamber of Commerce admired the young woman for her pleasing personality and her high character. She has a legion of friends in this community, friends that respect her for her sweetness of character and her high ideals, and all will extend hearty congratulations and sincere best wishes.

“Mr. Stoesser is one of Watsonville’s most prominent men. As president of the Apple Annual Association, as president of the Merchants Association, as a stockholder in the Watsonville Investment Company, as president of the Pajaro Valley Mercantile Company, as one of the organizers of the Apple Distributors and as one of the big boosters of the community Mr. Stoesser has aided materially in bringing success and prosperity to Watsonville. He is ready and willing at all times to help any cause that will improve the city and valley and he is in the front rank of highly respected citizens in this valley. The news of his marriage will be received with warm congratulations and cordial best wishes by his host of friends in this and other cities.

“The Pajaronian desires to add its felicitations at this time to Mr. and Mrs. Stoesser. May happiness and success always shine upon them and may the blessings of a joyous married life never fade for them.”

EP; 23 Sep 1915; article: “LOCAL STORE GETS COURT JUDGMENT. Judge Benj. K. Knight has filed in the clerk’s office his decision in the case of Bone vs. Sheriff Trafton in favor of the defendant. The action is a product of the various attachment suits in which Frank Radovan found himself involved last fall and from which he suffered disaster all along the line. The trouble began when the Great Western Lumber Company of San Francisco, through its attorney, Geo. P. Burke, commenced an action against Frank Radovan in which an attachment was issued and levied upon a car load of box shooks which had been consigned by W. H. Bone, a lumberman of Morgan Hill, to Radovan. Arrangements having been made for the payment of the Great Western Lumber Company’s claim in certain specified installments[,] the sheriff continued the levy of his attachment until the last payment was made about October 7th, 1914. At this time Radovan was owing the City Grocery Co. a bill for groceries in the sum of $370, the claim for which was assigned to John Arbanasin. Attorney Burke for Arbanasin then filed a complaint against Radovan and had an attachment issued and levied upon about 4000 of the box shooks which by this time had been removed to Mr. Radovan’s packing house on Walker street, near Third. This attachment was levied Oct. 7th, 1915 [sic 1914], and Mr. E. J. Kelly, as attorney for Mr. Bone and Mr. Radovan, filed a verified claim for Bone with Sheriff Trafton, claiming to be the owner of the box shooks. Attorney Burke instructed the sheriff to respectfully ignore Bone's verified claim, which instructions the sheriff obeyed, and the lawsuit went gaily on. Meantime Attorney Kelly made a motion before Ex-Judge Smith to discharge the attachment, levied on the box shooks, meantime fortifying Mr. Bone's position by preparing a note and a mortgage to him from Mr. and Mrs. Radovan on the box shooks as security for the payment of the note, the amount of which represented the purchase price of the shooks. Judge Smith denied the motion to discharge. The shooks were sold under an order of sale and bought in by Arbanasin for the City Grocery Company. The amount realized at the sale was deposited with the clerk to abide the judgment, and subsequently Judge Smith rendered judgment in favor of Arbanasin and the amount was turned over by the clerk to the sheriff who in turn paid the amount to the City Grocery Company. Nothing daunted by his series of defeats Mr. Bone brought suit against Sheriff Trafton to recover judgment for the sum of $430, the alleged value of the box shooks seized and sold by the sheriff, and $110 necessary expenses incurred in pursuit of the property, Mr. Bone contending at trial, through his attorney, Mr. Kelly, that the attachment levied Oct. 7, 1915 [sic 1914], was superseded by a subsequent attachment issued in the same action of Arbanasin vs. Radovan on October 19, 1915 [sic 1914]. Attorney Burke for the sheriff, maintained that the levy of the attachment of Oct. 7th, had never been released or abandoned by the sheriff and that therefore the Radovan mortgage to Bone was subsequent and subject to the lien of that attachment.

"Judge Knight in a lengthy decision sustains the claim of the sheriff and has ordered judgment in his favor."

EP; 27 Sep 1915; article: "At an early hour yesterday morning the home of John Miller, a Slavonian, at 909 Main street was completely destroyed by fire. A large number of people rushed to the scene of the conflagration despite the early hour of the morning. Through the good work of the fire department a couple of neighboring houses were saved from possible destruction.

"The blaze was first noticed by Officer Zimmer, who was sitting in front of the City Hall at two o'clock. The sky brightened up from the blaze and he rushed into the engine house and turned in the alarm. In a few seconds the big red fire truck was on its way.

"The boys arrived on the scene in fast time and water was played on the two neighboring houses to save them from destruction as the Miller residence was then a total loss. The fire boys fought the blaze for a half hour until it was extinguished.

"The Miller family was not at home at the time of the fire, being engaged in picking fruit in the country. The cause of the fire is a mystery and the loss is estimated at about $1200.

"During the half hour run[,] the big fire engine worked in grand style and all the pressure that was necessary was found at the end of the hose."

EP; 9 Oct 1915; article: "A great deal of alarm has been spread throughout the city over the disappearance of one Steve Mikulich, one of the partners of the Watsonville Bakery. It was at first believed that both partners had left the city but investigation this morning revealed the presence of Ilija Bratichevich, the other partner. He alleges that Mikulich left the city with about $1000 of the firm's money and he will probably bring criminal action against him.

"The bakery has been assigned to the Sperry Flour Company, which is the largest creditor of the bakery. A. E. Somerville, representing the company was here this morning and he stated that a meeting of the creditors of the bakery would be called soon and at that time the best method of satisfying the creditors would be decided. It is believed that little trouble will be experienced in settling the matter as there are a large number owing the firm. However, the bakery will be temporarily closed.

"Mikulich has been located and he will probably be brought back to this city by Bratichevich.

EP; 19 Oct 1915; article: “Martin Krilanovich, son of M. Krilanovich of the California restaurant, was badly injured in his left arm yesterday by the accidental discharge of a gun which was believed to be unloaded. Young Krilanovich and his friend, Leslie Jacobson, on Friday went to the Krilanovich ranch on Branciforte drive, where they hunted Saturday and Sunday for quail. On Sunday afternoon they came in to town and went to the California restaurant, where Krilanovich asked permission of his father to go out to Corcoran’s Lagoon to hunt for ducks. This was about 4 o’clock. They went to Corcoran’s and when ready to return home met Arthur Hurd and he asked for a ride when they started to return. He rode with them and as they neared Wood’s lagoon they saw a flock of ducks fly in. They got out of the rig, but it was so dark they could not see the birds.

“Jacobson and Krilanovich removed the shells from their guns and placed them in the bottom of the rig. Hurd took his gun and handed it to Krilanovich while he untied the horse. Krilanovich understood Hurd to say the shells were out and placed it close to him on the seat, but in some manner the trigger was accidentally touched and the charge went off. It took effect in the right arm at and below the elbow and the wound inflicted was an ugly one and the elbow was shattered.

Last evening the aviator called and Mr. Scurich informed him that he wanted a deposit of ten dollars to guarantee the replacement of the fence. Mr. Radovich had been suffering from tuberculosis for some time past and left for Los Angeles only two weeks ago in an effort to recover his health"

"The deceased was born in Dalmatia, Austria, and had resided here for eight or nine years prior to his death. During the late years he became a partner in the L. G. Bachan & Company fruit shipping firm on Sixth street, and was successful in his business dealings. Mr. Bachan, his partner, was at his bedside last night when he passed away. Mr. Radovich was well known here, especially among the members of the Austrian colony, and was highly esteemed and well liked by all that knew him.

"He is survived by several brothers and sisters in Dalmatia."

"Pista in his complaint alleges that Milanovitch has been holding possession of the ranch without his permission and wants $500 damages for the same with the usual costs.

EP; 8 Dec 1915; article: “That immediate steps will be taken by the street committee of the board of aldermen to remedy matters at Third and Main streets to relieve the flood conditions that prevail during every heavy rain was the decision of the aldermen, who met last night in regular monthly session with all members present. The street committee was given power to act in the matter after the flood problem had been discussed by the board but just what will be done by the committee is not known although an auxiliary culvert at the corner seems to be the popular solution.

“The attention of the board was called to the condition at Third and Main streets by two petitions, one signed by M. N. and Mateo Lettunich and the other by a number of business men in the affected district, both petitions praying for immediate relief...”

“M. N. Lettunich said the people at Third and Main needed immediate relief. He stated that the present culvert across Third Street was too small and that if an open gutter was put in he thought it would help matters...”

“Alderman Callaghan suggested that an auxiliary culvert be built at the corner and this seemed to be a feasible proposition to the other members of the board. However, the street committee will do something soon in the matter in an effort to relieve the present evil at the Lettunich building.”

Reilly, of Folsom state prison, is the winner of the contest and to her will go the beautiful nickel-plated miniature Wedgewood Range. Close upon her heels, however, was pressing little Alice Nichols, age 10, daughter of F. J. Nichols, residing on West Third street. Each little girl had close to 4000 correct words and in view of this remarkable showing and the closeness of the two contestants, the manufacturers of the Wedgewood Stoves & Ranges proffered a second little Wedgewood Range so that each of these two contestants will receive a prize. Six little girls submitted lists of over 3000 words and five more submitted lists containing 2000 to 3000. The names of these 11 little girls are: Helen Thompson, Ruth Richardson, Annie Gera, Artice Sutton, Elenor Willett, Mildred Mann, Ruth Scurich, Verona Whitton, Evelyn Pierce, Marion Wright and Mildred Dempsey.

“The Pajaro Valley Mercantile Company was so pleased at the fine showing made by these little girls that a special gift was presented to each of them. We believe every contestant found the contest educational as well as recreation. There were 249 entries in the contest.” [this is the only mention of this contest found in the papers; no other explanation can be found]

EP; 31 Dec 1915; article: “CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF PAJARO VALLEY. (By S. J. Duckworth, Secretary.) Watsonville has always been fortunate in maintaining efficient promotion bodies charged with the expression of community sentiment in all matters of public interest.

"The pioneers in this respect were the old Board of Trade and the Orchardists' Association. After several years of very successful work along their chosen lines these two bodies were merged into the present organization known as the Chamber of Commerce. Under their auspices, and almost solely because of their well-directed efforts under the leadership of the late C. H. Rodgers, the all-important campaign of scientifically fighting the insects and other pests common to all fruit centers was inaugurated and maintained until the orchards of the Pajaro Valley today produce fruit equal to the best in the world. Before spraying[,] as it is now practiced in this section[,] came into vogue the proportion of wormy apples ran as high as 60%. Now the highest percentage is seldom over four. One of the most important results of the forementioned work was the establishment here of the California Spray-Chemical Company's plant, an institution that supplies the remedy for any of the ills that trees and vines are heir to.

"The Chamber of Commerce has a noteworthy array of public works to its credit. It fathered the original movement for a Freeholders' charter and enthusiastically sustained it at every stage until the present organic law of the city was adopted. It also led in the movement for good streets[,] and the present system of thoroughfares that so distinctly mark Watsonville as without a peer in its class is the result of Chamber of Commerce initiative and support.

"The real worth of Pajaro granite for street building purposes was first proven here and the use of this material has now extended all over the state. The Granite Rock Company's quarries at the eastern edge of the Pajaro Valley carries the largest payroll in this section.

"The Watsonville Apple Annual Association was initiated and organized under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. Of all enterprises ever launched here this one was responsible for more publicity for the Pajaro Valley and gave a greater impetus to every branch of our leading industry than anything else ever attempted by our people. The California Apple Show commanded world-wide attention and the results flowing from it more than compensate for the efforts so freely and enthusiastically given to ensure its success. As we emerge from the depression that in recent years has overtaken our country, no better evidence of faith in the future of our little Eden could possibly be given than by resuming our annual apple carnivals where, as loyal Californians, we suspend them in deference to the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

"To illustrate what intelligent, united effort will accomplish for a community we may cite the matter of our Main street lighting system. This project had its inception in the Chamber of Commerce and its officers unsparingly devoted their energies toward its rapid, economical and efficient installation. All overhead wires and poles were removed and replaced by an underground system involving a total outlay in excess of $20,000. From first to last all the work required in this transformation was done by the Chamber of Commerce and its various committees; the money for the entire project was raised by its officers through voluntary contributions and when completed the system was turned over to the municipality as a free gift. The cost of the electrolier system alone was a little over $10,000.

"In the matter of interesting capital for the improvement of the city the Chamber has been equally successful. The erection of the Watsonville Ice and Cold Storage plant, representing an investment of approximately one-third of a million dollars, was due in great measure to the activity and persistence of one of its committees. The same may be said of the organization of the Appleton Investment Company, through which the Appleton Hotel and the Appleton Theatre block were erected, while the establishment of Jones Bros. & Co.'s extensive vinegar works was the direct result of the Chamber's activities and co-operation.

"The Standard Apple Act of 1915 was drawn by the Chamber of Commerce. Its representatives promoted its passage through the legislature and prevailed upon the governor to approve it. The immediate results of this legislation was the organization of the Watsonville Apple Distributors, whose good work is noted elsewhere in this issue. The Executive Board of the Distributors is made up almost entirely of active members of the Chamber of Commerce...

"In the matter of opening new markets for our products, the Chamber is now in correspondence with leading firms in the more important centers of Latin-America with the view of obtaining firsthand information as to the conditions under which the virtually virgin and unlimited fields of the south may be entered. This work is being done by the present Secretary as part of his routine duties in the Spanish language, a circumstance that peculiarly favors the local Chamber in pioneering the way for the entry of Santa Cruz county products into these comparatively new territories.

"The present membership of the Chamber, covering virtually all of the activities of the Pajaro Valley, is as follows:

"Directors—President, E. W. Sherman; vice-president, E. A. Hall; secretary, S. J. Duckworth; treasurer, C. A. Palmtag; J. W. Baxter, J. B. Cutter, J. E. Gardner, F. S. Jerome, T. S. MacQuiddy, W. A. Trafton, L. I. Bay, W. J. Espindola, R. H. Hudson, F. P. Krough, F. L. Selleck, F. W. Willett.

"Members—[of 134 members listed, the only Slav is J. P. Mascovich]...

"The foregoing list of names constitutes the largest number ever enrolled on the books of any promotion body in this valley...

“The Chamber of Commerce office is always open. After business hours entry to the rooms can be had through the lobby of the Appleton Hotel. Visitors are welcome at any time. The exhibit of Pajaro Valley products is open to inspection by all. The present window exhibit comprises fresh apples in standard boxes, canned apples, dried apples, apple jelly, apple cider and apple cider vinegar. The soil exhibits, gathered by the government bureau of soils, is a most interesting display of the various formations that contribute to the fertility of the Pajaro Valley.”

EP; 3 Jan 1916; article: “Nineteen hundred and sixteen was given a royal reception by the people of the city of Watsonville Friday evening. There was plenty of amusement for the people of the city between the dance at the auditorium, given by the civic section of the Watsonville Women’s Club for the benefit of the children’s playground, and the usual good time on Main street.

“A large crowd attended the affair at the auditorium. Dancing commenced at 9 o’clock and continued until early Saturday morning for the tired but happy crowd. When the stroke of twelve came the reception for the New Year commenced and for 10 minutes there was enough noise in the auditorium to have been heard in Santa Cruz...

“One of the most novel features of the evening was the march and dance in which thirty-two girls participated. During the last part of the first number, the girls marched and sang ‘America, I Love You.’ As an encore a march with lighted Japanese lanterns was given...

Callaghan, chairman of the Light committee of the Board of Alderman, and John Stanovich, city light electrician, called upon us this morning and took exceptions to the article published in last evening’s issue of this paper, regarding any faulty lighting conditions on Main street or across the bridge. They state that since Mr. Stanovich took hold of the Main street lights and reduced the voltage from 220 to 110, he has cut down the number of unlit lamps from 50 and 60 to about 8 lamps per month and has made a saving of 10c per lamp on each one having to be replaced.

“They stated that Mr. Stanovich’s good work in this respect, was brought about by the advice and directions of two of the leading experts on electric lighting on the Pacific Coast.

“They admitted the deplorable conditions that existed on West Third street, but said that the Board of Alderman were in nowise to blame for the conditions prevailing as the electrolier system was installed and belongs to the property owners along that block (between Rodriguez and Main streets), and the city had no jurisdiction over it; that the electroliers were of a peculiar pattern that were hard to keep in order, and parts had to be sent for to the east.

“Mr. Callaghan said that he had taken up the matter of turning over the system to the city several times with the property owners but nothing had been done. He was anxious to see better lighting on the block, for, as a tenant, in the T. & D. building, he considered the system a failure.”

EP; 9 Feb 1916; article: “The Deserving Poor’. A True Story in Five Chapters...

“CHAPTER I. The Capitalist That Wanted to Invest Here.

“Gather up mates! Hitch your chairs closer to the warm stove, whilst I tell you an o’er true tale!

“Indeed it is a weird and winksome yarn! Get out your ‘hankychefts!’

“And the strange part of it is that it had its inception in this city of Watsonville...”

“For an obvious reason, ‘ig-ner-ence,’ we are unable to give names in this melodrammer. We are ignorant of the cognomens of the two principal characters. No one seemingly knows—or wants to know—their names. Suffice for the purposes of this story to style the leading character, ‘The Canadian capitalist’; the ‘heavy’ character, ‘The Weeping Villun,’ and the third character (the ‘juvenile,’ as it were) ‘Mr. Innocent.’ The latter party is one of our leading apple packers, a shrewd, keen, business man, and always willing to dispense charity. So now—

“There breezed into the Hotel Appleton in this city, about six or eight weeks ago, a portly, smooth, well-dressed Austrian, who, after registering, proceeded to take in the town. Curiously enough, his meandering steps led him to a favorite thirst parlor much frequented by people of his own nationality. There he proceeded, after displaying much ‘diner’ (coin of the realm) to divest himself in an impressive way, to an admiring audience of the information that he was from Canada via Tacoma, looking for a live town wherein he could open up a big business; that he had been in business in Canada—in fact had had one of the largest all-around stores in the entire dominion, but owing to the present unpleasantness wherein England and Austria had commenced to bite thumbnails at each other, he had been requested to vamoose, to ‘git out.’ Consequently, alas! and alack! he had been compelled to sacrifice his immense business; and gathering the shattered remnants of his fortune together, he had, figuratively speaking, pinned a piece of mistletoe to his coattails and proudly walked out of Canada to this ‘land of the spree and home of the suave!’ (encore). Now—he was looking for a place to start anew, to build up again; and ‘how about Watsonville?’

“He was a very impressive, intelligent and fluent gentleman, and his rendition of his wrongs didn’t help England one bit in her present troubles. It wouldn’t have taken much more to have caused the formation of a company of recruits to go back to the old country to fight. The crowd fell for him.

“‘How about Watsonville?’ They hastened to assure him he had made no mistake in coming to this ‘vale of the blest’...and the mythical Garden of Eden, a ringer. Could he get a good location for his proposed store? Sure

Steve, likewise Mike! Not only could he get a good location, but there would also be thrown in the right-of-way through Main street to Whiskey Hill, where the amber nectar gushed from springs. Why the owner of the thirst parlor could supply him with a location. (This was evidently what the Canadian capitalist was looking for. He wanted to give the aforesaid owner the once-over.) The aforesaid owner was called in, introduced to the C. C. Yes; he had a location, but the lessor would have to show his responsibility and after much talk, negotiations were suspended. Evidently the ‘once over’ that the Canadian Capitalist gave the landlord was disappointing—the landlord had had his eye teeth cut clean through. Then Mr. C. C. gave the landlord’s brother the ‘once over,’ and that was sufficient. However, he hung around and made himself known as a general good fellow.

“It was the next day, or the day after that, he fell in with Mr. Apple Packer. They took to each other immensely—became very friendly, and to the latter, the capitalist unfolded his plans, his hopes and fears. He looked at the vacant stores in the P.V. Bank building:—had half a mind to take the vacant Lyric theatre; wasn’t sure but that the Week’s store wasn’t better, and finally fell firmly, but irrevocably in love with the former location of the postoffice in the John T. Porter building. It was it! Was the only place—and so reasonable in rent!

“Mark you, my mates! How nicely everything was arranged in this plot.

“CHAPTER II. Enters the ‘Heavy Villun’

“It was on a Friday when Mr. Capitalist ‘diskivered’ the Porter location, and it was on the following Saturday morning that he developed a burning curiosity to see the interior of the store. He phoned to Mr. Apple Packer from the Hotel Appleton he would like to see the inside of that store—who had the key? The latter didn’t know unless it was kept over at the Porter residence on the Pajaro road. Would Mr. Apple Packer come down town in his auto and take him over to the Porter residence to get the key so he could take a peep at his future ‘hang-out?’ ‘Squirtingly!’ So down to the Appleton rolled Mr. Apple Packer in his auto, picked up Mr. Capitalist and they started out. Somewhere on Main street about the crossing of Peck street, Mr. Capitalist suddenly discovered that he had forgotten to post an important letter; it must catch the next outgoing mail; it would never do to not post it; so much depended upon it would his friend stop and step over to the postoffice with him to show him the proper orifice wherein to post it; it would never do to have it lost!

“The Apple Packer was obliging. He would and he did. Stepping out of the auto they both went across to the postoffice where the letter was carefully posted, and then proceeded to retrace their steps across the Plaza to the auto. They had arrived at, or near the bandstand, when a strange incident occurred—

“He was a very ordinary weepy, lachrymose-looking individual, rather shabbily dressed and apparently an Englishman. He had a bewildered, woe-begone look. Anyone looking at him would at once pronounce him an overgrown gawk or gink, or 'nobody home!' and in his hand he carried a shabby-looking (rather the worse for wear) satchel or valise!

"A satchel! Gadzooks! Sheriff Trafton doesn't this remind you of the Dodero case!

"As the pair proceeded to pass Mr. Gawk, who was gazing around in a bewildered way, he timidly approached Mr. Capitalist and asked him 'the way to the depot.' The latter scarcely noticed him, gruffly replied, 'Oh go away! Don't bother me! I don't know the way to the depot!' and kept on his way.

"But Mr. Gawk was not to be repulsed. He stepped after Mr. Apple Packer, and again repeated the query in a broken voice. The latter turned around, and, to his astonishment, discovered that the man was crying like a baby. He told the man how to proceed down West Third street to the depot, whereat the man's grief broke out anew. 'Oh, gentlemen,' he cried, 'won't you please take me down to the depot? I'm lost, and I've got to get back to San Jose right away! I've got plenty of money; I'm afraid I'll be robbed—I'm no bum! See—and opening up the satchel, inside of which was a black tin coin box, he opened the box and displayed to the bewildered gaze of the apple packer package after package of greenbacks and United States banknotes. Aladdin's treasures were outdone!

"All of the above entreaties, assertions and vociferations were punctuated with heartrending sobs, which were received by Mr. Capitalist with a bored and cynical air. He told his companion in their native language, that he didn't believe a word of it, although he was apparently taken back at the sudden display of the treasure the box contained. Finally he turned to his companion, 'Let's take the fellow down to the depot,' he suggested, 'and get rid of him.'

"And so they started for the auto. Mr. Gawk was profuse in his thanks, albeit still some weepy. Mr. Capitalist was still apparently cynical and unbelieving. On arriving at the depot, the apple packer went in to the ticket office and was informed by Agent Roy Davis that the next train for the Garden City didn't leave until about 12 o'clock. When he returned to the group with this information Mr. Gawk's grief was uncontrollable; and to queries unfolded the following phantasmagori:

"CHAPTER III. The Erring Father That Died Rich.

"When but a small boy together with his father and mother and a blind sister (every time he mentioned this blind sister his grief and tears came afresh and his sorrow was pitiable) lived at San Jose. One night his father came home unexpectedly, and found a friend making love to his mother. Enraged beyond expression, his father drew his pistol and killed the man. He was a murderer! He rushed out of the house bewildered, not knowing what to do.

"At that time there lived in San Jose a certain clergyman who had often befriended his father. To the clergyman's house he directed his steps, and rushing in, threw himself upon his mercy and told him the entire story. The clergyman was terribly shocked, and in answer to the man's appeals told him there was no chance of saving him from the gallows unless he managed to escape; he had grossly violated the laws. Too bad! Too bad!

"The murderer took the hint, and made his get-away to San Francisco, thence escaping to Alaska, where, in time, he discovered some valuable diggings and became immensely rich.

"The mother sold the small holdings at San Jose and taking the boy and his poor blind sister (tears) went back to her folks in the old country where many years after the mother died.

"In the meantime the rich father in Alaska often wrote to the boy and sent him sums of money, which letters and money were carefully taken and appropriated by the mother, without the son's knowledge, and it wasn't until the father wrote to the American consul regarding the boy, that he became acquainted with the true status of affairs. He wrote to his father in Alaska, and in due time received, in return, a sum of money and a letter (through the consul) requesting him to get to his fast failing father at once.

"The mother in the meantime had died. So leaving his poor blind sister (tears) in the old country he hurriedly journeyed to Alaska—and arrived none too soon! The rich father was on his deathbed! (sobs). His father died leaving the son and blind sister $150,000, making them rich beyond their fondest dreams—but there was another bequest.

"CHAPTER IV. The Good Clergyman and the Poor.

"The dying father, between gasps (tears) gave his son the sum of $36,000 additional, and conjured him by all that was sacred to repair, on his way home, to 'Sank Hosay' and give $6000 of the money to the worthy clergyman who had befriended him, and the other $30,000 to give to some worthy persons or charitable organization for the deserving poor.

"Closing his poor dead father's eyes (so he wouldn't look like a fish) the son was hastening to comply with his wishes. Took the train at Frisco for the Garden City. A stranger in a strange land, he asked the conductor to put him off at San Jose; fell asleep; conductor forgot the request; and he awoke at Watsonville Junction; came over on the train to Watsonville; didn't know where he was. Now here he was; had a ticket on a train leaving Oakland mole that night, that would connect with the steamer leaving New York on a certain day that week for the old country and he must get back to San Francisco and catch that train that evening, and he wound up by carefully exclaiming—

"I must get back! I will get back! Here I will give one hundred, yes, two hundred dollars to get back to San Francisco this afternoon!’ and so saying he pulled out a roll of greenbacks that would choke a cow, and preferred it to his newly-found friends.

“It was at this point that Mr. Capitalist commenced to take a passing interest in the proceedings. In his native tongue, (which apparently the gawk couldn’t understand), he suggested that it was an easy way to make a hundred dollars. Let the store inspection slide. It could wait until tomorrow. And after some little consideration it was arranged that the appleman would take the miner’s son to San Jose in his auto, Mr. Capitalist accompanying them. The money for the ride was to be paid over at San Jose.

“Accordingly they started; took the Riverside road; got out a little ways and the auto went on the blink. After a cursory examination Mr. Apple Man said that they’d better return to town. But, no! Mr. Capitalist said he once owned a Buick in Canada; he knew how to fix the auto; jumped out, and in a few moments started the machine. They crossed the bridge at Aromas, and in due time managed to get to Gilroy.

“It was necessary to stop a short time at Gilroy to get the auto attended to at a garage, and in the interim Mr. Gawk got hungry and wanted a cup of coffee. After beating around the town a little for a secluded place where coffee could be had, and not finding any joint that suited, the party adjourned to Millias’. They went into one of the rooms, Mr. Gawk carefully holding the satchel, and letting no one touch it. Arriving there Mr. Gawk was taken ill, begged to be excused, and left the party taking the satchel with him. Whilst he was gone Mr. Capitalist drew his companion’s attention to the care bestowed upon the satchel, and gave it as his opinion that the fool did have some money in the box—but he would assure himself.

“Upon Mr. Gawk’s return to the party Mr. Capitalist bantered him: ‘Say; you are bragging about having so much money—how do we know if you’ve got it or not?’

“Mr. Gawk’s answer was startling and convincing. He put the satchel on the table, unlocked the tin box and threw out on the table wads of greenbacks which he commenced counting. ‘One thousand; two thousand; three thousand!’ he announced and finally at the tenth thousand, Mr. Capitalist closed the matter.

“‘That’s enough. You’re all right! You’ve got the money.’

“Everything being ready the party started for San Jose. Mr. Capitalist and Mr. Apple Man discussed, in their own tongue the strange proceedings. Mr. Capitalist was of the fixed opinion that the gink needed a guardian badly.

“San Jose was finally reached, and then to find the reverend clergyman. The party stopped at a cigar store on one of the main streets. Did the cigarman know of a certain Rev. Mr. Blank. The cigarman did not, although he knew every priest and preacher in the village. Finally Mr. Capitalist took a hold of the matter.

“‘Wait here,’ he said, ‘I have a friend living around on the cross street. I’ll go and find out from him!’

“He disappeared, and after a short time returned. Alas! Alack, and oh, sorrow! His friend informed him that the Rev. Mr. Blank had died some three years ago!

“Mr. Gawk then threw another fit! He might have known it. His father had told him that the clergyman would be quite old! and his grief and tears were so uncomfortable that Mr. Appleman felt downright sorry for him. In order to restore him to his normal equilibrium it was deemed necessary to adjourn to another restaurant, and here the next act was staged.

“CHAPTER V. Who Would Disburse the Charity?”

“Mr. Capitalist was becoming vastly interested in Mr. Gawk’s worthy scheme. How did he propose to disburse this $36,000 to the poor? ‘Oh, give it to some charitable organization, or to some worthy, responsible persons to disburse!’ Mr. Capitalist ventured to gently suggest that his friend and himself would be willing to assume the burden if allowed. Yes, they’d been very kind to him, retorted the benevolent dispenser, but how did he know they were honest? Mr. Capitalist was outraged and showed his indignation (like Mae McGinnerty, the chorus girl). What, didn’t he know Mr. Appleman; hadn’t he heard of him—one of the leading citizens of Watsonville; was worth thousands of dollars; bought up apple orchards; had money to burn, etc. Hadn’t the gentleman and himself been high officials at one time in a ‘Home of Benevolence?’ Wasn’t it at their feet that Andy Carnegie sat and imbibed those benevolent instincts that prompted him to throw library buildings (without books) at the people? Oh, pshaw! Tish! likewise Tut! Tut!

“Mr. Gawk sorrowfully shook his head, and was hard to convince. He was suspicious of all men since the good clergyman had gone and died on him. Finally he allowed the reluctant admission to be drawn from him that he would trust them if they would put up some money to show their good faith. The money to be deposited with the $36,000 jack pot, and it all to be deposited in the Italian bank, corner of Market and Mason streets, in San Francisco. How much money would convince him? Not less than $3000. When they commenced to disburse the 36,000 bucks to the deserving poor, they could withdraw and retained their $3000.

“For a moment the demand was a poser, but the capitalist was equal to the occasion. ‘Well, all I’ve got about me is $1100,’ (and he threw that sum in greenbacks upon the table) ‘can you furnish the $2000?’

“Mr. Appleman could, but he didn’t have that much money about him. ‘Couldn’t he put in a check?’ But Mr. Gawk wouldn’t hear that. Nothing but greenbacks would do—so the upshot of the matter was that all hands repaired to one of the San Jose banks, where Mr. Appleman drew his check on one of the Watsonville banks for $2000. The San Jose bank called up the local bank and inquired to know (by phone) if Mr. Appleman was good for $2000. The local institution replied ‘Yes; if the signature was genuine,’ and Mr. Appleman being properly identified was handed over the sum.

“But luckily—and here is the nub of the story—the bank was short on greenbacks, had very few of the rags, and handed over the $2000 in bright and shining twenties [coins].

“Then the parties started for San Francisco; got there in due time, and started for the bank. They were proceeding up Market street, and had got to the block between Fifth and Sixth streets, and almost opposite the Italian bank, when an untoward happening took place. All of a sudden Mr. Gawk was taken ill. A sicker man was never seen. His [stomach] went back on him, and rushing to the edge of the sidewalk he began to vomit. There was no use of talking. The worry and excitement coupled with the fear of losing that train that evening was too much for him. His companions stood by him, and finally Mr. Capitalist suggested that some food might restore him, and ordered three chop sueys (why three chop sueys is the question); Mr. Appleman never liked chop suey, and whilst he didn’t countermand the order, didn’t taste the dish but drank his coffee. All this took place in one of the small dining boxes in the rear of the restaurant.

“Mr. Capitalist pitied Mr. Gawk and at length suggested that he ought to be in bed—anyway the sooner he got over to that Pullman and laid down the better for him. Instead of going over to the bank, why not bunch the money then and there, hand it over to Mr. Appleman and let the Watsonvillian deposit it in the bank.

“After considerable urging Mr. Gawk consented, he placed the tin box on the table, unlocked it and opened it, put out several of the greenback bundles on the table, slowly rearranged them in the box, took Mr. Capitalist’s $1100 in greenbacks, put them in the box, and then placed therein Mr. Appleman’s shining heavy $20 pieces.

“The table at which they were sitting was a narrow long affair. Mr. Capitalist sat at one end, facing him at the other end sat Mr. Appleman, and in the centre, on one side sat Mr. Gawk.

“The money had been placed in the box. ‘Wait a moment,’ said Mr. Gawk, ‘and I’ll lock it!’ So saying he deftly swept the box down in his lap.

“What followed, followed so fast that it almost baffles description.

“Whatever it was that excited Mr. Appleman’s suspicions he cannot remember. But as the box was put back onto the table, after being locked in the fellow’s lap (it took only an instant, and he never took his eyes off it), Mr. Appleman reached for the box and its lightness after having stored so many twenties, struck him. Suddenly arising, he jerked up his end of the table throwing the table on end into Mr. Capitalist’s lap, and there in Mr. Gawk’s lap was his bag of shining twenties. He made a step forward and reaching down suddenly seized the gold and ran out of the place.

“Evidently the other two were paralyzed by his sudden and unlooked-for move. They made no effort to follow him.

“Mr. Appleman ran rapidly up Market street...and never stopped until he reached the postoffice. Entering the building he rushed to the money order department and throwing the sack down, pale and trembling he demanded ‘$2000 in money orders on Watsonville!’ His strange appearance and his unwonted demand caused scrutiny. Who was he? Where did he come from? Why did he want so many orders? And the United States government represented by the postal department at San Francisco suspended business and invited him to explain himself in an inside private room.

“Pale and nervous he told them his name, where he came from, and that he wanted the orders. He told nothing about his adventure. Well, there was nothing to do but issue the orders which took some time, owing to his nervousness in signing the requisitions. Having got the orders he buttoned them safely in an inside pocket and then beat it out to a friend’s house where he stopped all night, returning to Watsonville the following day.

“During the trip up Mr. Gawk was quite lavish with money, and forced certain sums upon him to show good will for favors bestowed. Mr. Appleman was $35 or $40 ahead on the trip, plus a soon-uva-noon fright!

“But, mates! It was lucky that $2000 wasn’t in greenbacks. The gold spoiled the whole trick.

“And, again: Was the chop suey doped, or was it simply pie-gut?

“We might go on and tell how the local postmaster also threw a fit when he got an order from San Francisco to pay $2000, and there wasn’t that much money, just then, in the United States treasury at this place.

“But why go on! It’s a sorrowful tale, mates!”

“As an addenda to the above we clip the following from today’s Examiner which under the heading of ‘Man Drops $1300 in “Rich Uncle” Trick,’ says.

“Alex Dimoff, 2954 15th street, told the police yesterday that he was swindled out of $1300 on the “rich old uncle” trick a few days ago. The money, he says, had been saved after many years. He charges Miller Zunich as a party to the swindle.

“Dimoff says Zunich and another man persuaded him to give them his savings as security for many thousands of dollars he was allowed to distribute to the poor. He says they switched boxes on him. He found the box he held as “security” contained iron washers. Zunich and the other man have fled.” [see 12 Feb. 1916 to find out who Mr. Appleman was; also see 13 July 1916]

McHoul against the Pacific Fruit Produce Company of San Jose occupied the attention of the superior court yesterday. T. J. Horgan, a fruit buyer of Watsonville and agent for Mrs. McHoul was on the stand all morning.

“The plaintiffs are seeking to collect $739.31 from the San Jose concern alleging that this amount is still owing in part payments of three shipments of prunes made them from the Pajaro Valley last autumn.

“Mr. Horgan’s testimony tended to show that the prunes were inspected before purchase, properly weighed and sold under contract at an agreed price to the defendants...—Santa Cruz News.”

EP; 12 Feb 1916; article: “Says last evening’s San Francisco Call: Miller Zurich, declared by the police to be one of the cleverest bunko men in the game, who recently arrived here from Seattle, was arrested today by Detectives Burns and Gallivan on Market street as the man who bunkoed Alec Dimov, a restaurant man of 2954 Sixteenth street, out of $1300 a few days ago.

“Zunich was recognized in the crowd while walking leisurely along the street last night. According to Dimov, Zurich came to him to trade property, declaring he had a ranch at Watsonville. To make the trade, Zurich persuaded Dimov to put $1300 into a box containing a similar amount of Zurich’s money, and gave Dimov the box to hold. When Dimov open the box it contained iron washers.

“(Zunich is alleged to be the artist that got Mitchell Resetar of this city in his scheme for helping ‘The Deserving Poor’, as related in the Pajaronian last Wednesday.—Ed. Pajaronian.)”

This all occurred last Saturday evening on the Santa Cruz road near Freedom.

“This morning Bossich came to Mellander and asked for his bicycle, which the motor patrolman had confiscated after the flight. The bicycle was returned after a severe lecture and Bossich went down and purchased the necessary illumination for his machine and is now a sadder but wiser man.”

EP; 18 Feb 1916; article: “NOTED SERBIAN TO DELIVER LECTURE. Milan Marjanovich, vice president of the great Yugoslav Committee in London, the aim of which is to create a big south Slav state after the war, will be here tomorrow and will deliver an address tomorrow night at 7:30 o’clock in the I.O.O.F. hall to his local countrymen. Admission will be free and all Serbians, Yugoslavs, Croatians, Slavonians and Austrians are invited to be present as Mr. Marjanovich has a great message for them. For many years he was editor of the leading newspaper in Ragusa [Dubrovnik], Dalmatia, and is one of the best posted men on Austrian affairs that has visited the United States since the war opened. The committee in charge of tomorrow’s meeting is composed of Vido Lister, N. Stolich, Jakov Diklich, G. Milkovich, A. Vukich, G. Simunovich and A. Lucev.

“Mr. Marjanovich comes here also to consult with leaders of the South Slav element in the United States. He says there are over a million Serbians, Croatians and Dalmatians in America.

“His mission is to discuss with them national aspirations and plans, and to gauge their opinions as to whether the proposed new Slav state, which is to incorporate several Austrian provinces should have a republican or monarchical government.

“Marjanovich says he has obtained personal declarations from Sir Edward Grey and Premier Asquith that the union of the Austro-Slav territories and Serbia will be considered a ‘sine qua non’ by the allies when peace negotiations are opened. Marjanovich said:

“The Jugoslavs, the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes are by blood, language and tradition, no less than by their economic and political conditions, one homogenous nation, with identical aims in their national life. They are 5 millions strong in Serbia, and 9 millions in Austria.

“Here they have a nation of 14 millions divided against its will. The Slav subjects of Austria are also oppressed in an economic way. Of every dollar they pay in revenue, 56 percent goes into Austrian pockets. The Austrian government refuses to permit an independent industry in Dalmatia and Herzegovina, and goods manufactured in these provinces can be sent cheaper to Vienna and Budapest than to Slav towns in the immediate neighborhood.

“The great Slav state planned will be one of the richest countries in Europe. It contains the greatest copper mines in Europe, and is a great grain and fruit country. Austria, for reasons of its own, has not permitted the coast line to be linked up with the interior. Still two-thirds of the Austrian Mercantile Marine is in the hands of Marjanovich’s people.

“The southern Slav state will include Serbia, Montenegro, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Istria, Carniola, Dalmatia, Syrmia and Slavonia. It has a coast line of about 400 miles. It will possess two excellent ports, Fiume [Rijeka] in the north and Spalato [Split] in the south, as well as several smaller ones. It will control certain zones in the Adriatic.”

“In the superior court before a jury a $10,200 damage suit is going on, having started yesterday with the selection of the 12 men who are to decide on the merits of the case, and the presenting of some of the evidence for the plaintiff. Paul Arbanas is suing Fred L. DeBack and Annie Rowe, as the outgrowth of an accident in which the plaintiff claims that while on Salsipuedes road out of Watsonville on October 13, 1914, driving a team of horses hauling apples, he was run into by an auto driven by DeBack. It is claimed by the plaintiff that his wagon was tipped over, that he was thrown out and injured about the head and body, being rendered unconscious, and that as a result he has been permanently disabled. Witnesses for the plaintiff yesterday were Emery DeBack, John Souza, Jerry Driscoll and John Arbanasin.

“The defendants intend to show that while the auto was traveling along a country road the dog of Arbanas ran into the road, as it had after every auto passing, and landed against the front wheels of the machine, causing it to swerve to the left side of the road, where it was stopped. And the defendants claim that the wagon ran into the auto instead of the auto running into the wagon. Mrs. Rowe is made defendant to the suit because DeBack was acting as her agent and handling her property on the Salsipuedes road...”

EP; 4 Mar 1916; article: "LOCAL CENSORS FAVOR NOTED MOVIE PLAY. 'Damaged Goods,' the much talked of and widely advertised motion picture play, which has aroused such a storm of protest and approbation throughout the country in the past few months, was presented to a representative number of local business and professional men at the T. & D. Theatre this morning and at a conference of the censors held afterward it was almost unanimously decided that the famous play should be given here to the public in two weeks. As a result of the approval of the censors the T. & D. Theatre is arranging to present 'Damaged Goods' in this city on March 13 and 14.

"The picture, which is a six reel treatise on the deadly work of syphilis, the most loathsome venereal disease in the world, points out the manner in which parents can transmit the dread disease to their unborn offspring and it teaches a moral lesson that the local censors, but with two exceptions, believe should be shown to the children and older people of this community. A feature of the review of the film play this morning, which was appreciated by all present and which added to the enjoyment of the picture, was the rendition of a number of selections on the pipe organ by Miss Aura Thompson, the clever organist of the T. & D.

"Those that acted as censors of the picture and who viewed the famous plays were Rev. E. B. Hays, C. L. Thackeray, Father P. D. Hassett, Mayor W. A. Trafton Aldermen C. H. Lewis, R. S. Tuttle, P. A. Sager, P. A. Callaghan and J. R. Uren, former Mayor J. A. Hall, Chief of Police S. Whittsit, City Clerk M. M. Swisher, Secretary Frank E. Gates of the Y.M.C.A., Fire Chief Lawrence Sandberg, Deputy District Attorney Clayton W. Seevers, United States Marshal J. B. Holohan, Roy. V. Bailey, Charles McSherry and Mr. Underwood of the Register; E. H. Lorensen and Philip A. Cox of the Pajaronian; Doctors E. E. Porter, D. S. Woodard, G. S. Easterday, G. P. Tolman and L. M. Liles; F. P. Krough, Fred R. Hudson, E. B. Walling, N. H. Lovering, Garrett V. Baker, A. N. Judd, D. F. Leddy, H. A. Harrison, S. D. Menasco, Dr. Carl Kilburn, C. P. Rood, C. H. Baker, George Hrepich, Sidney A. Johl and William L. Waters.

"After the picture had been viewed Manager Mike Zar of the theater requested all the censors to meet in the rest room of the house and to give their opinions.

"The first speaker was Dr. G. S. Easterday, who heartily endorsed the picture. He stated it taught a strong moral lesson in a clean manner and he could see no harm in the picture as it was true to life and deals with problems that confront the physicians nearly every day. He further declared that the picture was not overdrawn and he strongly recommended that every young man and woman contemplating matrimony should view the play.

"Mayor Trafton also endorsed the picture and said he had viewed pictures in theaters in the past that were much worse than 'Damaged Goods.' His sentiments were echoed by Aldermen Uren, Sager and Tuttle and Alderman Callaghan, who having to leave before the conference, left word that he also favored the play.

"A. N. Judd said that if thousands of the old men now suffering because of folly in their youth had seen such a picture as 'Damaged Goods' while they were young they would not be in the condition that they now are. He was in favor of allowing boys of the age of 12 and girls aged 14 to see the picture believing that the age limit of 16 years did not cover enough of the children that should see the play. He stated that every school child over the age of 12 and 14, boys and girls respectively, should see the picture.

"F. P. Krough said the picture was a mild way of presenting the world's most horrible crime and he too thought that children under the age of 16 years should view the picture.

“Rev. C. L. Thackeray said it was most important that the young people should be properly instructed in such matters but while he heartily endorsed the picture yet he believed that a certain class should not be allowed to see it. He said that the picture should be shown, if possible, only to those that should see it, thus excluding those with morbid, evil minds. But he was in favor of the play and endorsed it. He stated, too, that Father Hassett, who had to leave the theater had left word that he could positively not endorse the picture for there was enough rottenness on the street without seeing it on the screen.

“Rev. E. B. Hays said he had seen nothing that gave him moral strength and declared that the picture was suggestive throughout and abnormal. He wished to enter a protest against allowing the general public to see the picture and would absolutely not endorse the film.

“James A. Hall said it taught a moral lesson and endorsed the picture in strong terms.

“Secretary Gates of the Y.M.C.A. said that if his son was 14 years of age he would like to have him see the picture. He declared that he heartily endorsed the picture and believed that the age limit should be set at 14 years.

“Dr. Porter said there should be no age limit at all. He was of the opinion that the picture was not a bit over drawing, but in fact was not strong enough.

“Deputy District Attorney Seevers said he had been instructed by District Attorney Smith to view the picture and pass upon its merits. He stated that if in his (Seevers’) opinion the picture was not fit to be shown Smith would have a bar from the County but Seevers said he would recommend that the picture be shown as it taught a strong moral lesson and should be viewed by everyone.

“Dr. Tolman said that ignorance was one of the greatest causes of venereal diseases and therefore he favored ‘Damaged Goods’ as being an educational play. He declared he could see nothing in the film to arouse the passions and he vouchsafed the opinion that the picture should not only be shown but should be publicly discussed.

“Sidney Johl said he endorsed the picture and gave several instances from personal observation of the horrible effects of syphilis.

“Philip Norde, the new T. & D. manager, spoke briefly calling attention to the fact that C. L. Langley, general manager of the T. & D. corporation, was of the opinion that the picture was fit for anyone to see or it would not be shown by the T. & D. company to its patrons.

“Manager Zar of the local theater then thanked the censors for their trouble and kindness and the meeting of the first board of motion picture censors in Watsonville was brought to a close.”

EP; 6 Mar 1916; article: “REV. HASSETT ROASTS THE CENSORS. One of the fiercest denunciations that we’ve ever listened to was delivered from the pulpit of St. Patrick’s Church in this city at 8 o’clock mass yesterday, by the pastor Father Hassett, about the forthcoming showing of ‘Damaged Goods’ at the T. & D. Theatre.

“‘Fierce!’ Well it was and then some! It brought back to our mind the good old days when the editor of the Pajaronian was at least once a month the subject of the reverend gentleman’s animadversions; when our name was ‘anathema!’

“Yesterday, however, our esteemed fellow-laborer in the field of journalism, Roy Bailey, editor of the Morning Register, was the offender—

“And Bailey got all that was coming to him—and some to spare.

“Likewise, so did that censoring committee that pronounced ‘Damaged Goods’ ‘O.K.! Go ahead and show it!’

“Wherein Bailey had offended Father Hassett does not appear clear to us. There was something in the item in yesterday’s Register about ‘Damaged Goods’ which was objected to.

“However, whatever it was, hanging was too good for Bailey!

“And as for the T. & D. theatre and its management the speaker evidently held no brief! He roundly denounced all who had anything to do with showing the picture. Words could hardly express his abhorrence and detestation of such a (as he expressed it) ‘rotten play!’

“And up in the front pews sat Mike Zar, the T. & D. manager, listening to the excoriation.

“Mike says it was the first time in six months that he had gone to church and ‘It was an awful deal!’ He is of the opinion that Sid and Raymond Jehl knew what was coming, and lured him there. Zar says that it is the last time he’ll be caught up in the front of any church ‘amongst the elders!’

“The manager of the Opera House, in fear and trembling, in the rear of the church ‘waited for his!’ Luckily, he only got a sideswipe!

“It never touched him!

“The Opera House hasn’t ‘closed down!’ It is still running.

“Father Hassett read the list of ‘those present’ at the censoring ceremony, and his facetious remarks [of] each name as he read them over from the printed slip convulsed his auditors with laughter. Some of his comments were calculated to burn.

“One incontrovertible statement made by the reverend gentleman was ‘A moving picture that needs any censoring at all, is not a fit picture to be brought into a town!’

“That was one of the most telling points in his denunciation. He also paid a tribute to Rev. Mr. Hays, of the Presbyterian church, for the stand that clergyman took.

“It was stated around town when the question of censoring ‘Damaged Goods’ was first mooted that the scheme was a clever advertising dodge.

“If it was, it was clever! Deucedly clever!

“For with all this agitation stirred up, and talk going on, we shall be surprised if the T. & D. theatre is not packed at every show of 'Damaged Goods.'

Gospodnetich did not only fail to light his lamps but was driving in the wrong part of the road and the collision resulted in his horse being so badly injured that it was necessary for the animal to be shot. It is also reported that Russell was driving too fast at the turn and the chances are that both men were to blame for the accident.”

EP; 22 Mar 1916; article: “TWO SERVIANS...REFUSE TO CONFESS...Yahan Crnoevich and O. Vancovich, the two men that attempted to murder Constable G. R. Cano of Pajaro shortly after midnight this morning on the Pajaro Road near the Pajaro school house, were captured early this morning by the Watsonville and Junction officers, both men being in the Watsonville Hospital as the result of being shot by the officers and Crnoevich is in such a critical condition that he is not expected to live. Vancovich was captured in the Watsonville Junction railroad yards about 4 o’clock this morning and in attempting to escape from Railroad Officer Marston, Deputy District Attorney Clay SeEVERS, Officer Frank Myers of Chinatown and Patrolman Corr of this city was shot in the left leg by Marston. Vancovich dropping in his tracks and surrendering.

“Constable Cano had received word from San Luis Obispo last night to watch out for two men, who are wanted in that section for felonies. Cano spent the early part of the night in watching all trains and in searching the Watsonville Junction yards and before midnight thought he would take a last look. He had started his tour and was returning to the Junction on his bicycle when he saw two suspicious characters walking on the road near the school house. He stopped and told the men to halt a moment as he wanted to see them. Their answer was a revolver shot, the bullet striking Cano in the mouth, tearing out all the teeth on the lower right jaw and deflecting into the jawbone, Cano afterward spitting out the bullet.

"Cano immediately opened fire and his first few bullets missed the men but one of them struck Crnoevich in the lower portion of the back. Crnoevich yelled, 'My God, I'm shot,' and with his companion disappeared into the dark school yard where Cano could not find them. Cano immediately notified the Watsonville officers and Chief of Police Whitsitt, Patrolman Corr, Patrolman Zimmer and Patrolman Whalen, Officer Marston of the Junction, Constables Devine and Mann, Officer Myers of Chinatown and Deputy District Attorney Seevers of this city, all armed to the teeth, started to look for the two men. Devine struck out for Manresa while the others honeycombed the Pajaro region.

"About 4 o'clock this morning Corr took a detour and returned to the railroad yards just in time to hear Railroad Officer Marston, who was accompanied by Seevers and Myers, order Vancovich to halt, which order was not obeyed after two shots had been fired. Marston then aimed at Vancovich and brought him down with a bullet in the leg near the knee. But Crnoevich was still at large and it was not until seven o'clock this morning that the wounded man was found by Oliver, Chief Whitsitt, Constable Mann and Patrolman Zimmer being on the scene soon afterward.

"This forenoon two automobile loads of deputies and officials arrived from Salinas, headed by District Attorney Walter E. Norris of Monterey county. In the party were Undersheriff Tom Phillips, Deputy Sheriff Jim Robinson, Officer O. M. Hiserman of Salinas and Court Reporter R. S. Spinks of Salinas.

"Upon searching the clothes of the two prisoners the officers found about $150 in cash, a diamond ring, a gold watch and what was more suspicious than anything the two men wore the latest kind of gumshoes, the shoes being among the most ingenious of workmanship yet seen by any of the local police. Each of the four shoes had rubber heels and rubber soles and heels and soles being smaller than the size of the shoes in order to give the police the impression in case they investigated any footprints that the shoes worn by the criminals would not fit the marks.

"That the two wounded men are wanted somewhere for a serious crime and that they are desperate characters is borne out by the circumstances of their arrest and their attempt to flee.

"Two burglaries took place last night at the Junction and the prisoners may have been the culprits in both places. James Carey frightened two men from his home near the Allison road last night while the sum of $16.50 was stolen from a pair of overalls belonging to Mr. Carso, one of the railroad section bosses.

"Both men are Servians and are young men, neither being over 30 years of age. They were well dressed. District Attorney Norris of Salinas tried to secure a statement from both men but Crnoevich was in such bad shape that it was impossible to get him to talk while his companion acted in a surly manner and would not divulge any of the facts in the case. Nick Lamat acted as interpreter..."

EP; 22 Mar 1916; item: "No more birth certificates will be recorded by the County Recorder D. F. Mahoney where the birth has occurred before a certain time, without court orders. This new order of things goes into effect at once, as a result of instructions which Mr. Mahoney has just received from the bureau of vital statistics at Sacramento.

"The bureau's order is based upon a recently enacted state law. It has been discovered that in some sections old birth certificates have been recorded in various counties of the state by people having ulterior motives. To forestall such practice in the future[,] physicians will be obliged to strictly adhere to the law, which requires certificates of birth to be recorded within 36 hours after birth.

"There is going to be a whole lot of people unpleasantly surprised on account of the failure of the family physicians to abide by the law,' said Mr. Mahoney. 'Many physicians have permitted births to go unrecorded for more than the time allowed by law, and the principles interested have been unaware of this.

"Now the procedure for such certificates will be the same as that for probating a will. A petition will have to be filed with the superior court and advertised for 10 days, in some newspaper, then a hearing will be had in the court, at which the petitioner will be obliged to offer proof of birth in the same manner as proof is offered in establishing a death. This all means money.'

"Mr. Mahoney suggests that all parents who have had children born to them see that certificates of birth are filed, and thus avoid the large expense of court proceedings later.—San Luis Tribune."

J. Smart, one of the Salinas constables. The man was suffering greatly from the pain in his leg that was caused by one of Cano's bullets and was also starved."

"Constable Smart and his family had started out for an automobile ride yesterday afternoon when Smart saw a man in the road ahead that looked like the wanted bandit. Smart halted his machine and asked the fellow what he was doing. Crnoevich was sullen and Smart pulled the fellow's coat aside with a quick jerk, disclosing one of the nightgowns used at the county hospital. There was then no doubt as to the identity of the man and leaving his family at Spence Switch Constable Smart returned to Salinas with Crnoevich, who was locked up in the county jail."

"For capturing Crnoevich Smart will receive a reward of $50. Crnoevich had evidently suffered painfully from his wound as he had reduced in weight considerably and in addition to his suffering he had probably been on short rations for the past eight days since his escape."

EP; 4 Apr 1916; item: "Is Watsonville to enjoy another apple show this year? That an apple show in October is a possibility was made known last night when the directors of the California Apple Show met in the offices of the Apple Distributors and discussed the advisability of holding another show in conjunction with an industrial exposition to be held under the auspices of the Merchant's Association."

"A meeting of the Apple Annual finance committee is being held this afternoon and after the meeting of the committee more definite news in regard to the apple show may be made public. The members of the finance committee are C. A. Palmtag, J. E. Gardner, F. S. Jerome, W. R. Radcliff, Luke Scurich and Mateo Lettunich, and they will discuss the financial question of the show from every angle."

"At present there is an indebtedness of about $2000 hanging over the apple show and those present last night felt that if that debt could be wiped out it would be a mighty good thing to hold an apple show this year. The apple crop this year promises to be one of the largest in the history of the valley and an apple show would no doubt be a big success if managed economically and handled in a proper manner. But the action of the finance committee will tell the tale and if the committee can devise ways and means to clean up the $2000 debt there may be another Apple Annual."

"We would suggest, however, if another apple show is proposed for this city, that before the question of financing the same or cleaning up the old indebtedness is taken up that a full and complete report of the financial expenses and receipts of the last show (held in San Francisco) be published. No report, according to our recollection, has been made on that show, and it would be well to publish one and do away with many of the distressing remarks prevalent around town at the close of that show."

"Unless you publish such a report, and take the public fully into your confidence, gentlemen, there will be no chance of pulling off another apple show until the San Francisco affair is forgotten."

"Those present last night were President O. D. Stoesser, Mateo Lettunich, Treasurer E. W. Ruppert, E. Steinhauer, George W. Sill, J. H. Rowe, F. L. Selleck and Secretary T. M. Wright."

Cano, brave Pajaro officer, visited the county jail this afternoon for the first time since his shooting. With all the teeth on his lower right jaw gone, he is still able to converse without trouble, and appears none the worse for his close call.

“He talked with both Crnoevich and Zidanovich. Both refuse to converse freely. Crnoevich admitted having been shot, but he did not know who shot him. He wanted to know who shot Cano.

“‘I’d like to get you out and give you a good-licking,’ said Cano, looking at his former assailant through the bars of the latter’s cell. The other, unperturbed, said he had never seen Cano before, did not remember having been hailed by him, saying he could not remember anything since he was shot, adding that he had had a ‘h—l’ of a time ever since. He said that his leg pained him some.

“Zidanovich, when asked if he remembered the fateful night, had ever seen Cano before, or how he came to be shot replied: ‘I don’t know, see my lawyers.’ He acted rather sullen, and more reticent than his partner. He denied having seen Crnoevich before. The similarity of the features of the two has been most striking, some of the officers venturing the opinion that they are brothers or some blood relation.

“Crnoevich was the nearest man to Cano, when the latter hailed the two, hence he recognizes him. When asked by Crnoevich why he did not kill him if he (Crnoevich) was really the man he had the revolver duel with, Cano replied that he was stunned and blinded by the shot in his jaw and could not see very well. ‘I have to eat soup now,’ said Cano, ‘but if I got another chance at you you would not be able even eat soup.’ — Salinas Index.”

EP; 27 Apr 1916; article: “Despondent over the loss of his ranch near Hollister through litigation with his former partner, Blas Pista of this city, Chris Milanovich, a well known fruit man of the Pajaro Valley, committed suicide yesterday afternoon in his room at the Steve Bulich home near Vega by blowing off the top of his head with a single barrel shotgun. Milanovich took advantage of the absence from the house of Bulich and a friend to commit his rash act. Milanovich placed the barrel of the gun in his mouth and pulled the trigger, the shot scattering his brains and blood over the floor, walls and ceiling of the room. He was instantly killed. Bulich and a friend were just outside the house and upon hearing the shot they rushed into the room only to find Milanovich’s dead body lying in a pool of blood upon the floor.

“Coroner Cornett of Salinas was called immediately and an inquest was held late yesterday afternoon, the jury in the case being composed of Messrs. Louis Frandsen, John Frandsen, Edward Frandsen, George Love, T. L. Cornell, R. Neill and Constable W. B. Mann of Watsonville. A verdict of ‘suicide’ was rendered.

“Three notes were left by Milanovich. One addressed to Coroner Cornett instructed that official to take $45 in gold from Milanovich’s purse and pay a few bills at Salinas, another letter written to Bulich gave the latter his watch, rings and other trinkets and the third letter stated that he wanted to be buried by an Austrian society in San Francisco of which he was a member.

“Milanovich was born in Austria and was aged about 40 years. He was a brother of Mrs. Charles Smith of this city and an uncle of District Attorney George W. Smith. He came to the United States early in the ‘80s and came to California soon after his arrival in America. At first he was associated with L. G. Sresovich in the commission business in San Francisco but in 1893 he went to Capitola to handle the Sresovich interests there, remaining at Capitola until 1900 when he came to Watsonville to start in the apple business. In 1901 he returned to San Francisco, but a few years ago he returned to the Pajaro Valley to go into partnership with B. Pista in a ranch near Hollister. The two engaged in bitter litigation as a result of their partnership and the result of the lawsuit was that Pista gained complete control of the ranch and Milanovich lost everything. This blow caused Mr. Milanovich to become a victim of deep melancholia and he brooded continuously after that. He was induced to come to Vega in an effort to forget his loss but it had so preyed upon his mind that he finally decided life was not worth living. In his last note he wrote ‘I wish Mr. Pista luck with the ranch,’ which showed that up to the hour of his death he had the disappointment still in mind...

EP; 23 May 1916; article: “Mrs. T. Knego of this city, was taken to the Watsonville hospital yesterday afternoon following her futile attempts to commit suicide by drowning in the river off Marchant street. A stranger that chanced to be near the scene of the attempted suicide pulled Mrs. Knego out of the water before she could accomplish her purpose and she was removed to the hospital where Dr. Porter took charge of her case.

“Mrs. Knego had been subject to melancholia recently and had complained of being lonesome, Mr. Knego being in the country most of the time. He promised, so she says, to come into town last Saturday to give her some money, with which she could pay some household bills, but he failed to put in an appearance and it is believed that she became so despondent that she thought life was not worth living and she decided to end her earthly existence.

"Mrs. Knego had walked to the river from Marchant Street and had chosen a small pool near that street. She leaped into the water but the unknown man that had watched her movements...jumped into the river and hauled her to shore. He immediately brought about her removal to the hospital but upon examination it was found that she was suffering more from the shock and despondency than from her immersion.

"When she had partially recovered from her experience she bitterly remarked that she should have tried suicide at night and not in the daytime. The police will keep a watch over her movements hereafter and her husband has been notified to take better care of her after this."

The growers will take one share for every acre of growing fruit they possess and the packer will pay on the basis of 4c per packed box, their share to be figured on their 1915 sales. There will be four payments of $2.50 per share, which will extend over a period of four years. The shares to be purchased by those other than packers and growers shall not be more than one fourth of the total stock...”

EP; 13 Jul 1916; item: "District Attorney George W. Smith was a visitor in the city from Santa Cruz yesterday afternoon looking into the various fisticuff affrays in this city recently."

EP; 13 Jul 1916; article: "Those two bunco men, who tried to victimize Mr. Resetar of this city, are at it again, and landed one Male Yezerac, of Davenport, yesterday for all of his savings, $1126.65, which he withdrew from the First National bank yesterday afternoon in order to put it with a large sum of money that was to be used for the relief of the orphans and those in need. Yezerac was to keep the whole amount, which was supposed to have been put into a suitcase, but which later proved to contain only some old newspapers."

"As soon as the game was discovered and even before it had been pulled off, says this morning's Santa Cruz Sentinel, Chief of Police Frank Hannah, who received a tip that the Davenport man was to be buncoed, went to work to locate the trio. Andy Balich, a friend of the victim, was asked to assist in the work, as it was the purpose if possible to get in touch with Yezerac before the trap was sprung. But this effort proved unsuccessful and the job was done. Then the work of catching the bunco men began."

"It was learned that the trio had secured an auto at Cedar's garage and were willing to pay anything to be taken to San Jose as quickly as possible. The big fellow of the gang engaged the auto and then went across the street to get the two smaller fellows. It was said that one of the men's sister was dying in San Jose, which was the cause of the haste. This was shortly after 3 o'clock and Cedar sent a man out with the car. The party reached San Jose at 3:40 and at a small saloon on Santa Clara street the men got out to get a drink, and at this point the driver of Cedar's auto returned. Officers all up and down the coast have been notified by Sheriff Howard Trafton to be on the lookout for these men."

"About four years ago Yezerac was swindled out of $65 by some gypsies and Andy Balich was successful in getting this money back for him. So aware of this fact, Chief Hannah went to Balich and asked him to help locate the man. They visited the Italian hotels about town without success. Balich even phoned the bank about 3 o'clock in the afternoon to stop the payment of any checks that Yezerac might have issued, or even to prevent him from drawing out any of his money, but it was too late. A man who knew Yezerac was found near the depot and was told to assist in locating the victim if possible. He found Yezerac at the depot later and told him that Hannah and Balich were looking for him; that they wanted to prevent him from being buncoed. 'Never mind, I am all right,' was the reply he received. This friend then accompanied Yezerac to Davenport and went to his cabin. The conversation that followed led to the opening of a valise that Yezerac had brought back with him, and the discovery of the old papers instead of fat rolls of greenbacks."

"Yezerac had spent the Fourth in San Francisco. On his way back a large man sat in the seat behind him and became quite friendly. He went to Davenport and stopped at the Ocean View hotel, where the friendship grew. Then there appeared upon the scene a smaller man, a young fellow who was in distress because he had a large sum of money left him to distribute among the orphans and the poor and he needed some help, which the big bunco man was willing to give and Yezerac consented to assist in any way that he could. The third man then appeared on the scene and yesterday the party came to this city. Nearly three hours they talked over the plans in Willow Grove park and the plot ended with the Davenport man going to the bank to get his money to put into the valise with that of the other men. The big bunco man then told Yezerac that he had better keep the funds, and sent him on to the depot, saying they would meet him there by the time the train left for Davenport."

"The first arrest made for illegal killing of deer was made in this county this season, when Game Warden J. H. Hill and Sheriff Croxon took Tony Radich and three companions, Watsonville residents, into custody for shooting a 'spike' buck near Mulberry. Radich pleaded guilty to killing the deer and was fined $50 by Justice Agnew.

"Radich, in shooting the animal, committed two distinct offenses: the killing of the deer during the closed season and the killing of a 'spike' buck, which is unlawful at any time.

"The Watsonville party went to Mulberry to get some horses, saw the deer and shot it. They assert that they supposed that it was a coyote and that the rancher whose land they were on told them it was a coyote. The manner of telling the story was not very convincing.

"The men threw the carcass into their vehicle but after driving a few miles concluded to get rid of it and cast it over a roadside bank. The matter was reported by a resident of the district to the authorities and Radich and his friends were arrested on the road entering town. The carcass of the deer was recovered and given into the custody of the game warden..."

“Boule and Marko Biladj were driving along a straight stretch of the road 3 miles this side of Gilroy at about 22 miles an hour, according to L. Brajkovich, in whose machine they were driving, when Dr. J. M. Wolfhson, of 2502 Fillmore street, San Francisco, came up behind them and in turning out to pass them, misjudged the distance and ran into the rear of the Brajkovich machine, throwing it into the ditch at the side of the road and turning it completely over. Boule was hurt on the right side of the head and in the right shoulder, besides being bruised and scratched. Marko Biladj was badly cut on the right side of the neck by the glass from the broken windshield and his back was severely wrenched; he was bruised about the right leg also.

“Dear Sir: You are advised that under the provisions of the Ordinance No. 357, commonly termed the ‘Green Fruit Ordinance,’ fruit that may be immature at the time may be shipped and sold for storage but before you can permit any sale or shipment you must require satisfactory evidence that the sale is intended for storage only and not for immediate human consumption.

“The purpose of the ordinance is to prevent the offering to the consumer of green fruit.

“Care should be exercised also in determining whether or not the fruit can be properly matured in storage.

“The ordinance was drawn as nearly as possible to fit the condition of the fruit business in this county, and the enforcement of the same according to its spirit, intent and purpose can work no hardship on the industry.

EP; 19 Aug 1916; item: “...NOTES FROM HIGH SCHOOL. The long anticipated inter-class tie-up took place Friday afternoon immediately after the dismissal of classes. The Sophomores changed their clothes in the football room while the Freshmen got into their fighting togs underneath the janitor’s house. The Sophs then serpented around the football field while the girls of the class sang a class song composed particularly for the occasion.

“The signal for the melee was then given and for the next 27 minutes there was nothing to be seen but ripping garments, ropes and occasionally a pair of tousled heads protruding from a dust cloud. When the last Fresh had been securely tied and stowed away in his particular place four Sophomores were still untied and ready for action so that the second-year men were adjudged the winners.

“This was the hardest fought tie-up that has ever been staged on the local high school campus. Several participants fainted from exhaustion, one being out for about 30 minutes. About 20 of the mothers of some of those who took part in the affair were present and were somewhat frightened when they saw their sons buried under a struggling mass of young humanity.

“After the whistle had blown and the winners had extracted the dust and dirt from their eyes and hair they were treated to ice cream and cake furnished by the girls of their class.

“The judges for the tie-up were Lester McGowan, John Fahey, Louis [Lewis] Lettunich, Elmer DeBack, Henry Blohm, John Strazicich, Waldo Maher, Irving Anderson and Jeffrey Wilson...”

Wit of North Yakima, Washington, is here in the interest of the Nelson Fruit Sizer of apples, lemons, pears, onions, peaches and potatoes that is on the market, Mr. Wit having opened offices in the Alaga Brothers’ packing house on Walker street, where he will gladly demonstrate his machine to all interested parties.

“The construction and operation of the Nelson Fruit Sizer is something out of the ordinary but the machine works successfully and its best boosters here are Alaga Brothers, the San Monte Fruit Company, E. B. Lettunich, Alaga Bros. & Lettunich, the A. Balich Fruit Co., Resetar Bros., B. Pista, and M. V. Pista who have all purchased machines and who are using them at present in their respective packing houses. The principle upon which the machine works, is in weighing the fruit as it passes in a circular route in the cups. Apples of a certain weight hit certain trips and drop into the canvas bins for the packers. The machine can be adjusted to handle only certain sizes if necessary and all apples not of those sizes pass back to a bin for further distribution when needed. Culls are dumped automatically before the apples reach the weighing cups. The apples can be brought direct from the field to the packers and both time and labor are saved as it requires but four sorters, one tender and 10 packers to do what twice that number can do without the machine. The sorter is operated by a one-eighth horsepower motor and the cost of operation is stated to be but 12½c a day.

“The machine has a capacity of two cars per day and can turn out from 1200 to 1500 boxes daily.

“Mr. Wit intends to reside here permanently and will be glad to talk to anyone interested in his machine.”

EP; 30 Aug 1916; article: “It was rumored about town this morning that an attempt had been made to burn E. B. Lettunich’s new packing house on West Third street but an investigation of the case disclosed the fact that the scare was caused by a drunken man trying to light a cigar in one corner of the building. The man was Tom Wilson by name and was a hard working man, who had come to town looking for work and had acquired too much liquid refreshment. He had strolled down to the Lettunich packing house, which is yet uncompleted, and had crawled a foot or so under the platform to light his cigar. He had struck several matches before Ed Norris, the mounted watchman, was attracted by the glare of a match. He investigated and found Wilson, whom he turned over to Officer Whalen.

“This morning Fire Chief Sandberg and Officer Corr investigated the case and after their efforts had satisfied them that Wilson had meant no harm they so notified Chief of Police Whitsitt, who had Wilson released from jail.”

EP; 31 Aug 1916; article: “Despite the fact that the Southern Pacific Company will not accept shipments of apples to any point tomorrow, after three o’clock in the afternoon and will only take shipments today as far north as San Francisco[,] only a few of the packing houses in the city have closed today and only a few that are now open intend to close until they see just how long the strike to be called Monday will last...”

“A visit through the packing house section this morning found nearly all the houses in action. Most of the houses have considerable fruit on the floor and they will pack that and clean up the plants before they close up shop. A few of them are shipping to San Francisco today but all southern shipments have been called off. The general impression among the packing house owners and managers seems to be that the strike will not last long. They feel it would be a good policy for them to pack up all the fruit they can and either put it in storage or keep it in the packing houses so that if the strike is called off they will be prepared to ship it out at once.

“M. N. Lettunich of M. N. Lettunich & Company says he is for preparedness. ‘I am going to keep my house going,’ he said, ‘and when the strike is over I will be prepared to ship the fruit out at a moment’s notice...’

“Resetar Brothers have the largest output of apples this season of all the packing houses and their plant today was a busy place. Both Mitchell and Michael Resetar stated they would clean up the fruit on hand so that if the strike was called off they would be ready to ship out apples. The Resetars have shipped about 38 cars of Bellefleurs so far and still have between 35 and 40 cars to ship out, most of which will go to the East. Their plant will send out about 170 cars for the season and they will continue to keep their plant working until they get a line on just what the railroad strike will amount to...”

“District Attorney Geo. W. Smith’s biennial report to Attorney General U. S. Webb, covering the two years ending June 30, 1916, has been made. During the first six months of this time Judge Knight was the district attorney. The report shows that the total number of persons charged with criminal offenses was 64. Of this number 7 were convicted, 39 pleaded guilty, 5 were acquitted, 7 were disposed of before trial, and there are 6 pending trial, or retrial after judgment...”

“This is considered a fine record for any prosecuting attorney, and certainly reflects great credit on Mr. Smith, for this is the first half of his first term as a prosecuting attorney, and in some of the more important cases he had arrayed against him the best legal talent in this part of the state, men with years of experience as criminal lawyers, and there have been some hard fought battles, with the local prosecutor holding his own with the best of them...

"Another very important matter in connection with the handling of criminal cases is to secure, if possible, a confession of guilt and thus save the county the heavy expenses of trial. In this connection the report shows 39 prisoners pleading guilty. To bring about a confession of guilt in most instances is to confront the defendant with such complete evidence that he sees at once that his case is hopeless. This often requires a great deal of work on the part of the prosecution..."

"It was said that Smith would not be able to secure convictions in cases of violations of the liquor laws, but in this line he has succeeded in almost every case and has secured heavy fines against the offenders. At present there are five such cases pending."

EP; 21 Sep 1916; article: "John Bacca, an Austrian, who has been conducting the Jacks' orchard across the river, between the Corey home and the Associated Oil pumping stations, shot himself in the stomach Tuesday and was found dead by his wife. No cause can be attributed to the suicide, as his finances and business were in fine shape.

"He borrowed the shotgun from his partner, saying that he wanted to kill crows. He went to the far corner of the orchard, tied a string on the trigger and opening the front of his shirt placed the barrel of the gun against his abdomen and pulled the trigger. A round hole was tore into the stomach where the shot entered.

"Bacca with his partner have been running the Jacks' orchard, besides raising beans, potatoes, alfalfa and other produce. The crop prospects this year are most promising, and his bride of July 4, claims that their married life was most happy, no reasons can be attributed for the rash act.—Salinas Journal."

EP; 21 Sep 1916; article: "The Days Gone By. (Written by Edward H. Lorenson.) As Americans we are prone to forget the history of the past in considering the present and future and as the years roll on we forget the 'days of old' and the history connected with them. Pajaro Valley in the early days was not what it is today. Conditions have so changed here since the early pioneer days and even in the past 15 or 20 years that those living here in those times would not recognize the present city of Watsonville as being the straggling village of the days long goneby. For that reason the Pajaronian will each day tell something of the olden days so that the present generation may learn something of the past history of the community and that the older people may indulge in pleasant reminiscences of the past. The first article will be published today and the other articles will follow in their daily order until the series is completed..." [a long, interesting story of the early days of Watsonville follows, “Yesterday J. M. Davidson, who works nights at Spreckels, had his purse stolen from his person as he slept in his room at the German house. When he awoke from slumber the money was gone.

“According to this story he came into town from Spreckels and met a young Slavonian by the name of Mike Jokichi and that they had a drink or two together and that the young Slav asked him for the price of a meal. Not having any change he gave Jokichi a dollar and told him to go eat. He did go, but when he came back he didn’t give Davidson any change, but went along with him up to his room. The two lay down on Davidson’s bed and Davidson went to sleep. When he awoke he was alone and penniless.

“Complaint was made to Chief Thomson and a description of the Slav was given. Thomson caught him today rolling money along the street. When searched all he had was $3.35. The chief investigated his career and discovered that he had treated a bunch of fellows and had changed a $20 gold piece at that time. Later he bought a $3 pair of shoes. What he did with the rest of the $25 that he is alleged to have taken is a mystery. If he didn’t throw it away he must have had a confederate. Davidson has a recollection of someone else being in the room while he was lying down before Jokichi left.

“Chief Thomson has arrested Jokichi and has shown out a complaint against him, charging grand larceny. The accused denies everything, even to being in the room with his alleged victim.”

J. A. Cottle was the first editor and owner and the name of the paper was given by J. J. Owen, who at that time owned the San Jose Mercury. The Pajaronian has retained its name since that time. C. O. Cummings succeeded Cottle and in 1876 a half interest was purchased in the Pajaronian by W. R. Radcliff, now cashier of the Bank of Watsonville. In 1880 Mr. Radcliff purchased Mr. Cummings’ interest and became the sole proprietor of the paper. In 1902 James G. Clough, who changed its name to the Register and moved it from the upper story of the Hildreth block, on Main street into one of the two stores at present occupied by the Pajaronian office, corner West Third street and Stoesser Alley. As far as could be learned today one car each was lost by Raphael & Murphy, George R. Bubresko, M. N. Lettunich Company, James Sheehy, Corralitos Fruit Growers Association and the Loma Fruit Co. "As a result of today's meeting District Attorney Smith will prepare a petition to the board of supervisors asking for the election of trustees in the district.

"It is problematical whether the supervisors will call for the election as they have had considerable trouble in the past over protection matters and will be inclined to shy at the words 'Protection District.' The leading signers of the petition for a protection district along the river several years ago agreed to stand back of the board in the project but have since fallen down on their word, and the supervisors are now facing a civil action in the courts that will cost them thousands of dollars if they lose, and the expensive of which will amount to several hundred dollars apiece if they win out."

EP; 9 Nov 1916; article [see intro to this series under 21 Sept.]: "The Days Gone By (Written by Edward H. Lorenson.) The Apple Industry. The first orchard in the Pajaro Valley was planted in 1853 by the late Jesse D. Carr and was located about 2 miles east of Watsonville on what is known now as the Silliman ranch. This orchard was about 2 acres in area and the apples grown were of mixed varieties for home use only. The second orchard planted in the valley was put in by William F. White, father of Edward White, U.S. Immigration Commissioner, in 1854, and in the next few years several small family orchards were planted in various parts of the valley. The Cooper family planted a few trees on their lots in the town of Watsonville and a man named Scott had several trees growing where the plaza now stands. In 1857 G. M. Bockius set out 52 trees of various varieties but it remained for Isaac Williams and Judge R. F. Peckham to set out the first commercial orchards in 1858. Williams planted 13 acres of apples on land now owned by the K. F. Redman estate and Peckham planted his orchard on what is now the Gally ranch. At that time the most popular varieties of apples were the Smith Cider, Rhode Island Greening, Rambo, Gravenstein, Jonathan, Newtown Pippin and Bellefleur, but later some of these varieties were abandoned for more successful and prolific fruit.

"Between 1860 and 1865 the acreage of apples increased quite a bit but the future success of the apple industry was left largely in the hands of Jacob Blackburn, who planted in the winter of 1861-1862 what was called the model orchard for many years. He put in 13 acres to apples and successfully demonstrated just what varieties could best thrive in this valley. In the same winter James Waters planted 1900 apple trees on bottom land now owned by William Birlen near the St. Francis School. These trees were destroyed in the flood of 1862 but that did not deter the growth of the apple industry here.

"In the next few months the orchards of J. M. Rodgers, Louis Martinelli, Daniel Tuttle, Charles Smith, Luna Smith, Thomas Beck, Mike Gagnon, Dunlap and others had been planted but because of the lack of proper transportation facilities there was no marketing of apples until about 1875 and the prices were nearly always about 25c or 30c per box. The first shipment of apples from the valley was made by Isaac Williams, who sent them to San Francisco by way of boat via Hudson's Landing. Charles Williams, a local merchant, then inaugurated the idea of buying the crop on the trees and to handle the output, this occurring about 1869. In 1870 the total acreage planted to apples in the valley was not over 250 acres but when the railroad was completed into the valley in 1870 the acreage began to pick up.

"The first fruit buyer into the valley was Marco Rabasa of San Francisco, who dropped into this territory in 1876. L. G. Sresovich was the next to come and after that the demand for Pajaro Valley apples began to grow stronger and more orchards were planted every year. The climax was reached in 1901 when 156,000 trees or 1,780 acres were planted to apples and more have been planted since. The most extensive planting did not begin until after 1890 but it continued steadily after that.

"Today the Pajaro Valley is the largest individual apple shipping point in the world. The industry that was once frowned upon as being one of no value to the community has since become the main industry of the valley and it will continue to be so for many years to come, no doubt."

EP; 11 Nov 1916; article: "AUTO TRUCK MAY SOLVE SHIPPING PROBLEM. Whether or not the car shortage problem will be solved in the future by the transportation of apples on automobile trucks to the Bay City markets depends on the success of the trial shipment that was made today by N. M. Borina, the well known West Third Street fruit packer. This morning he loaded 410 boxes of apples on Bart Driscoll's auto truck and trailer and with Driscoll at the wheel the load started for Oakland.

"Mr. Borina was forced to ship his apples to Oakland by truck or lose a profitable sale. There were no 'reefers' in the local railroad yards and the chances were slim of getting any within the next few days so Borina decided upon an experiment that may yet threaten to revolutionize the shipment of apples to state points not too far distant from Watsonville.

"Mr. Borina states that two trips in three days can be made to the San Francisco Bay section by the present service. The shipping of apples from the valley by auto trucks has long been discussed by fruit men of the community but Borina is the first man to start a trial trip. The fruit men of the city are watching for the results of Borina's experiment and if it is a success the car shortage problem may in future year years be far from a serious trouble. The automobile truck may yet revolutionize the transportation of apples in the state of California.

"Twenty-eight 'reefers' arrived in the local yard this morning and a special train of cars is expected to arrive tonight so that the local apple shippers may secure some relief from the car shortage. Many of the local packing houses would have been closed before this time had the car shortage not occurred but under the present circumstances the majority of the packing houses will not close before December 1st."

“The new restaurant has a ladies’ entrance with 10 booths for the use of ladies and families and on the other side of the main dining room are six booths for the sole use of men. The main dining room has been greatly enlarged and a separate banquet room has been fixed up immediately in the rear of the dining room. The grill has been completely repapered, replastered, repainted and refloored and it is one of the cleanest and most modern grills and restaurants in this part of the state. The kitchen has been moved to the rear of the main California Restaurant building and has also been renovated and improved.

There have been a number of complaints made to the police about men following women on the back streets at night and the police are determined that it shall stop. It is high time that some of these miscreants be treated to a coat of tar and feathers, as a fine of a few days in jail will not improve conditions."

EP; 23 Nov 1916; letter to editor: "Ed. Pajaronian—A few days ago a poor, honest, hard-working man, of foreign birth, and unable to speak the English language, was arrested and brought to justice for the unpardonable crime of following a woman.

"The charge may be true (?) but the poor ignorant man was made a victim of circumstances. He stated his case to me, and when I offered to go and speak for him he said he would not face the notoriety and would rather throw up his job, forfeit his bail of $25 and leave town, which he did.

"This business of following a woman is a too common occurrence. The subject is not worth dwelling upon at length; but I will venture to say, it is a 50-50 chance as to whether the man is following the woman, or the woman leading the man; and if this awful crime on the man's part was punishable by hanging there would not be enough Manila rope in town to hang all the criminals.

"It is too bad that this poor ignorant mute, unfamiliar with modern ways and language, had to fall prey so that the dignity of the city might be exemplified, while the 'Wise Guy' who allows playing cards for money (not gambling), sells cigarettes to minors, deals in lottery tickets, violates the speed laws, expectorates on the sidewalks, and last, but not least, will beat you out of the sweat of your brow, goes unmolested merrily on, singing 'I Love You California.'—J. EP; 8 Dec 1916; article: "A dastardly attempt to rape a young girl resident of this city was made by two well-known boys around town, and Chief Whitsitt has been working on the case since yesterday. It first appeared as a rumor and was extremely hard to run down.

"As the story goes the girl was invited to take 'an auto ride for a few blocks around town,' last Wednesday afternoon, by a young man with whom she was acquainted. She was walking towards her home, after a girlfriend who had been accompanying her left her. The lad was in his father's auto, and drove up alongside the sidewalk, on Sudden street (or one of the streets in that neighborhood) and asked the young lady to jump in and he would take her home in his auto. She refused the invitation and said she preferred to walk. Thereupon he playfully caught hold of her arm and although she remonstrated, forced her into the car.

"The car sped up the street and the girl supposed the fellow intended to take her home via Main street, past the Catholic church. Instead, the car was turned towards Freedom and out on the road, at the Heights, the second fellow was waiting, and jumped into the auto.

"The girl protested and said she wanted to go home. Her fears were quieted. 'It was only a little ride! They would turn off at Freedom, and come home by way of East Lake avenue.'

"...The auto turned down the Holohan road and when the most lonely part of that thoroughfare was reached, the girl was attacked.

"The girl, horrified, fought bravely in defense of her honor, and succeeded in foiling the scoundrels, until finally she frightened them to the extent that they desisted—not before, however, she was badly bruised, scratched and her clothes torn. Taking the half-conscious victim of their attempted crime back to town, in the auto, they dropped her about a block from her home, threatening to kill her if she told her parents or anyone what had happened.

"The names of the parties are not given as it might interfere with the plans of Mr. Whitsitt who is investigating the affair. Those cognizant of the charges made are horrified at the boldness of the young miscreants, and if the charges are true, it is likely to go hard with both boys, as an example will be made of them. We are informed that both lads are not over 17 years of age.

"District Attorney Smith is out in the valley, this afternoon on business with Supervisor Marcus, and on his return to town the affair will be laid before him for action."

EP; 9 Dec 1916; article: "CRIMINAL ASSAULT IS ADMITTED. William O'Brien, Jr., son of William O'Brien, and John Strazicich, son of Mrs. Helen [sic Katherine] Strazicich, both well known young high school students of this city, were arrested last evening upon charges filed in Judge A. B. Hawkins' court alleging that the two youths criminally assaulted a young girl of this city.

"District Attorney George Smith...was made acquainted with the facts in the case by Chief of Police Whitsitt and Deputy District Attorney Clay Seevers. Immediately Smith ordered the arrest of O'Brien and Strazicich, who were taken into custody by Officer Corr soon afterward.

"O'Brien was taken by Smith, Seevers and Whitsitt to the city hall where he was sharply interrogated and practically confessed to the crime. Just as the officers had secured practically an entire admission of the facts in the case Attorney Gardner, who had been retained by the young man's father, entered the room and ordered young O'Brien to stop talking. The officers then visited Strazicich in the city jail and he practically confirmed everything that O'Brien had confessed to...The two confessions were to the effect that the attack upon the young girl was due to a prearranged plot, which the two youths hatched while riding about town Wednesday afternoon. Strazicich waited upon the heights whilst O'Brien in the auto, went back to town to look for the girl. When Strazicich boarded the machine on the heights he took over the wheel of the car while O'Brien jumped over the back of the seat in order to be by the side of his victim. That the young scoundrels did not accomplish their fiendish purpose was only due to the brave fight for her honor put up by the girl.

"About 8 o'clock last evening both lads were taken before Judge A. B. Hawkins and were released upon $2000 bail. Wm. O'Brien, father of the O'Brien boy, went on his bond; and Mateo Lettunich went on the bail bond for the Strazicich lad. Both boys did not seemingly appreciate the enormity of their offense, and were inclined to treat the whole proceedings with levity. It is to be hoped that, ere long, they may be made to see things in a different light.

"Both boys were ordered to be in court next Monday morning...when District Attorney Smith will prove that the youths are under the age of 18 years and therefore subject to the jurisdiction of the juvenile court. Attorney J. E. Gardner represents young O'Brien and Attorney A. W. Sans is appearing for young Strazicich.

"Both young men are said to be under the age of 18 years and therefore cannot be sent to a penitentiary if found guilty but the officers are determined to send the youths to a reform school and will combat any and all attempts made to have the defendants released upon probation.

"Mrs. Strazicich, the mother of one of the defendants, has been seriously ill for over a week past and the news of her son's arrest has been kept from her. The family is afraid that if the news is told her she will suffer a relapse and her condition will become more critical than it now is.

"Nothing that has occurred here in years has aroused the city as has the outrage perpetrated by the two young men. The highest feeling of indignation is felt on all sides and everyone feels that the full measure of justice should be meted out to the young men for their diabolical crime. The prominence of the two youths has served to fan the interest in the case to fever heat. Both came from two of the best known families of the city and both were prominent students at the high school. Strazicich was not only athletic manager at the high school but a member of the high school basketball team, a leader in other school activities and a well known Y.M.C.A. member and athlete. O'Brien did not have the ability of his confederate but seemingly his sole ambition was to parade up and down the streets in his father's automobile. Last year O'Brien ran away from town with another youth but was located in San Francisco.

"The sorrow and shame that these two young rascals have brought to their parents and relatives, and the fact that we do not wish to add to their sorrow precludes this paper from expressing, in fitting terms, its opinion of O'Brien and Strazicich's monstrous crime."

EP; 9 Dec 1916; article: "This morning our attention was called, by several citizens, to a report extant that the proprietor of one of our local stores had discharged from his employ the young girl who was the unfortunate victim of the brutal assault of the O'Brien and Strazicich lads... and asked us to make some comment on the matter.

"We informed them that in order to deal intelligently with the subject it would be necessary for us to hear this man's side of the question, and accordingly interviewed him on the subject...

"The party stated that he had had the young lady in question employed in his store—some time ago; and that she was to come to work again next Monday, but that under the present circumstances, he thought that it would be rather embarrassing for her to meet so many people who would come into the store for no other purpose than to see her, and, that whilst he had not dismissed her, he had told her that she 'needn't come unless she wanted to,' and that she said 'all right!'

"We concede that this man has the right to conduct his business as he sees fit, but we deplore the angle this affair has taken. His account of the matter differs totally from what was told to us this morning, viz: that a boy had come to the girl's residence this morning, and told her that she need not report for work.

"The case is this: Here is a good, virtuous girl, attending strictly to her own business, on her way to her home, accosted by a young man, whom she has no reason to distrust, and invited to ride in his auto to her residence. She refuses, but finally is almost forced to enter the vehicle. Then, rapidly, the auto speeds to a lonely unfrequented road, where an attempted assault is made upon her.

"The girl is a good girl—all accounts agree on that point. That she is a virtuous girl is evidenced by the desperate and winning fight she put up in defense of her honor.

"Now this girl is a heroine. She deserves honor not only for the fight she put up, but also for the example she has shown to any girl in this city—who may be caught in a similar trap. Her example was a glorious one, and she should receive the credit due her heroic action.

"But, if we are to withdraw our countenances from her because she was made the attempted victim of a cowardly assault, where is she to turn to?

"Is it not our duty to give her that assistance and meed of praise that her defense warrants? What has been her offense, that we should be afraid that her presence in our place of business would be detrimental to our business?

"We are sorry that this phase of the matter has come up, and regret, exceedingly that the misfortune of the brutal affair should rest upon the innocent victim, rather than upon the perpetrators of the dastardly assault, who, out on bail, are probably considering themselves objects of persecution on the part of the officers.

"It is up to this community to take a firm stand. Are we going to stand by this girl in her day of trouble; or, are we to point to these two boys as models of our training for future citizenship of this great nation?

"Is the virtue of our daughters worth defending? or, are we going to make this girl's brave action an unforgivable offense?"

ing will be held on December 27, at 10 a.m. and their bail is fixed at $1500 each.

“William O’Brien Jr., and John Strazicich, the two young men accused of attempting to criminally assault a young lady in the city last Wednesday, appeared before Judge Hawkins in the justice court this morning and were certified to appear in the superior court at Santa Cruz this afternoon at 2 p.m. The young men were represented by their attorneys, J. E. Gardner appearing for O’Brien and A. W. Sans for Strazicich, and the hearing only lasted a few minutes, neither of the defendants being placed upon the stand nor any other witnesses appearing.

“It was established that O’Brien was born on June 27, 1901, and Strazicich on November 6, 1899, which places both under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court. District Attorney Smith and County Probation Officer G. P. Denett were present at the hearing...

“It developed that Superior Judge Knight can either send the boys to the reform school this afternoon or can remand them back to the justice court for trial on a penitentiary offense. The new juvenile court law makes it possible for juvenile offenders against public decency to be sent to state prison and this may yet be done in the O’Brien and Strazicich cases.”

A three years’ term in some disciplinary school in California or a similar term in some state reform school if such a school as that first named cannot be found, and banishment from Watsonville for the next three years in any event, was the sentence passed out this afternoon in Santa Cruz by [Superior] Judge Knight to Willie O’Brien and John Strazicich, the two Watsonville youths, found guilty of attempted rape.

“The two boys are to remain at the detention home in Santa Cruz, as the wards of the Juvenile Court of this county, until some disciplinary school in the state can be found to send them to, but if no such home as described by Judge Knight can be found the boys will have to serve their sentence in one of the reform schools.

“Under no circumstance whatever, are the boys to visit Watsonville for any purpose within three years. Judge Knight stated that he did not wish to send the boys to a state reform school if some other kind of school could be found but unless such an institution could be located he would direct that the youths be sent to Ione or Whittier.

“If a school is found that satisfies Judge Knight, the tuition of the boys at such disciplinary school will have to be paid by their relatives.

“He was found sick unto death on the streets last Thursday by Chief of Police Hannah and was rushed to the county hospital, where he died Saturday of quick pneumonia.

“The only possible clue to the man’s home and nationality is the address of his mother left on a slip of paper in the hands of Superintendent Crews of the hospital. EP; 7 Mar 1917; article: “SPUR TRACK IS FAVOR-ED...Upper Walker Street Residents Win Fight at Last; Third Time Lucky. After listening to arguments pro and con from lawyers, citizens and members of their own body for over two hours last night the board of aldermen unanimously went on record as being in favor of the construction of an industrial spur track down the center of upper Walker street from West Lake Avenue to Ford street, the granting of this privilege, however, to be conditional upon the acceptance by the petitioners asking for the spur under certain restrictions and regulations.

“This is the third time that the Walker street spur proposition has been a bone of contention before the aldermen. The last big fight was in July, 1911, when the petition was denied. Attorney J. E. Gardner, who represented the Hihn-Hammond Lumber Company at that time, which concern was opposed to the spur, was representing the same firm and taking the same stand last night but Attorney Edward J. Kelly, who was associated with Attorney Gardner on behalf of the protestants from the San Andreas district six years ago, was on the other side last night as attorney for the petitioners.

“After the petition of Peter Stolich and others asking for the spur had been read Attorney Gardner introduced two protests, one signed by the Hihn-Hammond Co., and 68 other firms and residents of the territory contiguous to Walker, Kearney, Sixth, Fifth streets and Lake Avenue, and the other was signed by 32 residents of the San Andreas district, who claimed that upper Walker street was their only direct route into this city.

“The first petition was signed by the Hihn-Hammond Lumber Co., Crown Cordial & Extract Co.; Mrs. John Leoni, H. P. Iverson, W. A. East, B. Arias, E. Y. Dollenmeyer, L. V. Willits Estate, A. G. Vyeda, Mrs. Nellie Heal, Mr. and Mrs. George Sassilo, S. N. Brinkworth, Grant Stewart, Ed. Rianda, Chris Bertelson, Mike Resetar, Secondo Brothers, B. F. Nirich, Albert Dethlefsen, Frank Saveria, John Pekoch, Boso Boskovich, Valley Evaporating Co., C. W. Stebbins, G. L. N. Johnson, E. T. Kephart, Mrs. R. H.

Pardee, Constance Pardee, R. H. Pardee, Watsonville Ice & Cold Storage Co., M. D. McDougall, Edward Kelly and I. A. Norriss.

"The San Andreas petition was signed by Peter Struve, F. Rehomaun, Henry Struve, C. E. Ford, A. Hartvigson, P. J. Storm, C. F. Storm, R. K. Dickson, C. M. Zils, Peter Leonard, E. C. Tlong, S. J. Gummow, John F. Sproule, A. J. Edwards, Chas. Silvarer, W. E. Rosmond, P. C. Galligan, Geo. Mackrell, H. H. Hill, J. G. McLellan, C. A. Still, F. Seigman, Mrs. N. Struve, C. M. Petersen, William Grul, Robert A. Carpenter, E. J. Rianda, A. Hartman, Mrs. J. L. Burton, A. McCall, M. Cunha and J. Laporte.

"Attorney Kelly in opening his argument for the petitioners conceded that Walker street was a public street but he argued that a public street should be used for the best interests of the public. It was his contention that the best use of Walker street was for spur track facilities. He pointed out that upper Walker is getting to be a packing house street, that it has ceased to possess value as a residence thoroughfare and that eventually the city must set it aside as solely an industrial street.

"Kelly argued that as a public highway from the country it was impassable in winter and little used and that the new road from the San Andreas district to the Beach road was not only a better all-the-year-round road but was just as short and handy for the San Andreas people. He argued further that it would not be fair to force the petitioners to pay for the privilege of having a spur on their street as it would work a hardship upon them that the situation did not warrant. Also he said it was not fair to compare upper Walker with lower Walker where through trains operate. He pointed out that in the winter time upper Walker would be little used by the railroad as the railroad would operate thereon practically only for a few months in the summer. He declared that the prominent and substantial business men of the community favored the spur track and to prove his point introduced the petition advocating the spur and signed by the following: Bank of Watsonville, W. R. Radcliff, H. S. Fletcher, Chas. Ford Co., Pajaro Valley National Bank, Pajaro Valley Mercantile Co., Tuttle Meat Co., P. J. Freiermuth Co., Central Grocery Co., Stephen Scurich, D. J. Daly, Raphael & Murphy, F. W. Ruppert, George W. Sill, W. J. Espindola, D. Alexander & Sons, L. S. Alexander, Luke Scurich, Mateo Lettunich, John F. Kane, E. Steinhauer and James Sheehy.

"In closing Mr. Kelly said the only detriment from a spur would be felt by the Hihn-Hammond Lumber Co., which had packing house lots on spurs to sell in its subdivision.

"Attorney Gardner then took the floor for the opposition. In opening his talk he stated that there was only one dryer and two packing houses on upper Walker representing less than a majority of the frontage on the street that asked for the spur while three other packing house firms on the street were opposed to the spur.

"The streets do not belong to the board, to the city, to the petitioners or to those objecting to the spur,' said Mr. Gardner, 'they belong to the people at large. The man living in the country has as much right to travel on the streets as have the people in the city. Before you can grant the use of a public street to a corporation [or] any group of individuals you must first satisfy yourselves that there are good reasons for granting such a privilege, that these reasons are sound in principle and that it would be a sound business proposition. Twice before the board has denied the privilege for a spur track on upper Walker and the same reasons are advanced for the spur today. Let us look into these reasons for a moment.

"In the first place is it necessary to have a spur on that street? At present we have one dryer and four packing houses on upper Walker and two of the latter are opposed to the spur. If it is necessary to build a spur on Walker street to serve two packing houses and a dryer how about the other streets in the vicinity that have many more industrial plants? There are eleven packing houses on Kearney, Fifth and Sixth streets and any one of them has a bigger tonnage than any on upper Walker.

"They say that upper Walker is the natural location for a packing house district. The natural place is on a railroad and why is upper Walker better located than Second, Third or even First streets, west of Walker streets? How about the lands west of the Hihn-Hammond Lumber Co. on the railroad where there is plenty of open land on the tracks that can be bought on an acreage basis?

"They tell you that by refusing to grant a spur track you will be discriminating in favor of the packers on lower Walker. If you grant a spur track on upper Walker are you not discriminating against the packers on West Lake Avenue, Kearney, Fifth and Sixth streets? They say, too, that unless you consider upper Walker there is no other room for packing houses except the Hihn-Hammond tract. On lower Walker you will find over 1000 feet of available frontage for packing houses that is not now used for industrial purposes.

"The real reason behind the petition for the spur track is that the petitioners want the city to give them something for nothing so that they can increase the value of their lands on that street. Their reasons are purely selfish and if they are honest they will admit the fact. The Hihn-Hammond Lumber Co. admits that it has lots to sell and that the value of these lots will be depreciated if the spur is granted on upper Walker. The Hihn-Hammond has thirty lots for sale, which all front on a macadamized street and are located on spur tracks, yet that company did not ask the city for anything when it developed its property. It paid for its own macadamized street, it paid for its own spur tracks and asked no favors from the city. I therefore do not feel that it is good business to give the petitioners something that the Hihn-Hammond Company had to pay for since the petitioners are competitors of the company.

“There is no necessity for a spur on upper Walker. Nobody will suffer if the privilege is not granted and many will suffer if it is granted. The San Andreas section is one of the most productive in the Valley and upper Walker street is its only logical entrance into the city.”

“At this Attorney Gardner was rudely interrupted by the fire bell, which caused a great disturbance for several minutes until the attorneys, aldermen, citizens and others present were satisfied that it was a fire and not an earthquake. ‘I knew John would start something,’ said City Attorney Sans and everyone had a good laugh for a moment to relieve the tension and Gardner continued:

“On lower Walker street a man can drive his team the whole length of the street and never cross a track but that cannot be done on upper Walker if the spur is granted. The spur track will greatly interfere with the hauling of produce from the San Andreas and will force the farmers in that section to drive over a third of a mile out of their way to haul their loads to the depot.’ Mr. Gardner then cited some statistics in regard to the San Andreas district, stating that the average yearly tonnage from that district was 3070 tons, the district annually hauling over upper Walker something like 600 tons of hay, 120 tons of oats, 100 tons of beans and 2250 tons of beets, potatoes and other products.

“Mr. Kelly in answering Mr. Gardner sarcastically referred to the Hihn-Hammond Co. as a corporation with a heart and his rebuttal address was filled throughout with sarcastic allusions to the lumber company, which he accused of fighting against the development of upper Walker because of selfishness. Mr. Kelly stated that if the spur was not granted[,] the street would be impassable anyhow for the farmers unless the street was improved at the expense of his clients. He said the San Andreas residents paid no money into the city treasury, would not contribute toward the improvement of the streets[,] yet if the petitioners paved upper Walker the country residents would enjoy all the benefits. He pleaded for the development of upper Walker, stating that all cities were granting spur tracks in order to develop certain sections. In referring to the 1000 foot of frontage on lower Walker mentioned by Mr. Gardner he said it was all in the flooded district and that no packing house would be built there unless it had to. In regard to the increase of $20,000 in land values (as stated by Mr. Gardner) on upper Walker if the spur was granted[,] Mr. Kelly pointed out that if the property values in that part of town were increased the city would receive more taxes and instead of giving someone something for nothing the city would be gaining.

“Stephen Scurich spoke in favor of the spur, calling attention briefly to the advantages that would accrue to that section and ridiculing the idea of anyone building any more packing houses in the flooded district.

“Peter Galligan of the San Andreas spoke briefly and said the spur would be a detriment to the farmers in that section and would cause them great inconvenience.

“Alderman Lewis didn’t think it feasible or good business to grant the spur to individuals but thought it best to grant such a concession to a corporation such as the Southern Pacific. City Attorney Sans vouchsafed the same opinion and stated there might be trouble between the city and the petitioners in forcing the latter to pay for improving the street. However, before any definite steps were taken the board, if it decided to grant the spur, should get together and draft whatever restrictions and regulations it wanted to have apply in the case.

“Lewis thought the board should express its opinion in the matter in fairness to the parties interested and for one he favored a spur track on upper Walker. He said that street was destined to be a railroad street and that he believed in encouraging the development of that part of town. He then moved that it be the sense of the board to grant the spur track concession, Alderman Kane seconding the motion.

“Alderman Callaghan said it was the duty of the board to grant the spur on upper Walker but that no man present could say that Southern Pacific had lived up to its obligations on lower Walker.

“Mayor Trafton said it should be well understood from the start just what the motion meant, the mayor evidently having a wrong impression of the motion and believing that it meant granting the concession. He was set right in the matter by Lewis, who said it was only to find out how the board stood in the matter so that if the petitioners met the restrictions placed upon them by the city they would be reasonably assured the city would grant them the spur.

“Every member of the board then voted in favor of the spur and it was decided to draft the restrictions at the next meeting on March 20th.

“Very little other business was transacted. Mike Resetar was given permission to erect a $1500 cottage at 28 Kearney street...”

“The above dispatch brought great happiness to Vido Opusich, of this city today. It has been a matter (the seeking of a pardon, and restoration to citizenship) that has engaged the attention of himself and friends for several years. Governor Johnson is a man who looks very carefully into the matter of granting pardons, and he has to be fully satisfied on many details and angles in each case, before he will consider them.

“The killing for which Opusich was sentenced, occurred in San Francisco, in 1900, and arose over the attentions that he and another man were paying to a young lady. Bad blood existed between them. One evening the girl, whilst being escorted by Opusich, was insulted by the other man. In the fight that ensued, Opusich was being badly slashed with a knife by his antagonist (he bears the scars today) when he shot the other man and killed him.

“He was tried, convicted, and sentenced for life. He was a model prisoner in the penitentiary, and this won for him a parole in 1910, after serving ten years.

“He came to this city some years ago, and has always conducted himself as a model citizen. Quiet, reserved, and attentive to those who depended upon him, he numbers among his friends the best people in this community. Everyone who knows him, likes him, and in conjunction with the Pajaronian, will rejoice at the exercise of the governor’s clemency which, in this case, was certainly not misplaced.—Ed. Pajaronian.”

“Nicholas Zar, arrested at Riverside, was ordered released last night by Federal officers, following the visit to the headquarters of the Department of Justice here of Richard Bone, salesman, who, according to the authorities, said he was the sender of the telegram signed ‘H. A. Schultz,’ and [which] caused Zar’s detention. He told the authorities he did it as a practical joke on his friend Zar, who is also a salesman.

“The telegram said: ‘Section 12 of war proclamation applies in your case. Your movements must be cloaked in utter secrecy. Do not use code when communicating to me. Write when necessary only.’ The section referred to embraces the subject of alien enemies who may be at large, to the detriment of public peace and safety.

“When Federal authorities learned of the telegram, and that it had been mailed to Zar in Riverside, officers were instructed to arrest him when he appeared at the postoffice. They had been waiting since Saturday. Federal officers said Bone would be required to pay the expense of the investigation.

“(The present crisis is a poor time for practical jokers to start anything funny. The man who sent the telegram to Zar deserves condemnation, for such a telegram might have caused Zar much more trouble than it did. This is not the time for any one to be funny for the present crisis in the affairs of the nation is a serious matter and the sooner everyone in the country realizes it and cease all funny business the better for all concerned. Anyone playing practical jokes of the sort worked on Zar should be arrested and punished.—Ed. Pajaronian.)”

EP; 21 Apr 1917; article: “Peter Sisa, a well known fruit packer of this city for several years past, killed himself this morning about 6:30 o’clock by firing a bullet from a 32 calibre revolver through his right temple, the suicide taking place in the alley adjoining the city hall and Sisa dying... at the Watsonville Hospital.

“About 6:30 o’clock today Tom Andrews, Tony Perry and A. H. Snavely, employees of C. B. Overhulser’s transfer company, were walking through the alley in the rear of the California Restaurant toward the Overhulser barns on Rodriguez street when they saw Sisa walking toward them on the other side of the street. Suddenly Sisa yelled ‘Tony, send for the undertaker’ and with that he pulled forth a revolver and fired a bullet into his brain, falling forward on his face. The three witnesses rushed to the scene and seeing that Sisa was still alive they immediately notified Officer John Corr, who ordered Sisa sent to the hospital. Sisa, however, never regained consciousness and died at 7:08 o’clock.

“Just what caused Sisa to commit suicide is not definitely known but one report from a reliable person today is to the effect that Sisa feared the authorities were after him for writing a letter to the English consul in San Francisco some time ago, in which he stated that the present war in Europe was caused by British politics and that the United States should not be dragged into the conflict. Several persons that knew Sisa said that many times he pointed out people on the street and said, ‘They are looking for me’ and when told that they were So-and-So about town he seemed to lose his fear and was calm again.

“Attorney James A. Hall drew up Sisa’s will in July, 1916, Sisa willing everything he owns to nieces and nephews in Ragusa [Dubrovnik], Dalmatia. At that time, says Attorney Hall, Sisa appeared to be perfectly rational. Sisa named Luke Scurich as the executor of his will, Mr. Scurich to act without bonds.

“The inquest in the Sisa case will be held this afternoon...by Coroner Easterday at the Aston & Neal funeral parlors.

“Sisa was a native of Dalmatia and was aged 40 years. He had been in this country about 15 years and had been a fruit laborer and packer all that time with the exception of a year spent in Oakland as an employee of the railroad. During the past year he was a partner of his cousin, Peter Gukan, in the fruit packing business. All that knew the deceased regarded him highly and are all at a loss to understand why he committed suicide. Those that knew him well state that for some time past he has labored under the impression that someone was after him and his friends could not convince him that he was wrong in this belief. He came from a good family in Dalmatia and was an estimable man, whose friends will mourn his death.”

“I have your letter of April 24 enclosing copy of your opinion addressed to the auditor of your county relating to the claim presented by the Santa Cruz high school district for money presented to debate expenses, including expenses of judges of debate, and the traveling expenses of team and member of the faculty to the high school to Napa, incurred in connection with the debate between the students of the Santa Cruz and Napa high schools.

“You advise the auditor that this claim is not a legal claim against the high school district and in this opinion I fully concur.

“Mrs. E. L. Clark, president of the Woman’s Club, will preside over the ceremonies...The copper box, which will be inserted in the stone, is 3x4x8 inches in size and was donated by A. P. Beck, the local plumber, while the stone itself, a pretty piece of marble, is donated by C. M. Neal of the Neal Granite Works of this city. Ralph Wyckoff of this city was secured as the architect and he designed all of the building with the exception of the floor plans, which were mapped out by the building committee, of which Mrs. Ella S. C. Rodgers and Mrs. Floyd Rodgers. At the opening of the club year the incoming directors will succeed the present board on the committee.

“The building will have a frontage of 60 feet on Brennan street and a depth of 80 feet. It will be two stories in height and will be built in English half timber at a cost of $6000. The lower floor will contain the lobby, reception room, auditorium, banquet room, kitchen, stage and dressing rooms, the reception and banquet rooms being so situated that the doors leading into these rooms can be thrown open and a larger seating capacity secured for the auditorium. The auditorium will have a maple floor. On the second floor are the meeting rooms for various sections of the club, dressing rooms and the balcony...

"Ed. Pajaronian:—I did not say I would not close my barber-shop on Memorial Day. In fact, being an American citizen I am as patriotic as anyone else in this community. But I refused to sign the paper handed to me by the two strangers who presented it to me whilst I was engaged (in company with two friends of mine), eating my dinner at the California restaurant, because I resented the ungentlemanly manner in which it was presented; that I "must sign it;" that I was "a dirty skunk," and being invited out on the sidewalk to fight. I am a peaceable, law-abiding citizen, and am prepared to fulfill all my duties as an American citizen, but I refuse to allow anyone to treat me in a discourteous manner. "It is not right—not just to these young men who stepped up and registered at the President's call, that any slackers should escape; consequently it is the duty of every patriotic American citizen to scan this list closely (and paying especial attention to the precincts in which they live) and upon discovering anyone's name missing (who should be thereon) to immediately write to Sheriff Howard Trafton and call his attention to the omission. Sheriff Trafton will do the rest. All communications of this nature in reference to conscription matters, will be regarded by Sheriff H. V. Trafton as STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Where you have any doubt regarding a young man's age—that is, that he is more than 20 years of age, or less than 31 years, immediately communicate your surmises regarding the party to Sheriff Trafton, and he will investigate the case. Mr. Trafton relies upon all Americans to help him out in these matters so that no slackers may escape. Be sure to lay this issue of the Pajaronian aside and carefully preserve it. You will find this list very useful and interesting in days to come. [only Slavs are shown below; note that naturalized citizens were placed under "Natural Born White"]

EP; 26 Jun 1917; editorial: “THE LANGUAGE QUARREL. The summoning of the Austrian parliament calls to attention the fact that it has long been the plan of the German group in Austria to crush out the languages of the subject races and to substitute German for them. The German in Austria planned to give autonomy to Galica, where most of the Polish deputies come from, thus excluding the Poles from the Austrian parliament and giving the German parties a majority over the remaining language parties, such as the Czechs, Ruthenians, Serbo Croats, etc. With a clear majority in the national parliament, the German deputies could then carry out their scheme unhindered.

“Now, there is certainly practically no one in America who can feel any sympathy for the German Austrians in their brutal desire to dominate the Slavs of Austria. But it is an interesting thing and a difficult thing to decide, whether it would not be better for the cause of international peace and amity in the long run, if all these little languages and dialects were not obliterated, once and for all. The Czech language may be a very noble one, and yet it is only spoken by a few millions of people, and perhaps if the Czechs learned to speak German, which is a widely spread language, the common people of Bohemia and Moravia, where Czech is now spoken, might more easily combine with the common people of other parts of Austria and with the common people of Germany itself, and throw off the yoke of the Hapsburgs and Hohenzollerns.

“But if the Czechs preserve their language, and the Slovenes theirs, and the Slovaks theirs, does it not mean that for many weary centuries the common people of each of these little groups speaking German, and that the whole intolerable situation will be unbearably prolonged?”

“Take the Irish question. It is certainly much better that the Irish now speak English instead of Gaelic. It means that international peace is so much the closer, and that the Liberals of England can meet on the common ground of language with the Home Rule men of Ireland, and aid them in their fight for freedom.

“Yet what free American but sympathizes with the struggle of each subject race of Austria to retain its own language, which must be as dear to the people who speak it as our own language is dear to us?—San Jose News.”

EP; 9 Jul 1917; article: “PACKING HOUSE BURNS... A mystery fire, which is believed to be of incendiary origin, broke out in Alaga Brothers’ new packing house on Walker street, near Third, at 2 o’clock this morning and before the fire department had conquered the flames the entire building was destroyed; the side wall and north roof of the old Alaga Brothers packing house, adjoining on the south, burned, and two storerooms in the rear of the residences occupied by the C. H. Wittner family and Mrs. Eliza Taylor burned to the ground with all their contents lost. The damage is estimated roughly to be over $6000, with the total insurance not exceeding $3400.

“The fire is reported to have started in the center of the packing house, which had been leased for the past season by E. B. Rilovich and N. Sresovich but which had been leased since July 1st by T. M. Kissich. The alarm was turned in from the box at Third and Walker streets, and the fire department responded quickly, the automobile engine making a fast run to the scene. When the firemen arrived they found the packing house in flames, and the fire threatening a number of residences in the neighborhood as well as the other Alaga plant. Although the department soon had the fire under control yet Fire Chief Sandberg thought best to take no chances and turned in a general alarm, which called out the steam engine, this being the first time since the new engine has been purchased by the city that both engines have responded to a fire.

“It was readily seen that the packing house was doomed and although the firemen continue to work hard in an effort to save the structure yet they turned their efforts at the same time to saving the adjacent buildings. Fire broke out in the window frame in the rear of the upper story of the Wittner residence after the Wittner barn had been destroyed but the blaze was soon extinguished.

“The entire contents of the packing house, all of which belonged to Rilovich & Sresovich, are a total loss including one apple grader, hand trucks, boxes, shook, nails and other property. The stock was insured for $100 and the loss will easily double that. The building was valued by Alaga Brothers at $2000 and was insured for $1200. In the older Alaga Brothers’ packing house the side wall and roof were destroyed and the loss in the interior will amount to $1500 with $200 insurance as considerable shook, nails and other packing materials were burned...

“The cause of the fire is unknown but the circumstances point to the job being done by a firebrand. One theory advanced is that the fire was caused by I.W.W. sympathizers, who are starting a reign of terror in various parts of the country. Future developments will be anxiously watched...

“The packing district should get together and employ several watchmen in that district until the season is over. It will pay.”

EP; 10 Jul 1917; article: “District Attorney George W. Smith was here today to investigate the circumstances surrounding the fire in the Alaga Brothers’ packing house on Walker street yesterday morning and after he had looked into the case he announced that there was little doubt of the fire being of incendiary origin. He said the evidence was clear in that respect but not sufficient to prosecute anyone. It is extremely difficult to convict anyone of arson and in the present case Smith says it would not be right to force the county to spend a lot of money with but little chance of securing conviction.”

EP; 11 Jul 1917; article: “The City Grocery Co., is very anxious to sell out the remainder of its stock, so as to close down for good, next Saturday, if possible; and, consequently, in its ad., on our fifth page, today, calls attention to the great bargains that can be obtained this week, at the store, 397 Main street. Fixtures, delivery wagons, horses, harness, etc., can be bought very cheap. See ad.”

EP; 18 Jul 1917; article: “A new solution of the improvement of Walker street from Lake Avenue to Ford Street by paving the street and laying a spur track thereon was advanced to the board of aldermen last night by a majority of the property owners on Walker street, who also represented a majority of the frontage on the street, the petitioners asking the board to have the street paved under the Vrooman Act, which forces all the frontage on the street to pay for the paving. Frontage aggregating 1351 feet signed the petition, the total frontage on the street being 2100 feet.

“The petition stated nothing about paying for the industrial spur wanted on the street, but Attorney Edward J. Kelly, who represents the petitioners, stated after the meeting that the petitioners would pay for the spur but they wanted all the property owners to jointly pay for the paving. The petition was signed by the heirs of the Schanbacher estate, the heirs of the Kuehnis estate, Peter Stolich, Nick Stolich, Mrs. Lettis, Mrs. Walters, O. K. Buob, Mrs. J. Oksen, Mrs. Frances Kruger and others. The matter was laid over by the board until some future time.”

EP; 20 Jul 1917; list: “ROOM 226, SENATE OFFICE BUILDING, Washington, July 20—America today drafted her youth for war against kaiserism.

“Starting at 9:30 o’clock in this garish chamber, blindfolded men drew the fated capsules bearing draft numbers. Out through the country each number notified a youth of the order in which Uncle Sam wants him to respond to the call to arms.

"Ten thousand five hundred numbers were drawn and it will be night before the last pellet has been culled.

"This method was necessitated by a change in plans late yesterday after several state boards were found to have blundered in preparing their lists...

"Here is the way the lottery plan used today works:

"In each of the 4,557 districts in the country the men are numbered serially from one to the highest number of cards in that district.

"A number drawn from the glass globes here establishes the draft order of every man holding that number in every district in the nation. In case the numbers higher than a district contains are drawn, they are disregarded in making up the list in that district. As soon as the first thousand numbers were chalked up, the blackboard was taken outside and photographed 'close up.' Thousands of copies of each picture are being made. These indelible and unchangeable records will constitute the lists for the local exemption boards.

"The first 1,500 numbers drawn, officials declared, ought to indicate a good proportion of the order in which the drafted men will be called up for examination in the smaller districts...

"Every number in the entire list was drawn today, but the numbers published will be in the first call to report for examination or exemption, while the balance of the numbers will be called to report in the order their numbers were drawn. It is very probable that the second unit will not be ordered to report for examination before two or three weeks.

"The following numbers, being among the first to be drawn, will be in the first unit, and will be called to report for examination within the next few days: [only the Slav names are shown, below]

- 1455—Rado Cherovich, Watsonville.

EP; 28 Jul 1917; article: “A disquieting rumor floats down to us from Boulder Creek. On last Fourth of July District Attorney Geo. W. Smith went up there, delivered the Fourth of July oration, and incidentally held hands and flirted with that charming movie actress, Beatriz Michelina—(we wish we had been George!) Be that as it may, ‘and nevertheless,’ as our esteemed friend Andy Balich would say, the effects of that oration were simply awful! Already, two blind piggers have been arrested in the mountain town and more arrests are to come.

“It seems that ‘Garge’s’ oration drove the entire population to something stronger than that mental refreshment, Coca Cola. At least that is the defense that was advanced in Judge Houck’s court yesterday morning when the cases were called for hearing. George said that he hoped such was not the case, although he confessed that there might be considerable merit in the contention as he acknowledged that his ideas were somewhat hazy on that day after receiving many admiring glances from various bright orbs, the owners of whom declared that he ‘was just too lovely for anything!’

“However, Justice Houck was so outraged at such a frivolous contention, and in order to uphold the dignity of his legal brother, he soaked one of the offenders two hundred bucks, and the other one hundred bones. When the matter was brought to the attention of Supervisor Marcus, in his righteous indignation, he announced that he would move the revocation of one of the offender’s hotel license.

“So, hereafter, the good people of Boulder Creek will have to depend on the mildest form of ‘belly wash.’ God help Smith (in Boulder Creek) if he runs again for district attorney...”

“Deceased came to this country about 29 years ago, and has been a resident of this valley, for the past 24 years. “The following statement was issued by the Board:

“In publishing its first decisions in cases involving claims for discharge from military service on the ground of dependency the Local Board for the County of Santa Cruz desires to make a brief explanatory statement.

“The word “dependent” is not defined in the regulations by which the Board is governed, notwithstanding the fact that the administration of the entire dependency section of the selective system turns upon the interpretation of this term. In one sense the word “dependent” describes a person who actually depends on another for support. In another sense it means one who is “unable to exist” without the sustaining aid of another. As a matter of fact a person may actually “depend on” another when there is no real necessity for such dependence, and when the ability to be “self-dependent” exists, but is not exercised. The fact of support is one thing, the necessity for such support is another and an entirely different thing.

“Local Boards are under the necessity of drawing for themselves an important distinction which the rules and regulations have failed to make clear, and a number of Boards in this and neighboring counties have adopted and have endeavored to apply the following principles to the different classes of persons claiming discharge on this ground:

“A married man without children whose wife is in good health is held to be not entitled to discharge, because such a wife, while probably “depending” on her husband for support, is not really “dependent” on him.

“Married men without children who depend on their labor for support and whose wives either expect to become mothers at an early date or are suffering from disabling sickness are held to be entitled to discharge because, in the absence of independent incomes, such wives not only “depend on” but are actually “dependent on” their husbands for support.

“Married men who have children are held as not entitled to discharge if they or their wives have incomes derived from sources other than their labor sufficient for the family support for herself and child, and therefore both “depends on” and is “dependent on” the earnings of her husband. In other words it is impossible for her under the circumstances to be “self dependent.”

“Sons of widowed mothers are held to be not entitled to discharge when the mother has other relatives liable for her support, or when she has some earning capacity and is not entirely dependent on others. When the mother has no earning capacity, no other relatives legally liable for her support, and no income whatever except that derived from her son, then he is held to be entitled to discharge.

“Practically the same rule has been applied to sons of aged and infirm parents.

“Many difficulties arise in the application of these rules from the fact that the claimant contributes for the support of his dependent relatives a sum less than he can spare from his army pay of $30 per month with everything found. In such cases official instructions require

Local Boards to certify the man for service, on the ground that the dependent will be as well cared for as before.

“The determination of the exact facts in each of approximately 300 cases has involved a great deal of labor and investigation in connection with which the assistance of the sheriff of the county has been invaluable. There are on file in connection with these cases at least 1200 separate affidavits, all of which have been read by each member of the Board, many of them having been carefully analyzed and discussed at length.

“Wide differences of opinion regarding the decisions of the Board are to be expected. In the absence of clearly defined official rulings applicable in every possible case, and with no previous decisions to which we could turn for guidance in doubtful cases, such differences of opinion are inevitable. This Board will await with interest the action of the District Board on doubtful cases which will be taken before that body on appeal. In this connection it is well to remember that every case of discharge granted by this Board on the ground of dependency will be appealed by the government and every man whose claim has been denied has a right to take the same course. Blanks for this purpose may be had at the office of the Local Board.

“We wish to take this opportunity of expressing appreciation of the attitude toward this Board displayed by the men under examination, and their relatives. In every case without exception the Board has met with courtesy and respect and an evident appreciation of the trying duty imposed on us by the present situation. Our earnest effort has been to perform this duty with absolute impartiality.—W. R. RADCLIFF, Chairman, W. V. LUCAS, SAMUEL LEASK, Clerk.”

The conditions at first were very poor but now the station is more established and everything is running along fine. At first I was disgusted but now I wouldn’t do anything else. I sure feel sorry for the boys in the National Army. We played for their departure and they were sure a sorry looking bunch. This trip is just like a vacation for me and say, they have some fine officers here. The day we landed off the Yale we got a shot in the arm to prevent typhoid. We get three of these shots 10 days apart and then the little vaccination so I guess I will be germ proof when I get out of here.

“After that we got our cots, blankets, mattresses and one white cap. Then we were shown to the sleeping quarters, which is a great big warehouse that we call the “good ship Los Angeles.” I really believe some day they are going to jack the building up and try to float it. Oh, we sure are some dry land sailors but we get enough to do...”

EP; 26 Oct 1917; article: "ARBANAS-RESETAR FEUD TRIED THIS AFTERNOON. The Arbanas-Resetar feud occupied the attention of His Honor Police Judge Bridgewater, for a short time last evening.

"As related in this truthful paper (that never published a lie in its life) Mitchell Arbanas was arrested yesterday afternoon for having put a 'shanty' over the left eye of Mitchell Resetar; was arrested, deposited $25 bail, and he was to plead last evening at 7:30 o'clock. Just previous to having banged Mitchell Resetar Arbanas had handed a couple of 'haymakers' to Louis Resetar, and paid a fine of $15 for that pleasure.

"To a man up a tree it looked as though Arbanas 'had it in' for all the Resetar brothers.

"At the appointed time last evening (7:30) quite a crowd attended the calling of the case. In fact King Carl, of Austria, had he stepped into the court-room would have found himself at home. Arbanas, whom everybody supposed was as big as 'Jim Jefferies,' from the way he handled 'his dukes,' turned out to be, as one of his admirers termed him, 'a keed,'—quite a stripling. He evidently won't take a 'dare,' and his prowess had gained for him many friends amongst those who were present.

"Judge Bridgewater called 'time' and read the complaint. Arbanas stepped to the center, and pled 'not guilty.' He started in to describe the scrap, but the Judge made him take his corner, and asked him when it was convenient for him to have his hearing—

"Having the $25 bail in his inside pocket, Hizzoner didn't care a red herring if there was never any hearing; however, 'pursuant to the statutes made and provided,' etc., etc.,—

"The pugilistic defendant allowed that today at two o'clock would be satisfactory, whereupon the case was set down for trial this afternoon.

"Officer Corr asked Arbanas if he had any witnesses he wanted subpoenaed. Arbanas had—loads of 'em, but they would come if he asked them, 'Sure!' Had the plaintiff any witnesses he wanted subpoenaed? 'Sure, but they were the same witnesses the defendant was going to ask to come.'

"Then Ed. Lettunich got uneasy. Would the whole packing house have to suspend work, and all hands so busy? His question was not satisfactorily answered, but it appeared as if it was the intention to bring up all the employees, women as well, to the court.

"So ends the first act. If anything startling occurs we will try and 'continue in our next.'

"By the way an avaricious ex-movie manager who was present last evening made the suggestion that the next scrap be pulled off at the Opera House—50 per cent to the Red Cross. The only question is whether there are enough Resetars to go around. This question of whether Arbanas proposes to whip the rest of the Resetars is also a question of much consideration. We hope not—at least until the packing season is over.

"There's lots of funny incidents in this town, if one will hunt them up.

"Today was a great day for the Austrians both on the Bainzigza Plateau in Austria, and in Judge Bridgewater's courtroom, a large crowd being in attendance when the above case was called. Mitchell Resetar was first put on the stand and testified that he had went [sic] down to E. B. Lettunich's packing house to hunt for his poor brother whom he had been told was 'killed' by the bloodthirsty Arbanas; no, he had not gone down to the packing house to fight, 'absolutely no;' nor had he said a word to the defendant, 'absolutely no.' On the contrary, defendant when he saw him, apparently saw red, and had fell [sic] upon him and smote him. No; he had not said that he had come down there to get a chance to also pay fifteen dollars fine—'absolutely no.'

"After another witness was put on the stand by Resetar to testify that he (the witness) had told Resetar about

Louis Resetar getting beat up, a party by the name of Arbanas (no relation to the defendant) took the stand for the defendant and vividly described the encounter. His impression was that Mitchell Resetar had come there for a fight and ‘got it.’ According to this witness Resetar was severely man-handled and hit in the fracas.

“At this juncture Mitchell Resetar protested because City Attorney Sans asked several questions at the instigation of the defendant. Resetar protested he wanted justice, got very much excited, and it took all hands to induce him to sit down and be ‘clam.’

“After further testimony was taken the matinee concluded by Judge Bridgewater fining Arbanas five dollars, which was certainly cheap enough for all the fun he had.”

“2:45 p.m.—The latest communique from Bridgewater’s court is that Arbanas has had Resetar arrested and the trial is set down for two o’clock Monday. Manager Miller of the T. & D. is making a big roar about Judge Bridgewater holding these matinees in the afternoons, and will take it up with the aldermen at the next meeting.”

EP; 24 Nov 1917; obit: "Says this morning's Gilroy Advocate:

"Martin Kralj, a laborer and a stranger here, shot himself through the temple at Miliias hotel sometime during Thursday night. His lifeless body was found by the proprietor, John Radin, about 9:30 a.m. Friday. Kralj had seated himself in a chair in front of the bureau, and with the pictures of his little boy and girl before him, pulled the trigger. The body fell to the floor, and was in a pool of blood. He started to write a letter to L. Scurich of Watsonville but tore it up. This was the only clew Radin and Constable Jack White had as to the man's identity. They phoned to Scurich, asking him if he knew such a man, and he answered in the affirmative. Accompanied by Kralj's two brothers and a cousin, Scurich drove over from Watsonville immediately in a machine. Kralj had been working at the New Idria Mines in San Benito county until quite recently. The strike there put him out of employment. His wife died a short time ago in Watsonville, leaving him two children, who are living with friends in Watsonville. Kralj carried a bankbook showing that he had money in the German Savings Bank, San Francisco. He arrived in Gilroy on Wednesday night and paid for three nights' lodgings. He was about 35 years old and a native of Austria. The body will be taken to Watsonville for interment.

"It is supposed that Kralj became discouraged and despondent on account of being out of work, and in a moment of temporary insanity killed himself."

"Martin Kralj was born in Dalmatia, Austria, 36 years ago and came to Watsonville in 1904. He lived here till the death of his wife and since then has been in various places but largely at the New Idria mines in San Benito County. He is survived by two brothers, Antone and John living in Watsonville, a mother, a sister and two brothers in Austria. Two children, a boy and girl, are living here under the care of Mrs. Felix..."

Thompson of the Beach road. The collision was between Mr. Thompson and the shoemaker's ten-year-old son. The complaint was prepared by District Attorney George W. Smith and was served by Constable Arthur Devine yesterday. A time for the hearing of the matter has not been set.

"The defendant stated yesterday that he wanted the matter straightened up as soon as possible as he is confident that he was not to blame. He states that he could easily establish in court the boy ran into him with his bicycle. He picked him up and took him to a doctor's office where his injuries were attended to."

EP; 6 Dec 1917; article: "Mr. Luke Scurich estimates that, approximately...two hundred Austrians will be affected by the forthcoming declaration of war with Austria, Friday, and become subject to the 'Alien Enemy Act' of the government. Mr. Scurich said that he had not gone over the data but he believed the above number would be found to be approximately correct. [348 Austrian men registered for the draft in Pajaro Valley]

"During the last few years, a large number of the Austrian subjects living in the Pajaro Valley have become naturalized American citizens.

"An oddity of the situation is that none of the Austrian subjects here are Austrians in the racial sense. Probably a majority of those to be registered are allied sympathizers having come from Dalmatia and Croatia while the true Austrian is a South German.

"The misfit character of the present Austrian Empire is well illustrated by this inclusion of all aliens born in Austrian territory as enemy aliens when in fact most of the Czechs, Rumanians, Serbs, Croats, Dalmatians, Poles and Italians are vigorous adherents of the entente cause."

Another special that he is prepared to furnish, providing they are ordered ahead is pumpkin pies. He will have some on hand, but, generally, the supply is not equal to the demand, as they are too costly to make—such pumpkin pies as are turned out by his bakery—and in order to not be disappointed orders should be placed ahead. EP; 8 Dec 1917; article: "Tony Gospodnetich residing at Aromas, charged with wife beating, was found guilty by Justice of the Peace D. W. Rohrback of Pajaro, yesterday afternoon after a number of witnesses had been heard. Nine o'clock this morning was the time fixed for passing sentence.

"The accused was defended by Attorney J. E. Gardner of this city while District Attorney Walter Norris was over from Salinas to prosecute the case. The defendant was the chief witness in his own defense. He admitted striking his wife once but said he had not hurt her.

"Among the witnesses for the prosecution were Mrs. Gospodnetich, Constable G. R. Cano, A. C. Robbins, A. Collins, Charles Connelly, John Winters, Elmer Snyder, and Dr. J. W. Buehler.

"Mrs. Gospodnetich testified that her husband had struck her three times and had seriously injured her.

"It was brought out at the trial that she was seen being dragged from the Gospodnetich home crying 'murder, murder.' Several of the neighbors hurried to investigate but were ordered off the place by the husband who went in the house, probably to get a gun. The peacemakers responded by rushing to Pajaro in a machine and getting Cano. When the officer arrived, Mrs. Gospodnetich was still lying on the ground where her husband had left her.

"Dr. Buehler was called and he testified as to the nature of her condition after the beating.

"This morning, when Gospodnetich appeared for sentence, Judge Rohrback sentenced him to six months in the county jail, but suspended sentence for two years. During that time he is to be under surveillance and report to Rohrback. Should he molest his wife or mistreat her in any way, the jail sentence will be carried out forthwith. Judge Rohrback felt that by sending the defendant to jail, the wife would be left destitute, as Gospodnetich having no money wherewith to pay a fine, he thought a suspended sentence would be about right, as Gospodnetich had seen the error of his ways."

EP; 31 Dec 1917; article: “Our readers will recollect that on last Fourth of July, Geo. W. Smith, District Attorney of this g-r-a-n-d and g-e-l-orious county, delivered a Fourth of July oration at Boulder Creek; and it will also be remembered that a bright vivacious black-eyed young lady of unascertainable age, made a ‘smesh’ on George, who is as susceptible to feminine charms as our old friend, Joe Nolan, the last exhibit of the great old Democratic party in this county; and we remember that reports reached us that George cut-up, on that occasion like ‘a reglar devil in a nine o’clock town.’ However, be that as it may, the next day or so after the Fourth, a dozen or so blind pigs were discovered in Boulder Creek, giving the semblance of truth to a base slander fathered by Col. C. B. Younger, that George’s oration had driven all the Boulderites to strong drink.

“Well, the secret is out at last! It is now stated on the authority of Ray Judah (of the Santa Cruz News), a man who never told a lie in his life, that the black-eyed beauty, who turtle-doved, cooed, and held hands with Smith on that memorable Fourth of July, was no other than the mysterious ‘Madame H.,’ Schulenburg’s friend. Smith says that she was in Santa Cruz on several occasions, and there you are. Dunc may scoff as much as he likes, but ‘Garge’ knows, and we’re betting on him.”

EP; 4 Jan 1918; article: “RAID ON SLAVONIANS NETS BURGLAR $220. Constable Cano of Pajaro is looking for a burglar. It is claimed that the man entered a house occupied by three Slavonians in the little village across the river and walked away with $220 in cash. From the clues discovered thus far it is thought to be the work of local men and the dragnet is out.

“The house, which adjoins the Judge West residence, is occupied by Nick and Peter Mordjan and Peter Spirito [Spirto]. They leave about 6:30 in the morning and return after work in the evening.

“Last Monday, after their departure, Mrs. Spirito, a sister-in-law of one of the men, who lives close by, noticed a stranger prowling around the house. When she inquired what he was doing, he replied that he had come to work with the occupants of the house and had been instructed by them to go to town for some eatables.

“When the trio came home that night they were informed with regard to their visitor. A quick investigation disclosed that the lock of the trunk had been broken open and $220 in currency taken. Otherwise the place had not been disturbed.

“It was not until Wednesday that Constable Cano was informed of the robbery. An investigation disclosed the fact that entrance to the house had been gained by prying open a window with a poker. This together with the fact that the robber went straight to the trunk and took the money without littering up the place generally has convinced the officer that the criminal was some one well acquainted with the situation.

“Constable Cano who has the investigation started said this afternoon that he expected Sheriff J. W. Nesbitt to arrive from Salinas today and assist in following up the clues that had been discovered.”

EP; 4 Jan 1918; article: “M. Ucovich, former Santa Cruz real estate operator and later a successful land owner in Texas, is now making his home in San Jose, says last evening’s Santa Cruz News. He has been visiting friends here for the past two days. Mr. Ucovich, always an optimist and good friend of Santa Cruz, is still faithful to the town that gave him his start. He has boosted it often and knocked it not. To a News man this morning he said that Santa Cruz only has one drawback and that is the home town knocker—the man who talks his place down invariably, and once in the habit can’t get out of it.

“Mr. Ucovich says that most of these crabs need to live in a few other places and go through a three-years’ drought in Texas if they want to learn the lesson of loyalty to Santa Cruz.”

“The bride is one of Watsonville’s most charming young ladies. She graduated from Notre Dame academy, after which she took up nursing as a profession at which she was unusually successful. Her amiable disposition and pleasing manner endeared her to all who knew her and her friends were numbered by the extent of her acquaintance.

If you want the real article in the way of ‘suds’ you’ll have to go to Nirich. We assume that his article is the ‘real thing,’ but reserve a positive declaration on it, until he lets us sample it. ‘Beer Trust’ rhymes with ‘Beer Bust,’ and whilst we are president of the ‘Loyal Sons of Temperance of the Pajaronian office’ having succeeded our bloomin’ partner to that highly important office, it is our duty to test all beverages in order to report thereon to the ‘Loyal Sons.’ A hint, sometimes, is as good as a kick.”

Balich and the groom by an uncle. After the ceremony a reception was tendered the happy couple at the home of Mrs. P. Kosovac, a sister of Mr. Balich.

"The ceremony was a quiet one, being attended chiefly by relatives of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Balich, uncle and aunt of the bride were among those present. The bride, who is only 18, came from South Dakota in August to visit at the home of her uncle, Tony Balich. There she met young Mr. Miladin, the son of a prominent orchardist of the Pajaro Valley, and a friendship grew up that ripened into love and the happy event of Sunday. The young couple went to San Francisco on their honeymoon."

EP; 23 Jan 1918; article: "Fire Chief Lawrence Sandberg yesterday filed with the Board of Aldermen his annual report of fire losses in this city during the past year. The report shows the effective way in which the department has handled fires in the city. The report is interesting reading and is as follows:

"...May 1st, 8 p.m., Box 24, P. Scurich residence at 111 East fifth street, damage $750, insurance paid $710.45, net loss $39.65. Cause of fire unknown...

"July 9th, 2 a.m, Box 15, Alaga Brothers Packing Houses on Walker street, near Third, damage to buildings $3400. Insurance paid on buildings $2300, net loss of $1100, damage to contents of Alaga Brothers $700, fully covered by insurance. Damage to contents and stock in one of these buildings belonging to Sresovich & Rilovich $2100, fully covered by insurance..."

“October 6th, 4:30 p.m., Box 43, Secondo Bros.’ residence at 50 Rodriguez street. Damage $250, fully insured, fire caused by defective flue...”

“Sept. 15th, 10:30 p.m., Box 33, residence owned by Sam Hrepich on San Juan road, damage $30.00, paid by insurance, cause of fire unknown...”

EP; 23 Jan 1918; article: “[board of aldermen meeting]...Mayor Trafton brought up the subject of parking the automobiles in the middle of Main street, suggesting that a block or two be chopped off and the plan given a thorough tryout in the near future. There seemed to be some doubts in the minds of the city officials as to whether Main street is wide enough to meet the demands of this system. The matter was finally left in the hands of the street commission for action.

“The Secondo Brothers got a permit from the board to erect a $12,000 dryer on their property on lower Rodriguez street, but only after a rather prolonged discussion over the matter.

“The vote was also featured by the defeat of the permit on the first trial on account of the opposition of Alderman Uren. With three members of the board absent and four ayes and one no, the resolution failed to secure the five favorable votes necessary for passage.

“Mr. Gardner for the Secondo Bros. said that this action by the board would force him to seek a writ of mandamus against the board as the Secondo Bros., his clients, were being denied a right guaranteed them by the existing city ordinances. This, he said, would cause both them and the city some expense and suggested that Mr. Uren would agree to reconsider his vote if he understood this phase of the matter.

“Mr. Uren said that he had no intention of defeating the resolution, or causing any legal squabbles over the matter and so himself moved the reconsideration. The permit then was granted by a vote of five to nothing.

“Mr. Lewis, in stating his position to the board, declared himself against the construction of a dryer in that section of the city saying it would work a hardship on the other property owners besides causing a lot of hard feelings. He suggested that the Secondo Bros. seek another location or that the question be laid on the table until an ordinance be passed establishing a restricted district including this particular lot.

“Previous to this declaration on the part of Mr. Lewis, Attorney Gardner had explained to the members of the board that under the existing ordinances they had no discretion about granting a building permit where the plans and specifications had been filed in the manner fixed by law and where the proposed structures was outside the fire limits.

“‘The question of whether it involves an undesirable industry is one over which the board has no jurisdiction under the existing ordinances,’ Mr. Gardner said. ‘After the building has been finished and if it becomes a nuisance, its future becomes a matter of consideration by the courts. The remedy is to get an injunction against a public nuisance.’

“City Attorney Sans, being called on for his legal opinion in the matter, coincided with Mr. Gardner’s declaration that the board has no authority in the matter.

“‘If we had an ordinance fixing a restricted district for industries of this kind, this application could be denied. Under present conditions, the board can do nothing but grant the permit,’ he said.

“Therefore when it came to voting, Mr. Lewis voted aye still insisting that Rodriguez street is not the proper place for a dryer and intimating that he would support an ordinance in the near future to establish a restricted area which would include the Secondo Bros.’ plant.

“This attitude resulted in another long discussion with Mr. Gardner seeking to get a statement from the board as to whether it was its intention to pass such an ordinance in the near future. If such were the case, he said, it might not be advisable for the Secondo Bros. to go ahead with their investment.

“The expression was finally elicited from most of the members present that no such ordinance had been thought of and there was no idea of taking any such action in the near future. This statement seemed satisfactory to Mr. Gardner and the matter was closed...”

EP; 25 Jan 1918; article: “Superior Judge B. K. Knight has ordered a retrial of the case of Peter Gurash versus George Bubresko, a dispute over a certain label used on apple boxes. Gurash claimed sole right to the use of this label which he declared Bubresko was putting on his fruit boxes illegally. An injunction against Bubresko was sought.

“Judge Knight at first granted the injunction, but on a closer examination of the evidence presented, ordered the case to be re-tried...”

The condition of Mr. Dabelich, who has been long a sufferer from his throat, which at times allowed him to speak hardly above a whisper, grew suddenly acute Wednesday, and he was taken to the hospital, where it was found necessary to make an incision in his throat to connect his windpipe with a silver tube to permit him to breathe.”

EP; 28 Jan 1918; article: “E. B. Lettunich, one of this valley’s leading apple packers, last Saturday, bought the Holohan orchard apple crop for the coming season for $16,000. Nine bids for the place were opened by Marshal J. B. Holohan, who came down from San Francisco for that purpose.

“Between the bid of Mr. Lettunich and that of the next highest man there was only a difference of $150. While the price is understood to be much higher than that secured last season, Mr. Lettunich said last night that he was rejoiced at his success.

"It is understood that the terms were one-third down cash, the remainder to be paid after the apples begin to ripen. The Holohan orchard is one of the best in the valley. It includes 110 acres of fruit, practically all of which is Newtown Pippins."

EP; 5 Feb 1918; article: "CROATIANS WILL ENDEAVOR TO GAIN THEIR LIBERTY. Mr. J. B. Mihaljevic, traveling representative of the Southern Slavic National Council, of Washington, D.C. is in this city, having arrived here last Saturday, for the purpose of organizing a local branch or council of the above organization.

"The objects of this organization, as we gather it from Mr. Mihaljevic's explanation, is to organize all southern Slavs in the United States, for the purpose of aiding their brethren in that portion of Austria to gain for themselves independence under a republican form of government, and one of its principal aims, also, is to inculcate in its members pro-Americanism, and love and fealty for this country that has given them so many opportunities to acquire independence in the world's goods, and so much liberty.

"Mr. Mihaljevic will address the local Slavs on these subjects at a meeting to be held on next Saturday night, under the auspices of the local Croatian lodge, at 8 o'clock, at their lodge room, Odd Fellows' hall. The Croatian League, which is the political body supporting the proposed new democratic government that is hoped will be formed from the states of Montenegro, Serbia, Croatia, Dalmatia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Stiria and Karolina.

"Mr. Mihaljevic has been interviewing the local Jugo-Slavs and he finds great enthusiasm among them for the liberation of Croatia and the joining with the other states enumerated above in a democratic form of government which, it is stated, will be patterned after the government of the United States of America under whose flag are so many of the persecuted sons of Croatia and the other Balkan states. The propaganda of this organization also teaches loyalty to the United States by those now living here and pro-Americanism on the part of the whole country. They recognize what America is doing for them and realize that it is the ideals of America that has set the example of democracy for the world.

"The necessity for the separation from Austria is driven home to the Jugo-Slav people by the bitter persecution that has followed them since the beginning of the war. How the Austrians had taken their boys and men from sixteen to sixty and put them into the trenches; how they had maltreated their women and children; starving both women and children to death and outraging and mutilating the bodies of the women before death came to release them from the cruelties being inflicted upon them. It is a tale of persecution that equals the work of the Germans in Belgium.

"King Peter of Serbia, who is the most democratic monarch in Europe, is in favor of the movement for a federation of the Jugo-Slav states and is willing at any time to abdicate in favor of a republic; but it is likely that he will be the chosen ruler of the country as long as he lives as the Jugo-Slavs all love him and are not planning on removing him from the head of the government.

“Mr. Mihaljevic is anxious that all Jugo-Slavs in Watsonville and the Pajaro valley come out to the meeting Saturday and hear the talk that will be made to them at that time. The example that America has set for them in fighting for freedom and the liberty of the peoples of the world should inspire every Jugo-Slav with the determination to do all in his power to assist his father’s country in regaining its independence and restoring its national life. Come out and hear him Saturday evening.”

“Mr. Zar now alleges that he pleaded guilty to committing an act which is not a crime under the laws of this state in that he was charged with playing studhorse poker.

“The controversy hinges around the words ‘for money.’ These were not included in the warrant on which Mr. Zar was apprehended. The court will be called on to decide whether studhorse poker is gambling per se in which case Mr. Zar will be out his fine or whether the omission of the two words will cost the county the $100 fine collected from Mr. Zar as well as the expenses of his trial.”

Mr. Sans said, had written him that he did not care to show his hand in the matter until the final presentation of the facts in court. Then, he said, he would be glad to turn all of his evidence over to the board.

“Neither I nor Chief of Police Whitsitt has any evidence against Zar and for us to call a hearing now would only be to make monkeys of the city officials. People would say that we had called him up knowing that the only thing we could do was to white-wash him,” Mr. Sans said.

“Members of the board agreed that the only thing that could be done was to defer the case until Mr. Smith’s documents became available for their use...”

EP; 1 Mar 1918; article: “Says this morning’s Santa Cruz Sentinel:

“The political pot of Santa Cruz county and the district is beginning to come to a boil with the formal announcement of Attorney Ralph H. Smith yesterday that he would be a candidate for the office of district attorney, and the statement of George W. Smith, the present incumbent, that he would not be a candidate at the fall election. At present the office of district attorney holds the spot light of public attention. Who will enter the race for the assembly still remains in doubt.

“District Attorney George W. Smith, in speaking of his decision to retire from the office he now holds, said that he had nothing to add to the statement that he had given to the News, but that this statement did not mean that he had retired from politics. Mr. Smith in his statement to the News said:

“I intend to resume the private practice of law in this county at the conclusion of my term, providing I am not in the service of my country. The United States government has first call on my services. I am subject to the draft and claim no privileges or special benefits. The war department was tendered my services in any capacity immediately upon the declaration of hostilities, and that offer still stands.

“I shall continue to endeavor to do my duty as district attorney of this county until the last minute of my term, however.

“Petty politics should not be in order at this time, and the one business of us at home should be the wholehearted support of the boys “over there” and the exposure of sedition at home, some of which, I am sorry to say, exists on the street corners of this city.”

EP; 8 Mar 1918; editorial page: "America has been too lenient with alien enemies and near enemies in the United States since the beginning of the war. They have been bold and unafraid even before the operatives of the department of justice and they get away with stuff that ought to send them to prison for life, or, in some cases, to the scaffold. The laxity on the part of those who should be weeding out these vipers has made them bolder and bolder and at the present time they pay very little attention to the danger of exposure. A few public hangings and some long terms in prison for the pro-Germans who are the most active in spreading the propaganda of treason through the country would have a quieting effect upon some of the secret agitations at least.

"In line with this thought was the speech of District Attorney George W. Smith, a report of which was published in the Pajaronian of yesterday. He sounded the alarm that should bring every patriotic citizen to his feet in applause. And now comes Judge J. A. Bardin, of the Monterey County Council of Defense, who stated in his address in San Francisco yesterday:

"I do not favor violence, but unless Congress comes to our rescue with legislation providing for stripping American citizenship from those showing disloyalty or making serious seditious utterances, we shall have to return to the practices of the Vigilantes and compel respect for the flag.

"We have done with foolish and frivolous investigations and are compelled to take measures ourselves. These people have been given lectures when they need prison bars. Our country council, on investigation of reported seditious remarks, appoints a committee of men of standing to inform the offender where he stands in our county, regardless of the State and Nation.

"Anyone born in Europe who has secured American citizenship but stands for the Kaiser should be given a hearing, and, if the allegation is proven, should be stripped of his cloak of citizenship, interned, and after the war sent back to the country where he belongs, not allowed to remain here, a festering sore on the American people.

"We will ask Senators Johnson and Phelan and every California congressman to have a bill to that effect introduced in Congress."

"Judge Bardin explained that the Espionage Act provides for action only where the seditious remarks interfere directly with the military or naval forces or the draft. Because of this limitation and the free speech provision, he said, the authorities were unable to deal adequately with warnings of danger to the Spreckels Sugar

Refinery factory, containing half the State's sugar supply. As a result, he said, came its supposedly incendiary destruction, an attempt to destroy the sugar beet seed supply for the ensuing two years.

"In one instance he cited after investigation a man who expressed desire to return and serve the Kaiser, said 'Damn the United States. I'll get some dynamite yet and get some of these Monterey army officers and these busy government officials.' The man was arrested, he said, and the authorities had to release him because he was a naturalized citizen.

"We are glad they are waking up. It is time for patriotism to go over the top here at home and rid the country of the spies and traitors that are undermining the war work here. If there are no laws under which they can be curbed now let Congress give us a law from which they cannot escape. It means protection to the boys in the trenches as well as to the people who remain at home."

Smith, when he dropped into town this forenoon, informed us that he expected to be over here tomorrow to receive the glasses donated by our citizens for use in the navy, and would then give receipts for them. He has a large number of glasses to ship—the folks at the county seat having been very generous in giving up their field and telescopic spy-glasses.

"A magnificent assortment of glasses has been collected here. Some of the field glasses are worth as high as one hundred dollars, and we opine that figure would not begin to touch some of the telescope spy-glasses..."

EP; 12 Mar 1918; editorial page: “WELDING OF NATIONS. We are losing sight of the racial congeries in Southeastern Europe. It was here in the Balkans and thereabouts that the war had its origin, and the issues, complicated enough before the war, have become more tangled. If there was a single straightforward issue, such as the restoration of Serbia with the addition of an outlet to the sea, then it would be easy to arrange a program satisfactory to Serbia, but it would set the whole Slav world ablaze, for Slavdom is divided against itself. Furthermore Italy has claims for which she has made big sacrifices and all conflicting interests are being cleverly exploited by Austrian statecraft. Vienna may be eager to quit the war, but she is fomenting dissension among the Slavs and keeping alive the hatreds which are necessary to insure desperate tenacity under the command of the Serbo-Croat Borojevic. The Austrians do not forget that 20 per cent of her troops are Jugo-Slavs who have been told that they are defending their hearths and homes against the thievish instincts of the Italians. Also they have been made to believe that on the other side of the old frontier, that is to say, Vicenza, ‘there are brothers to be liberated’ whom Italy has always exploited and maltreated. To aggravate the tumult of troubled waters are large sections of the Slav population under the Hapsburgs who do not desire separation from Austria. Their demands are limited to legislative autonomy or at least political equality within the Dual Monarchy. There are the Croats, for instance, who have no desire to be incorporated in a new Serb empire in which their identity might be submerged. As to the Jugo-Slavs, ‘we desire,’ they say, ‘to be united in a free Austria in an alliance of free nations under the Hapsburg dynasty.’ They add: ‘The heavy domination of the Germans and Magyars must come to an end.’ There is another Jugo-Slav element which wishes to see restored Napoleon’s evanescent Kingdom of Illyria, comprising Carinthia, Gorizia, Trieste, Istria, Styria and Carniola. They are of course bitterly opposed to the Italian Irredenta policy. The sentiment and vanity of all these conflicting elements, the cunning statesmen of Vienna, men with more brains than the diplomats of Germany have, are playing on incessantly. Their propaganda is nowhere neglected. Here is a specimen from an official organ:

“For a hundred years the Italians have cried throughout the Jugo-Slav countries that the old Italian civilization must have precedence over the young Slav civilization, and that the latter must make way for it. What would happen to us if the Italians should achieve all their aspirations? The Jugo-Slavs are of various nationalities and must rely upon their own strength. They would not be able to resist the Italian concentric expansion for long; they must lean against a Great Power which does not subjugate foreign nations, and develop themselves in union with the Great Power. In the present contingencies the Jugo-Slavs can only lean against Austria.

“Propaganda shrewdly prepared is a powerful stimulant to prejudices even in an ‘enlightened’ country, as we have seen since the outbreak of the war. So we may easily conjecture with what success the Central Empires have operated on the minds of the aspiring democrats of the Balkans whom Uncle Sam has taken under his arm. Surely it’s a big job that we have on our hands—that of satisfying all the little nationalities of Europe.—Town Talk.”

Novacovich-Lettis vs. Southern Pacific Co., was opened in the city hall this morning...before Commissioner Gordon of the State Railroad Commission...The action was to compel the Southern Pacific to build a side track on Walker Street..."

"Permission to intervene was granted by the commission. The first witness placed on the stand was Alderman C. B. Lewis, who identified certain maps of the Walker street section and the Kearney street extension which had been made by him and testified to their correctness.

"Peter Stolich was then called and testified to the necessity for a track on Walker Street, the advantage it would be to the packers in making shipments and on economical lines. He testified that it would save his firm in the neighborhood of $600 per year to have the track run by the plant and enable them to do away with the hauling.

"L. F. Lettis was called to the stand and stated the need of a track there. He also testified that he had taken the matter of a track to his packing house up with the Southern Pacific people last year and that the company recognized the need of a track to the extent that they made a tentative offer to construct the track and divide the costs with him, Mr. Lettis to pay $1100 toward the track, and the company to pay $1000. The negotiations got no farther than that, however. Mr. Lettis testified further that it would save him about a cent a box on apples to have the track there and that he had formulated plans to double the size of his packing plant if the track were built and either operate the entire proposition himself or lease out a part of the plant to other packers.

"The hearing was adjourned to 1:30 at the auditorium, to which place it had been taken on account of the necessity for more room. The city hall not being large enough to accommodate the witnesses and interested parties.

"Upon convening at 1:30 Mr. Lettis was called to the stand again and testified to the advantage it would be to his property to have the track built. Said he would be willing to pay his pro rata of the cost. Said he would be willing to pay $2000 rather than not have the track built. Said he would be willing to pay $2500 rather than not have the track.

"Peter Stolich was again called to the stand and made a statement of the actual savings that would be made in his business by having the track run to the front of his packing plant; said he was one of the main parties to the complaint. He made no offers or inducements in the way of money or other values to secure their signatures to the complaint. Would save a half cent a box on transportation of apples to cold storage plant..."

"J. M. Unglish, the next witness, said he was not a direct party to the petition but that his property would be indirectly benefited by the spur and that he would be able to make a large saving if he could arrange with Mr. Stolich to have the pipe lines carrying oil for his dryer pass through the packer's property. Then, he said, he would be able to buy the oil in carload lots instead of by the barrel as at present...

"Stephen Scurich testified that he owned a packing house in the district and would be willing to pay a share of the cost of the spur.

"Luke Scurich, also a property owner in the district, said he had been working to get the spur built for the last five years. Oscar Buob testified regarding the change in the district from a residence to an industrial section during the last ten years. Mitchell Stolich gave evidence along the same general lines.

"During the afternoon, Commissioner Gordon received a telegram from San Francisco informing him that he would have to be in his office there this morning. As both Mr. Gordon and Mr. Neylan announced it would be impossible for them to take up the case again immediately, Commissioner Gordon decided to indefinitely postpone the taking of further testimony. The time for reopening the case will be fixed by agreement between the attorneys."

Watsonville was pledged over the top at the big meeting last night. $286,050 was actually subscribed and the soliciting committee pledged the remaining amount to fill the quota out to $310,000, thus putting the city over the top and the honor flag was unfurled before the meeting broke up. It was a great event.

“The parade of patriotism last evening was the greatest and most impressive pageant ever staged in the Pajaro valley. It was fully a mile and a half in length and was participated in by every organization represented here as well as by individuals and business firms. The line of march was one continuous ovation and the enthusiasm was spontaneous and unrestrained. It started promptly at the appointed hour and reached the auditorium just as the sun was sinking in the west and the last rays of the setting sun mingled with the light from the bonfire that was kindled at the corner just as the parade swung down Second street...

“Before the head of the parade had reached Second street to turn down toward the auditorium the people began to crowd in and take up the seats. By the time the band marched in[,] the lower floor was practically filled and a steady stream was mounting into the galleries. The big auditorium was packed full and many were turned away.

“...Vice-Chairman John E. Gardner of the Liberty Loan Committee mounted the rostrum and announced the fact that he was going to take $250,000 from the crowd for Liberty Bonds. He put it to them straight and went right after the money—and when the subscriptions were totaled up it was found that $286,050 had been actually subscribed and enough pledged by the soliciting committee to put the city over the top of its quota. A guess that was pretty good, wasn’t it.?”

“The first call was for $25,000 subscriptions, and he got two. The Watsonville National Bank, and the Watsonville Savings Bank each took $25,000 in bonds. Then he dropped to $10,000 and received three subscriptions of that amount each. From that on down to fifty dollars the subscriptions came in liberally and promptly. It is confidentially believed that if there had been room in the auditorium for the hundreds of people that were turned away, that Watsonville would have gone over the top with a big margin to spare on actual subscriptions. The following is a list of the names and amounts taken last evening to start the big campaign off:

“The Austrian element in our midst made a most creditable showing. In addition to the membership of the Austrian-American Benevolent Society turning out in a body, the United Southern Slavs, or Jugo-Slavs, as they are termed in their own language, turned out in full force. Both of these elements were creditably represented, and it was most pleasing to see these men backing up the nation that has been so good to them, and to us all...”

EP; 25 May 1918; article: "APPLE GROWERS ADOPT SEASON'S WAGE SCALE. A number of the larger apple packers and growers of the valley met today to discuss the wages to be paid for apple picking this season. The wage condition has been up in the air for some time past. There has been a shortage of labor existing and with an expressed desire to facilitate the work and make it fair to both the laborer and the orchardists they have gone over this matter carefully and have decided that a wage of thirty-three cents per hour was a fair wage. This decision was arrived at after considering the wage deal prevailing in other sections of the fruit country. The reason for making the wage on the hour basis was that the days are longer now and by working longer hours the laborers in the orchards can make large wages at this rate. They present the following statement for the benefit of the public:

"We, the undersigned apple growers and packers of Pajaro valley, desiring to facilitate the present labor problem, and believing it to be the mutual advantage of workers and employers that a wage rate be established for apple thinning now about to begin, have agreed that thirty-three cents per hour is a fair and just compensation for such work and herewith announce that we will pay for such work at the above rate.

“Furthermore we earnestly recommend that workers put in from ten to eleven hours daily, thus performing a patriotic duty in assisting the labor shortage by accomplishing more work per man each day, and incidentally deriving a better daily wage which is established on an hour basis.

EP; 5 Jun 1918; article: “Monday afternoon the Musical and High School faculty, and the advanced musical students of Moreland Notre Dame Academy had the pleasure of attending the examination-recital given by Miss Anna Scurich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Scurich of this city, preparatory to receiving the music medal of the Academy. The judges of the occasion pronounced her in every way worthy of the coveted and richly deserved honor, for which she has so conscientiously striven.

“The names of all the great masters formed a part of her repertoire, Beethoven, Chopin, Schubert, and Liszt holding prominent places on the truly delightful program. Among the works selected by Miss Scurich for rendition yesterday, the second rhapsodie of Liszt deserves particular mention. The technical exactions, so taxing for the left hand especially, the airy cadences, and the heavy chord and octave passages were all under the control of this promising and capable young student.

“Miss Scurich possesses poise, strength, and lucid musical intelligence, as was satisfactorily manifested in her interpretation of the various composers handled yesterday, in the presence of her critical audience. If Miss Scurich continues her progress in the future as in the past, we may expect much from this ambitious and gifted young musician...”

EP; 10 Jun 1918; obit: “JOHN N. SRESOVICH, COMMISSION MAN, COMMITS SUICIDE. The following item in today’s San Francisco Chronicle will cause great regret to the many friends of John N. Srezovich, well-known in this city:

“Financial troubles and sickness caused John N. Sresovich, well-known commission merchant, living at 2434 Union street, to commit suicide by shooting himself through the brain yesterday morning in his office at 447 Front street.

“Leaving his wife and three children shortly before 10 o’clock yesterday, Sresovich went to his office. About 11 o’clock Henry Arata, an employee who was working in the rear of the building, heard a shot and notified the police. Sresovich was found lying on the floor of his office with a revolver clasped in his hand.

“An autopsy performed by Dr. John Clark showed that Sresovich had been suffering intense pain from gallstones. Friends told the police Sresovich had met with financial reverses in the commission business, and that he had lost considerable money in the harness racing game. Sresovich at one time owned several valuable harness racers.

“Sresovich, who was 39 years of age, is survived by a widow and three children. Mrs. Sresovich was prostrated at the news of the suicide. She told the police her husband had left in the best of spirits when he went to his office. Sresovich was a member of the Masons, Knights Templar and Elks.”

“A warrant sworn to by Jno. Iverlich [Ivelich], charging Antone Matulich of Watsonville with battery was issued yesterday by Judge Moore.

“It is said that Iverlich and others were playing a game in Garibotti’s back yard and that Matulich kept passing remarks about Iverlich, finally kicking him and knocking him down.

“Matulich appeared before Judge Moore this morning and entered a plea of not guilty and demanded a jury trial. The trial was set for Tuesday afternoon at 3 o’clock.”

EP; 11 Jun 1918; obit: “The news of the death of John Sresovich in San Francisco Sunday has caused genuine regret among the people of Watsonville and the Pajaro valley, and especially among the apple men. He was the first commission merchant to take up the Watsonville apples and while the majority of the commission merchants were plugging for the northwestern apples John Sresovich stood by Watsonville through thick and thin: through good crops and poor crops until the Watsonville apple was better known and given the recognition that it merited. [they may be confusing John’s legacy with that of his uncle, Luke Sresovich, who died in 1908]

“The editor of the Pajaronian will miss his visits to this office. He was a big, jovial man and hailed you with a pleasant and hearty greeting at all times. He was like a ray of sunshine coming into the room. The editor as well as his many other friends here will miss him greatly.”

EP; 18 Jun 1918; article: “ALAGA BROS. SUE ED. B. LETTUNICH. By their attorneys, Messrs. Cassin & Atteridge, of San Jose, Nick and Paul Alaga, of this city, filed a suit against Ed. B. Lettunich, also of this city...in the superior court, at Santa Cruz, praying for a determination of the partnership alleged to be existing between the three parties, and asking for the appointment, forthwith, of a receiver to take charge of the business, wind it up, and render an accounting.

“The Alaga brothers allege in the complaint that all were partners in the apple business in this city during the years 1916-1917, and it was understood that all three were equal partners, but that Ed. Lettunich maintains that he owned a half interest therein instead of a third.

“That the business of the company is suffering from this contention, and relief is prayed; that bills are unpaid and accounts uncollected, etc., etc.

In all the cases tried there were no absolute acquittals, indicating the thoroughness with which Mr. Smith prepared his cases. The report follows:

“I herewith submit to the people of Santa Cruz county my biennial report to the attorney general of this state for the two years ending June 30, 1918 as to prosecutions conducted by me as district attorney of this county in the superior court.

“During the past two years there have been ten trials in the superior court, resulting in eight convictions and two disagreements, and no acquittals.

“This report does not take into consideration hundreds of misdemeanor cases in the justices’ courts.

“I believe that this record is equal to any county in the state, and for it I am indebted to the court, from whose rulings but one appeal has been taken since I have been in office, and which ruling was sustained, and the painstaking and energetic performance of their duties by the sheriff and peace officers of this county, who have uniformly carried out their trust.

“Mr. Lettunich was fined $100, which he paid.

“In an interview with Nick this morning, in order to clear up reports that he was charged with starting a recent fire in Monterey county, he stated that he had nothing to do with the fires. As near as he can learn, according to statements by the forest rangers, the fire was the result of an endeavor by some hunters, to burn up a doe that they had killed, in order to hide evidence.

“Mr. C. S. Brothers, one of the head officials with the forest reserve department at San Francisco, is here on the fire matter, and exonerated Lettunich of the charge, after a searching inquiry in the matter. The forest rangers up at Tassajara had also exonerated Lettunich of the charge several days ago. Lettunich came down to Salinas and answered solely to the charge of killing the fawn, and his straightforward conduct in owning up promptly to his mistake in killing the fawn and willingness to abide by the decision of Judge Wallace, coupled with his explanation of the incident, gained for him the minimum fine.”

Owing to the late hour of the announcement of his candidacy, his name will not be printed on the official ballots at the primary, on Tuesday, August 27th, consequently it will be necessary for his friends and supporters to write his name in on their ballots.”

“Mr. Smith, in announcing his candidacy issued the following statement.

“There is but one question that should occupy every energy and every moment of the time of the American people at this time, and that now, is the winning of this war and any movement tending to in the slightest degree, swerve our people from this great task is, to say the least, giving aid and comfort to the enemy and prolonging this struggle. If elected, I will endeavor to have enacted laws facilitating our government in this flight, laws that will reach the I.W.W.’s, idlers, profiteers, and other aids of the enemy.

“This government was founded upon the principal that it was the inalienable right of man to worship his maker as his conscience dictated; and because of this this nation has risen to its present greatness. I will oppose the passage of every law that will even tend to infringe upon a man’s religious views or any law discriminating against any religion. The Seventh Day Adventist and the Christian Scientist have the same right to the free and uninterrupted practice of their faith as I have to mine.

“The cost of government can be reduced. Every useless commission and expense should be eliminated. My experience as District Attorney will enable me to institute and conduct an investigation as to the reasons why the cost of government in this State has reached such alarming proportions. I believe that the time is ripe for the light of day to be turned on numerous of our commissions.

“The fish and game situation is not satisfactory, and if I should be so fortunate as to represent this county a strenuous effort will be made to have a rigid investigation made of the Fish and Game Commission, and the manner of its expenditure of the vast sums of money collected by it, and the reasons why the people of this State should not have the benefit of that which is theirs, the fish and game of this state. The fishermen of this county, both large and small, are entitled to serious consideration at the hands of the representative of this county to the end that the public may have the benefit of the unlimited food fish of our bay.

“The liquor question will be settled by the people themselves at the polls. The question is upon the ballot in three different forms, ranging from absolute prohibition down. The will of the majority, when the electorate has had fair means to manifest its choice, must be respected in a representative form of government. It is proper that the people should directly settle an issue of this character by vote on measures unmolested by personality of a candidate.

“If elected I should pursue the same course I have and am pursuing as District Attorney, and endeavor to do my full duty without fear or favor.”

EP; 21 Aug 1918; article: “George W. Smith, who has announced himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for assemblyman from this county, has been given the endorsement of the Democratic County Central Committee, of which James A. Hall of this city is the chairman.

“Mr. Smith said yesterday that his reply to the open letter requesting his views on the prohibition amendment was given in his announcement Sunday morning.

“In that announcement he said:

“The liquor question will be settled by the people themselves at the polls. The question is upon the ballot in three different forms, ranging from absolute prohibition down. The will of the majority, when the electorate has had fair means to manifest its choice, must be respected in a representative form of government. It is proper that the people should directly settle an issue of this character by vote on measures unmolested by personality of a candidate.”

“The Democratic county central committee of Santa Cruz county has endorsed the candidacy of District Attorney George W. Smith for the assembly and will get behind him with its full strength from now until the polls close at the general election in November. He is a Democrat and the Democrats of this county are urged to give him their united support at the primary election next Tuesday.

“In order for them to cast their votes for him at the primary election, it will be necessary for the individual voters to write his name in on their ballot, in the blank space provided for that purpose. There will be no name on the Democratic ballot for the position of assemblyman, as no candidate qualified for the position before the time for nominations closed, hence there will be a blank line upon which the voter may write the name of anyone whom he would like to see have the nomination. Mr. Smith is out for the nomination, and Democrats who wish to see a straight Democrat of known integrity and worth, who is well qualified in every way for the position, get the nomination, should write the name of Geo. W. Smith in on their ballot next Tuesday. This will permit him to get on the ballot at the general election next fall.

“Rev. Irving Bristol, Pastor First Methodist Church, Santa Cruz, Cal.

“My dear Mr. Bristol I have given careful consideration to your ‘open letter’ addressed to me upon my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the assembly, and will endeavor to set forth herein clearly and without evasion or equivocation my position upon the question propounded to me by you.

“At the outset of this discussion, let me say that I believe that you are actuated in this matter by the fairest of motives, and for you I have the highest regard as a man and a pastor.

“Your record here in the interest of Americanism and decency is without blemish. In the spread of American propaganda in this city at the beginning of this conflict, you rendered valiant service, and whenever, as your district attorney, I took a stand in the interests of our beloved country, I always found you ready to fearlessly back me up.

“One of the pleasantest incidents of my life, and one which I will never forget, was the occasion when you so kindly invited me to address your congregation in your church upon the war. It was an inspiration to me and I felt better for having come, and indicated to me that to you the winning of this struggle and the saving unto humanity of democracy was the sole issue, and the end to which every loyal American should devote his every effort at this time, without deviation, or deflection.

“On that memorable July 4th, 1776, the founders of this republic declared:

“‘We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed, by their creator, with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.’

“Do you believe that these truths are still ‘self-evident’? Knowing you as I do, I think I can safely say that you still have an abiding faith in the declaration of our independence, and the irrefutable truths herein put forth.

“In a free democracy, the minority must bow [to] the majority, when that majority has expressed its will in the legal manner.

“In California at the November election, the electors of this state have an opportunity, in accordance with the forms of the statute for that purpose provided, of expressing their will as to whether or not they are in favor of prohibition.

“This question is on the ballot, fairly and squarely, and if the governed of this state desire prohibition they have an opportunity of expressing their consent.

“I think that you will, in fairness to me, admit that I am an American who respects the principles upon which this nation was founded, and that, therefore, as such, if elected to represent the governed, must carry out the wishes as manifested by a vote of the majority.

“Therefore, the voters of this state having an opportunity to register their wish upon this question, if elected, I shall vote for the federal amendment, providing a majority of the electorate shall express their desire for prohibition at the general election; otherwise I shall take it that the people do not desire it, and shall vote against it.

“It appears to me that to take any other position would be repugnant to the principles of a democracy and a free country.

“I am not seeking this office for any personal gain to myself, but because my heart is in this war and the winning of it right, and because I feel that I can do my country the most good at this time by devoting my humble talents in the Legislature to the enactment of laws that will facilitate the successful and speedy termination of this fight.

“There are over one hundred, and thirty thousand Californians in the service of their country, ready to make the supreme sacrifice for you and I at home.

“I trust that it will not be necessary on the return of our heroes, after having established democracy in Europe for them to have to re-establish it in these United States.

“With best wishes and assuring you of my esteem and regard, I beg to remain, Sincerely yours, GEORGE W. SMITH.”

“‘The speech of the evening was made by District Attorney Geo. W. Smith of Santa Cruz. This was George’s first appearance before a Gilroy audience. He held the attention of his audience from start to finish, and made one of the best patriotic talks ever heard in this city. George is so enthusiastic in his world of hunting down spies and German propagandists that he is an intensely interesting speaker, and known whereof he speaks. It is a safe bet that he will be called upon again to give our people a patriotic talk and stir them into action. Geo. has been urged by his friends in Santa Cruz to make the run for the Assembly on the Democratic ticket, by having his name written in on the ballot. He would be a most valuable man in the Assembly at this time, and the voters should reward a faithful official by electing him to this office.’”

“District Attorney Geo. W. Smith then gave the address of the afternoon and talked on the war and in what we who stay at home could be of service in bringing the great conflict to a successful termination. George is intensely in earnest on this proposition and his enthusiasm for the cause of freedom permits him to see nothing but his American citizenship and his duty to his government in the great crisis that is confronting it. He brought home some solemn truths to his audience yesterday afternoon and proved by the Germans themselves that the war was not brought upon the world by England, but by the kaiser and the junkers of Germany. He paid his respects to the I.W.W. and food profiteers, two classes that are ably helping the Hun in this country. He said that no man should make a dollar out of the war. That no American worthy of the name would desire to coin the blood of America’s fighting youths into gold. His talk was greeted with cheers by those present and it could be seen that his hearers were heart and soul with him on the great issues before the people today. He closed by an earnest plea for the success of the coming Liberty Loan drive and told the people that men were not the crying need today—that it was money. That if America went over the top in the coming drive that the boys over there would be able to go over the top fully equipped, armed and rationed for the final drive that would plant the Stars and Stripes in Berlin and win the war for civilization...”

John says that there are but about forty Jugo-Slavs in the valley now not enough for a company—but that all of the Austrians here should be loyal to Jugo-Slavia, instead of being pro-Austrian. Here is the roll of honor and many of whom [were] good Jugo-Slavs apple pickers from Watsonville: ["Jugo-Slavs" here refers to those who favored the forming of a southern Slav state]

"J. Vucinich, killed in Macedonia; D. S. Farcon, killed; P. Radulovich, N. Vucurovich, killed; M. Batinich; G. Sisich, 52 years old; T. Sisich, his son; M. Milcivich, back in San Francisco with one leg; S. Radojcich, killed; N. Marijanovich, A. Lucev, M. Medar, B. Loriccas, J. Bajurin, L. Misita, M. Vulnovich, L. Vulnovich, T. Vukosavovich, N. Popovac, P. Popovac, L. Marcinko, killed; M. Pribisich, G. Vuinovich.

"A truly gallant and noble galaxy of heroes that are setting a militant example to the Jugo-Slavs in the Pajaro valley. They are fighting and dying for the cause they love so well and are calling with their dying breath to those that are yet enjoying the privileges of free America and taking no part in the great conflict, to come and take up the work and carry on as they fall. They gave and are giving all that the Jugo-Slavs might be free and have a government of their own under their own flag. What an incentive that must be to those who should be loyal to Jugo-Slavia. What a powerful string to draw them into the war of the ages. These men went into the war and fought when they had no country and no flag to fight for, and now that through the efforts of these and other loyal sons of Jugo-Slavia, the national emblem of that country floats freely with the flags of the allies. A country to save, a flag to fight for—what more could red blooded men want. Suppose there is not enough for a company—enlist with the stars and stripes, or get in touch with the organizers of the Jugo-Slav legion, they will fit you out and place you in a company. There was not enough for a company when these heroes you name went forth to fight and die—but they did not hesitate or hang back. They followed the path of duty into the road, to glory and undying fame. And the same road is open to you, Jugo-Slavs of the Pajaro valley."

Steven Scurich, president of the Jugo-Slav League here this morning received by special delivery from Washington, D.C., a beautiful Jugo-Slav flag and has arranged for it to head the Jugo-Slav section of the big parade. It is understood that this flag represents an alliance of the Czecho-Slovaks, the Bohemians, the Croatians and the Serbians, and all local Jugo-Slavs are invited to come out Saturday evening and follow the new flag. EP; 3 Oct 1918; item: “Liberty loan subscriptions took a $42,750 jump yesterday and reached the $354,900 mark. Most of the large subscriptions are in and from now on the climbing will be slower, especially if some of those who have bought $50 and $100 bonds do not materially increase their subscriptions. In this connection the Liberty Loan committee is making a list of people who have subscribed small amounts and who should buy more. A special committee will interview these people urging them to increase their subscriptions in view of the need for larger amounts. There has been considerable comment on the size of some subscriptions which is regrettable. On the other hand, most people are buying to the limit and their practical patriotism in very much appreciated.

“A number of those who pledged large amounts at the Saturday meeting are splitting up their subscriptions among the members of their families so that some who pledged $5000 are being listed at $2500, the other $2500 being in the name of the wife...

“The subscribers yesterday follows: $1000: Mr. and Mrs. Lucian F. Lettis, M. Moncovich & Co; $500: Nicolas M. Borina, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Simmunovich, Secondo Bros; $300: Scampavia Bros., Marko Stolich; $250: Tony M. Kissich; $150: John C. Jurovich [Jurcovich]. $100: John P. EP; 4 Oct 1918; obit: “Mrs. N. P. Stolich passed away at the Lane hospital, in San Francisco, on Wednesday night. Her death was a severe shock to her many friends here as very few of them realized that she was so ill.

“Eight weeks ago she was taken to the Watsonville hospital and was there operated on for a kidney complaint. After being there three weeks she was removed to the Lane hospital, where she was submitted to another operation, from which she never recovered. Her mother, husband and sister were with her to the end.

“Her maiden name was Catherine Anastatia Balovich. She was born in New Zealand twenty-eight years ago and came to this city with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Balovich, when she was two years old. She graduated from the commercial department of the local schools and before her marriage, six years ago, to Nicholas Stolich, she was bookkeeper for the City Grocery Company, which position she held for four years. She was a member of the ladies’ lodge, the U.P.P.E.C. of this city.

“She was a fine young lady, courteous and kindly to all. Her friends were numbered by her acquaintances and all who knew her have a memory of some kind [of] gracious action performed by her. She will be sadly missed from among her large circle of friends.

“She is survived by her husband and two little girls, Anna and Eleanor; her parents, and a sister, Mrs. T. M. Kissich. She was a devoted mother and a devout Catholic...”

EP; 7 Oct 1918; item: “‘The Community Sing’ yesterday afternoon was one of the most successful affairs ever held in this city. It was surprisingly successful, not alone from the immense crowd it drew, but the way that the singers responded to the invitation, and the wholeheartedness they threw into their efforts. The weather was well nigh perfect—in fact an ideal day and the plaza, in which the exercises were held never looked prettier. We little realize what that little beauty spot means to this city...

“The affair was brought to a happy close by a stirring address from District Attorney Geo. W. Smith, of Santa Cruz, who happening to be present, was asked to say a few words on behalf of the liberty bonds, and delivered one of the best twenty-minute speeches heard in this city, for a long time.

“Mr. Smith was in excellent form and was thoroughly en rapport with his subject.”

EP; 10 Oct 1918; article: "Vlaho Banovac was arrested by Constable Mann today on a charge of disturbing the peace of District Attorney Geo. W. Smith. The information was sworn to by Fred Howe, of the American Protective League. Banovac was brought before Judge Hawkins this afternoon...and refused to plead. Luke Scurich acted as interpreter and after much explaining made the prisoner realize his condition. His appearance bond was placed at $200 cash or $400 bail bond and he was remanded to the custody of Constable Mann until the bail was produced. After a long conversation in the Slavonic language with Luke Scurich, in which George Smith (says Mr. Scurich) gave him the best lecture on Americanism he ever heard, Banovac changed his mind and decided to plead guilty. The time for sentence was set for 3:30 and upon the consent of District Attorney Smith he was allowed to go on his own recognizance until that time.

"This was an especially flagrant case and Banovac had insulted other solicitors and refused to buy bonds although he was well able to do so. He seems to be the ring leader of a bunch of pro-Austrians who have been making things unpleasant in the community for some time past. The particular offense on which he was arrested was interference with Attorney Smith when he was selling bonds. Banovac's brother had agreed to sign up for some bonds with Mr. Smith when Banovac shouted to him in Slavonic not to sign for the bonds and added some insulting remarks. District Attorney Smith will ask for a penalty of not less than a $300 fine."

"The information is comforting, because mighty few of us haven't at one time or another, had a 'touch of the grippe' and become posted on how to handle it.

"The program for the prevention is simple—avoid crowds, beware of taking a cold, and don't get 'scared.'

"The 'grippe' becomes epidemic solely because part of the people don't live sensibly."

EP; 10 Oct 1918; article: "When Luke Scurich returned from Oakland yesterday he made a statement concerning the Markovich incident, noted in this paper in the last two days.

"J. S. Martin, a worker in the Railroad district, was the first salesman to call on certain Slavs, in that district, and he found them anything but eager to help out the Liberty loan committee and it was decided to send a Jugo-Slav committee to call on them. Markovich being one of the parties indifferent.

"This committee, consisting of Jack Diklich, John Hrepich, and Antone Bukich, also attempted to get subscriptions from Markovich and a number of the Slavs but they found there was nothing doing.

"Then it was that Mr. Scurich, E. B. Rilovich and R. S. Chuckovich were detailed to go after them, they being among the most successful of the Liberty bond salesmen.

"When they reached the Webber place where Markovich was employed, they found him picking apples. Mr. Scurich introduced himself and the other members and asked Markovich how many bonds he was going to take.

"The man immediately became evasive. When asked to give his name as the instructions of the salesman provide, he refused to make any reply. Finally he said there were two [several illegible words here] he was going to town to make subscriptions through a bank. When asked which bank he told Mr. Scurich that it was none of his business.

"Here Mr. Webber told him that he knew he was not going to town, that he did not want to lose a day from picking apples and that he had better take a bond with the committee.

"I won't subscribe anything from that 'Austro-Hungarian.' Markovich said, in an insulting way as he started to walk away.

"I am not an Austrian, a Serbian or a Jugo-Slav.' Mr. Scurich said. 'Any man who calls me an Austrian, a Serbian or a Jugo-Slav is a liar. I am an American citizen.'

"Take your glasses off and I will fight you,' Markovich replied with profanity.

"Mr. Scurich took his glasses off and said; 'Come ahead, I won't take anything back I have said.'

"Markovich then started for Mr. Scurich, but Messrs.

Rilovich and Chucovich took hold of him saying to Mr. Scurich, ‘Don’t fight,’ but the latter replied, ‘Let him come ahead. If he wants to fight, I am ready for him.’

“‘I’ll see you in town,’ said Markovich with more profanity. ‘I won’t forget this and I will get you some day on Main street.’

“Markovich was still breathing his threats of vengeance when the committee left. On reaching town, after telling Mr. Gardner of what had happened, Mr. Scurich was advised to get out a warrant for Markovich’s arrest in order to make an example of him for other loan slackers.

“That the case was disposed of during his absence came as a big surprise to Mr. Scurich on his return here yesterday as he had advised the court that he would be out of town for the rest of the day.

“The Register this morning says:

“‘Mr. Markovich, it is reported, was bragging around town yesterday that he had paid his fine with regrets as he would have been glad to have spent a year in the county jail if he had only knocked Steve Scurich’s teeth out.’ [Steve? further above it was Luke]

“If Markovich has uttered such sentiments, the sooner he cuts out such conduct the better. The people won’t stand for it.”

EP; 11 Oct 1918; item: “Vlaho Banovac, who plead guilty yesterday to a charge of disturbing the peace by interfering with Liberty Loan bond salesmen, was fined $150 by Justice A. B. Hawkins with the alternative of ninety days in jail. He paid the fine and was released, but that will not end the matter unless he goes pretty straight in the future. He was given a strong talk upon his offense by Justice Hawkins. That in obstructing the work of the bond salesmen he did something that was indefensible. That there was no reason for him holding a grudge against the committee or the bond salesmen as they were doing their duty under the law and that if he, Banovac, could not abide by the laws of the country the sooner he got out the better it would be. It took Banovac but a short time to decide to pay the fine.

“It is rumored that there is a bunch of pro-Austrians, in this community, who while they sympathize with and uphold Austria, none of them have so far offered to go across and fight for her. They uphold her in their language and think that in so doing they were getting by unobserved, but they are mistaken. The secret service men have been here and have been among them and listened to their talk. It was thought that they would have been hauled up for some of their disloyal utterances but it was decided to wait a while and see if they would not discover the error of their ways and appreciate the benefits of living under America’s free government enough to cut out the treasonable stuff. But recent developments tend to show that they are a dangerous bunch of enemy aliens and if they do not curb their enemy inclinations they will not remain long in the valley. An example should be made of them to discourage such actions.”

EP; 12 Oct 1918; item: “Needless alarm over an expected visit of Spanish influenza was decried yesterday by Dr. F. J. Koepke, the local health officer, who said that the proper measures to combat the disease would be taken as soon as they became necessary.

“Up to the present, no clearly established cases of the disease have been discovered here, Dr. Koepke said, although it is not to be expected that the city will entirely escape its visitation.

“At the same time, the worst thing that could happen would be for a great scare to grip the people. It would greatly increase the difficulties of properly handling the situation.

“Dr. Koepke stated that he had received from the State Board of Health some instructions to be issued to the people. The most important were:

“If you have a cold or are sneezing, you must stay at home. This is a measure of commonsense for yourself, your neighbors and your community.

“Don’t spread wild rumors about the influenza.

“If you think you have it or some one else has it, report it to a physician.

“Dr. Koepke said the City Health Board had discussed the matter of closing the schools, churches and theatres, but had decided that it was unnecessary for the present.”

EP; 14 Oct 1918; item: "The third fire, in the last three years, in the Cooper building, corner of Stoesser alley and West Third street, occurred last evening, about nine o'clock, and the alarm drew out an immense crowd. When the fire was discovered the cooking range in the kitchen of the Third Street Restaurant, which had been left by the employees for the night, with a big coal fire in it was red hot. The fire, however, did not start from the range. It caught from a gunny sack that had been used to wipe off the top of the range and had been carelessly thrown on a pile of coal against the middle wall. There evidently was some fire in this sack when it was thrown down and the fire started there, firing the pile of coal and eating into the wall which had no stops between the first and second floors and the fire went up it like it would a chimney..."

"There are already in this county forty of these selectives born in Austria and therefore classed as aliens who have waived all claims to deferred classification and have been patiently waiting for the ruling that would permit them a chance to fight the kaiser and his hordes.

"Mr. Borree's letter to the board on the point reads as follows:

"In every instance determine the race to which a registrant belongs and if he happens to be a Czech or Jugo-Slav give him a classification which he would be entitled to if he had not been so unfortunate as to have been born under the flag of Austria.["]

"The exemption board is now very busy mailing out cards to the registrants showing their classification and order of liability for military service."

EP; 21 Oct 1918; article: “The Spanish influenza epidemic is touching Watsonville and the surrounding country very lightly, and while there are numerous cases of the disease here none have been reported dangerous so far and all are responding promptly to treatment. The people here have kept their heads and take precautionary measures which goes a long way in keeping out the epidemic. In many instances in the large cities fear is causing nine-tenths of the deaths. Where people stampede and let fear clutch their hearts the danger is much greater. In calling on the doctors today we found them all cheerful and optimistic. They all find the cases light here and none of them dangerous.

“Dr. E. Lee Burch says that he has called upon twenty-five or thirty cases, all of them light, and responding promptly to treatment where the patients follow instructions. He says that the mild climate here is ideal and eliminates a great deal of the danger. The greatest danger is from the patient getting out of bed too soon. He says they should stay in bed three days after they first feel well, so as to give the heart and lungs time to gain strength and resist a possible attack of pneumonia. They will thus avoid complications.

“Dr. Liles has four or five cases of influenza, and two cases of pneumonia. He states that none of them are dangerously ill and that they are progressing nicely. He has numerous cases of colds that taken in time prevents the development into influenza. He has no dangerous cases of any kind.

“Dr. S. C. Rogers has about twenty cases of influenza, a number of which are serious, but not necessarily dangerous. He has one case of pneumonia. The greater part of his cases are across the river in the Pajaro section.

"Dr. Easterday has no cases of Spanish influenza. He has a number of colds, but none of them would come under the head of influenza."

"Deceased was a native of South Island, New Zealand, and aged 49 years, 7 months and 3 days. She came to this country, with her husband some twenty-six years ago, and has been living here for about twenty-five years.

"She was the mother of the late Mrs. N. P. Stolich, who passed away a few weeks ago, and it is thought that the death of this loved daughter had much to do with her fatal illness from a stroke of paralysis, which she suffered last Tuesday noon. She never regained consciousness from the shock.

“According to the testimony Mitchell was playing with his sister, who was a few years older, and Alden Jeter who lives in the neighborhood, and when the wagon driven by Mr. Gospodnetich passed he ran and climbed on the trailer with the evident purpose of getting a ride. “Sixth—He believes that a member of the legislature is a representative of the majority, and will carry out the will of the majority of his constituents whenever that constituency has expressed itself at the polls, in accordance with law. This applied to all amendments on the November ballot.

“Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will sustain the Health Officer in his acts in the above premises.

EP; 2 Nov 1918; letter: “We have arrived at the close of the campaign of 1918, and practically at the end of my administration as your District Attorney, and I would be ungrateful indeed if I did not take some means of showing my appreciation to you for the support that you have given me as your prosecutor and the kind consideration extended me in my aspirations to represent you in the Legislature of this State.

“To have been the District Attorney of this great county during the greatest war of all time, is an honor that has fallen to the lot of but few men, and as I look back over the strenuous and often tempestuous times since April, 1917, I do so with a full consciousness that I have done all that I possibly could do for the nation.

“I claim no consideration for my war work for it was done unselfishly, and was nothing more than I should have done and nothing as compared to the men ‘over there.’

“I became a candidate for the Assembly because I felt and sincerely believed that I could serve my country best there during the serious times that are ahead of us.

“You are familiar with my qualifications and my record in the enforcement of all laws in this county.

“I will compare my record in the enforcement of the Red Light law, the gambling laws and the liquor laws with any District Attorney in the state of California.

“My opponent has conducted an honest campaign and for him I have the highest personal regard.

“However, in political campaigns it is almost impossible for one to restrain his friends, and at the eleventh hour, in order to preclude the proper reply, D. M. Gandier of San Francisco, a non-resident, non-taxpayer and non-electoral of this county, has flooded the county with circulars endeavoring to dictate to the electoral of the district how it shall vote. The circular is misleading and indirectly impugns my loyalty by inferring that I am the candidate of certain interests.

“This is untrue in whole and in fact, and I am not now nor have I ever been or ever will be handled, run or controlled by anyone, be it individual or organization, and for proof of this I submit the records of the criminal courts during my term as district attorney.

“The circular is a direct affront to the electors of this county because the county of Santa Cruz is better able to select its representative in the legislature, knowing the candidates and their qualifications, and the needs of the county, than a non-resident outsider.

“Again thanking you for your support to me in my public life, and placing my cause in your hands confidentially believing that the county will stand for fair play as it always has, I am,

EP; 4 Nov 1918; article: “LOCAL CITIZENS ARE GLAD TO ENDORSE GEORGE W. SMITH FOR THE ASSEMBLY...This county has a small army of citizens who have been doing valiant service in helping win the war by their work at home. Among all of those men not one has been more active in serving, more patriotic in purpose, more effective in results, than George W. Smith, District Attorney of Santa Cruz county. He has neither shifted nor shirked any call upon him to squelch sedition and prosecute the offenders. He has been tireless in upholding all the efforts of each branch of national service. In so doing he has not considered his professional future or probable political career; he has thought only of his stricken country and of the way in which he could serve it best. He has lived and acted up to the acid test of 100 per cent Americanism. And in so doing no official duty has been neglected, no violation of the law has gone unprosecuted, no ordinance of the Board of Supervisors has been allowed to become a valueless 'scrap of paper.'

"George W. Smith is one of our 'home boys,' one of them who has made good in the broadest acceptance of the term. We were proud of him when we elected him District Attorney. We are proud of the splendid record he has made in that office. We are prouder of the record which he has made, and which we expected him to make, as a true son of the United States—as a loyal, earnest, fearless, fighting American. His time, his thought, his effort, has been in the service of his country throughout the war, here at home and all over the State of California.

"His candidacy for Assembly deserves success next Tuesday. In voting for George W. Smith for Assemblyman you will ballot for a man who has been and is with and for this country and its cause.

"If your country and its cause has an appeal to you beyond all other questions; if you believe that this war should be settled and settled our way, before taking up other and distracting issues; if you believe that constant and devoted service to this country during each hour of its two years of peril is deserving of appreciation, you will vote on tomorrow for George W. Smith for Assemblyman from Santa Cruz county.

"We endorse the candidacy of George W. Smith for the Assembly: ...O. D. Stoesser...Mateo Lettunich... Luke Scurich...M. N. Lettunich, L. P. Cikuth, A. P. Zar, Paul Milladin, A. Balich...Nicholas Alaga...[of 96]"

EP; 4 Nov 1918; item: "It is reported about the streets today that the city board of aldermen intend to pass an ordinance tomorrow evening making it obligatory upon the people of Watsonville to wear gauze masks on the streets. We hope that the report is an error and that it is not the intention of the city board to smother us with those dirty, filthy, disease breeding masks. We sincerely hope not."

EP; 4 Nov 1918; item: "A REPLY TO THE FINAL STATEMENT OF GEO. W. SMITH. The article appearing in the Pajaronian under title, A Final Statement of Geo. W. Smith, calls for this eleventh hour reply. No exception can be taken to the references of faithful services rendered as a county official. Limited space forbids my saying all I would like to say on this subject. Objections to Mr. Smith's zeal in fulfilling the duties of his office must be confined to 'those who have felt the halter draw.'

"The voters will also bear in mind the excellent public service rendered the county by C. S. Price as superintendent of our public schools. Mr. Smith's untiring efforts to foster all war measures is also conceded, and if he stood alone in this matter he might urge that, too, as a claim for the office now sought; but it will be remembered that Mr. Price has also been untiring of his efforts along the same lines; giving of his time, energies and money unstintingly as called upon from time to time.

"We must correct one error, and a mischievous one, in Mr. Smith's statement. The issues that placed Mr. Price in nomination for assemblyman were neither made in San Francisco or Germany. The people responsible are taxpayers and electors of Santa Cruz county. D. M. Gandier, non-taxpayer and non-elect, never heard of the name of Mr. Price until fully four months after he consented to be considered as a candidate for the office and then to list up Santa Cruz County with the Anti-Saloon league throughout the state. Mr. Gandier wrote to two or three representatives of the dries inquiring into the habits of Mr. Price. Is he a sober man and can he be depended on to represent at Sacramento the majority vote of the county registered at the last election as fully 800? Mr. Grandier was informed that Santa Cruz Co. could care for its own interests.

"It required two or three conferences with Mr. Price on the part of taxpayers at this and the east end of the county before his final consent was given. Then only on condition that he had the hearty support of all the temperance forces. They are solidly back of Mr. Price and can be depended on to the last man and woman to deliver that support Nov. 5th. Any support any subsequent candidate can expect for the same office must necessarily come from the anti-prohibitionists. This Mr. Smith understands and has refused to put himself on record as entertaining individual convictions in favor of the question of national amendment, nor has he even by word or pen as far as is known, pledged himself to support the measure.

"We estimate his words at 100% and are satisfied he is not qualified to deliver at the coming session of the legislature the majority vote of Santa Cruz County. We deeply deplore the entrance of Mr. Smith at a late hour in the campaign under these conditions. He must see, as the saloon men themselves see, the handwriting on the wall. Fully 14 of the necessary 36 states have ratified; the surprise being that a number of these 14 were considered wet. The forecast is made that at the spring sessions of the various states, enough states will ratify to carry the amendment, with several states and many years to spare.

"We wish it were in our power to remove the obstacle this venture in politics on the part of Mr. Smith may produce in the coming years. Aside from his views on the liquor question, Mr. Smith has many ardent friends among the temperance people of this county, and under favorable circumstances they would have stood behind him. The evidence is here presented in brief. The people must be the judges.

"(Signed) W. P. GRANT, (Resident taxpayer and elector.) Chairman of Dry Federation."

EP; 4 Nov 1918; obit: "In Watsonville, Nov. 4, 1918, Millan Angelich, aged 30 years, a native of Herzegovina."

EP; 5 Nov 1918; article: "That the influenza epidemic is not on the increase in Watsonville is plainly apparent to those who have been watching it closely. There are not so many cases now as has been heralded abroad and there is no great clamor in the city for an ordinance making the wearing of masks compulsory. We have been looking into this today and find a strong sentiment against any such arbitrary action. It is not requested by the physicians of the city, who are practically unanimous in the belief that the wearing of masks in the open air is folly, to say the least.

"Dr. Bixby, city health officer, gave us the figures today and will endeavor to give them daily hereafter in order to keep the public posted upon the actual condition. As the report stands we have had altogether in four weeks since the epidemic started here up to last Saturday night 382 cases. Of these sixty-two were reported during the first two weeks, and the remainder reported up to and including last Saturday of 320. Of those a great number, Dr. Bixby informs us, have recovered and are back at work and about their business. Sunday there were reported 23 new cases and on Monday 36 new cases.

"Dr. Bixby admitted that the board of health would probably ask the city board of aldermen for an ordinance compelling the use of masks. The doctor said that it was not because he believed that the mask was a preventative measure or that the wearing of masks on the streets was a good thing, but that other towns in this section of the state were enforcing the use of gauze masks and that they were beginning to throw rocks at Watsonville because we were not doing so now.

"Dr. Easterday, when approached today for an interview on the question of the gauze mask, said that the mask when worn upon entering a sick room was a protection for the individual and should be removed and sterilized immediately. But, the doctor continued, as fresh air and cleanliness are essential to health the wearing of the mask as it is being worn, without cleansing, only prepares the proper nidus for the propagation of the influenza germ, (the germs propagate under heat and moisture) and as they multiply extremely rapidly in a very short time, colonies are formed that necessarily endanger the wearer of the mask. The mask should be discarded entirely while in the open air.

"When asked if he were one of those who intended to ask for an ordinance making the wearing of masks upon the streets of this city compulsory, he replied 'No.' And on being asked his opinion of the move he said: 'The compulsory wearing of the gauze masks by the public has not proven beyond a doubt a protection to the public or a conservation of health. If the mask is always worn intelligently with some idea of its proper use it is a safeguard to a limited extent. But it may have some psychological influence on individuals. He may be more cautious in other respects and will not likely expose himself as do those who are careless and indifferent.'"

"We have talked with a majority of the physicians of the city and as a rule they are of the same opinion as Dr. Easterday in regard to the wearing of the gauze masks on the street. They realize that fresh air and cleanliness are very important in combating the influenza germ and they know that neither of these elements are present where the gauze mask is worn. We have found none among our local physicians who will admit that the compulsory wearing of masks—or any wearing of masks in the open air or upon the streets would be beneficial to the public health. And our physicians are the ones we should go by."

“Details of this latest effort on the part of the Slav provinces of Austria to sustain each other until an allied victory can insure them a national independence have just been received by Dr. Anta Trumblo, who, representing the Slav provinces of Austria, signed at Corfu on July 20, 1917, the pact with Serbia providing for a single united Southern Slav nation following the war.

“Croatia and Slavonia rank as two of the most fertile provinces of Austria, and despite the ever increasing scarcity of food that exists throughout the dual monarchy, these two provinces continue to produce more than they need. Through their local diet they therefore proposed to the Austrian-Hungarian government that they be allowed to succor the other Slav provinces of Bohemia, Dalmatia, Herzegovina and Istria. The only condition they demanded was that in recognition of this they be exempted from military requisition of their food products.

“The proposition was turned down by the Austrian-Hungarian government, whereupon the two more fortunate provinces of Croatia and Slavonia began immediately gathering together all the babies and little children from the other Slav provinces. No distinction was made either on religious grounds or diverse branches of the Slav race. The children likewise were distributed amongst the families of Croatia and Slavonia without religious or other distinction. Catholic children often being taken into orthodox families and vice versa. All are now being fed and educated towards the common end of saving the greatest number possible of the Southern Slav race, which has had the most disproportionate losses in the present war, for the future independent Slav state.”
[The terms in this article of Croatia, Slavonia and Dalmatia are confusing because they are not as we know them today; see the maps in Appendix C.]

Smith on the part that Santa Cruz county has played in the present, world-war. It may not be known, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that steps toward the independence of the Jugo-Slavs were mooted and discussed in Watsonville a long time before the present great conflict. Mr. Smith is well qualified to talk on this subject, and has consented to write up his reminiscences in connection therewith. The series of articles will appear in the Pajaronian and Santa Cruz Surf.

EP; 7 Nov 1918; article: “SAYS PACKING HOUSES BREED ‘FLU’ GERMS. Ed. Pajaronian: A noted doctor who has done much in the interest of the pure food laws of this country, says, that ‘wearing a mask to keep the ‘flu’ germs from going in or out was like using chicken wire-fence, because the breath of the wearer of a mask soon makes it moist, furnishing ideal conditions for an adoption of millions of new germs as well as to preserve them for the future in case of the dying out of the disease that might happen if those germs were exposed to the dry fresh air for only fifteen minutes.’

“Now the question arises, are the aldermen in cahoots with the ‘flu’ disease, to keep it supplied with material to feed upon by making each citizen wear an incubator? I saw nothing in any recommendation from the board of health to the board justifying any such drastic measures as that new Ordinance No. 184, but since the deed is done, I suggest that the board add a new committee to the health department, whose duty it shall be to make conditions less conducive to the ‘flu’ by compelling the various packing-houses and other places where labor is employed to give the help a warm, dry, clean place to work in, and thus lock up the stable door before the horse is stolen. In my rambles I found only one place where the health or comfort of the employees was considered at all, and that was at the Rodgers Bros.' packing-house and dryer. Their help gets a rest of ten minutes in mid-forenoon and afternoon, each; they are given ample opportunity to sit down when at work, and besides, are furnished with hot bricks for their feet when cold. All this is worth emulation by the other places; would be in harmony with state laws; should be enforced by our city health and police officers, and would be a great preventative of colds and nervous troubles that cold, damp, drafty conditions like most of our packing-houses afford, and which are prime causes for the 'flu.'

"Stop the conditions that cause much of the 'flu,' and thus stamp out the great germ-breeding centers by enforcing old and adequate laws that Ordinance No. 184 has not even a speaking acquaintance with.

EP; 7 Nov 1918; item: "New evidence of the effectiveness of the gauze mask as a preventative of influenza has been discovered in the laboratories of the University of California, according to Health Officer Hassler. Experiments made by Dr. Carl Meyer of the medical research laboratory, he said, have demonstrated that the influenza bacillus dies within six minutes at the most unless it finds lodgment favorable to its growth. Such situations are the human mouth or nostrils only, or specially prepared culture media.

"Therefore, says the Health Officer, it is evident that the influenza bacillus that becomes entangled in the meshes of a mask dies almost at once. Other experiments have shown that bacilli cannot be blown through a properly made mask.

"According to the health officer, there are some indications that the wearing of the mask in San Francisco has also cut down the usual amount of diphtheria, whooping-cough, scarlet fever and general colds, all of which, he says, are most easily transmitted by the breath.—San Francisco Chronicle."

Even if he has lived in the United States but a few hours before enlisting, the applicant has the same privileges. Subjects of enemy nations, if considered loyal may renounce their allegiance and become American citizens by the same process. Before allowing a soldier to take the step, commanding officers are instructed to ascertain that the alien understands his action and is sincere in his desire for citizenship."

EP; 7 Nov 1918; article: "PSYCHOLOGY OF THE SPANISH 'FLU' MASK. The psychology of the 'flu' mask is an interesting study. By using it, many timid people's nerves are set at rest. They receive a mental contentment that allays fear and fright of the epidemic, all of which adds to their strength of resistance to the disease. Thousands of people have not resorted to the mask. All the timid, nervous people began using it just as soon as they heard the doctors had recommended it. The over-cautious man grabbed it as soon as it came out. Of course, lots of others are using it who have no fear or alarm. They simply have taken it as an easy, preventative measure. The doctors themselves in all truth, have recommended it for the mental confidence it brings about as well as an obstruction of the germs' activities. In the crowded store, or office, its use is very sensible. On the outside, few have been wearing it. The grotesque appearances it has caused have been humorous to thousands on the streets. Some have made themselves ridiculous by their fright and alarm and by their extravagant use of the mask. The old cure of whisky for a cold has dropped from sight with the doctor's warning that liquor is a bad thing for a 'flu' attack. This warning has stopped much drinking, in fact has almost worked a reformation among the several well-known 'polite drunks.' Thus has the epidemic a bright side, at least in the opinion of the homes of the gay roisterers mentioned.—San Francisco correspondent of the Oakland Enquirer."

EP; 22 Nov 1918; article: "As considerable criticism has been directed against Constable W. B. Mann, who during the illness of Police Officer John Corr, has had charge of the enforcement of the mask ordinance on Main street[,] we interviewed him this morning and he states that he is doing all in his power to enforce the provisions of the ordinance. He states, however, that he is handicapped to a great extent by the attitude of doctors in regard to the law. Apparently some of them believe the gauze mask has but little merit as a preventative, and consequently they pay no attention to the compulsory masking law, thereby setting a very bad example which is quickly taken advantage of by others. This makes the enforcement of the law a hard proposition. Constable Mann says it is not a very pleasant thing for an officer to be criticized for arresting a man without a mask on lower Main street when the doctors are going without them on upper Main street.

"He states that he has spoken to some of the doctors at different times and that he accomplished nothing. They seem to take the mask as a joke, or as to apply only to the laymen, and some of them are open in their condemnation of the masking law as an egregious blunder and one that does more damage than good.

"He spoke to Dr. Bixby, our health officer, who without mask, was driving his car, and the doctor said that when one person, alone, was driving in an automobile that it was not necessary for the wearing of a mask, but that if more than one was in the car, masks should be worn.

"What does the ordinance say on this point?"

"However, the doctor did not say anything about the pushing down of the mask, and going up the street smoking. That is a violation of the law that is causing havoc. If a doctor can do this, why cannot a layman? The doctors have been doing just this thing. Even Dr. Bixby, our health officer, who is now endorsing the masking ordinance, has been seen on Main street, and crossing the plaza with his mask below his chin, and smoking a cigar..."

EP; 5 Dec 1918; article: "Chairman John E. Gardner of the Watsonville Chapter of the American Red Cross, who has had the active management and supervision of the Red Cross Hospital conducted in the auditorium during the influenza epidemic has given out a summary of the work done and the results accomplished by the workers who volunteered their services in this crisis.

"The report shows that approximately 14 per cent of the total reported cases of the flu in the city were cared for at the hospital and that while the death rate was so high compared to that outside the hospital (due to the fact that so many cases were in the advanced stages of pneumonia when brought in), the hospital was the direct means of saving the lives of from 75 to 100 people who but for this institution would have received no nursing or medical attention..."

“Chief credit for the opening and successful operation of the hospital is given to the women of Watsonville.

“While the men, in a limited number, worked faithfully, in the conduct of the hospital,’ the report says, ‘the credit for its organization and operation really belongs to the women of Watsonville and the Pajaro valley. In all branches of the work they were to the front. No service was too menial or disagreeable for cheerful performance by them.

“Some of them worked twelve hours per day for weeks. All were faithful and happy in the knowledge that they were serving the cause of humanity. It is doubtful if their accomplishment could be duplicated in any town of the size, anywhere.’

“The Japanese Association also comes in for a word of appreciation for its share in operating the hospital. On this point the report says:

“Fifty-five of the patients treated were Japanese. From the first[,] the Japanese Association assumed a just share of the burden of the work. Almost constantly there were three or sometimes four or five Japanese nurses’ aids on duty, while from one to three aided in the cooking and sterilization of the dishes. They were most willing and effective workers, at all times courteous and appreciative. At the close of the hospital the association employed two of the trained nurses to remain and care for the remaining patients.’

“The patients cared for were divided racially as follows: Japanese, 55; Slavonian, 46; American, 31; Portuguese, 6; Mexican, 5; Fillippino, 2; Italian, 1; Total, 146.

“The deaths were divided as follows: Japanese, 5; Slavonian, 6; American, 1; Portuguese, 1; Italian, 1; Total, 17.

We print here all of the 1st article and a small part of the 2nd article. The others are omitted because of lack of Slav information.]

EP; 26 Dec 1918; article: “Santa Cruz in the War. A Short History of the Means, Methods and Accomplishments of Santa Cruz County in Combating the Enemy Here During the World Struggle. By George W. Smith, District Attorney.

“This story is written so that the public may better appreciate the unselfish, self-sacrificing danger attendant and patriotic efforts of the judge of the superior court, the chief of police of the city of Santa Cruz, the sheriff of the county of Santa Cruz, the mayor of the city of Santa Cruz, the local chief of the American Protective League, and the members of the local board of exemption, in the apprehension of enemy agents and disloyalists and the detection and suppression of treason and enemy propaganda in our midst and with whom it was the honor and great privilege of the writer to be associated during the troublesome times from April, 1917, to the memorable eleventh day of November last.

“Upon the officials above enumerated rested the very great burden and solemn duty of caring for the ‘Hun in our midst,’ and it is no idle boast to say that he was as well and effectively cared for here as he was by the boys ‘over there.’ In the few chapters that are to follow, I shall endeavor to relate to the best of my humble ability, fairly and without prejudice, how this was done.

“CHAPTER I:

“Santa Cruz County and Its Past in the Commencement of the World Conflict.

“That Germany and its vassal state, Austria, commenced the war for the purpose of conquering the Earth and imposing its ‘Kultur’ upon all the people of the globe, must now be accepted as a truism and can not be debated by any sane person; but in order to furnish a background for this chapter, it is necessary that the manner in which Germany hoped to accomplish the conquest of the world and the barriers that stood between it and its desires be briefly referred to and discussed.

“Two questions, therefore, present themselves, to-wit: How did Germany set out to attain her object? What stood in her way and had to be destroyed ere she could succeed?

“There was but one way that the enemy could rule the earth, and that was by the realization of the Mittle-European scheme, well started on its way by the road from Berlin to Baghdad; and standing in the way of it was one obstacle, the same obstacle that saved the world for Christianity and preserved civilization from the Turk—the Slavs of Serbia, morally supported by the oppressed Jugo-Slavs of Austria. The Slavs had to be destroyed at once because as time went on and with the advent of education and enlightenment by its exiled sons in the United States and South America, Jugo-Slavia was fast taking form, and the time for the falling to pieces of Austria, termed by Dr. Hinkovic, the great Slav patriot, the ‘ramshackle kingdom’ was in sight and not far distant.

“To win a military victory, Germany had to strike when it did. It was a military victory that its rulers desired, because in ten years more Germany would have ruled the world economically. The words ‘Made in Germany’ were in this country at the outset of the war virtually a hall-mark of quality and distinction in the marts of industry and trade; but let us hope that for another generation at least this mark shall serve only as a passport to the junk pile.

“Germany set out to destroy the Serbs by means of intrigue, at which her rulers have proven themselves to be past masters, and at which they are still engaged, notwithstanding the armistice.

“The Balkan war with Turkey was ‘made in Germany,’ it being the aim of the chancellories of the central powers that the Turk, whose armies were officered and trained by German officers, crush the Slavs, and then Berlin could take care of the Turk in its own way; but out of the Balkan war rose a greater and victorious Serbia; with the attendant rise of the hopes of the Jugo-Slavs of Austria for the dawn of a new day and the realization of their dreams of ages—freedom.

“Since the war, I have read many publications of merit upon war topics, but in my opinion the greatest contributions to our cause and the cause of human liberty the world over have been the intelligent, impartial and fair articles by eminent authorities on European politics appearing in the World’s Work, and in the issue of this great periodical of April, 1918, Burton J. Hendrick, in his introductory article to Ambassador Morgenthau’s story, deals with the results of the Balkan war in the following words:

“‘The Treaty of Bucharest (the treaty of peace between the Turks and the Balkan states), which had divided nearly all the remaining territories of European Turkey among the Balkan states, had recently been signed, yet the indications were numerous that Austria and Germany would not submit to this division as the final solution of the Turkish problem (this was in 1913). Germany had already completely elaborated her plans for a great Oriental empire—a scheme that involved the restructure of Austria and Bulgaria to a state of vassalage, and the extinction of Serbia as a nation and even, as subsequent events have shown, as a people—and the incorporation with the enlarged German empire of Constantinople and the whole Turkish dominion in Asia, extending to the Persian Gulf.’

“The diplomacy of the United States has oft been criticized and still more frequently ridiculed, but even our enemies must admit that our interests were well cared for in at least Berlin and Constantinople, and the names of Gerard and Morgenthau will go down into history with a record of achievement of far more good for humanity than that of Talleyrand, who intrigued so well for the first Napoleon and whom European politicians have for over a century held up as a model statesman.

“Henry Morgenthau, who is of German birth by the way, being born in Baden [sic Mannheim], birthplace of a disloyal Santa Cruzan of whom I shall later treat, was appointed ambassador of the United States to Turkey by President Wilson in 1913, shortly after the signing of the Treaty of Bucharest.

“Italy at that time was a member of the Triple Alliance, and her ambassador to the Sublime Porte was Sig. Pallavicini, who, according to Morgenthau’s story, as published in the World’s Work, informed our ambassador of the intent on the part of the central powers to deal with Serbia and of their opposition to certain ‘nationalistic societies' that she had permitted to exist in her own confines.

"A pretext had to be furnished, however, before the destruction of the Slavs could commence, so the next act in the carefully rehearsed drama took place on 29th June, 1914, by the sending of the Austrian Crown Prince Franz Ferdinand to the intensely Slav and anti-Austrian town of Sarajevo in Bosnia, on Vodov Dan, the national feast day of the Slavs, and his assassination by Franco Prilip [sic Gavrilo Princip]. I believe that the assassination was all arranged beforehand by the central powers, because the assassin was never punished [he got 20 years and died in prison in April 1918], and for the further reason that the Slavs could not have profited by the killing. As a matter of fact it was the worst thing that they could have done, especially since no aid could be expected from the Serbians as they had just gone through the Balkan war. Another significant fact is the holding of the maneuvers by the armies of Austria and Germany at that time and the presence of the Jugo-Slav troops of the Austrian army on the German and Galician fronts, far from their home land, thousands perishing in front of Liege, knowing not what they died for.

"What followed the assassination is familiar to everyone, and the reader no doubt ere this has begun to wonder what application this historical narrative has to the county of Santa Cruz and its part in this war; but it has, for this country for more than 15 years past has excited more than passing attention from the international buncomen of Vienna and Berlin.

"I hope that I have demonstrated that it was necessary to crush the Slavs to win.

"In Watsonville, in this county, is found the most important Slav colony in the United States, numbering among its members for many years past some of the most devoted patriots to the Jugo-Slav cause, men of education and refinement, forced from their native land because of their democratic tendencies and finding refuge in this land of liberty.

"No matter what position these patriots attained, they have never forgotten the sufferings of their oppressed brethren at home, and, further inspired by our traditions and institutions and freedom and liberty that is ours (of-times so little appreciated by some of our citizenship), launched from Watsonville 10 years ago a movement that was the beginning of the propaganda that is now world-wide and, at the time of the commencement of this war, was bearing fruit in the central powers themselves, and in a few years more would have brought on a revolt in Austria that would have dismembered the dual monarchy.

"To win a military victory, Germany had to strike when she did.

"Santa Cruz county, therefore, has played more than a passive part in the bringing on of the war, because it was the means of, in no small measure, hastening its commencement.

"It was fortunate for civilization that the war commenced when it did, for in ten years, as heretofore pointed out, the world would have succumbed to Teutonic rule by the trade route. As Caesar said of the Gauls, we would have been so 'effeminated by the merchants' that we would have yielded our honor for the mere asking.

"Do not get the impression that all the Slavs in Watsonville and the remainder of this country were Jugo-Slavs. On the contrary, until we got into the fight at least, for some unexplainable reason, a majority of the older members of the colony were in sympathy with Austria, and the alliance between the two factions were sharply drawn until quite recently.

"Because of the fact that I have been associated with these people intimately for 20 years, speaking their language, which I acquired from my mother, who was a native of Dalmatia, a province of the proposed new nation, and taking an active part in their efforts to obtain their freedom, I can safely say that I possess first hand knowledge whereof I speak upon these matters.

"When one considers that Austria was a crazy quilt kingdom composed of real Austrians (Germans), Hungarians, and the oppressed Slavs, Czechs, Poles, the Bohemians, and considerable Italians, and that German was the only official language recognized, the only conclusion that can be reached is that since the term Austrian was synonymous with German, every sympathizer with Austria must have been of necessity an adherent of the Kaiser, who was the real ruler of Austria.

"It is hard to understand how one could adhere to his oppressor, but German propoganda played upon the religious difference of the Slavs, some being Roman Catholics and others Greek Catholics, and this difference was utilized by the central powers in dividing the Slavs, and some of the earlier revolutionists made the fatal mistake of attacking the episcopacy and priesthood of Dalmatia and Croatia.

"The Slavs are intensely religious and love the faith of their fathers, and justly so because to the church more than to any other institution do they owe the preservation of their language and their traditions. The clergy of Croatia and Dalmatia has furnished some of the most illustrious martyrs to the cause, and naturally an attack upon religion was resented, and did much harm to the movement.

"There can be no other logical explanation for pro-Austrianism or anti-Jugo-Slavism, unless it be that the holders of these views were in the pay of the central powers. That some were, I have no doubt, and of at least one I am morally certain.

"It was singular that I should happen to be district attorney of this county during this war. I am supremely happy that I was, because I served my country where I could best serve it.

"I knew every sympathizer of the central powers among the Slavs, and they knew that I knew it, and this knowledge had a tendency to make them think twice before starting anything, if any such inclination any of them had.

“Practically no trouble was had with them, however, but on the contrary their contributions to our country’s cause were most commendable and exceeded by no other race of people.”

“CHAPTER II:

“A Few Pre-War Reminiscences.

“In 1908 it was my good fortune to meet for the first time George J. Carstulovich, proprietor of the Saddle Rock restaurant, Santa Cruz. It was at one of the annual banquets and installations of the Slavonian Society in Watsonville, which that society used to hold each year in the old days, and an event looked forward to by every member of the colony in Watsonville, and an occasion that my mother always loved to attend.

“At the conclusion of the installation it was always customary to call on various persons present for addresses, and on this night Carstulovich, who had just come to this country, was called upon, and delivered one of the greatest orations that I have ever had the pleasure to hear.

“His subject was entitled the ‘Star of the East,’ meaning the rise of the Slav state, and his depiction of the trials and tribulations of his people as he left them was most eloquent.

“In the course of his speech he made the startling prediction that Germany was preparing for a world war, and the roast that he administered Francis Joseph was a classic.

“The reception that George received when he concluded was not of the same kind that he would receive were he to make such a speech at this time. Some of his hearers were severe in their criticism of one who had the temerity and audacity to even speak of their dearly beloved ‘Chelo’ (meaning ‘the baldheaded one’), as the old reprobate and rogue, Francis Joseph, was called by his fawning satellites.

“Yet it was because of men of Carstulovich’s views that Austrian subjects were dealt with so leniently since the war in this country, and not required to be finger printed and registered as the Germans were.

“The next day, at the residence of Steven Scurich, I had the pleasure of having a long talk with Carstulovich upon the relations between the Slavs and their rulers, and learned that he had just finished an enlistment in the Austrian army, having been attached to the marines on the von Waldersee expedition against the Boxers in China, and I remember that I was much impressed with his sincerity as a lover of democracy and his intense hatred of all things German and Austrian.

“In his recounting of the methods used to Germanize the Slavs, he was particularly bitter, and I suggested that perhaps he was exaggerating somewhat, and then he read the advice of the present kaiser (I used the word present advisedly) to his troops before their departure for China, and wanted to know if that wasn’t proof enough.

“Carstulovich is a man of considerable education in his own language, is well versed in political economy and European politics, and no mean linguist, speaking German fluently, but, above all, is as loyal an American as breathes, and has been of invaluable assistance to the authorities in the detection of enemy agents, particularly in the Schulenberg and von Ludwig cases, of which I shall later treat.

“It was from Carstulovich that I obtained the first insight into the German scheme and its relationship to the Balkans (altho my mother had told me much about the attitude of the Germans toward the Slavs), and I thereafter became active in the movement, and the knowledge that I acquired up on these matters stood me in good stead in what little I did from the platform in fighting German propaganda for America during the war.

“A very effective, much maligned and little appreciated worker against the machinations of Germany in America is F. F. Akacich, editor of the Jugo-Slav Jadran (Adriatic) of San Francisco.

“Mr. Akacich lived in Watsonville during the early days of the movement, and with Steven Scurich, Lazar Jalovica, V. Lister, Antone Vukich, Nick Stolich, John Scurich, Rako [Rado] Chukovich, and many others whose names I can not now recall, really shaped the first concrete and practical effort in the laying of the foundation for the future state of Jugo-Slavia in so far as [the] same could be done by laying their case before the American people in the right light.

“Altho a profound scholar and able journalist, Akacich worked in Watsonville at the most ordinary labor until he had gathered together a few dollars and then went to San Francisco and founded his paper, which has been the pioneer journal of the Slavs in the West, and has been and is doing valiant service for their principles.

“This fighting editor deserves much credit. He and his paper have had a hard struggle, and he is a living [illustration] of the maxim that the reward of true patriotism comes only in one’s realization of a duty well performed.

“He entered the journalistic field against the rank pro-German Narodni-List, published in New York, and undoubtedly subsidized by the central powers. Every effort was made by Bopp and his crowd to bring him over to the German side.

“In fact so strong a fight was waged against him when he refused to betray his people or the United States which had given him a refuge, that a San Francisco wine company, one of whose members was related to the then Austrian consul, deRuiz, in San Francisco, withdrew its advertisement from his paper; but he stuck it out and is still loyal to Jugo-Slavia in this, its most critical hour.

“Speaking of consuls of Austria in San Francisco, my memory goes back to the first Apple Annual at Watsonville, held in the month of October, 1911 [sic 1910], and Dr. Josef Goricar, then consul for the dual monarchy at San Francisco.

“I was practicing law in Watsonville at that time and had much business with the consul in the vising of powers of attorney of my Slav clients, and it was suggested by some of them, in view of the unfailing courtesy shown the clients by the consul in all our dealings with him, that it would be appropriate, in view of the presence of so many subjects of Austria in Watsonville, to invite Dr. Goricar to be present.

“The suggestion coming from Steven Scurich, a Jugo-Slav, was much of a surprise to me, but the invitation was extended and Dr. Goricar arrived the second day of the show, and we were all astounded to learn that instead of a German the consul was a Slav.

“He had served a long course in Austrian diplomacy, serving in practically all the great capitals of the old world.

“How he, a Slav, managed to rise to such heights in a government that hated his people, has never been explained.

“On the evening of Dr. Goricar’s visit Mr. Scurich arranged a dinner for him at the Morning Star restaurant, a rather unpresentable eating place, but at that time enjoying a statewide reputation for the excellence of the cuisine of its proprietor, the late Steve Strazicich, who prided himself on his resemblance to Francis Joseph.

“Present at the dinner [were] several of the leading Slavs of the town. I was present also. At this affair, Goricar, after careful inquiry as to the personnel of those gathered about him, guardedly let it out that he was of Jugo-Slavic sympathies.

“The makeup of the party naturally aroused the antipathy of the other side, and the next day I had numerous inquiries from members of the opposition as to what the consul had said at the dinner, and unquestionably this little dinner incident was reported to Dr. Goricar’s superiors.

“This is the same Dr. Goricar who so materially assisted John Rathom, editor of the Providence Journal, in his unearthing of German plots and the exposure of Bernstorff, Dumba, von Papen, Boy-Ed, and von Igel.

“Mr. Rathom, by means of the wireless plant of the Providence Journal and the interception of messages from Nauen via Sayville, accomplished more toward the exposure of German duplicity in America than any other man.

“In his first and only article, in World’s Work for February, 1918, entitled ‘Germany’s Plots Exposed,’ Mr. Rathom has this to say of the part played by the southern (south is ‘Jugo’ in Slav) Slavs in the exposure of German plotting and espionage:

“A question that has been repeatedly asked ever since we entered the war with Germany is, How was it possible, with the precautions naturally taken by the Teutonic governments and their agents, to get inside facts from the German embassy and from many of the offices of the German and Austrian consuls general throughout the U.S.?

“The answer, given here for the first time, is simple enough. While the entire story of the methods used in getting inside the Teutonic lines in this country can not be told at this moment, it is sufficient for present purposes to say that from the beginning of the European war, and for some months prior to that time, the Journal was able to bring to its aid the services of many Bohemians and Southern Slavs from every part of the United States. It was largely thru the self-sacrificing activities and the remarkable mental equipment of many of these men that we were enabled from day to day to receive and tabulate information from the very heart of the German and Austrian propagandist system in the U.S., both the embassies and many of the Teutonic consular offices throughout the country.

“These men (and women as well) not only took grave risks in this work—for they were braving German vengeance—but gave up their time, and in many cases their own funds, without a dollar of compensation from the Journal or anybody else, in order to give us the facts which would prove to the American people the manner in which they were being tricked and fooled by Ambassador Bernstorff and his fellow diplomats.’

“Mr. Rathom publishes a photograph of Dr. Goricar in this article with the following caption:

EP; 27 Dec 1918; article: “Santa Cruz in the War. By George W. Smith, District Attorney.

“CHAPTER III:

“I have often been severely criticized for taking part in this movement upon the theory that an American citizen should not concern himself in European affairs, but such criticisms can not stand the test of reason and logic.

“I took part in this great work primarily and solely because it was in aid and assistance to the United States.

“The war began in the Balkans and ended in the Balkans, and unless the Slav question is settled along the lines set forth by our president in his 14 points, and particularly along the lines of racial determination of peoples, then the war has been lost and Germany has won though she has been beaten in the field.

“To cure a disease you must eliminate the cause, and unless the Slavs are freed and have self-determination along racial lines the germ of another war will have been planted in soil most fertile for sprouting into another and more terrible conflagration, and our boys who entered this struggle to make the world safe for democracy and to end all wars will have died in vain fighting a fool’s game.

“Do not for a moment hypnotize yourself into the fallacious belief that Germany is done for. She is not, but on the contrary is more dangerous now than she ever was...”

EP; 27 Dec 1918; item: “The great European war flared up for an instant last night in Oakland when Nick Jurovich, an Austrian, was stabbed and dangerously wounded by Mike Bachich, a Jugo Slav, at the Liberty Bar, Seventh and Campbell streets at 11:50 o'clock. The stabbing was done during the course of a fight which followed a heated argument as to the relative merits of the Austrian and Jugo-Slav causes, and before friends of the men could interfere it is alleged that Bachich drove a long keen dagger into the vitals of his antagonist, inflicting a deep gash in his abdomen.

"Jurovich was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where his condition is said to be serious.

"Bachich, who lives at 341 Henry street, made his escape, and going to his room, packed his effects and made for the Southern Pacific yards, where it is thought he boarded a train for Sacramento. He is said to have been accompanied by his uncle, Philip Lovich, who lives at 1481 Seventh street. Lovich could not be located by the police at an early hour today.

"Bachich was employed in the freight sheds of the Southern Pacific as a freight handler, and according to friends still has $70 in wages due from the company.

"Inspectors Kyle and Gannaw have been detailed to investigate the case and the Sacramento authorities have been asked to look for Bachich.—Oakland Tribune."

EP; 31 Dec 1918; article: "All is in readiness for the big Community Peace Celebration tonight. It promises to be the biggest affair of the kind ever held in Watsonville and from the time the doors open at 8 o'clock till midnight and after, there will be something doing.

"The program commences promptly at 8:30 o'clock, and early comers will find the big auditorium comfortably warmed, for the stoves are to be started this morning and kept going all day. The stage will also be heated by portable electric heaters; in fact, everything is being done that will add to the comfort and pleasure of the big throng that is sure to gather...

"Mrs. Lillian Higman has prepared an elaborate program of dances, that will introduce some of the very latest novelties. Besides, they will be very appropriate and are sure to please. Those taking part have been carefully trained for the past three weeks and something out of the ordinary may be expected. In the Dance of the War Spirits, followed by the Dance of Peace, the War Spirits are represented by flower dancers who encircle the stage and seem to consume everything. They soon die down into ashes, out of which the Dance of Dawn and Peace arises.

"Return of flower-time in France, is danced by eight tiny girls in soft colors, who give the Dance of the Flowers, and they become the charming background for the appearances of Miss Springtime, who is impersonated by Lorraine Murphy in a solo dance. The flowers are Louise Hudson, Beth Freiermuth, Florence Cikuth, Ruth Frier-

muth, Alice Skillicorn, Carmen Neis, Katherine Pista and Helen Kelly... [there was no "Florence Cikuth"]

"The French peasant girls give a stirring, rollicking dance in vivid colors and have been trained under the direction of Miss Helen Phelan. The girls giving the numbers are: Nell Rickard, Norrine Kane, Dolores Arano, Evelyn Eaton, Jeanette Kane, Ruth Scurich, Mary McSherry, Edmona Chapin, Helen Arano, Elizabeth Martin, Ruth Barritt, Helen Huxley, Sarah Oliver, Harriet DeLong, Georgia Rouse, Anna Jorgenson..."

EP; 14 Jan 1919; article: LETTUNICH CO. LOSE PACKING HOUSE BY FIRE. The M. N. Lettunich & Company's packing house on West Third street, was completely destroyed by fire last night, entailing a loss of between $8,000 and $9,000. Two automobiles, one belonging to Nick Lettunich and the other to Mateo Lettunich, were consumed in the flames and as the tanks of both machines were filled with gas, the explosion gave added impetus to the flames. The packing house also contained many empty apple boxes, several large fruit wagons, the old Mansion House bus, a gravel wagon, etc. The cookhouse, adjoining the packing house, across the alley, caught on fire from the heat, and was badly damaged. It contained upwards of one hundred bags of beans which were taken out and saved.

“The alarm was turned in by Ed Noriss at eleven o’clock and the department made a record run to the scene and had a stream of water playing on the blaze in short order. So rapidly did the flames spread, however, the whole front of the building was in flames when the fire fighters arrived and the matter looked serious for that part of the city for a time. But the wind did not come up, and the fire laddies, by a desperate effort, confined the fire to the one building, although it was burned to the ground.

“The heat in the vicinity of the fire was intense and the cook house roof, more than fifty feet away, caught fire persistently, and considerable damage was done there also. A steady stream of water on the office of the building made it possible for the firemen to enter and remove a roll top desk, which was practically the only thing of value saved from the main building.

“The fire seems to have caught just back of the office rooms which were located in the front end of the building and this probably accounts for the fire gaining such headway before it was discovered. The building was a very old one and built of redwood. That it was completely destroyed in spite of all the fire boys could do, was evidence that it had been burning for some time inside before its discovery. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained yet.

“The only insurance carried was $1500 on the main packing house. The autos, wagons, etc. were not insured.”

EP; 24 Jan 1919; letter to editor: “In a recent issue of the Surf (Dec. 27, 1918) our then district attorney, Mr. George W. Smith, in his war articles deals with the alleged causes leading up to the resignation of W. J. MacDonald, former pastor of the Advent Christian church of Santa Cruz. The causes so alleged therein were that the patriotic sermons of the pastor were antagonistic to the pro-German element among the membership of the church.

“Your writer called up Mr. Smith and made an appointment with him, at which time our present pastor, Mr. George E. Walston, and E. W. Fields were present. At that time the real facts in the case were presented to Mr. Smith touching the reasons for the aforesaid ‘resignation’ of Pastor MacDonald and his dismissal from the conference. This reason is now known to Mr. Smith. At the same meeting we also submitted the following data to Mr. Smith, which may perhaps enlighten the citizens of Santa Cruz as to the loyalty of our church membership in behalf of our country:

“Names of members of our church and amounts of bonds purchased:

“Lew W. Collins, $500; George M. Babcock, $450; Ella Fase, $600; I. N. Archibald, $250; Homer Babcock, $250; E. S. Biggard, $150; Nettie Babcock, $100; Arthur Babcock, $100; Edith Fisher, $100; E. W. Fields, $50; May M. Biggard, $50; Gertrude Sowder, $50; P. P. Wettstein, $50.

“In addition to the above there has been purchased by the membership and their families over $700 in thrift stamps.

“Among the names in the list of bond purchasers there appears that of P. P. Wettstein of Garfield Park, Santa Cruz. It might possibly interest the people of Santa Cruz to know that this member of our church was born in Germany and had two brothers in the Germany army whom he had not heard from for over five years. A better citizen, a more loyal American, a more noble character than Mr. Wettstein does not live in this city at this time. Mr. Wettstein in addition to the money invested in bonds and stamps, was preparing his business interests here in order that he could enlist and fight for this adopted country.

“There is also hanging in our church a service flag with nine stars (and one more to insert) and one of those stars is in gold. Grayson Wilkinson, son of one of our members, 'paid in full' with his life, being the first Santa Cruz boy to die in the service.

"Our boys and our money have been gladly and modestly given in this common cause and we regret that it has been necessary for the purpose of vindication to mention this service at all. Lew W. Collins, Church Clerk."

EP; 21 Feb 1919; article: "FIRST MEETING OF AMERICANIZATION MOVEMENT HERE. A meeting to forward the Americanization movement was held in the Watsonville High School building last evening, which was well attended and a lively interest was shown in this important educational project. Professor T. S. MacQuiddy, as chairman of the committee on Americanization for Santa Cruz county named W. R. Radcliff, chairman; Miss O. E. Flaughner, secretary; S. T. Menasco, Mrs. Mary Piratsky, Mrs. H. M. Tenney, S. J. Duckworth, J. Walter Smith, M. Kimyoshi, L. M. Way and Luke Scurich as members of the Americanization committee for southern part of the county...

"The Americanization movement is nation-wide and has made rapid progress in the most populous sections of the eastern states. It was brought into existence during the war by the National Council of Defense. Since the declaration of the armistice, direction of the work in California has been assumed by the State Commission on Immigration and Housing.

"This movement, as the name suggests, means Americanization for both the native-born and foreign-born citizens and other residents of the country and is closely associated with the larger problem of after-the-war reconstruction and through which it is hoped all Americans will gain a better understanding of the meaning of American citizenship and the ideals of American democracy.

"The local committee, through a system of questionnaires, expects to secure definite information regarding the local foreign population, its nationality and education and more particularly the need for further education.

"In time, housing, health, and sanitation conditions will be investigated through committees to be selected to take up those subjects and to recommend constructive programs.

"The entire work, according to those in touch with the movement, has for its purpose the improvement of the individual and the development of the community along lines which will perpetuate here at home the principals of right and justice for which the American people engaged in the European war. The work is intended to give each citizen a broader and more intelligent knowledge of the duties and obligations of American citizenship.

"The teachers of the Watsonville public schools have tendered their services in connection with the educational branch of the work, which is under the direction of Professor J. A. Daly. Professor Daly outlined the program at last night's meeting as follows:

"The school will be open to all people of the community who are 16 years of age or over, and to any one over 15 years of age who has completed the work of the seventh grade of the grammar school.

"For the present there will be two sessions of the school each week, to be held on Tuesday and Thursday nights. School will start at 7 p.m. and close at 9 p.m. The classes are to meet in the old high school building, with the exception of the class in music, which will meet in the auditorium of the new building.

"The first session of the school will be held Tuesday, March 4.

"The program of exercises is so arranged that it will be possible for all students to attend the classes in citizenship and music and...one of the other classes which is best suited to his needs.

"The classes in which instruction will be given are as follows:

"1. Classes for the instruction of men and women who can neither read nor write in English or a foreign language. Both American and foreign-born residents of the community can take advantage of this instruction. Those presenting themselves for instruction in this work will be arranged in groups on the basis of their ability to speak and understand English. An attempt will be made to so classify students for instruction that they will be spending their time to the best advantage.

"2. Classes for the instruction of men and women who are educated in a foreign language and who desire to learn to read, write, and speak English. Students who enroll for this work will be classified to the basis of previous educational advantages.

"3. Classes in citizenship. Students will be taught the fundamental principals of good citizenship in the United States. Foreign-born residents of the community who wish to become American citizens would do well to take advantage of this course. However, the instruction will not be limited to such a field of information as would enable a man to qualify for citizenship on the basis of the examination set by the naturalization bureau; but an effort will be made to bring the student to a full appreciation of the duties and privileges of an American citizen.

"4. Music: The singing of national and patriotic songs. Thirty or forty minutes will be devoted to this work each week.

"5. Coaching class in grammar school subjects. A class for the instruction of people who left school before completing the work of the grammar school course. The purpose of this course is to prepare the student to qualify for the grammar school diploma by passing an examination set by the County Board of Education. These examinations are given twice a year. The instruction will be largely individual and pupils will be given help in all subjects in which they are deficient.

"The work will begin as announced on Tuesday evening, March 4. The committee requests that all citizens, whether native or foreign born, give this course their active assistance by urging their friends, who can be benefited by the proposed instruction, to attend the school sessions.

"This work, it is pointed out, is for their benefit. It will give them a better knowledge of the English language, of American history, of the principles of the American government, and the duties and privileges of American citizenship. It will make them better Americans.

"Do not let timidity keep you away,' said Mr. Radcliff last evening. 'This instruction will be of positive value. It will not cost you a cent. It will not take an hour from your employment.

"And it will fit you to become and to live up to all the obligations of citizenship or residence in the best country in the world, the United States of America."

Kincannon to recover $500, which he al- leges is due him under the terms of an agreement entered into by the plaintiff and defendant in December, 1917. Under the terms of this agreement, the complaint alleges, Matiasevich leased from Kincannon for the [term] of three years a certain tract of land in Pajaro district, and Kincanon promised to pay him $500 if the land should be sold before the expiration of the lease. Matiasevich was to assist in the sale of the land and show prospective pur- chasers about. The complaint further alleges that Mati- asevich kept his part of the agreement, and that although the land was sold March 1, 1918, before the lease expir- ed, to E. Jacobs, Kincannon has not paid Matiasevich the $500 or any part of it. He therefore asks the court to award him a judgment for that amount, with interest at 7 per cent from the date of the sale."

dy, Eugene McSherry, John Harkins, Laurence Denny and Dennis J. Daly. The following doughboys formed a guard of honor for the class: John Fahey, Geo. Freiermuth, and Arthur Prindeville.

“At the conclusion of the initiatory ceremonies a banquet was served at which appropriate speeches were made. Cigars and cigarettes were also served and the occasion made a most enjoyable one. As the result of an auto accident this morning on San Juan road, opposite the Sheehy place, Luke Scurich is in the Watsonville hospital in an unconscious condition and two Japanese women were badly bruised, but not seriously injured. Mr. Scurich was coming into town in his automobile with two Japanese women in the rear seat. He came up with Owen Tuttle, who was driving toward town with a load of potatoes in a low truck, drawn by two horses. In an attempt to pass Tuttle's wagon, Mr. Scurich either did not turn out far enough or his machine skidded and the right front wheel and fender struck the rear wheel of the wagon, throwing the two women out of the machine backwards, and crushing Mr. Scurich against the steering-wheel of the auto.

"The force of the impact threw Owen Tuttle into the air a considerable distance and he alighted on the soft dirt at the side of the road, and the team ran away, a short distance down the road, scattering potatoes along the thoroughfare. Tuttle was shaken up and bruised some but received no serious injuries.

"Mr. Scurich and the Japanese woman were brought to the Watsonville hospital where medical attention was given them. It was then discovered that Mr. Scurich was totally paralyzed on his right side. As we go to press he is still unable to talk, and his condition is critical.

"Whether the collision was the result of a stroke of paralysis just as Mr. Scurich attempted to cross behind Mr. Tuttle's wagon, or whether the stroke was the result of the impact against the steering-wheel is a question. He was always known as a very careful driver.

"The news of the accident spread rapidly, and the greatest concern was shown as to Mr. Scurich's condition. A very fine man, prominent in the Slavonian colony here, he is highly respected, and all are hoping that he will pull through the night."

"No clue to the identity of the party or parties taking the machine have been found yet, but when he is located an example will be made of him that will deter others from such actions. Mr. Zar is just recovering from a severe illness and the shock of losing the car was very hard on him. He fully intended to do so, but became engrossed in some business matters that demanded his instant attention when he came back down town and it slipped his mind. Mrs. Machado put the little one to bed and when the report reached there yesterday morning of the missing child she at once called up Chief Whitsitt and notified him, and he came and returned the child to its grieving mother.

Lettunich was wanted on a warrant sworn out by George Hrepich, of the California restaurant, charging him with uttering a worthless check in the amount of $500, which Hrepich cashed for him.

“According to Mr. Hrepich, Nick Lettunich came into his restaurant a short time before leaving here and asked him if he would cash a check for him. There being nothing unusual in this, Mr. Hrepich did so and also agreed not to present it for collection at the bank for a day or two. When he did present the check there were no funds to meet it. A search was immediately taken up for Lettunich and he was located at San Bernardino yesterday.

“It is stated that when caught Lettunich made appeals to relatives here to square up the matter, but they declined to interfere.

“Constable W. B. Mann left last evening for San Bernardino and is expected to arrive home with his prisoner tomorrow morning.

“Nick’s recklessness and wild behavior recently has brought sorrow upon his relatives, and especially to his estimable father who has done everything for the lad that a father could possibly do, and who sorrows greatly over the boy’s misconduct. Nick is not a bad vicious boy—but irresponsible, wild and reckless. We hope this sudden ‘jerk-up’ in his career will be a lesson that will cause him to ‘Stop! Look! and Listen!’”

EP; 31 Mar 1919; article: “NICK LETTUNICH WAS MARRIED TO MILDRED BROWN MARCH 12TH. Constable W. R. Mann arrived home Sunday morning with Nick Lettunich, who was brought back from San Bernardino, on a warrant sworn out by George Hrepich, charging him with issuing a check when he had no funds in the bank.

“Lettunich was found at San Bernardino, where he and Mrs. Lettunich had rented a furnished house and taken up housekeeping. His marriage to Miss Mildred Brown followed their departure from this city some time ago. They were married in Orange county on March 12 by Rev. F. T. Porter, and the ceremony was witnessed by Mrs. F. T. Porter. Something came up that caused the Rev. Porter to doubt the legality of the marriage and he went to San Bernardino and remarried them with A. B. Lettunich as a witness.

“Constable Mann says they were very pleasantly situated and seemed to be happy. Mrs. Lettunich remained in the home there, but will come to Watsonville if her husband wishes to. He was to wire her today.

“Nick told the officer that he was going to work today for the Santa Fe railroad, in the machine shop, at $7 per day, and he believed that he would have made it all right down there as he is a first-class machinist and likes the work.

“His hearing was set for 10 o’clock this morning before Justice A. B. Hawkins, but was put over until Wednesday by request of the district attorney’s office.

“When seen this morning Mr. Lettunich declined to talk and referred us to his attorney, R. H. Hudson. Mr. Hudson stated that he had nothing much to say. That there was no criminal intent on the part of Lettunich in passing the check. That he wanted the money for a definite purpose—to pay some hospital and other bills that were then due. That he told Mr. Hrepich that he had no money in the bank and asked him to hold the check a while until he had a settlement with his partner, George Bubresko. In fact, he had dated the check ahead several days with the view of meeting it with the money secured out of the adjustment of the partnership. That when the partnership deal was concluded there was only about three hundred dollars to his credit and that did not cover the amount of the check. Mr. Hudson said he was not giving us Lettunich’s statement alone, but that the story he received from Mr. Hrepich was practically the same, and said that as there was no intent on the part of his client to deceive or defraud that it would be hard to prove criminal intent.”

EP; 3 Apr 1919; article: “MRS. A. B. LETTUNICH KILLED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT...Last Monday’s Sacramento Bee contained the following account of a dreadful auto accident that occurred near Natomas, last Sunday. A. B. Lettunich was a former resident of this city, and engaged in the fruit business. When the accident occurred he was away in Los Angeles on business. His many friends here will deplore his great bereavement, for he lost a helpmate of sterling qualities and characteristics:

“Mrs. A. B. Lettunich, formerly Miss Amelia Zarick, is dead and Miss Grace Zarick, a sister, is at the Sisters’ Hospital with a broken collar bone, as the result of an automobile accident which occurred about 5:45 o’clock yesterday afternoon near Natomas on the Folsom road.

“The automobile, which was driven by John Setincich, turned turtle pinning the sisters underneath the wreckage when the driver turned the machine too far off the roadway to allow another automobile to pass.

“Others in the automobile were Miss Bertha Radovich and A. C. Angelich of San Francisco and Miss Katherine Nicovich and John E. Popovich of this city. They received only minor bruises.

“The party was returning to Sacramento from Folsom and, according to Setincich, the automobile was traveling about 25 miles an hour when the accident occurred.

“Mrs. Lettunich had been employed at the State Motor Vehicle Department and was well known to a wide circle of friends in this city, where she had resided all her life. She was a graduate of the local schools and the Chico State Normal School, and resided at 916½ N Street.

“Surviving is her husband, A. B. Lettunich, and 9-year-old son Anthony, a father, Marco S. Zarick, and four brothers and sisters, Marco Jr., local attorney; Joseph, Grace, Robbie and Sarah Zarick.”

EP; 3 Apr 1919; article: “The hearing of Nick M. Lettunich on the charge of issuing a check without funds in the bank, on a warrant sworn out by George Hrepich, came on this morning before Justice A. B. Hawkins. The prosecution is being handled by Deputy District Attorney C. R. Taylor. George W. Smith is representing George Hrepich, while Sans & Hudson appear for the defendant. Attorney Adam Barber is acting as court reporter.

“The case is being fought bitterly, the defense taking advantage of every technical point possible and interposing objection to almost all questions. The prosecution has to dig hard for every point.

“The first witness on the stands was George Hrepich, whose testimony was that he had cashed a check for $500 for Nick Lettunich, and that after Lettunich had received the money he asked Hrepich not to present the check for payment for several days as there was no money there to meet it, but he would have money to cover it in the bank as soon as his partnership affairs had been adjusted.

“The witness was given a grueling cross-examination by the counsel for the defense and remained on the stand from 10 o’clock this morning until noon and for some little time after court reconvened at 2 o’clock. The trial is still in progress as we go to press, and may not be completed today.”

EP; 3 Apr 1919; obit: “At Sacramento, March 30, 1919, Amelia, wife of A. B. Lettunich, daughter of Marco Zarick, sister of Marko, Joseph, Elsie and Robert Zarick, a native of Sacramento, aged 28 years.”

EP; 3 Apr 1919; item: “Attorney George W. Smith was here from Santa Cruz today on legal business. He is representing George Hrepich in the case against Nick Lettunich.”

EP; 4 Apr 1919; article: “The hearing of Nick Lettunich was re-opened this morning to allow some additional testimony on the part of the prosecution which was highly important, but failed to get into the record yesterday.

“Mr. Lettunich also took the stand in his own behalf and testified that he had gone to the California Restaurant on February 12th to see George Hrepich. That he was told that he had not got up yet and he went to his room and woke him up and asked him if he would help him out. He says he told Hrepich that he had some bills to pay and if he would let him have some money he would give him either a check or a note. That Hrepich asked him 'How much do you want, $500?' He replied that he did, and asked him if he could get it then. The witness said that Hrepich told him he could and he waited until he had dressed and went down stairs with him.

"Lettunich states that he made out the check in the bar-room and that Hrepich went in to the desk and got the money and brought it out to him. He said that he and Hrepich and another man whom he thinks was the bartender, had a drink together.

"He said that it was about twelve o'clock, not fifteen minutes either way, when he went to the California Restaurant, and that he was there twenty or twenty-five minutes. That he then went to the bank and deposited the money. That he had his machine and may not have gone straight to the bank, but around a block or two. That he was at the bank not later than 2 or 2:30. That he told Hrepich before he made out the check that he wanted him to hold the check a few days and that he would pay him when he had a settlement with his partner. He said that he did not tell Hrepich that he would have any certain amount of money when he had his partnership business adjusted. That he expected to get $1200 or $1300 out of the adjustment, but that he did not get what he expected to get when the affairs of the partnership were wound up.

"Mr. Lettunich was still on the stand at 2:30 this afternoon."

EP; 4 Apr 1919; item: "Pete Chumovich, S. Chumovich and wife, Mr. Brantovich, Sylvester Granich, S. Vicoseh and Antone Vickalo, prominent Jugo-Slavs, of San Francisco, visited their countrymen in Watsonville and Santa Cruz in the interest of the American Jugo-Slav Relief society, of which Mrs. E. H. Harriman of New York city is president, yesterday. They gave instructions as to the size of boxes in which clothing is to be packed, which will be sent to their country."

EP; 5 Apr 1919; article: "NICK LETTUNICH HELD TO SUPERIOR COURT. At the conclusion of his hearing yesterday afternoon in Judge Hawkins' court, Nick M. Lettunich was held to answer in the superior court to the charge of passing a check for $500 on George Hrepich of the California Restaurant, when he had no funds in the bank to cover it.

"Arguments were made by the attorneys for the prosecution and defense following the completion of the taking of evidence late yesterday afternoon, after which the court rendered its decision holding Lettunich in $1,000 bonds to appear in the superior court.

"It is rumored that Attorney R. H. Hudson, for the defense, will make a move to secure the liberty of his client through habeas corpus proceedings on the grounds that the prosecution failed to show that Mr. Lettunich had committed a crime. C. R. Taylor, deputy district attorney, handled the prosecution and feels confident that the case will hold."

EP; 19 Apr 1919; article: “EXPLANATION OF VICTORY LOAN NOTES AND TERMS OF PAYMENTS. The total amount of the loan, $4,500,000,000.

“Quota for Pajaro Valley, $405,225.

“The notes will be in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and upward.

“They will be dated May 20, 1919, and will bear interest at the rate of 4¾ per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, on December 15 and June 15 of each year.

“They will run for four years—on May 20, 1923, the government will pay them off in full. It may pay them off a year earlier if it so desires.

“They are exempt from all state and local taxes, except the inheritance tax, and are also exempt from the normal federal income tax. To the average purchaser for all practical purposes they are tax free...”

“Is the Liberty Note a good investment? Best in the world. Pays 4¾ per cent interest. Is tax free, unless you have a net income of over $5,000, and is then subject only to the income tax...”

“The war is ended; why does the government need this money? When the armistice was signed the war was costing fifty million dollars per day. We had two million men in France. We were building ships, guns, airplanes, tanks, and a thousand other things in huge quantities. Preparations were being made so that we could fight for ten years if necessary. Contracts were let for more than fifteen billion dollars’ worth of supplies, of one kind and another. At that time the money received from previous loans had been spent. The boys in France, and in the camps here, had to be paid, clothed, and fed. An army of occupation had to be maintained to make good our victory. Soldiers had to be brought home. Bonuses, insurance and allowances had to be paid. Equipment manufactured for our use had to be paid for. Contracts were cancelled, but just settlements had to be made with manufacturers. The government is honor bound to keep its promises, just as much as any individual. The result is that war expenses have kept up at the rate of about two billion per month. These must be paid, either with money loaned or with money raised by taxation. It is being raised both ways. To raise it all by taxation would be intolerable. So a part of it is raised by a loan, which the government will pay back, with interest. A bond or note is better than a tax receipt.

“Why should I buy Liberty notes when my bonds are selling below par? Because a lot of people could not afford to hold their bonds and had to sell, and because a lot more have sold or traded in their bonds when they could and should have held them. The market price has gone down. But the value of the bonds has not decreased one cent. Interest on the full amount is paid regularly. They are secured by property worth at least ten times as much as all the bonds issued. They will be paid in full at maturity. In the end, no man who holds his bonds will lose a red cent.

“As soon as the war is really over and things settle down, the market price of these bonds—all of them—will unquestionably go above par. It has always been true. At the end of the Civil war the war bonds were selling much lower than Liberty bonds. Yet in a very short time after the close of the war, their market price went up above par and stayed there...”

“Is it my duty, as a patriotic citizen, to subscribe? You never rested under a more solemn obligation. Your government, for the protection of your liberty and property and to sustain our boys at the front, has contracted these obligations. They are your debts and my debts. They must be paid. To refuse to subscribe or to take less than your share, is simply to become a shirker—a ‘dead beat’—one who will incur an honest debt and refuse to pay it.

“What would you think of a farmer who would let a contract for the picking of his fruit, who would allow his men go on and finish the job, and then to say to them, ‘Harvest is now over—my fruit is all picked—there is no reason why I should pay you anything’? He would be a ‘dead beat’. The man who refuses to pay his share of the war cost, ‘because the war is over,’ is certainly no better...”

“What will happen if I do not subscribe? In the first place you will have your own conscience to deal with. Next, you will lose the esteem of your neighbors and friends and earn the contempt of the men who have been fighting for you. If the bonds are not subscribed, bills will not be paid. Men will be thrown out of work. The I.W.W. and Bolsheviks will increase in number and influence. Eventually you will be taxed for your share—and the money you pay for taxes you will have to kiss goodbye—no interest payments on it—no repayment in four years...”

EP; 3 May 1919; article: “District Attorney Ralph Smith has started proceedings to close certain resorts in Watsonville. Acting on evidence secured in Watsonville recently by a special officer from his office, District Attorney Ralph Smith filed petitions for temporary injunctions in the Superior Court yesterday afternoon at Santa Cruz, against Mrs. Annie Rossie, proprietor of the Del Monte rooming house, and George Hrepich, manager of the California Restaurant in Watsonville.

“Hearings on the petition will be held in the Superior Court early next week. Mr. Smith said last night that he had no idea whether or not the petitions would be opposed by the defendants, but he indicated that such opposition would be futile as he has convincing evidence that both properties have been used for immoral purposes.

“The action is based on the Redlight Injunction Act, under which the properties, by injunction, may be sealed up for one year or the owners required to furnish a bond of $1,000 that they will not be used again for purposes defined as illegal in the act during that period.

“Strong corroborative evidence was found in the affidavit of Edwin E. Grant, mentioned in the Pajaronian yesterday, in which Mr. Grant and another operative for the State Law Enforcement League had found the Del Monte rooming house being used for immoral purposes on the nights of April 28 and April 29, and the Law Enforcement League officials will co-operate in the clean-up campaign which the District Attorney’s office will proceed with in Watsonville.

“This announcement was made by District Attorney Smith following the filing of the temporary injunction suits yesterday afternoon.

“Mr. Smith also stated that he had written letters to Mayor W. A. Trafton and City Attorney A. W. Sans of Watsonville, calling their attention to the fact that liquor had been sold to minors at the California Restaurant in violation of the law, and suggesting that the city officials take action to cancel the liquor license held by the restaurant.

“He said that he included the names of the witnesses who were prepared to testify that they had been served intoxicants at the California Restaurant.

“I intend to close up these resorts in Watsonville immediately,” Mr. Smith said. “They have already been operating altogether too long in violation of the Redlight Abatement Act and the anti-liquor laws.”

“Mr. Smith indicated there were some other places against which proceedings might be commenced, but said that it would be plenty of time to give them publicity when they are mentioned in the court proceedings.”

EP; 6 May 1919; article: “The Central Grocery Company has closed its door and Mr. Stephen Scurich, who has been manager of the concern for the past three years, is winding up its affairs. He will be there working on the books all of this week, and anyone wishing to see him on business connected with the firm can call at the store.

“In the latter part of 1915 the Central Grocery Company was deeply in debt and facing bankruptcy. It could not pay one cent on the dollar when Mr. Scurich stepped in and took the management. After three years hard work and careful management the company is now paying all of its obligations in full, and Mr. Scurich certainly deserves great credit for this result.

“We understand that Mr. Scurich is going back to his old office in the concrete building adjoining Oliver’s barber shop, which he occupied before he took management of the Central Grocery Company, and will look after his own personal property as well as handle packers’ supplies, box-shook, paper and nails.

“There is a rumor going around that Mr. Scurich will open a wholesale paper house in Watsonville soon and will handle all kinds of paper. Such a house here would be of great benefit not only to Watsonville, but to the counties of Santa Cruz, San Benito, Monterey and San Luis Obispo, as well.”

at $1.25 a box. They were to be from the J. B. Holohan orchard, in Whiskey Hill district.

“Quite a number of packers have sold. Amongst those mentioned are Louis Cikuth, Martin Milcovich, and several other prominent packers.

EP; 2 Jun 1919; article: "John Ivancovich, a farmer of Green valley, was seriously hurt; Luke Skero, one of his employees, had his collar-bone broken; and a lad named Tominich, and Nick Battinich were slightly injured when Ivancovich's Ford machine turned over, near Salinas, yesterday evening..."

"Ivancovich was taken to the Jim Bardin Hospital, where it was found that his ribs were badly crushed. The attending physician says that there are also internal injuries and that he cannot tell yet just what the outcome of the accident will be. Skero was also taken to the Jim Bardin Hospital with his left collar-bone broken. The other two were badly bruised and scratched up.

"Ivancovich went to Salinas on business; Tomisich was driving the car and the others were taken along for company. The Ford machine in which they were riding was completely wrecked. The accident happened at the curve between Salinas and Castroville, a short distance outside of Salinas, the machine turning over twice.

"Mr. Jos. Secondo, of this city, and four others, in a Hupmobile, had just passed the Ivancovich party, and after passing them, a short distance, on turning around, saw the Ford tip over. Mr. Secondo immediately returned and his party gave what assistance they could. They found Ivancovich under the machine, but the others were out of it. They helped in righting the machine and getting Mr. Ivancovich to the hospital. Mr. Secondo also notified Ivancovich's son, George, of the accident, and he went at once to his father's bedside.

"The news of this accident gives great concern to Mr. Ivancovich's many friends, and it is hoped that the outcome of the accident will not be fatal."

Constable Devine tried to head them off, but they rushed past him and he caught the wagon as it went by and crawled over the seat and picked up the lines, which had fallen by the wagon tongue, and stopped the team before any damage was done.

"It was a lucky stop, as the team was running wild and Third street from Rodriguez to Main was congested with automobiles, and there would undoubtedly have been some serious damage done had the team [run] through them."

EP; 3 Jun 1919; article: "HEARING OF HREPICH

CASE TAKEN UP BY...ALDERMEN. The hearing of George Hrepich on the charge of selling intoxicating liquors to minors at the California Restaurant came on for hearing before the city board of aldermen last evening. Some delay was experienced in getting the meeting going as some of the aldermen were absent. Upon the arrival of Alderman Lewis, who had been attending the county supervisors' meeting at Santa Cruz, it was decided to proceed with the hearing before the six aldermen, Callaghan, Cornell, King, Lewis, Tuttle and Uren, who were present.

"City Attorney A. W. Sans acted for the city in prosecuting the case, and Attorneys Geo. W. Smith and Adam Barber conducted the defense. The council room was fairly well filled with spectators and a number of the members of the Christian Business Men's Association were present.

"The first witness called was a young man named Ray Johnson. Upon being sworn he stated that he would be 19 years of age on the 5th of this month, June. He was born in Watsonville and had lived here all his life. He knew where the California Restaurant was and had bought liquor there. He had bought whiskey there on two or three occasions. He testified that he had bought liquor of George Hrepich, but could not remember the exact date. He bought liquor also from the night bartender. He told the jury at Santa Cruz in the Bender case that he had bought liquor at the California Restaurant. He bought one flask before he went to the dance at Soquel. He went to the dance with Ben O'Brien, Chas. Bobby, Earl Moore and Wm. Trevathan. He bought the liquor to take to the dance in Soquel. He purchased liquor at the California Restaurant four or five times during the past eight or ten months. He remembered buying some liquor of George Hrepich some time last year. He paid 90 cents or $1 for the flask. They went to the dance at Soquel in Bill Finley's machine. Chas. Bobby drove the car. He paid for the liquor when he got it. Johnson denied that he had ever been put out of the California Restaurant by either George Hrepich or Officer Moon.

"Martha Riley was then called and sworn. She stated that she was 15 years old and had resided in Watsonville the past year. She was in Watsonville January and February of this year and was stopping with her sister, Frances Sweeney, on Central avenue. She knew where the California Restaurant was and was served with liquor in January or February. It was whiskey. Annie Buck was with her. A man named George, a waiter in the California Restaurant, served the whiskey. She stated that he was in Santa Cruz now. The liquor was served in a box at the California Restaurant. They went in to get something to eat at the time the whiskey was served. She stated that her sister had received whiskey there also. Her sister is 17 years old. Annie Buck ordered the whiskey and the witness and she both had a drink. This was the first time she had tasted whiskey. Had been drinking soda water before that. Being questioned by Attorney Geo. W. Smith, she stated that the judge at Santa Cruz told her she would be sent to the reform school. She said District Attorney Ralph Smith was present. She said that Annie Buck bought the liquor and took a drink and told her to take a drink also. One drink apiece was all they had. Did not remember the date, but it was after New Year's. It was two weeks afterward when she told District Attorney Smith of being served the whiskey. She was on the witness stand in the Bender case. She said that the man who sold them the whiskey was a tall, smooth-faced man with dark hair and brown eyes. It was not Mr. Hrepich. She said that no one had ever asked her to stay out of the California Restaurant. She had attended the dance at Rappe's hall with Annie Buck. That her parents did not object to her going to dances, but gave her permission to do so. She went to the show at T. & D. Theatre with Annie Buck after they had drunk the whiskey, and then went home. She was only in the third grade at school because she had never [gone] to school much. Her mother has been sick and she stayed at home.

"Viola Riley was then sworn. She stated that she was 17 years old and resided in Watsonville in January and February of this year. She knew where the California Restaurant was and was served with whiskey at that place twice during the months of January and February last. She was with Freda Buck on both occasions. Freda Buck was 18 years of age. Witness had been in the California Restaurant five or six times. Freda Buck invited her to go there for something to eat. The first time was four months ago. It was in the daytime. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon. She had known Freda Buck about six months. It was the first time she had been served liquor. Ray Sheppard ordered the drinks. He bought drinks twice, Manuel Gulart was with them. She told District Attorney Smith about two months ago. He had asked her a few questions. She was a witness in the Bender case. She was now in the detention home.

"The prosecution rested its case.

"Attorney Geo. W. Smith, for the defense, then called F. J. Bettencourt. Being duly sworn, Mr. Bettencourt stated that Ray Johnson had tried to buy liquor of him and stated that he was 22 years of age. But he told him to get out, that there was nothing doing. Ray Johnson interrupted him here and said that it was a different Johnson that he had told to get out. Bettencourt replied that he was the boy. That he knew all the Johnsons and had ordered Ray Johnson out of his place.

"George Hrepich was then put on the stand and stated that he had been operating the California Restaurant for the past ten years and that he had never served Ray Johnson with liquor and had never seen him served liquor in his place. He said that Ray Johnson came in one evening with Bennie O'Brien. He had seen the Riley girls in his place. Said that they had been coming there for months. He told the chief of police to keep them out of his place.

They bought sandwiches and a cup of coffee. He never served them liquor or saw them served. He said that he instructed his men that if young men or women came into his place to ask their ages, and if they said they were over 21 years to serve them liquor, as they were entitled to a drink if they were 21. He said that he did not know of any minors being served with liquor in his place.

"Chas. Sibole was called and sworn. He stated that he visited the California Restaurant twice a day on business. That he collected the laundry and that he was there fifteen or twenty minutes each morning and evening gathering up the laundry upstairs and down. That he had never seen any minors served with liquor in the California Restaurant.

"Officer John H. Corr was called and sworn. He stated that he visited the California Restaurant. He stated that he was a member of the Watsonville police force. That he had visited the California Restaurant on different occasions and had never seen anything different there than in other saloons. That he had roomed there for a time once when he was sick. That he saw two young girls go in there once and that the chief of police had asked him to go and see what they were doing. That he went into the restaurant and saw them in a box. There were eatables on the table before them but he saw no drinks. That no drinks were served them while he was in there.

"Ed Marks was called and sworn. He stated that he had gone into the California restaurant about 10:30 on the evening of the 28th or 29th of April to get something to eat. He was in the main dining room. While he was eating, some young people—perhaps 18 or 19 years of age—were playing on the piano and some were singing and some were dancing. He asked George Hrepich if it was not a rather lively crowd he had in there. Hrepich replied that they could dance and sing all they wanted to, and eat all they paid for, but that he would not sell them any liquor.

"Tony Merilovich was sworn and stated that he was chef in the California Restaurant. That he had never served liquor to minors or saw it served to them. That he was not a bartender nor a waiter, but the chef, and his duties were in the kitchen.

"The last witness was Tony Clay, who testified that he was a waiter in the California Restaurant. He worked nights and had never sold any liquor to minors. He did not know the Riley girls and never heard Hrepich ask the girls to go out of the restaurant.

"George W. Smith, attorney for George Hrepich, then stated that three important witnesses had developed during the testimony that he had known nothing about and whose testimony might clear up the matter. These were the man accused of serving the liquor, the man who bought the liquor and the girl, Freda Buck, who was with Viola Riley when she was served liquor, and he asked a continuation of the case to this evening in order to have these witnesses appear and testify.

“City Attorney Sans opposed the continuance on the ground that it would call for more witnesses in rebuttal and would be running around in a circle and get nowhere. Officer Harry Moon was called and testified that he was a member of the police force and knew Ray Johnson. That he saw him go into the California Restaurant with young O’Brien and that he went in and ordered them out. It was the first time he had seen them in the restaurant. It was about 11:30 at night.

“After some discussion it was decided to adjourn the hearing until this evening at 9:30, when the witnesses asked for would be present.”

EP; 3 Jun 1919; article: “We had a pleasant call, this forenoon, from Fred Baker, of New Monterey, who was over here on a business trip.

“Mr. Baker, who, it will be remembered, was foreman, for years, for the Geo. Hooke Co., of this city, is now connected with the big packing firm of the K. Hovden Co., who has big packing plants at Monterey and San Diego. Fred has charge of the department handling the fruit and vegetable packing, also the smoked fish.

“The Hovden Co. is now taking up the packing of berries and apricots, and Baker came over here, last evening, to look into the conditions prevailing in those markets. Incidentally he picked up several good contracts. The Hovden Co. proposes, in the future, to engage quite extensively in the berry packing business.

“Mr. Braycovich, the local packer, will represent Mr. Baker in this market, for berries and apricots. At present, Mr. Baker has a roving commission from his employers to make contracts for several products that they propose to pack.”

EP; 3 Jun 1919; article: “Says this morning’s Santa Cruz Sentinel:

“Thomas Vucinich, of Watsonville, was placed in jail last night, and will probably have to answer to a charge of forgery.

“On May 21st a man appeared at the Seaside Toggery. He purchased a shirt, valued at $1, and gave a $10 check and received $9 in change.

“The purchase was made from Tom Quadros, who asked Mr. Rittenhouse if a check signed by M. N. Lettunich was good. Mr. Rittenhouse replied that it sure was, as Lettunich owned half of Watsonville.

“The check was made out on the Peoples bank, and when presented for payment it was found that no account was carried at the bank in that name.

“From the description given by Quadros, Sheriff Trafton suspected Vucinich, who several years ago served two terms on petty larceny charges.

“The sheriff got some of Vucinich’s handwriting and on comparing it with that on the check was convinced.

“Quadros on Saturday at the jail was shown a picture of the prisoner and identified it as that of the man who passed the check.

“Last night Sheriff Trafton saw the man whom he wanted, near the court house. He had just arrived from Sunnyvale, but he was soon in the county jail.”

“The apple industry here is assuming vast proportions and the returns from the various orchards indicate that the apple growers are coming into their own, and those who have held to the growing of apples for the market are now receiving the reward for their efforts. There is no indication that the demand for apples will ever go back and the future of the industry is very bright. Pajaro Valley apples are world-beaters and there is no better investment going than apple land in this valley.”

EP; 6 Jun 1919; article: "INDICTMENT...IS CHALLENGED. Says last evening's Santa Cruz News:

"Judge Hudner, of San Benito county, sitting for Judge Knight, this morning, granted the motion of Attorney C. M. Cassin to withdraw the plea of not guilty made by Nicholas Lettunich, of Watsonville, who is charged under a grand jury indictment with obtaining money under false pretenses from George Hrepich, of the apple city, in order that a demurrer might be interposed to the information. The arguments on the sufficiency of the indictment, which will be the basis on which the demurrer will be made, will be heard before Judge Knight next Monday.

"Lettunich is represented by Sans and Hudson and Mr. Cassin. The grand jury indictment grew out of the alleged act of the defendant in drawing a check for $500 in favor of Hrepich, for which he was given the cash, and which, when it was presented at the bank, funds were not found to meet it. The defendant has claimed from the day of his arrest that his motives were good and that he had asked that the check be presented for collection at a certain later day, when funds would have been available meet it."

"As we understand it, the point involved is that Lettunich did not obtain the money under false pretenses and that Hrepich's only recourse is to recover by means of a civil suit.—Ed. Pajaronian."

EP; 7 June 1919; large text ad: "HOW WE FEEL ABOUT GOOD ROADS. To the Voters of Watsonville and Pajaro Road District:

"On next Tuesday we are to have an opportunity to say whether we are for or against good roads—whether we want to go on throwing away our money at the rate of more than $100,000 per year, or whether we wish to make a beginning on permanent, business-like and economical road building .

"The time for discussion of the type of road to be adopted is past. That type has to be decided by some one. The question has been submitted to the county highway commission. That body had taken council of the ablest road experts, both state and federal, that could be found. The present plan has been unanimously recommended by every expert consulted as being in every way the very best that can be done for the money. None of these people has any interest in the matter except to see the taxpayers get the greatest possible value for their money.

“Do not get the idea that if this proposition is defeated you are going to have an opportunity to vote on another plan. We shall have no such opportunity.

“Under existing conditions we must make up our minds either to make a beginning on good roads next Tuesday, or for many years to put up with bad roads, constantly getting worse and costing more.

“It is time to put aside selfish interests and personal grudges and to stand together for the common good. As property owners and taxpayers, we urge upon you that on June 10th, 1919, you go to the polls and cast your votes for the bonds—for a beginning of good roads in Santa Cruz County—for the abandonment of wasteful and the adoption of economic methods.

For the first time in many months the room was filled with members of the organization, and the little jest about opening the stores for half a day on Sunday brought them out.

“Just to show how little this Sunday opening idea, even as a jest, went with them, the association, on motion of Dr. H. M. Tenney, adopted a resolution declaring its disapproval of opening for all or any part of the day by members of the association.

“One of the interesting matters brought before the meeting was a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Henry L. Watson in command of Mather Field asking whether the merchants were interested in providing a landing field for airplanes here both of the pleasure and commercial variety.

“A committee was appointed to take up with Colonel Watson what will be required in this connection and also to ask him to send an officer here to investigate the possibilities...”

“There is estimated to be about one thousand tons of fruit on this farm, and it was apparently too big a proposition for local people there to handle. It is the biggest sale of green fruit on the tree in a lump sum ever concluded in California, and speaks well for the judgment of Messrs. Lettunich and Rilovich & Sresovich and their confidence in that judgment. It required a good deal of nerve to go up against as big a proposition as this, but these fruit men of the Pajaro Valley know the fruit business and how to eliminate a crop on the trees. They are highly pleased with their purchase and are confident that they will reap a good return on the investment..."

EP; 12 Jun 1919; article: "REDLIGHT SUIT HEARD IN SUPERIOR COURT...The suit against Mrs. Elizabeth Dondero, owner, and George Hrepich, lessee of the California restaurant property in Watsonville, in which a permanent injunction is sought against the place because of alleged violations of the redlight abatement law on the premises, opened before Superior Judge Knight yesterday, with E. E. Grant, executive officer of the State Law Enforcement League, assisting District Attorney Smith in the prosecution. A series of witnesses who testified that the place bore a general reputation as a place where prostitution was carried on, were put on the stand, and included Rev. W. P. Rankin, of the Watsonville Methodist church, and some of his parishioners. The other witnesses were E. E. Grant, George Hrepich, who testified that he was the lessee of the property; E. L. Bradley, P. L. DeBack, Charles Hushbeck, H. H. Smith, H. L. Shideler and A. D. Richardson.

"Senator Grant was the first witness called by the prosecution, and he testified that he was the executive officer of the Law Enforcement League of California, and that he came to Watsonville in the latter part of April to investigate vice conditions here, and had occasion to discuss the reputation of the California restaurant for morality with Rev. Rankin, District Attorney R. H. Smith and several others whose names he could not recall, and that the general reputation of the place in this regard was bad.

"On cross-examination by George W. Smith, counsel for Hrepich, Senator Grant stated that the Law Enforcement League was organized to eliminate vice and to enforce the moral statutes of California, to prevent the spread of venereal diseases, and to rehabilitate and redeem fallen women, and that its revenue was derived from voluntary contributions.

"Over the objection of the District Attorney, Grant stated that he received a salary of $250 per month, but that this salary did not depend upon the successful outcome of prosecutions instituted by him. He said that he came here prepared to act in the California restaurant matter, but that the district attorney had already procured the evidence against the place.

"District Attorney Smith, after the character witnesses had concluded their testimony, then called two detectives, J. Jeffries and A. Michaulschutz, to give evidence as to specific acts of wrong-doing in the premises.

"Jeffries swore that in company with Michaulschutz and Bowman, operatives in his employ, he visited the restaurant on the 3rd, 4th, and 5th of February; that on the 4th he and his operatives were introduced to a woman named 'Aida' in the restaurant, by a waiter known as 'George,' and that they were solicited by the woman. Jeffries also testified that on the 8th of February he and a woman operative of his, a 'Miss Lee' rented room Number 2 of the restaurant from the proprietor and that no questions were asked, and that he and 'Miss Lee' were shown to the room, and after musing up the room and remaining there a few minutes they left.

"Counsel for the defendant brought out on cross-examination that Jeffries resided in Los Angeles, and that he had no office, and that his business was that of a vice investigator. He said that he came to Watsonville on his own accord, hearing that vice conditions here were very bad, and that after making a preliminary survey he went to the district attorney and laid the matter before him, and that he was then employed by the district attorney for a stipulated sum of $700 to make an investigation. He said that he had investigated other places in Watsonville, but that the inquiry was discontinued before completed. Jeffries' memory was rather poor as to his previous employments, recalling that he had worked as a salesman in Dallas, Texas, and as a towerman on a railroad. He said that he had conducted like investigations for many of the prosecutors in the southern part of the state.

"Operative Michaulschutz was then called, and stated that on the 5th of February the woman 'Aida' was brought to him by the same waiter, and that he accompanied the woman and the waiter to room 13 of the restaurant.

"Mr. Hrepich, lessee of the premises, denied all the accusations and introduced the register of rooms of the restaurant for the 5th, and which showed that rooms 2 and 13 were both rented to men on the night of the 5th.

"District Attorney Smith, on cross-examination, elicited the fact that as to room 13, the same was rented to a man named Poor on the 5th early in the evening, but that Poor did not go to his room until about 1 o'clock in the morning.

"Tony Clay, a waiter, who was identified as the man 'George' by the detectives, denied that he had ever introduced any woman to them; but said that he had seen them talking to a woman named 'Aida' in February, and that he had seen this woman several times about the place; but that he didn't hear her name until afterwards.

"Hrepich was recalled to the stand. He did not know of any woman named 'Aida.' The rooms on the second floor he generally rented to Slavonians who come in from the country and spend a night or two.

"C. J. Sibole, a solicitor for a Watsonville laundry, testified that he is in the restaurant two or three times a day, and had been there at night. He always found the place conducted in an orderly manner.

"Jerome Dondero, a bank teller, testified that his mother owned the building and that he collected the rents. He had never heard of the place being conducted in a disorderly manner.

"Mrs. Elizabeth Dondero testified that she was the owner of the building and had never heard of anything wrong in reference to the conduct of the restaurant.

"At 4:30 the testimony was all in; the case was submitted without argument and each side was allowed five days."

"These medals, made from captured German cannon, bear the words 'Awarded by the Treasury Department for patriotic service in behalf of the Liberty Loans.'...

"In the first loan, women subscribed for bonds but no especial effort was made to work among them nor were women included in the general or soliciting committees.

"The fourth loan called for a supreme effort. A thorough canvass had to be made and no one was to be overlooked. The committee was enlarged to 98 and these women, after being trained in salesmanship, called on every woman in the valley...

"From the first the women went about this work in a business like manner. Every woman who solicited was instructed in salesmanship and knew and understood the bonds. She was prepared to make a convincing talk and knew how to sell bonds in large denominations. While the men's committee was somewhat reluctant to turn over the best prospects to the women in the first campaign, there was no hesitancy to do so in the last.

EP; 20 Jun 1919; article: “We clip the following accounts of the above trial from our Santa Cruz cotems:

“One women is in the jury box, Miss Olive M. Jenne, in the case against Nicholas Lettunich, charged with passing a $500 check on George Hrepich, when he did not have sufficient funds in the bank.

“The other jurors are: Edward W. Hebard, Harry N. Turner, Charles Joy, Myron Swarthout, Coleman F. Clayon, Thomas Bone, Charles E. Ford, James O’Brien, C. H. Stone, Harry Flesig, and J. B. Blas.

“The defendant is represented by Sans & Hudson and Rea, Cassin & Caldwell. In the prosecution, Ralph H. Smith is assisted by C. R. Taylor.

“In his testimony yesterday, Geo. Hrepich stated that Lettunich did not ask him to withhold presentation of the check for collection, until he had passed him the $500. Hrepich testified that the young Watsonville man told him that he was soon to have a settlement with his partner, George Bubresko, and would then be able to make good on the check at the bank.

“Soon after the incident of the check and the $500 loan, the plant of Lettunich & Bubresko was burned to the ground in Watsonville, and it is supposed this fact will have some bearing on the present case in connection with Lettunich’s ability to pay.

“George Bubresko, an apple packer and partner of Lettunich, gave testimony as to partnership dealing and of the closing of the firm’s accounts.

“Charles Casady, an accountant, gave testimony, as did George E. Wilson, the receiving teller of the bank.

“L. H. Lopes of the Pajaro Valley bank, testified that on February 15th, Lettunich made three deposits, $60, $200, and $500, a total of $760, but at the close of the day the balance was $569.25. On the 25th the account was overdrawn.

“Frank Arnerich was another witness. Lopes and Arnerich were put on the stand, says the Santa Cruz News, to show that the conversation between Hrepich and Lettunich was held at 3 o’clock in the afternoon, and they also testified to seeing the money passed. Lettunich has always maintained that the conversation occurred in the morning and that Hrepich stated that he was satisfied with the loan.”

According to the information it is charged that he entered the room of Josie Lillard, a chambermaid in the Central hotel last Sunday and took a sum of money estimated to be about $40. According to her story she saw him enter the room and take the money. When asked why she did not call for help she said that at first she thought he was joking and would return the money, but later decided that he intended to keep it. She told her story to the chief of police and an effort was made to locate the man. Later she told another story to the chief that did not coincide with her first story, but had the warrant issued for the man’s arrest.

“Martinovich has been stopping at the California restaurant for some time past, but when the officers looked for him there, he was not to be found. Later it was reported that he had gone to San Jose.”

EP; 27 Jun 1919; article: “Was it Tom Vucinich who passed a $10 check on the Seaside Toggery in this city on the 21st of May? The defendant in the case, now under arrest and who goes to trial on the felony charge tomorrow morning, claims to be able to give a perfect alibi establishing the fact that on the 20th, 21st and 22nd of May he was at work for the Sunnyvale Canning Company at San Jose, and not in Santa Cruz at all.

“In view of the fact that three persons, Arthur Rittenhouse, and Fred Quadros, of the store, and M. N. Lettunich, of Watsonville, whose name was forged to the check, have sworn that the defendant is the man who passed the check, and inasmuch as the description handed the sheriff tallies exactly with the defendant’s appearance and dress, a jury will be called upon to pass on the question of whether or not the officials have a problem of mistaken identity on their hands.

“If the alibi is substantiated Vucinich has a double in this world who resembles him down as to face and figure and dress down to the minutest detail. Even the dark, heavy growth of beard on his face, a detail of the description provided to the sheriff, tallies perfectly—as do the corduroy trousers and blue coat that the man wore who passed the check.—Santa Cruz News.”

EP; 28 Jun 1919; article: "VUCINICH ACQUITTED ON PROVING ALIBI. Says last evening's Santa Cruz News:

"Youth unabashed proved a good witness in the superior court this morning in the trial of Tom Vucinich, charged with passing a fictitious check on the Seaside Toggery on the 21st of last month. Fred Quadros, sixteen and a half years old, and who told District Attorney Smith that he was a 'salesman' at the Seaside Toggery, and had been for the last year and a half, answered questions like a flash, both direct and cross examination queries. He even told the defense attorney that if evidence were introduced to show that Vucinich was not even in Santa Cruz on the 21st of May but was employed in Santa Clara on that day, he (Quadros) would still swear that the defendant who sat in the courtroom this morning was the man who passed the $10 check on the Seaside Toggery last month. Quadros identified the faded green hat, which was introduced in evidence this morning as the article worn by Vucinich when he was in the store.

"A. W. R. Rittenhouse and F. O. Rittenhouse, partners owning the Seaside Toggery, both took the stand and identified the check and the defendant, Vucinich, as the man who passed it. The former said that the check passer was 'either the defendant or a twin brother that looks just like him,' and the latter said that he was 'morally certain' that Vucinich was the man."

"Says this morning's Sentinel:

"Tom Vucinich proved an alibi, and in a few minutes was acquitted last evening by the jury, on a charge of passing a fictitious check on the Seaside Toggery:

"In contradiction to the testimony of Fred Quadros, A. W. R. Rittenhouse and F. O. Rittenhouse, identifying him as the man who passed the check, was that of Robert Greary, assistant superintendent of the cannery at Sunnyvale. He produced the cannery time card and testified that on the day it was alleged the check was passed Vucinich worked ten hours going to work at 6 a.m. and quitting at 7:30 p.m. He had personal knowledge that Vucinich was there, as he punched his card at noon and at night.

"Vucinich was then placed on the stand in his own behalf.

"The case went to the jury at 3 p.m. and the verdict of not guilty was read at 3:15 p.m. by the foreman, F. R. Howe.

"The prosecution was conducted by District Attorney R. H. Smith and the defense was by D. C. Clark, L. F. Smith Jr. and Stanford Smith.

"The young Quadros gave Sheriff Trafton the description of the man who passed the check, he described a man resembling Vucinich, even to his clothing and green hat. Five days after, Quadros went to the sheriff's office and out of 16 pictures, Quadros picked out the one of Vucinich, who has been in jail before, as the check passer.

"Four days later when Vucinich was arrested, he was taken at night by Sheriff Trafton to the Quadros home and positively identified.

"The next day Quadros and A. W. R. Rittenhouse went to the jail and were positive as to the man."

EP; 31 Jul 1919; article: "The item published in this paper yesterday afternoon, that M. L. Kalich had sold 17,000 boxes of 3½ and 4-tier boxes of Newtown apples to Mr. Jardine, of San Francisco, created quite a sensation, not only in apple circles here, but in San Francisco (along commission row) as well, when the Pajaronian got up to the metropolis last evening.

"This morning Mr. Kalich stepped into this office and disavowed the transaction. He denies that the above sale was made, although admitting that negotiations tending to such a sale had been entered into between himself and Mr. Jardine. Mr. Kalich states that he expects to do business with Mr. Jardine before the season is over, although he has made no direct sales to that gentleman as yet. He is of the opinion that Newtowns will be worth considerably more than $2 a box, ere the season is much advanced.

"Mr. Kalich was greatly exercised over the item, fearing that Mr. Jardine would think that he (Kalich) had the item published. We would absolve him from that. The transaction was common talk along the street and we heard the item from two or three different brokers. In fact, we softened the item down.

"However, yesterday orders were placed for twenty carloads of Newtowns at $2 a box. The orders were placed in two lots of ten carloads each, with two different apple brokers of this city, and the apples were bought at that price.

"This morning we are informed that all quotations are held up by the packers. One of the brokers who made a tour around amongst the packers is said to have been unable to get any quotations, even at $2.

"Yesterday, talking with a couple of brokers over the rumored price of $1.50–1.60 per box, they said they would be willing to take at once one thousand carloads at from $1.50 to $1.60.

"We should think they would. Culls are bringing in the neighborhood of $1.50 per box!"

“The present plan is to have at least 200 machines to take approximately 1000 sailors and petty officers on the tour...

“The board of supervisors has taken action to see that the roads are sprinkled and placed in the best possible condition for the trip, and every precaution will be taken to make the tour a safe one...

“This automobile trip to Watsonville and through the Pajaro valley tomorrow afternoon will be the biggest thing the boys will meet with on the visit to Santa Cruz and every person here who has an automobile should put it at the service of the boys on this occasion. The prosperity and resources of this valley is something the sailors do not see every day, and all those who have participated in this prosperity should recognize it as their duty to assist the committee in getting enough autos to take the sailors who wish to make the trip through this great fruit district and let them see what the valley can do. Get in touch with the committee and come with your automobile tomorrow. One afternoon for the boys is not a very big thing to give, and all of our machine owners can afford to do that much.

EP; 17 Sep 1919; item: "The packing house of Scurich and Jerenich presented a busy scene this morning. They were packing Red Pearmain apples and the fruit was passing through the automatic sorter rapidly. Only the choice four-tier apples were being packed for shipment, the balance going to the dryer. They are now packing about 1,700 boxes a day. A carload of paper was being unloaded, and when empty the car will be filled with apples and sent on its way again without delay, thus helping in the conservation of the cars that are needed so badly just now. This firm buys all its supplies in carload lots and thus is in a position to take advantage of any discounts that may be given in wholesale lots as well as securing the cars for return shipments.

"Mr. Jerenich stated that the Belle-fleur market was still in a shaky condition. Prices are fluctuating and it is hard to tell just where they will wind up. They are storing a few and drying some. The local market was flooded during the week of the strike when eastern shipments were impossible, and that had a great deal to do with the drop in the market. And again, the prices quoted at the start of the season were too high..."

EP; 19 Sep 1919; article: "Charles Perovich, aged ten years, shot the nine-year-old daughter of Ed Norris through the wrist yesterday afternoon while they were playing at the Perovich home at the bend of the road near the college. They had been playing a while and the boy got hold of a 38-calibre revolver and was flourishing it about in a threatening manner. The little girl threw up her hands and said 'Don't shoot me.' The gun was fired and the bullet passed through her wrist. Dr. Liles was called and dressed the wounded arm.

"This is another accident that could have been prevented if the owner of the revolver had taken proper care of it. The boy does not live that will pass up the opportunity to handle a gun if it is left within his reach, and anyone leaving a loaded gun where a child can get at it is guilty of criminal carelessness that could be punishable by law. There is seldom occasion for having a loaded gun about a home or in the possession of anyone other than an officer, and if any punishment is coming to anyone for accidents of this kind it should come to the party that owns the gun."

“The defendants are insured with the Fidelity Casualty

Company of New York, and any award by the commission will be against the insurance company.

“Mike Resetar was a little in doubt as to his rights, and having been called a vile name he was anxious to know if the party calling him the name got off without a fine if he would be allowed to call anyone that name that he might meet on the street. Attorney Sans averred that he could not call him the name as he might ‘knock his block off.’”

EP; 21 Oct 1919; article: “Last Saturday’s Stockton Record contained the following:

“George Pulich, former city clerk of Stockton, would be postmaster of Stockton today had not bright business prospects led him to decline the position. This is the substance of a wire from Washington which clears up the mystery of why a new examination is to be held for the government job.

“Much interest has been aroused over the fact that a second examination for the postmaster job has been called for the 18th, many citizens wondering why no appointment had been paid after the first examination. Pulich was too modest to make public the fact that he had been selected.

“‘Of seven candidates who took civil service examinations in Stockton,’ says a wire from Washington, ‘for postmaster last March, one candidate, George Pulich, qualified for appointment. Pulich then declined the appointment because of his desire to engage in private business.’

“That is the excuse which the post-office department gives for the failure to make the appointment before this time and for calling another examination on October 28th.

“Pulich today stated that he had come very near accepting the government position but that he felt that business prospects which had opened after taking the examination were too bright to be given up.

“I think the department’s mention of my name very much a compliment.’ he said, ‘I feel however, that out of the list of applicants for the position a capable selection could have been made. My reason for having cancelled my application was because of business opportunity which came to me, and in which I am now very satisfactorily and happily engaged. I feel what the future in the line I am now in has more substantial prospects than if I had accepted this temporary government position.

“With Harry Woodlee, Pulich is now engaged in the commercial printing business, the two having bought out the big Record printing plant. With a host of friends, the former city clerk is having marked success in the business field. His activities during the Liberty loan drives and all other patriotic endeavors won for him a high place in the regard of the community...”

EP; 27 Oct 1919; obit: “In Pajaro Valley, October 25, 1919, Anthony John Clay, aged 34 years and 4 months, a native of Austria.”

EP; 27 Oct 1919; article: “The body of Tony Clay, who was found shot dead on the Thompson-Kelly ranch last Saturday afternoon, was brought to Watsonville, Saturday, and an inquest held over it yesterday morning. The story of the shooting is as follows:

“Clay, accompanied by Mike Matulich, for whom he had been working, and another of the ranch hands, Frank Arnerich, had gone hunting in the hills Friday afternoon, and on returning Clay had separated from them and crossed the river, intending to go home. The other two had continued hunting for a short time, and on reaching the ranch that evening they found that Clay had not returned. They went out and searched for him at once, but were unable to get any trace of him, and in the morning, when he continued missing, they became alarmed and notified the neighbors, and came into town on the chance that they might find him here. While they were reporting the matter to the police, Ed Kelly telephoned in that a dead man had been found on his place.

"Deputy Coroner Liles, with Constable Devine and George Hrepich of the California restaurant, who had formerly employed Clay, went out immediately to the scene of the tragedy. All declare that all the indications show that death was accidental. The body was found near a stump, face downward, across the gun, which had discharged both barrels. Appearances suggested that Clay had been walking through the brush and stumbled, knocking the gun, which he was trailing, against the stump, causing it to fire.

"Clay was well known and had many friends in town. He had been working for the Matulich & Gutunich packing firm and had been previously employed for more than a year by George Hrepich at the California grill. He had a considerable sum of money coming to him for work he had done, and had several times spoken of his intention of returning to Europe, which facts had led his companions to think when they missed him that he might have come into town with the purpose of leaving. His friends believe there was no reason to suspect suicide.

"Clay had been married for the second time not long ago, and leaves his wife and two children by his first marriage. His name was 'Claj' which he had shortened into 'Clay.'

"The inquest was held Sunday morning...by Dr. L. M. Liles, deputy coroner, and the following jury was summoned by Constable A. J. Devine: W. A. Hopkins, W. Moyer, M. P. Nelson, Walter Peckham, John Soto and B. L. Fell. The witnesses were: Mrs. Clay, Frank Arano, Ed Kelly, George Hrepich, Mike Matulich and Frank Matulich.

"The evidence went to show that the body was found on the Kelly-Thompson ranch about a mile from the home on the Silliman ranch. Clay had evidently killed a raccoon a short time before the accident and was carrying it with him. It is supposed that he was trailing his gun and that it caught on something and was discharged, the contents entering Clay's abdomen. There was nothing to indicate that his death came from anything but an accident. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death from a gunshot wound in the abdomen.

"Anthony John Clay was a native of Austria, 34 years and 4 months old at the time of his death. He is survived by his wife and two children. The funeral was held at Aston & Neal's undertaking parlors at 10 o'clock this morning, and interment took place at the Catholic cemetery. The pallbearers were: Nick Matulich, Joseph Matulich, Frank Arnerich, Bart Gutunich, George Forenich [Forencich] and Martin Gurum."

"The traffic laws are very plain. They are now embodied in the state law and are not merely a city ordinance, and as they are the same all over the state there is no excuse for violating them and the local peace officers intend to see that they are enforced. Every auto driver should make himself familiar with the law and obey it to the letter. It will be much cheaper than taking a chance."

EP; 1 Dec 1919; article: “A PATHETIC LETTER FROM JUGO-SLAVIA The following letter was received by George Carstulovich, of Santa Cruz, from the old country. It should be of interest to our Slavonian readers. The original letter was in the Slavonian language, and the following translation was made by a young Slavonian lad in the Santa Cruz schools. It is certainly a very creditable effort:

“Skrip [Škrip, island of Brač], July 9, 1919.

“Dear Uncle—This leaves me well, hoping this will find you the same. All of us were very glad to receive your letter. Long four years of terrible war we remembered you in our conversations and were thinking if you knew the suffering we went through. When our grandfather was living he used to say, ‘My poor children, I probably will see you starving to death,’ and after his death we did suffer with hunger and were also without clothes. He left memories behind him that will never be forgotten not only by us, but by the entire population of our town. If it was not for him we would not have had the new school which beautifies our town, also the water system, park and playgrounds. I am sorry to say today everything is neglected and has been for two seasons. First the people thought that the war would never end; and second, the absence of our young men who were not at war.

“And now, after everything is over and we succeeded to be free under a new dear Jugoslavia, we hope the conditions will be better, also in better shape.

“Dear uncle, the prices are so high that it is hard to exist. Just a few days ago the flour came down and do you know why? It was because America, God bless her, unloaded several thousands of tons on the coast of the Adriatic. So prospects are better for prices to come down. Clothes and shoes are extremely high, so that poor people must go barefooted and almost naked.

“Our poor father has said many a time, ‘Patience, my dear children, until your Uncle George sends us help, then we can all be in better conditions concerning both food and clothes.’

“The present value of money in this country is very low. Just imagine, one American dollar stands for sixty-eight crowns. But we hope it will not last very long until conditions will be in better shape and living will be that much easier.

“Poor father and mother, they suffer terribly on account of continuous sickness in the family. Just think, last year we were all sick in the family, all at the same time, and unable to hand each other a glass of water or medicine. And if it was not for good headwork and bravery, most of us would be dead, because the terrible influenza took many and many a people, especially the women folks. The day we lost our dear grandmother five more people died.

“Dear uncle, our only desire and hopes are that you will come home and take the place of our long-forgotten grandfather.

“In the last four years father did not make any improvements in agriculture, but neglected all that was in good condition, for the lack of help, food and money. Last year he had a fairly good crop of olives and grapes, but this year it is a very poor showing. So it appears we have another hard and long spell.

“In the next letter will write you more news. Papa and mama beg me to ask you to give our best regards to all of your and our friends.

“Hoping to hear from you in a very short time, and thanking you in advance for your goodness. I remain, as ever, Sincerely your nephew, Anton Carstulovich.

“Long live Jugosalvia!”

EP; 3 Dec 1919; article: “ALDERMEN DISCUSS WALKER STREET SPURS. The board of city aldermen met in regular session at the city hall last evening...

“The greater portion of the evening was given over to the discussion of the condition affecting the spurs on Walker street between First and Second streets. The matter was brought up at the last meeting of the board by Mr. Gospodnetich that he was shut off from the railroad and that others who secured spurs earlier would not permit him to connect up so he could get track service. At that meeting the board considered that the proper solution of the matter would probably be the maintaining of a single spur the whole length of the block, and gave notice to the industries located there, F. A. Morehead, Rodgers Brothers and Blas Pista, to appear at this meeting and show cause, if any, why this should not be done.

“Attorney John E. Gardner appeared for Rodgers Brothers, Blas Pista appeared in his own interests, and Attorney C. R. Taylor represented Mr. Gospodnetich.

“Mr. Gardner urged that it would be unfair to the property owners who had obtained their land and installed their spurs to permit other packers the right of way over their tracks without due compensation, and requested the board to suspend action and require Mr. Gospodnetich to accept a proposal of Blas Pista, whose packing house adjoins, to rent the right of way over his spur. He stated that Mr. Pista had offered to permit Mr. Gospodnetich to tie onto the end of his spur for the nominal rental of $65 per year, and Mr. Gardner thought that should be the proper solution of the matter and that the city should not compel the other property owners in that block to give Mr. Gospodnetich a right of way over their property without some financial consideration.

“Attorney C. R. Taylor, representing Mr. Gospodnetich, said that he had never been approached with a proposition of that kind and that if he had he would have advised Mr. Gospodnetich to have accepted it. He stated that the proposition made by Mr. Pista originally was that Mr. Gospodnetich pay him half the cost of the track and an annual rental of $80 per year. It developed that the $65 per year rental proposition had been made later when Mr. Taylor was not present.

“Mr. Pista was present and said that he would stand by the offer he had made, which he believed was $65 per year straight rental. That he had the proposition at home in writing and would look it up. When asked by Mr. Taylor if he would rent the track at a straight rental and not demand that Mr. Gospodnetich pay half the cost of the track he apparently agreed to do so, but declined to make a definite time for the lease to run. He seemed to want the proposition to be a perpetual one.

“Upon the showing made the board left the matter in the hands of the two parties and their attorneys, feeling confident that they would effect an equitable settlement of the matter...”

EP; 3 Dec 1919; item: “LIST OF PAJARO VALLEY PEOPLE WHO PAID INCOME TAX FOR 1918. Below is the list of names of people in the Pajaro Valley who have made returns to the United States Internal Revenue Department, and paid income taxes for the year 1918. The list is posted in the local post office, by order of the government, and can be seen there by anyone interested.

“The publication of this list is designed to ferret out income tax evaders, and it is the duty of every patriotic American to closely scan this list and where they are of the opinion that persons known to them have not made returns, and yet should have done so, to immediately acquaint Revenue collector Justus Wardell, San Francisco, with their opinion in the matter, and he will do the rest. All communications of that tenor are confidential. What the government wants is a bead on the ‘birds’ that have dodged their patriotic duty, and are in the same category as the soldier who deserts in the face of an enemy.

“This list should certainly puncture some of those ‘blowhards’ who boasted of all the money they have made, yet evaded their duty towards a government that gave them the opportunity of amassing such immense profits: [only the Slavs are listed, below]

EP; 5 Dec 1919; article: "The committee in charge of the Watsonville Day Nursery reports the following general statements in connection with the nursery.

"The nursery was backed entirely by funds contributed by the apple packers, and also by the Hooke Cannery, which was the only cannery remaining in operation while the nursery was running.

"The nursery was run for one month on funds collected from the packers and then operated one additional week on money contributed by the Hooke Cannery. The committee feels well satisfied with this season's results from the nursery and considers that a splendid foundation has been laid for next season's work. The parents now understand the benefits to be derived for the children, and the packers know the advantages to themselves. Many packers state that next season when the nursery is open they will not put up with the confusion resulting from children playing around the packing houses. They also say that from the standpoint of health alone, the children will be better off at a comfortable nursery.

"There is talk of the canneries wishing to make use of the nursery early in the year. If they choose to back it financially, the committee stands ready to conduct it for the sole benefit of the canneries up to the time of the opening of the packing season.

"The packers, and also the Hooke Cannery gave a wonderful financial support to the nursery. Owing to the generosity of their contributions the committee now has on hand a substantial sum with which to re-open next summer. The list of contributors follows: [13 others were non-Slavs]

"Mr. Cikuth...Mike Resetar, P. Stolich, E. B. Rilovich & Sresovich, A. Stolich, A. N. Jerinich, John Stolich... John Franich, P. M. Resetar & Co., Copriviza & Gera, Peter Mengol...L. G. EP; 9 Dec 1919; article: “Local Packers are Fined $40 for Violating Standardization Law. Andrew Zar, Mike Resetar, of Resetar Bros., A. Jerenich, of Scurich & Jerenich, and Mitchell Madesko, of Butier & Madesko, all apple packers of Watsonville, entered pleas of guilty to the charge of violating the apple standardization law, before Judge Mortimer, in Oakland, yesterday, and were fined $50 each. They claimed that the shortage charges against them were due to manipulation of the apple market in Oakland and to unjustifiable complaints from Oakland brokers.

“The arrests were the result of six cars of apples, designated as fancy fruit that were seized upon their arrival in Oakland by Deputy Horticultural Inspector D. P. McDonald. The apples were all from Watsonville, and according to Inspector McDonald were wormy and contained decayed spots.

“On last Saturday McDonald telephoned Inspector A. W. Tate, Jr., of this city, that warrants had been issued for some of these men and would be issued for the others. On Saturday evening Dr. Tate called a meeting of the men whose fruit had been seized and had Deputy District Attorney C. R. Taylor present. Dr. Tate told them that their cars of apples were on the track at Oakland and that they were paying demurrage on them, and if they were willing for the warrants he would go with them and get the cases settled on Monday, if possible, so that the fruit might be disposed of, which they did.

“Mr. McDonald told Mr. Tate that a warrant was to be issued for Mr. Sheehy, but it developed that he had a contract with Zar Bros. in which they agreed to pack the fruit according to the standardization act. He was therefore not subject to prosecution.

“Under the rulings on the standardization act the buyer, unless he establishes a guarantee from the packer that the fruit is packed in accordance with the standardization law, is liable for prosecution if, upon inspection, it is found that the fruit is not up to the requirements. It is also important that the packer’s name appear somewhere upon the box, even though the broker’s own label is used.

“As there were several technical points in connection with the case, Mr. Tate requested the assistance of Deputy District Attorney C. R. Taylor, and was also fortunate enough to secure the services of Deputy Attorney General John C. Reardon.

“In disposing of the fruit seized the car belonging to Scurich & Jerenich was sent to a by-product plant in San Francisco, and the other three cars from Watsonville packers were sent to San Francisco to be placed in cold storage, subject to the orders of the inspectors, which practically means that they must be repacked.

“A car of apples shipped by Rilovich & Sresovich was returned to be repacked. A car belonging to Garcia & Maggini Company was returned and sent to the dryer.

“Jack Oliver, an employee of S. Herman an Oakland broker, was also arrested in connection with the Garcia & Maggini Company’s car.

“M. Pista, who was arrested by Constable Devine on a warrant from Oakland, appeared and entered a plea of not guilty and Judge Shortall will hear his case tomorrow.

“In reporting the result of the cases last evening’s Oakland Tribune says:

“Pleading guilty to a charge of violating the state fruit standardization law, four Watsonville fruit packers were each fined $50 in Judge Samuels’ court this morning. They were Andrew Zar, M. Madesko, Mike Resetar and A. W. Jerenich. M. V. Pista, also of Watsonville, is charged with a similar offense, but as the defendant was unable to be present, hearing in his case was put over for one week.

“Having condemned six carloads of Watsonville apples in the local wholesale commission market during the last few days, County Horticultural Commissioner Fred Sculberger and his deputy, D. P. T. Macdonald, sent for the packers who were placed under arrest here this morning on a charge of violating the state fruit standardization law.

“According to Sculberger and Macdonald, the fruit, which was marked ‘fancy’ was wormy and contained decayed spots.

“Deputy District Attorney Taylor returned to Watsonville last evening and stated that the charges against the local packers were justified upon a very technical examination. He said that there was a large amount of first grade fruit in the shipments, but that there was more fruit below standard than a strict inspection would permit.

“In the case of A. Jerenich, he said, there were extenuating circumstances which might have justified a plea of not guilty. In this instance the apples were packed and marked C grade upon the request of the purchaser, who later transferred them to another buyer, who in turn held them for some time before that charge was issued. According to usual custom, C grade apples held longer than five days are not subject to the full requirements of the law.

“The feeling on the part of the local packers that they had been singled out because of the decline of the Oakland market had no weight with the court, and neither did the plea that inasmuch as the apples shipped f.o.b. Watsonville, the prosecution if any, should be made in Watsonville.

“An arrangement was made, however, with Inspector MacDonald and the other bay district inspectors that in case of future violations of the law, they would collect samples of the fruit and send them to the local inspector, together with a complete report on the case, and that if investigation proved the charges correct the prosecution would be made by the authorities here.

“Under the system of inspection here it is impossible for the inspectors to see the packing of all the apples, as this would require an inspector to be on duty in each packing house all the time. With three or four inspectors to about one hundred packing houses, their work can be of an advisory nature only. They explain the law to the packers and show them how the apples should be packed, and for their own good as well as for the reputation of the valley the packers should see that the standardization law is adhered to as closely as possible.

“Chief Apple Inspector Tate said that such cases were of a type that would bring the valley into disrepute everywhere and that it was of primary interest to every packer here that similar violations do not place in the future.

“Redoubled efforts will be made by the local authorities, they declare, to see that the provisions of the standardization law are enforced, and vigorous steps will be taken to prevent a repetition of this occurrence. All of the packers fined appeared on their first offense, and for this reason the fines were comparatively light.”

EP; 10 Dec 1919; article: “JURCOVICH FINED $150 FOR VIOLATING APPLE STANDARDIZATION ACT. The case of J. C. Jurcovich, who was accused of violating the apple standardization law, came on for hearing in Judge Hawkins’ court this morning...

“Attorney Sans, for his client, withdrew the plea of not guilty and substituted a plea of guilty.

“Attorney Taylor asked to place Chief Apple Inspector A. W. Tate, Jr., on the stand to inform the court as to the extent of the violation of the law. This was objected to by the attorney for the defense, but sustained by Judge Hawkins.

“Mr. Tate being sworn stated that he inspected the fruit taken from the wrecked car and found the fruit in such condition that it warranted a further investigation. He then secured five boxes of the apples and made an inspection of the contents of the same in his office in the presence of a committee of apple growers and shippers. In company with Mr. Jurcovich he went to the car and secured another box, making six in all. He reported on the examination of the apples and found 35 defective applies or 25 per cent defective in the four tier boxes; 26 defective apples out of a total of 96 in the three and one-half tier boxes, and 64 defective apples in the four and one-half tier apples. He said that the defects were such as could easily be seen by the sorters.

“Mr. Jurcovich was placed on the stand and stated that he was not present at all times during the packing but that he had given orders to the sorters and packers not to put in any bad apples. That the pack shipped in the wrecked cars was from two orchards and that in one of these orchards the fruit was not in good condition, being affected by a disease which he did not recognize.

“Judge Hawkins after considering the evidence and explaining the detriment to the public, the packers and shippers and the valley itself of such violations of the law sentenced Mr. Jurcovich to pay a fine of $150. This was accepted by the defendant and his attorney as a fair determination of the case and they voiced their willingness to assist in enforcing the law hereafter.”

“E. B. Lettunich came to the Pajaro valley with his brother, M. N. Lettunich, from Dalmatia in 1901. [E. B. was immigrating; M. N. was returning from his first visit to his old home.] He was employed with his brother until 1902, when he engaged in the apple business with M. P. Butier. This partnership continued until 1905, when Mr. Lettunich bought his partner’s interest in the business and has since conducted the business himself, enlarging and increasing it as time went on. Mr. Lettunich was a highly respected citizen, an energetic and progressive business man, and at the time he was taken ill he was planning big things here. He recently purchased the W. W. Ford building on Main street and had in contemplation extensive improvements on that property. He was also heavily interested in orchards here and near Hollister and kept a large force of men at work through the entire season taking care of his crops. In the death of E. B. Lettunich the community loses a fine business man and a progressive citizen, and there will be many in the valley who will sincerely mourn over his death. He was a patriotic man in all the Liberty bond drives in this valley. He was greatly devoted to Watsonville and the Pajaro, and took deep interest in the advancement and progress of his people.

He is a bright young business man, has lots of friends, and there is no reason why he should not do well in his new venture. He takes over the place next Saturday.

"One by one the old landmarks fade way. First Heckard's place in the same block, now the headquarters of the Pajaro Valley Meat and Packing Company; next Andy Schopp's, across the street which is being transformed into an abiding place for the Western Union Telegraph Company, and now John Anderson's saloon, which, in its heyday, was one of the most popular saloons in town.

EP; 22 Dec 1919; item: "M. L. Milcovich and H. W. Stover, who have been very active in organizing the Watsonville Athletic Association, made a trip to San Francisco yesterday in the interests of the association. EP; 22 Dec 1919; article: "A Ford automobile belonging to Tony Dragich was stolen from the corner of Third and Rodriguez streets last evening between 5 and 7 o'clock. The machine was a 1917 model and carried license No. 241382. Chief of Police Whitsitt was notified and he wired the police departments of the surrounding towns to be on the lookout for the machine.

"While no direct clue to the thief or thieves has been found, suspicion attaches to two men brought here from Monterey yesterday afternoon by John Mathis, who runs an auto rental service in that city. They were dressed in the uniforms of service men and claimed to be from the Presidio at Monterey. They asked to be taken to Salinas, and when Mr. Mathis reached that city they told him they would come on to Watsonville. He stopped near the city hall when he reached Watsonville and the two men agreed to meet him there at 6 o'clock for the return trip. They disappeared and have not been seen since.

"The machine contained three gallons of gasoline, which would take them about fifty miles, and they would then have to secure more gasoline or abandon the machine. From all appearances the two men were broke, as when they suggested stopping for tobacco at Salinas they could not produce the money to buy it and went without.

"If this is the case, it will not be long until they are picked up, as they cannot travel without money.

"G. B. Dawson, of Aromas, sent in word today that the stolen machine was found abandoned at the top of Hunter's hill, near Aromas. No indication of who took it has been found yet, however."

EP; 23 Dec 1919; item: "Wm. Buak, a local packer, who was arrested and charged with misbranding fruit in that he had marked Ben Davis apples as 'Black Twig' had his hearing before Judge Hawkins this morning, where he plead guilty to the charge. He was fined $40. The charge was made by Chief Apple Inspector A. W. Tate."

EP; 26 Dec 1919; article: "The little folks of Watsonville and the Pajaro valley were given their first municipal Christmas tree in the Plaza on Christmas eve. The church bells and the bell at Moreland Notre Dame Academy rang out the signal for them to assemble shortly after 7 o'clock. Before that time, however, the crowds had begun to gather and the streets and Plaza were filled with people long before the exercises began.

"The sun was shining brightly at noon, but long towards evening a heavy fog came rolling in which prevented Santa Claus from appearing in his aerial stunts and dampened the grass in the Plaza, which entailed some little discomfort on those who occupied the sod during the evening but not enough to cause any complaint.

"Mrs. O. D. Stoesser opened the community exercises with a beautiful solo, 'Holy Night,' which brought a hush on the assemblage that permitted her to be heard by practically all those present.

"Rev. W. P. Rankin of the Methodist church, read from the Bible the prologue introducing the two tableaux representing the story of the nativity. Mr. Rankin's voice carried over the immense assemblage, and could be heard clear and distinct for a long distance.

"The tableaux and the general arrangements were under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Higman. They were admirably staged and with the aid of a spotlight the sacred scenes were set forth in beautiful grandeur.

"The first tableau opened with the shepherds sleeping while the choir boys from St. Francis School sang 'Hark, the Herald Angels Sing,' their young voices ringing out over the vast audience with pleasing cadence.

"In the second tableau the holy family was grouped at the manger. The wise men from the east came bringing their gifts, while the Star of Bethlehem appeared high over the Christmas tree and the clear voices of the boys were again heard in 'Silent Night, Holy Night,' and 'Joy to the World.'

"The Spirit of Christmas was beautifully exemplified by Miss Louise Schuchard. Miss Lorraine Murphy, who had been cast for the role, being unable to appear on account of sickness. Miss Schuchard entered into her role with charm and enthusiasm and welcomed the children of the Watsonville kindergarten and the pupils of the first grades to her Christmas festival. They came as the people of all nations, and the representatives were made as follows: ...Anna Hrepich, Tyrolese; Anna Krall, Gypsy; ...Mary Cikuth, Slavonian; Lucille Kalich, Slavonian; ...Pauline Novacovich, Slavonian; Mary Kalich, Serbian; ...Nicky Kalich, Slavonian; Peter Scurich, Slavonian...

"They entertained the children for a short time, after which Santa Claus, in the person of C. G. Redman, appeared on the Stoesser building illuminated by red fire, and blowing his horn to announce his arrival. While the red fire was still burning and the little ones were watching the place where their Christmas saint had disappeared, he appeared before them on the platform and the march for the treats and presents began. During the next half hour the committees were busy delivering the bags of candy and presents to the 2,500 children who had assembled. There was one grand rush of laughing, shouting, children, and the counters on which the treats were piled were besieged like a remnant counter in a department store at a big sale. Everyone received a treat and present, and not one of the assembled youngsters was disappointed.

"After the children had received their presents Saxon T. Pope, Jr., put on his 'Punch and Judy' show, which made a most delightful ending to the program. This entertainment was highly complimented and the audience was enthusiastic over it. It was a whole show to itself...

"The tree was held under the auspices of the Watsonville Woman's Club and was financed by the Watsonville lodge of Elks."

"The publication of the item had the effect of holding up the sale of the California Restaurant business to the Arnerich Bros., of San Mateo. However, as soon as the above bond is filed the restaurant business will be on as usual. The place will not be closed up.

"Mr. Geo. W. Smith, of Santa Cruz, attorney for Geo. Hrepich, present proprietor of the restaurant, informed us of the above facts this forenoon."

APPENDIX A —

THE BASICS OF THIS BOOK

THIS BOOK is a chronological presentation of all newspaper articles or items that mention Slavs or Slav businesses in the Pajaro Valley of California, the main town of which is Watsonville (pop. 50,000 in 2010). Most of the excerpts are from the Pajaronian (weekly) and Evening Pajaronian (daily) newspapers of Watsonville. But other papers were researched as well, usually in cases when the local papers reported lightly on the topic or not at all. However, only the Watsonville papers were searched in their entirety. The other papers were searched only when the need arose.

Microfilm research —

Except for the editor, none of the researchers were Slavic. An attempt was made to find Slav researchers through notices in local Slav organization newsletters and through personal enquiry but none could be found.

The researchers were instructed to copy all mentions of Slav names or Slav businesses. However, other articles and items were copied if they contained issues or topics that Slavs were involved in, such as apple culture, fruit shipping, agricultural fairs, real estate, regulations governing hotels, saloons, and restaurants, etc.

All excerpts are in chronological order and no excerpt from the local papers was intentionally omitted.

All Watsonville papers from 1878 onward were looked through entirely, though the very early ones were difficult to research because nothing was being found and tedium may have resulted in something being missed, not to mention the poor visual quality of the early papers. The earliest mention of a Slav was found in 1881.

The locations of the microfilms were: Watsonville Public Library, Cabrillo College Library, Santa Cruz Public Library and University of California Santa Cruz. Different researchers used different libraries. The “miscellaneous” Watsonville papers (those other than the Pajaronian or Evening Pajaronian) are very sparse and are contained on less than half a microfilm roll.

Two methods were used for copying the material from the microfilms. All machines had a printer attached, and so most of the excerpts were printed out on paper. The date and name of paper were then written on each printed sheet. However, for small items of approximately two column inches or less, another method was to attach directly to the microfilm screen a sticky-note on which was written the date and name of the paper. A digital photo was then taken of the excerpt, including the sticky-note. [see Figs. A-2 and A-5 for examples]

Editing was done mostly to eliminate material that did not have a Slavic content. In lists of names, only the Slavic names are shown, and so the ellipses [...] indicate non-Slavs who were edited out. In such cases, at the end of the list often appears “[of xx]” where xx indicates the total number of people in the list.

In some cases all the people in the list are shown—Slavs as well as non-Slavs. This was done in cases where it might be interesting to learn who the Slavs were associating with. For example, children’s birthday parties, board of directors meetings, etc.

School reports and ALLs and ULs [see next page] contain only the Slav names, no ellipses, and are not contained in quote marks.

Transcribing. Most transcribing was done with speech recognition software—talking directly into a microphone. The words appear on the computer screen. This method worked amazingly well though it took some getting used to at first. The year of 1919 was the only material transcribed by manually typing on a keyboard.

Accuracy. The editor had previously compiled a database of over 9200 people who were part of, or related to, the Slavic immigration to the Pajaro Valley. With this database he was able to provide the researchers with a list of most Slav surnames not ending with -ich, and a list of Slav businesses that might be expected.

The first month or two of research material from each researcher was carefully checked by the editor against his own research of those same months. If necessary, adjustments and corrections were made. The editor estimates the accuracy as following:

Small items (two column-inches or less): 85+%

Vitals (births/marriages/deaths): 98+%

“Accuracy” in this sense means “accuracy of discovery” (whether an item was found or not). The transcription accuracy within the items themselves was, of course, much higher.

Editor’s remarks. Corrections, additions or comments made by the editor of this book appear within [square brackets]. Those that appear within a quoted section appear in regular text; those that appear outside of quoted text appear in italics.

Definitions—

Slav. The term “Slav,” as used in this book and in its title, refers to the Croats and Serbs who immigrated to Watsonville, Calif. Croats and Serbs are only two of many types of Slavs in the world but no other types were found in Watsonville before 1920.
 Blind pig = a place where alcohol is sold illegally.
 Shook = wooden parts that fruit boxes are made from.
 Lis pendens = a formal notice that starts a foreclosure process.

Some examples.

ALLs and ULs. You will see the abbreviation ALL many times in this book. It stands for Advertised Letter List. This was a list published at the request and expense of the U.S. Post Office of all letters which were not called for (before there were letter carriers) or could not be delivered (after letter carriers). Letters were kept for a certain length of time before they would appear on the ALL. After the names were published, the recipient had to pay a small fee to get the letter.

Often the spelling of the names in the ALLs is atrocious because foreign penmanship (which could be on both domestic or overseas mail) was difficult to read by the American postal workers. Starting in Feb. 1918 this list was called the UL list (Undelivered Letters).

Immediately below is the transcription of an ALL from 1883, taken directly from this book:

Paj; 16 Aug 1883; ALL: Giovanni Bussovich.

Vitals (births/marriages/deaths). Vitals were usually printed in the same place in the newspaper from issue to issue, and so were easy to find. The researchers were also instructed to pay special attention to the “vitals” section. Below is the birth announcement of a Slav found in the Watsonville papers. A digital camera was used to copy this excerpt. A sticky-note, on which was written the date and name of the paper, was placed directly on the microfilm screen, and the photo then taken. In this entire book (which goes to 1920) only one child was ever named in a birth announcement. After each birth announcement we have inserted the name of the child and death year (+ = death), when known. Also, for some married women the husband’s surname is given.

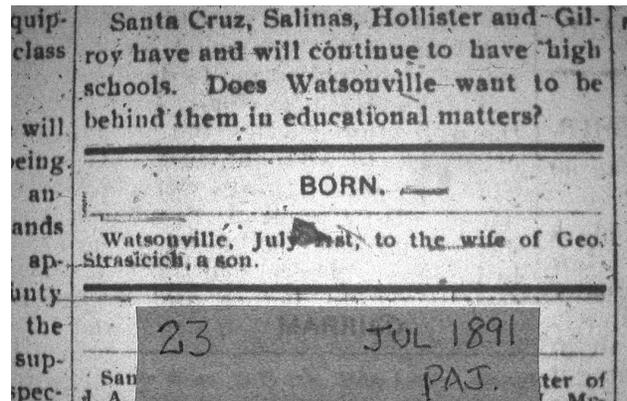

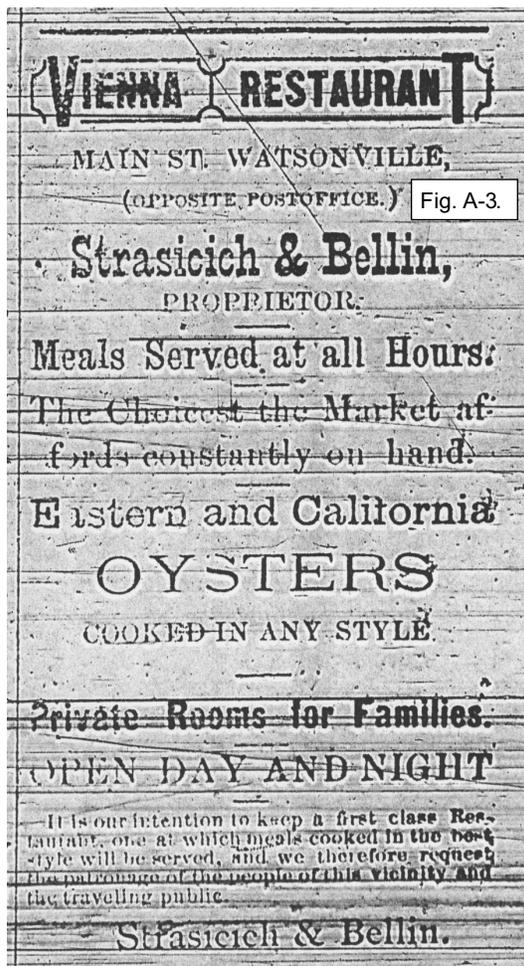

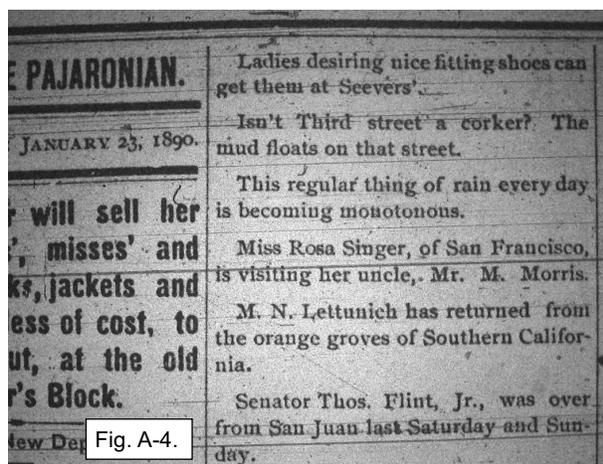

Fig. A-2. The birth announcement of the first Slav born in Watsonville.

Display ads. The visual quality of the display ads as found in the microfilms was often quite bad, and that is the reason why more of them don’t appear in this book. Cleaning up the below ad took over 4 hours in Photoshop. It can be found as Fig. 1-5 (June 1888). And it still doesn't look very good.

Short items. Many of the excerpts in this book are very short; some are only one sentence long. This is not due to editing. If there are no ellipses [...] then everything has been included. Fig. A-4 is an example from 1890 showing several very short “items.”

Below is the article that announced the beginnings of the Austrian-American Benevolent Society in 1898. This group exists to this day in Watsonville. In the late 1940s the name was changed to the Slavic-American Benevolent Society. A list of the charter members of this group can be found in Appendix G.

Miscellaneous—

For all purposes other than casual reading (e.g., research of any type, statistical analysis, verifying content, etc.) we strongly recommend that the original microfilms be consulted. There is always a chance that a mistake was made in reading, transcribing, editing, etc. Also look for other “mentions” in the papers that we may have missed.

The excerpts in this book are in no particular order per day (in case you are trying to find them in the microfilms). Page and column numbers have been left out.

Be on the look-out for papers and materials that the editor has placed in various local archives (for example, the 8000+ pages of microfilm printouts will eventually be placed in an archive somewhere).

If you would like to see particular photos appear in future editions of this book, or in any other similar book that may be published on the Slavs of the Pajaro Valley, be sure to have your photos scanned at PVHA (Pajaro Valley Historical Assn.). That is where future authors and editors will find them, especially many years from now.

Not all vitals (births/marriages/deaths) were printed in the newspaper. If your ancestor isn't there, that may be why. Also, another daily newspaper (The Register) was running concurrently for many of these years and the vitals may have been printed there. Very few copies of that newspaper could be found for the years covered by this book (up to 1920).

“Court cases” are often very brief and give little information. More information can be found in the microfilms of the actual court records at the County Recorder's Office in Santa Cruz.

Third St. is Beach St. today. Fourth St. became E. and W. Lake (because of confusion with Ford St.)

Gravosa Fruit Co. (see pages 20, 21) likely was owned by the Opusiches because some of them were from Gravosa, which is the old name for Gruž. No one else in Watsonville that we know of was from Gruž.

APPENDIX B—

MAPS

These maps serve two purposes:

1. To geographically explain Croatia, Dalmatia, Serbia, Montenegro, Bosnia-Herzegovina and the Austro-Hungarian Empire.
2. To show the villages of origin of many of the Slav immigrants to Watsonville.

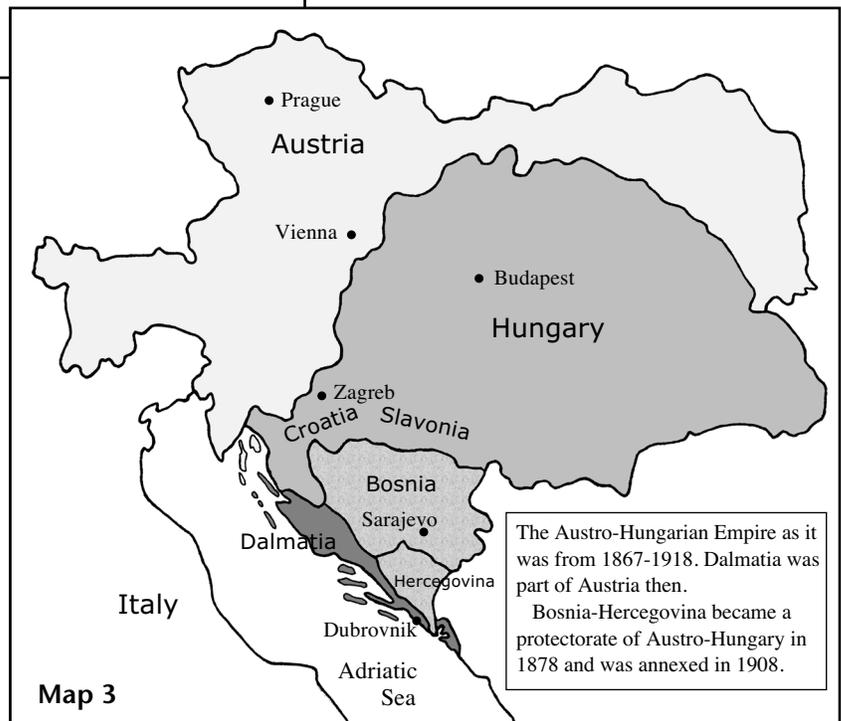

The early Slavic immigrants to Watsonville were Southern Slavs. Ethnically these tend to be either Croats or Serbs. But geographically it's not so simple. Countries called Croatia and Serbia have gone in and out of existence over the years. Regions and principalities called Croatia, Serbia and Dalmatia, parts of larger empires, have changed their borders many times over the years. Most of the early Slav immigrants to Watsonville were born in Dalmatia, which was a region within Austria at the time, but not part of the Austrian region called Croatia. Ethnically they were Croats but geographically they were not. (See Map 4.)

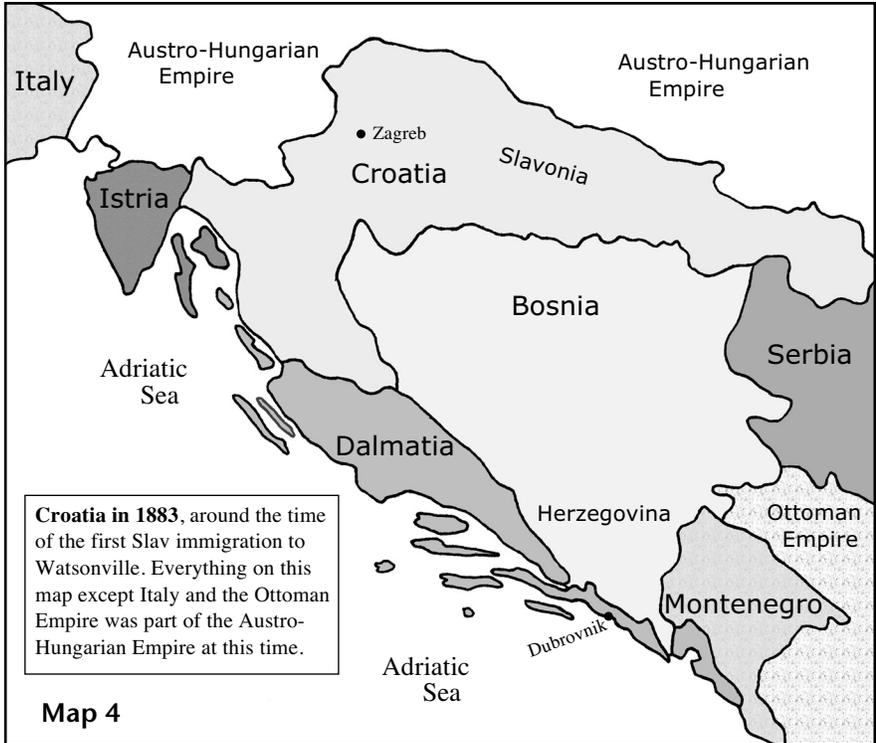

To make it more confusing most of them had to call themselves Slavonians because that was the West Coast American convention of the time. Map 5 shows that Slavonia is a long way from Dalmatia. The immigrant Slavs all knew this, of course. But they gave in to the convention because it was too difficult to explain their way out of it using English. And for all they knew, "Slavonian," an English term, probably just mean "Slav." (In the Serbo-Croatian language Slavonians are called "Slavonci.")

Today Dalmatia is part of the new country of Croatia. But it was not always part of Croatia even though most of its inhabitants were Croats.

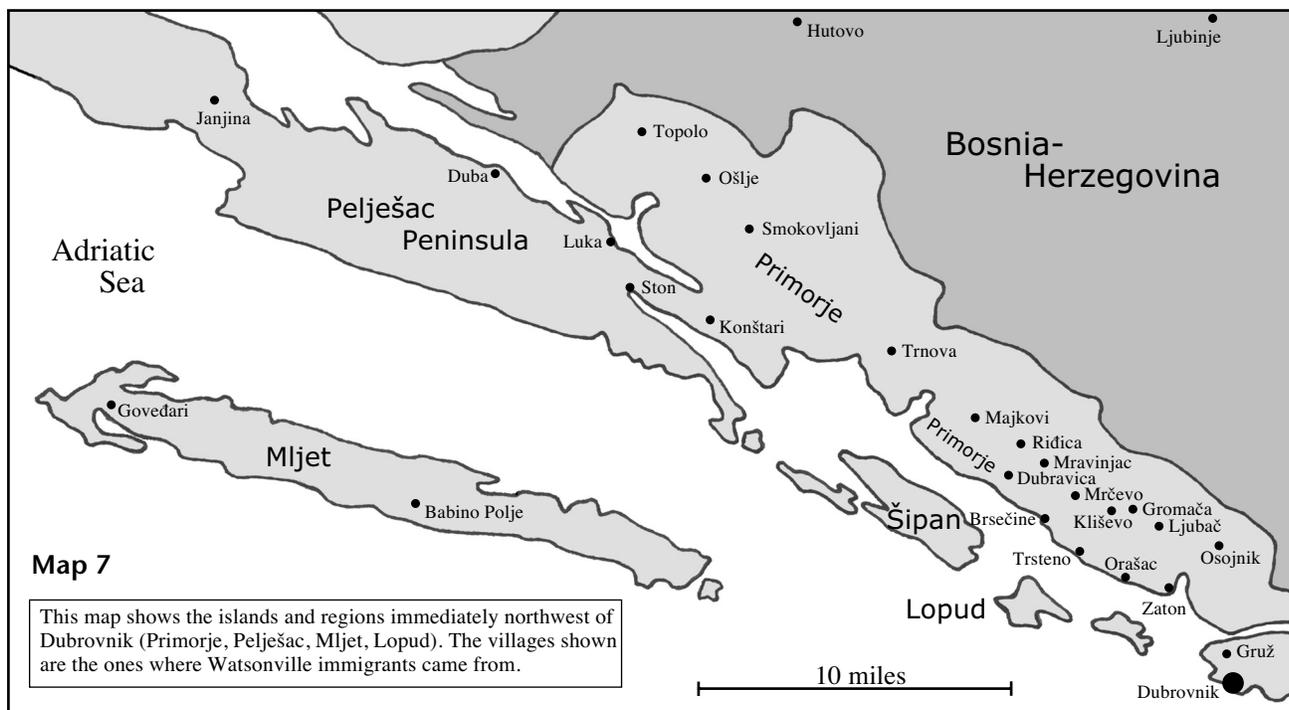

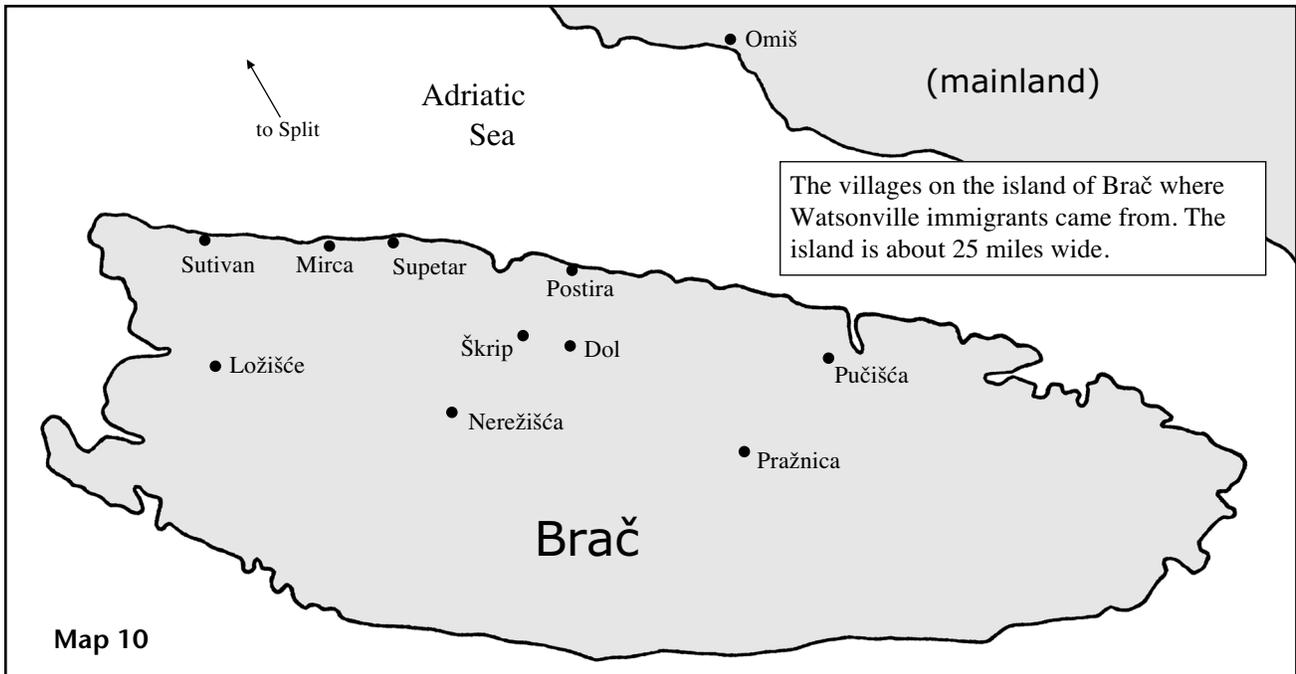

The vast majority of Slav immigrants to Watsonville (over 98%) came from the regions shown in Map 6. Some Serbs and a few Croats came from southwest Bosnia-Herzegovina. Some Serbs came from western Montenegro.

Of the Adriatic Croats, by far the largest numbers were from Konavle (Map 9). Others came from the other regions around Dubrovnik such as Župa and Ombla (Map 8), and Primorje, Pelješac and Mljet (Map 7). There was also a large influx from the island of Brač (Map 10).

APPENDIX D—

BIOGRAPHIES OF SOME EARLY PIONEERS

[* = birth; + = death; 1C1R = first cousin once removed]

Not all people that are mentioned in this book will be found in this Biography section. For more complete information and exact birthdates we suggest looking for the editor's database of the Slav immigrants to the Pajaro Valley which will eventually be located in the PVHA archive, perhaps even in book form.

Most of the people listed here were born in the old country and died in America, though some returned to Europe and died there (those are noted, when known).

Konavle was especially easy to get information on because several books have been published on the surnames of this region (see Bibliography), and because the editor was good friends with Niko Kapetanić, the co-author of the aforementioned books and the foremost Konavle genealogist in the world. Mr. Kapetanić answered many questions for us via email.

Genealogy from the rest of the area around Dubrovnik is the specialty of Nenad Vekarić, also a great genealogist, with published books on the surnames of Pelješac. His forthcoming books on the surnames of Primorje and Župa had not been published when we went to press with this book. But he answered many questions for us via email. Dr. Vekarić is the Director of the Institute for Historical Sciences of the Croatian Academy of Sciences and Arts in Dubrovnik, and founder of Postgraduate doctoral study in the History of Population at the University of Dubrovnik.

The island of Brač was very difficult to research because the churches there were not forthcoming when the editor asked for help. The only exception was Fr. Kusanović at the church in Pučišća.

More research in the regions of Primorje, Župa, Pelješac and Brač will likely be done by the editor in person in the next few years. Be on the lookout for an addendum to this book, and for his database, mentioned above.

In this section most birth years of people born in the old country were taken from church records over there, especially for the people from Konavle. These birth years may differ from those as known to the families in California. Over 70% of birthdates of Slavs born in Europe before about 1890 are wrong as shown in official records (such as the Calif. Death Index), on tombstones, etc. That's because it was not a custom for these people to know their birthdays; they celebrated their "saint's days" instead, if they celebrated at all. In America they often made up a birthday for the authorities.

Alaga (orig: Alaga; vils: Bani and Mihanići, both in Konavle)

There were two Alaga families in Watsonville, from different villages in Konavle. They were not related. The Alagas from the village of Bani came to Watsonville at two different times. The first were 4 brothers and 1 sister, who arrived between 1894 and 1904. Mateo Lettunich was their uncle. Also, their 1C1R, Luka "Vuko," arrived in the late 1890s. Two brothers, John and Peter, arrived later and all Alagas in Watsonville today are derived from them.

Four Alaga brothers and one sister from Bani:

Nick (1874-1935; mar: Theresa Farlin)
Paul (1877-1957; mar: Alice Krausgrill)
Mitchell (1883-1909)
John (1885-1944; mar: Irene Catherine Burin)
Nike (1886-1974; mar: Peter Jano)

From Bani; 1C1R to the above siblings:

Luka "Vuko" Alaga (1871-1945; mar: Lucy Vlahutin)

From Bani; 2 Alaga brothers who were 2nd cousins to the 4 brothers and 1 sister, above:

John (1889-1961; mar: Mary Vlahutin)
Peter Nick (1898-1981; mar: Gizella Korotaj)

From Mihanići; 2 Alaga brothers; not related to the above:

Antone (1888-1978)
Nick John (1890-1965; returned to Konavle)

Arbanas/Arbanasin (orig: Arbanasin; vil: Ljuta in Konavle). Some of these branches are distantly related.

Teodor "Tomo" Tirić (orphan *1844) married Rade Arbanasin in 1869 and took her surname. They had 4 sons who immigrated to the Watsonville area:

Louis Arbanas (1872-1965; mar: Kate Secondo)
Mitchell Arbanasin (1879-1954; mar: Annie Strujich)
Eli Arbanasin (1882-1927; mar: Anna Janovich)

Eight Bakich siblings from Čilipi (their mother, Nike, was the oldest of the 8 Scurich siblings who immigrated to Watsonville; Nike immigrated in the 1920s as a widow; all her children were here):

Antun Balich (1845-1894) was in Watsonville in the early 1890s. He returned to Konavle and died there. His widow and

4 adult children immigrated to Watsonville in 1905. The oldest daughter, Anna, had immigrated earlier and married Pervetich in Lead City, SD. The mother and children were:

Nicoletta Kapetanić Balich (1850-1936)
 Anna (1871-?; died in Lead City, SD; married Pervetich)

Farlin (orig: Frlan, Frlen; vil: not known, prob. near Rijeka)
Louis Farlin and his wife Teresa Kinkela were both from around Rijeka somewhere. We haven’t been able to track it down closer than that. Louis was a “boatman” in the Eureka/Arcata region of California. Between 1875 and 1890 they had 6 children, and then Louis died in 1891. The oldest daughter, Rose, married Mateo Lettunich in 1894 in Eureka. Mateo built 2 houses next to each other on Maple Ave. in Watsonville (see Fig. 1-27)—one for he and his wife, and the other for his widowed mother-in-law (Teresa Farlin) and her children, who all moved to Watsonville around 1898. Rose died of TB in 1900 and then the Farlin family all moved in with Mateo and the other house was rented out. The youngest, Anna, went on to become the secretary of the Apple Annual and Watsonville Chamber of Commerce. She married Otto Stoesser in 1915.

Ivo Alamat (1858-1907) was born to Niko and Stane Alamat. Niko was an orphan born in Kotor, Montenegro, with the name of Niko Beran and adopted into the house of Alamat. Niko's adoptive-father was also an orphan, Antun (surname not known), who married Pave Alamat, a widow in the house of Alamat. Pave's maiden name was Martinović. And so none of these Alamats carried the blood line of Alamat; instead they inherited the surname of the house. Ivo travelled a lot. He married his wife, Elizabeth Ludwig, in 1886, either in New Jersey or California (sources vary); his oldest dau. Stella was born in Plymouth, Calif., in 1887; his oldest son, John, was born in S. Dakota in 1890; his next dau. was born in S. Dakota in 1894 but died 2 years later in Zastolje. And his last 4 children were born in Zastolje. Ivo died in Zastolje in 1907. Until that date they all lived under the same roof. The 1831 census in Konavle shows 26 Letunićes living in the same house, not counting children.

Luke Opusich (no years available). The newspaper in 1894 called him “one of the oldest fruit packers in this section” when it announced his departure to Austria. He came back in 1895 but returned for good in 1899. Nothing more is known of him. The paper announced that his brother, Rafaele, died at his (Luke’s) house in Watsonville in 1898. But although Rafaele’s information can be found, there are no church records for Luke.

One of the oldest fruit packing companies in Watsonville was called Gravosa Fruit Co. Gravosa is the old name for Gruž. Because of this association it is likely that one or more of the Opusiches started that company.

APPENDIX F—

NAMES & LANGUAGE

Names—Correction of misspelled names.

In this book we have often corrected misspellings of surnames (and occasionally first names) by placing the corrected version in [brackets] after the original version. We have done this only in cases where we have evidence of the correction. If in doubt, we have shown “prob.” or “maybe” in front of the correction. Many names that are obviously misspelled have gone uncorrected because we have no evidence of the correct spelling. The corrected spellings are the versions as they were known in this country, not the original spelling in Croatian. In some cases we have used the spelling as it was known later on—for example, from the person’s or family’s death records. For this purpose we have relied on our collected database of Pajaro Valley Slavs, which at the time of printing of this book contained over 9200 entries.

Name changes.

Most Slavic first names were changed in this country. Some were direct translations of Slav to English, such as Ivo/Ivan = John. But many were just conventions of time and place. California, in particular, saw many unusual name changes not found elsewhere, such as Mato = Martin; Vlaho = Charles; Baldo = Barney. By the way, no names were ever changed at Ellis Island; that story is a myth. The changes were made by the individuals themselves, long after they left their port of entry, and often using suggestions from their own ethnic communities.

Mato is actually Matthew in English; it has no relation to the name Martin. But most Matos became Martins in California. A few became Matt. Matthew Grizich is the only Mato to become Matthew in Watsonville. The difficulty with Matthew, by the way, is because there is no “th” or “w” sounds in the Croatian or Serbian languages.

Bozo always looks strange when printed in the newspapers. The original is Božo and is pronounced BOH' ZHO (the ZH sound is like the “s” in “treasure”). In Italian it is Natale and means “nativity.” Božić is “Christmas” in the Slav language. So someone with this name should be called Nat or Nate in English. But Ned is as close as anyone got. Other Božos went by Bob, Edward or Ed. There was only one Natale in Watsonville (Natale Skocko).

Vlaho is Blas in English. There were only 3 or 4 Blases in Watsonville. Most went by Charlie or Charles. It is Biagio in Italian.

Marko usually became Mark but sometimes was Mike. Miho usually changed to Mitchell but also sometimes became Mike. Cvijeto is Florio in Italian and here often went by Laurie (male name) or Chester. Luka = Luke, Louis, Lewis, Lucas.

Gašpar is Casper in English but often became Jasper. Šime/Šimun usually became Sam or Simon. Baldo often became Barney but sometimes Bob. Stijepo was directly translated to Stephen. Vicko is Vincenzo in Italian and Vincent in English but often became William in California. Ivo/Ivan = John. Jakob = Jack. Jerko/Jerolim became Gerald or Jerry. Rado became Rafael.

The woman’s name of Stane (Stanislava) usually became Stella. Jelena is Helen in English and usually went by that name or Ellen but sometimes Nellie.

Pave is Pauline in English but often became Lena. Domina often was changed to Minnie or Domie. Rade became Rafaella.

Nike is the feminine of Nick and should be Nicoletta or Nickie in English but often went by Nellie, Anita or Nita. Ivanica/Jovanina became Nina. Vica often became Louise.

Luce is Lucy or Lucille in English but often became Louise or Lois.

Pronunciation of Americanized surnames.

Almost all Slavic surnames in America are no longer pronounced as they were in the original language. Even simple Croatian surnames such as Alaga and Bachan are not pronounced as the originals. That’s mostly because certain American vowel sounds, which do not occur in the Slavic languages, have taken over (see next section). Also, in any surname ending in -ić/-ich, the “i” is Americanized to the “i” sound in “sit,” and that particular sound does not exist in Slavic languages. In Slav the last syllable would sound like the English word “each” rather than “itch.”

There are also changes in some consonants, especially “j.” For example, there are people living today (2011) with the surnames of Miljanich and Jagich (and who speak Croatian perfectly well) who pronounce their names with the English “j” sound (as in “jar”) rather than the Slavic sound of “y.”

The problem is “do you want it to look right or sound right?” In most cases you can’t have both. Jakobović, for example, opted for the latter and they spell their name Yakobovich (though the last syllable still sounds like the American “itch”).

And often the stressed syllable does not survive Americanization. Here are some examples (the apostrophe shows the stressed syllable):

Rešetar, REH SHET' AHR. Resetar, REH' SUH TAR

And the Slav letters with diacritical marks (š, ž, č, ć) often did not fare well. Some examples:

Lučić, LOO' CHEECH; Lucich, LOO' SITCH.
Župan, ZHOO' PAWN; Zupan, ZOO' PAN.

Language—The Croatian Language (spelling and pronouncing).

A note to those whose first language is Croatian: Very few Croatians younger than the first generation born in America can speak or write the Croatian language. And, when they try, their pronunciation of Croatian is very bad. Hence this section to help them out.

This is addressed to people whose first language is English and is meant to be a simple, basic guide for the average person. Linguists must go elsewhere.

There are no silent letters in Croatian, and each letter is always pronounced the same. That’s because they had the luxury of having had their alphabet invented not too long ago (1830-1850). They were smart enough to standardize it then, and few linguistic changes have occurred since to muddle up the works (as in English). For this reason, once you learn the rules, Croatian is fairly easy to spell and pronounce—assuming, of course, you can wrap your tongue around some of those letter combinations. It would seem that spelling tests would be redundant in Croatian schools.

Vowels. There are only 5 vowel sounds in Croatian (unlike English which has 12 or 13). The vowels are always pronounced the same, as follows:

e = eh (as in get)

i = ee (as in meet)

o = oh (as in over)

u = oo (as in food, but not as in good or foot)

One more time: These vowels are always pronounced the same. There are no variations.

There is no “ih” sound (as in sit). Or “uh” (as in nut). And, especially, there is no American-type “aah” sound (as in American “dance”). Even the Brits hardly ever use this sound.

Consonants. Consonants are pronounced as in English except for:

J, j = y (as in yellow)

C, c = ts (as in cats) (Cavtat is TSAHV' TAHT)

R, r = single-rolled r (not the multiple-roll that is found in Spanish)

Then there are the letters with diacritical marks over them:

Č, č = ch

Ž, ž = zh (like the s in treasure)

Note: The above 2 ch sounds are different to Croatians but they sound the same to English-speakers. So we won't go into the difference. Notice that none of the 3 Croatian Cs (Č, Ć or C) is pronounced like any version of the English C. (Read that again; it's important.) In English the C is usually pronounced as S or as K. In Croatian it is never pronounced as S or as K. The island of Cres is not KRES; it is TSRES.

Then there is the d with a horizontal line through the stem.

Đ, đ = j (as in jar)

Ligatures (digraphs). These are two letters together, treated as a single letter:

Nj, nj = like ny in canyon

Lj, lj = like the ly sound in million

Dž, dž = j (to Croatians it is slightly different than the English j but most English-speakers cannot tell the difference)

Alphabetical Order. As was mentioned, the above 3 configurations (nj, lj, and dž) are treated as single letters. So in an alphabetized list, a word like njegov (his) or a surname like Njire is found after the N's, not with the N's. Likewise, lj comes after l in the dictionary, and dž comes after the regular d. This is important to know when looking up surnames in phone books or on-line databases. Also there are no double letters (same two letters together).

Here is the order of the Croatian alphabet (total of 30 letters):

a, b, c, č, ć, d, dž, đ, e, f, g, h, i, j, k, l, lj, m, n, nj, o, p, [no q], r, s, š, t, u, v, [no w, x or y], z, ž

Remember, there are no silent letters in Croatian and each letter is always pronounced the same. Perhaps English will make it to this stage some day.

Manifest of ship La Gascogne, arr. N.Y. 20 May 1901.

In early 1901 Luke Scurich traveled to his homeland for the first time since he immigrated in 1883. On his return to Watsonville he brought many Konavlians with him.

The people below are the ones on the ship’s manifest who were listed as being from “Ragusa” [Dubrovnik]. The information is from the Ellis Island website; names have been edited from the original. The numbers are the ages.

*Some of these people were already citizens or residents of the U.S. who were visiting the old country and now returning to the U.S. There may be others who are not marked.

Domazet. In much of what is now Croatia, a family with only daughters would often find a man who was willing to marry one of the daughters, live in her house, and assume her surname. This arrangement would perpetuate the surname and keep the property in the family. This was very common and persisted well past 1900. It was called a “domazet” arrangement (doma = home; zet = son-in-law).

Croatian Genealogy—

Nenad Vekarić and Niko Kapetanić are two of the best genealogists in the world, and they happen to specialize in the regions where most of the Croatian immigrants to Watsonville came from: the area around Dubrovnik.

These two men have computerized every church record in these regions, and have researched most of the civil records in the Dubrovnik Archives for information on local surnames (over 3000 names). This required a monumental effort, and all of us whose ancestors came from this area are very fortunate. There are few places in the world where this type of information has been gathered in this way.

Kapetanić specializes in Konavle, Vekarić in the regions that once were the Dubrovnik Republic. They can be found via the various search engines, on-line. If you are reading this many years from now (2011), you can be on the lookout for their databases which, hopefully, have been preserved for posterity.

The End—

This is the end of this book but I hope very much that it isn’t the end of Slavic history research for the Pajaro Valley. There is much more to do. This book just shows one aspect.

We challenge future researchers to dig out the rest of it. We challenge future writers to use the collected material and write a definitive history of the Slavs of Pajaro Valley. And if that book has been written, we challenge other writers to write other, even better versions. There is no end to revising and “getting it right” when it comes to history.

But the research must come before the writing of the history. That is the natural order of things. In the next few generations we would like to see:

- An electronic version of this book. Or at least a searchable pdf. Look for it. (A searchable pdf would allow for non-Slav names and un-indexed terms to be found more easily.)
- The idea of this book taken further up the years. First, let’s collect the newspaper info for the next ten years to 1930; then to 1940; and so forth. We are very fortunate to have an uninterrupted series of microfilmed newspapers for Watsonville. We should extract everything we can from these newspapers. (The decade of the 1920s, the prohibition years, should prove very interesting.)

A database has been started for the Slavs who immigrated to the Pajaro Valley. Right now (Jan. 2011) it is up to 9200 individuals. These include non-Slav spouses, often their parents, and the Slav lineages in Croatia, sometimes back into the 1700s.

There are over 80 sources that were used in creating this database, such as census records, WWI draft cards, vitals (births/marriages/deaths), Diocese records, cemetery records, funeral home records, etc. But there is more to do. The 1930 census has not been transcribed; and soon the 1940 census will come out. At some point this database should be made into a book in surname order. The database itself should, at some point, be on file on disk at PVHA and other local archives.

Also look for addendums to this book.

If any of these above mentioned books or items haven’t yet been created, then please take it upon yourself to create them.

APPLE SECRETARY, PIPPIN OF PUBLICITY

Energetic Young Woman Promoter of California, Who Has Achieved Notable Success, Tells of Her Work And Its Inspiring Variety

By PHOEBE SHIRLEY

THOUSANDS of us in the East who sometimes are moved to pay ten cents apiece for apples that fill the eye with beauty and make the mouth champagne in anticipation, have only the vaguest idea of the vast and complex amount of business industry which finally lands the fruit, more than 3000 miles away from the area of production, into the hands of the consumer who pays the highest price. And let me here give my testimony that there is both poetry and substance in California apples.

Of course, there are others which put forth their charms in no ineffective manner, but the California apple is of the royal blood. Miss Anna Farlin could express this thought with much more beauty and clarity, at the same time fusing it with some concrete, commercial idea. For Miss Farlin is the successful boomer, promoter and publicity power in the biggest apple producing organization in the world.

Miss Farlin, not unnaturally and with peculiar appropriateness has been styled "a pippin of publicity," and she has justified the title both personally and in her business activities.

SHE is the Secretary of the Commercial League of Watsonville and the Pajaro Valley, Cal., and was selected, not as any sentimental experiment, but because she had the experience, the technical equipment, general knowledge of the business and an enthusiasm for the work which made her the best possible person to fill the position.

THE attitude of the Commercial League of Watsonville toward its business in the world at large is exemplified by this cordial motto, which, while it breathes a welcome spirit still has something of an invocation in it—"Give us this day our daily Stranger."

MISS FARLIN in a statement regarding her work in the apple country says:

"Early in the year of 1910, a few prominent citizens of Watsonville, Cal., the metropolis of packers of this Valley, for one year previous having been connected with the largest green fruit house in the state, I was selected to serve as assistant secretary of The Watsonville Apple Annual of valuable publicity. The superlatives stand out sharply here, but, I assure you they are justified in fact.

"FROM that time, The Watsonville Apple Annual Association, through its successes of 1911 and 1912, has made rapid progress until now the 1913 California Apple Show and the Festival of the Apple will be participated in by every apple producing section of the State.

"The premium lists are contributed to by firms all over the United States, which fact proves that the California Apple Show of Watsonville is now of national reputation.

"Few persons realize the enormous amount of work that is necessary for an undertaking of this kind, both during the promotion and completion of the Show, and more especially during the week that the event takes place.

"The experience I have gained as assistant secretary has brought me in direct contact with and given me a splendid idea of general promotion work. It has also fitted me for the position I now occupy, that of secretary of The Commercial League of Watsonville and the Pajaro Valley, which is a Chamber of Commerce under a different name.

"I BELIEVE my position will tend to open up a new field of endeavor for my sisters, many of whom are capable but lack the initiative to undertake any work of responsibility.

"Personally, I like promotion work very much, as it is exceedingly interesting and lacking the sameness that is prevalent in so many other forms of business.

"I consider myself honored indeed to have been elected secretary of our organization and trust that not many years will pass before my sex is well represented in Chambers of Commerce throughout the United States, as well as in any other public walks of life."

ANNA M. FARLIN

Secretary of the Commercial League of Watsonville and the Pajaro Valley, California. Publicity expert in the great apple growing district.

the Pajaro Valley, which, area considered, is the greatest single apple producing centre in existence, gathered together and conceived the idea of holding an annual California Apple Show in this city as a means of advertising the apples.

"Being familiar with many of the fruit growers and apple

Association, under whose auspices the California Apple Show is annually held.

"The Show in 1910 was a huge success, more than twenty-nine carloads of apples being on exhibition, making the event the largest exposition of its kind ever held in the world and reaping for Watsonville thousands of dollars

Above is a facsimile of an article from Town Development magazine, July/August 1913, p. 109. The text was re-typeset by us, holding as true as possible to the original format. The photo is exactly as it came to us; as you can see, the quality is very poor. A better photo of Miss Farlin can be seen in Fig. 3-56. Anna Farlin was born near Eureka, California, in 1890 and came to Watsonville as a child in 1899. Both her parents came from around Rijeka, Croatia (then Fiume, Austria). She was a sister-in-law of Mateo Lettunich. The original magazine is held at the New York Public Library.

INDEX —

THIS INDEX is “Slav-centric”—that is, only the Slav names and Slav businesses have been indexed. The exceptions are non-Slav spouses. To find non-Slav names or unindexed topics, we suggest searching this book in digital form.

Abbreviations and symbols next to the page numbers:

* = birth; + = death; m = marriage;
ml = marriage license; f = figure (photo or ad);
A = Advertised Letter List (ALL);
U = Unclaimed Letters (UL);
nat = anything to do with naturalization (usually applying for citizenship or being granted citizenship).

Abbreviations in school reports:

[2] = 2 people with same name in same report.
All “honor roll,” “prom. by exam,” “school prom.” and “hon. prom.” are for the public grammar schools, not Moreland Notre Dame Academy. MNDA rarely printed school reports in the paper. Note that some children may have attended both schools, though, of course, not at the same time.

You will see in this index that many first names, and occasionally surnames, have been combined. For example: Alaga, Nicholas/Nick/N. This means that a particular page number (that follows the name) may pertain to any one of these combinations. This does not mean that they are all the same person. Also “N.” may not stand for “Nick.”
